Light winds prevail in Bengal, Behar, and the eastern divisions of the North-Western Provinces. The wind velocity at Delhi and Bareilly is considerably above the average. The cyclonic motion of the atmosphere over the region of low pressure in North-Western India is as strongly marked to-day as it was yesterday.

The sky is overcast at the majority of stations. The humidity is generally above the average.

General rainfall has occurred during the preceding 24 hours over the greater portion of the North-Western Provinces, Sind, and the Punjab. Kurrachee received 1.99 inches, Jacobabad 1.27 inches, Mooltan 1.12 inches, Delhi 2.21 inches, Aligarh .3 inch, Agra .65 inch, Cawnpore 1.1 inches, the Fatehgarh district from .3 inch to 1.7 inches, and Allahabad 2.11 inches.

Moderate rain has fallen in Bombay and the Berars.

Very light showers occurred in Bengal, Behar, the Central Provinces, and Hyderabad.

Masulipatam received 1.07 inches and Vizagapatam .4 inch during the day; .5 inch is reported from Madura.

Thursday, 1st August.—The barometer has fallen over the whole of India during the preceding 24 hours. The decrease exceeds one-tenth of an inch in the northern stations of the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, in Behar, and Arracan. It is greatest at Rawalpindi, where it amounts to .158".

There is relatively low pressure to-day at the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal from False Point to Akyab.

The pressure was lowest at Jacobabad, Mooltan, and Kurrachee this morning.

The air motion at the Bombay coast stations is slightly less than yesterday. Light winds prevail over the whole of Northern India. The wind velocity at the head of the Bay of Bengal is to-day considerably below its average amount.

Cyclonic motion over the area of low pressure in North-Western India continues.

The wind directions at the head of the Bay indicate feeble cyclonic motion over an area of low pressure to the south of Bengal.

The sky is slightly less clouded at the majority of stations than it was yesterday. It was clear in the north of the Punjab this morning.

Passing showers have given rain to the majority of stations.

In Upper India, the heaviest falls were .72 inch at Lucknow, .68 inch at Lahore, and 1.11 inches at Mooltan. Good rain fell during the day in the Fatehgarh district.

Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, the Berars, and Central Provinces received fair rain. A thunder-storm gave Kurrachee 2.55 inches: 1.61 inches were registered at Nagpore.

.71 inch fell at Madras during the day.

General Summary.—The barometric range over India during the week has been uniformly above the average. There have been strong moisture currents from the Bay of Bengal and Arabian Sea which have given general rainfall to the greater part of India.

The chief feature of the meteorology of last week was the formation and advance of an area of low pressure from the northern portion of the Bay of Bengal across Orissa. The combination of this area of low pressure to the west of Orissa, and of the permanent low pressure in North-Western India (Sind, the Punjab and Rajputana) on Friday (July 26th) gave rise to a continuous belt or trough of low pressure extending from the coast of India to Upper Sind. The chief feature of the present week has been the gradual contraction of this trough of low pressure westwards. On Saturday (July 27th) the pressure was absolutely lowest at Jubbulpore; on Sunday and Monday it was lowest at Ajmir, and on Wednesday it was lowest at Jacobabad. Strong winds have been prevalent during the week both to the north and south of the trough of low pressure. On the other hand the winds at the stations situated in the trough of low pressure have been light.

In the North-Western Provinces the winds were from two to three times their normal strength. The gale of wind in this area began on Friday and lasted until Monday. The indraught due to this area of barometric depression has given rain to the whole of India. The heaviest and most extensive falls appeared to have occurred on the south-eastern and eastern edges of the trough of low pressure during the early part of the past week. Its retreat to North-Western India (the area of permanent low pressure at this period) on Wednesday and Thursday was accompanied by a diminution of wind velocity in Northern India, and by general rain in Upper India.

The rain due to the indraught towards this area of low pressure has been especially valuable, as it has chiefly fallen in South-Western Bengal, Orissa, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab and Sind, in all of which districts the rainfall has hitherto been very considerably below the average. It has also, in consequence of the indraught to Northern India, given a partial break in the rains to Northern Bengal, and to the Deccan, and Madras, where the rainfall has generally been excessive in amount.

The following are the more important features in the amount and distribution of rainfall for the past month :—

1st.—There have been excessive rainfalls due to local storms of considerable intensity, at certain stations which have consequently formed well defined centres of heavy rainfall. The chief of these are Colombo, Masulipatam, Hyderabad, Cuddapah, Ahmedabad, Bombay, Kurrachee, Bareilly and Rungpore. At the majority of these it has been due to excessive rainfall during two or three days and not to continued rain. Thus storms (chiefly thunder-storms) from 28th to the 31st of July gave Kurrachee 10·3 inches of rain. Its July average rainfall is only 0·71 inches. At Colombo the rainfall from the 11th to the 13th was 24·45 inches. The average for the month is only 2·74 inches.

2nd.—At the majority of the remaining stations the rainfall for the month does not differ much from the average. The rainfall is however considerably in defect in South-Western Bengal, Orissa, Burma, a considerable part of the North-Western Provinces, and at Gwalior, Deesa and Jubbulpore, and probably in Bundelcund.

The following table indicates the amount of the deficiency at the chief stations in Burma :—

	Average rainfall July.	Total rainfall July 1878.	Per- centage.		Average rainfall July.	Total rainfall July 1878.	Per- centage.
Moulmein ...	43·72	18·26	42	Bassein ...	16·22	8·56	53

The following table gives similar facts for South-Western Bengal and Orissa :—

Allahabad ...	12·04	8·09	67	Meerut ...	9·7	4·0	41
Fyzabad ...	15·31	11·3	74

The above returns indicate a general deficiency in British Burma, the rainfall averaging only 50 per cent. of its normal amount. In certain districts of the North-Western Provinces, including Benares, Lucknow and Meerut, the defect is even greater than in Burma.

3rd.—One interesting feature in the rainfall during the month has been the alternation between the occurrence of rainfall in Northern and Southern India. Large barometric range has usually accompanied heavy general rainfall in Northern India; diminished barometric range and feeble winds, rainfall in the Deccan and Southern India.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 30TH JULY 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras good general rain has fallen throughout the Ceded districts and Kurnool, the Northern Coast districts (in Godavery and Kistna it has been somewhat excessive) and on the West Coast; elsewhere the fall has been generally rather light, though not less than usual at this season of the year; prospects are reported to have improved. The total number on works was 127,023, and gratuitously relieved 74,969, a decrease of 7,331 and 1,801 on last week. Rain has fallen throughout Mysore, prospects are favourable and prices stationary; the total number on works for the week ending the 20th ultimo was 33,128, and gratuitously relieved 13,416, more by 223 and less by 179 than in the previous week. Copious rain is reported throughout the Bombay Presidency, except parts of Ahmednagar, Poona, Sholapur, and Kaládgi; unusually heavy rain has also fallen in Sind; prospects are everywhere favourable. Abundant rain has fallen in the Central Provinces, and prospects are good. In Berar continuous rain has somewhat retarded sowing operations. In Central India there has been a general fall of rain: prospects are excellent in Malwa, and much improved in Gwalior and Bundelkhand, though more rain is much needed in the latter tract. Good rain is reported from all parts of Rajputana, and prospects are favourable. In Bengal there has been general rain: more is needed in Chota Nagpore and parts of the Sonthal Pergunnahs; in the North-Eastern districts damage has been caused by floods, but a break appears now to have set in which will improve prospects. In Assam the rainfall has moderated during the week, and the floods are subsiding. A fair rainfall is now reported from British Burma, and prospects have much improved. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the rainfall of the week has been light and partial, but more is believed since to have fallen; rain is most required in Agra, Meerut, Sitapur and Jhānsi. In the Punjab there has been good general rain, except at Delhi and Hissar, where more is much needed; agricultural prospects are generally good.

SALT.

The 7th August 1878.

No. 244.—The following rules made by the Governor General in Council in exercise of the powers conferred by "the Inland Customs Act, 1875," extended to the Province of Sind, by Notification No. 262, dated the 28th December 1877, are published under Section 30 of the said Act:—

Rules applicable to the Province of Sind.

1. In the following Rules, the word 'Commissioner' means the Commissioner in Sind, and the word 'Collector' in any provision of these rules, includes (a), any revenue officer in independent charge of a district; and (b), any officer not lower in rank than a Mukhtyarkar duly authorized by the Governor of Bombay in Council to discharge the functions of a Collector under such provision.

2. 'Manufacture of salt' in these rules does not include the excavation or removal of natural saline deposits or efflorescence.

CHAPTER I.

Of the manufacture of Salt.

3. No salt shall be manufactured in any part of Sind except in the Kurrachee, Hyderabad, Shikarpur, and Upper Sind Frontier districts.

4. The manufacture of salt is authorized, subject to the conditions next hereinafter prescribed, in the Kurrachee, Hyderabad, Shikarpur, and Upper Sind Frontier districts.

5. On all salt manufactured in any of the said districts, there shall be levied a duty at the rate of Rs. 2-8-0 per Indian maund.

6. Any person wishing to manufacture salt in the said districts may apply to the Collector for a license.

In case of refusal, an appeal shall lie to the Commissioner, whose orders shall be final.

The license shall be in the form given in the Schedule hereto annexed, and shall be signed and issued by the Collector.

7. The manufacture of salt, and the Manufacture, storage and sale of salt. the salt manufactured shall be carried on in conformity with the conditions of the license, and under the supervision of the Revenue and Salt Establishments.

8. No salt shall be removed from the Removal of salt from place of manufacture for storage. the salt manufactured shall be carried on in conformity with the conditions of the license, and under the supervision of the Revenue and Salt Establishments.

9. No salt shall be removed for consumption from the Removal for consumption. place of manufacture or of storage unless covered by a permit certifying that duty at the prescribed rate has been paid on it.

10. Previous to removal under Rule 9, the salt shall be Weighment before removal. weighed in the presence of the officer in charge of the works, who shall enter on the permit the weight of the salt removed and the date of removal, and shall certify that he has personally weighed the salt, and that no greater quantity has been removed than that mentioned in the permit.

11. Licenses may be cancelled by the Cancellation of licenses. Collector, giving one month's notice, or on the application of the licensee.

In the case of cancellation of license for infringement of its conditions, no notice shall be necessary.

12. Within the limits of the districts mentioned in Rule 4, Possession and sale of salt within limits of districts. no person shall have salt exceeding twenty seers in weight in his possession, or shall sell any salt without a license from the Collector.

13. Nothing contained in this Chapter shall apply to the manufacture of salt by or on behalf of the Government. This Chapter not to apply to manufacture by Government.

CHAPTER II.

Of the possession and sale of salt in the vicinity of natural salt deposits in Sind.

14. The area defined for the purposes of Section 10, Clause (f) of the Inland Protected areas.

Customs Act, 1875, round each natural salt deposit in Sind, shall extend to a distance of ten miles from the boundary of such deposit on all sides. Such an area is hereinafter termed a "protected area."

15. No person shall possess any salt within a protected area unless accompanied by a rawanna or certificate covering the same, as hereinafter provided.

16. Any person wishing to remove salt from the deposits shall first pay the price into such Government treasury as the Commissioner may from time to time appoint, and shall receive in return a dákhila or receipt.

17. He shall present the dákhila with a written requisition or darkhást to the Collector, and the Collector shall thereupon grant a permit or rawanna signed by himself and sealed in his presence.

18. The rawanna shall be current and valid for such period, not being less than five days or more than six weeks, as the Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

But when a rawanna is presented at the deposit and the salt is ready for delivery and is tendered to the holder more than seven days previous to the expiry of such period, such rawanna shall cease to be valid on the expiry of seven days from the date on which the salt has been tendered, unless the officer in charge of the deposit by an order endorsed upon the rawanna allows it to run on for its full period or any portion thereof.

The period of currency shall count from the day on which the rawanna is delivered to the applicant, that day being included and being noted on the face of the rawanna.

19. The Commissioner may from time to time make rules to limit the number of rawannas with reference to the quantity of salt to be delivered to any person at one time, and may fix the minimum quantity of salt to be covered by a single rawanna.

20. On a rawanna being presented at the deposit and salt being issued thereunder, the officer in charge, before allowing such salt to be removed, shall ascertain that such rawanna is still in force and covers the amount of salt being issued; and shall then endorse such rawanna and return it to the purchaser.

21. When on the application of a purchaser salt is got ready for delivery and is tendered to him, he shall remove it that same day to a distance of at least one mile from the deposit, unless the officer in charge of the deposit, by an order endorsed on the rawanna, permits him to keep it within a shorter distance.

22. If a purchaser desires to divide the despatch of salt covered by the rawanna, he shall apply to the Collector who issued the rawanna, and the Collector shall issue as many partition or atráfi rawannas as may be required, and cancel and resume the original rawanna.

23. If anything occurs to prevent the purchaser taking delivery of the salt in time to remove it from the protected area before the expiry of his rawanna, the Collector may in his discretion, but subject to such restrictions as the Commissioner may from time to time impose, renew such rawanna at any time not more than six months from the date of original issue. If application for renewal is made later than one week before the expiration of the original rawanna, it shall be complied with only on the applicant paying a fee of one-twentieth of the price originally paid.

The currency of the fresh rawanna shall not exceed the limits prescribed under Rule 18.

24. If renewal be required in respect of a portion only of the salt, partition rawannas must be issued as provided for in Rule 22.

25. Applications for renewal, except as provided in Rules 23 and 24, shall be forwarded for the orders of the Commissioner, who may, to protect traders from unmerited loss, authorise such further renewals as he may deem fit.

26. The deposit of salt for retail sale to the people inhabiting a protected area may, subject to any conditions prescribed by the Commissioner, be permitted at any place within the limits of such area approved of by the Collector. The rawanna designed to cover such deposit shall be endorsed by the Collector for that purpose, and shall remain in force for a period not exceeding four months.

27. Every person retailing salt under such a rawanna shall keep a register of sales daily written up, and shall give to each purchaser a certificate stating the date of sale, the name of such purchaser, and the quantity purchased.

28. A certificate given under Rule 27

Effect of certificate of shall cover the salt retail sale. sold under it while in the possession of the purchaser as if it were a rawanna.

29. When a rawanna is lost or des-

Grant of duplicates of troyed, the person to lost rawanna. whom it was granted may make application to the Collector for a duplicate, and with his application shall deposit with the Collector an amount equivalent to that paid for the original rawanna, plus five per cent. on the same as a fee. The Collector may thereupon grant a duplicate rawanna.

On the expiry of the currency of the original rawanna, if it has not been utilised, the amount paid for such rawanna shall be refunded. The extra five per cent. shall be retained and credited to Government, unless the Collector thinks fit to refund the whole or any portion of it.

30. When any salt is stopped for ex-

Procedure on stoppage amination within the for examination. protected area by a Salt Officer, the rawanna covering the despatch shall be presented by the trader or his agent to such officer, who will satisfy himself that it is a genuine document, and that its currency has not expired, and may then proceed to examine and superintend the weightment of the despatch.

He may weigh at the Government scales either the entire despatch or such proportion of it as may be prescribed from time to time by rules to be issued by the Commissioner.

31. If only a portion of the despatch

Procedure on excess be- is weighed, and any ing found on partial weigh- excess is found over ment. the quantities specified in the rawanna, the weight of the whole despatch may, unless the trader objects, be calculated proportionately.

32. If on weightment of the salt it is weightment. the rawanna, the following practice shall, as a general rule, be observed by the Officer in charge of the post:—

(a) If the excess is not more than one per cent., he shall allow the despatch to pass.

(b) If the excess is more than one and not more than five per cent., he shall, on submitting his report under Section 21 of the Act, recommend that the despatch be released on the trader paying a sum equal to double the Government price of the excess.

(c) If the excess is more than five per cent., or, in any case, if there be reason to suspect fraud, he shall recommend confiscation.

CHAPTER III.

Of the seizure, disposal or destruction of things liable to be seized or destroyed under the Act.

33. When anything is seized and deor reported for confiscation. or the rules made under the Act, it shall not be released until all duty, penalties and charges due on account thereof have been paid by the owner to the officer who is in possession of such thing.

If the thing is reported for confiscation, it shall not be released unless orders for the release are received from competent authority.

34. If an animal is so seized and de-respect of the thing seized, unless such duty or penalty, together with all charges incurred, be paid within three days of the receipt of the orders of competent authority for release subject to such payment, the thing shall be sold, and from the proceeds, the duty, penalty and charges shall be deducted, and the balance made over to the owner or his agent.

Should no one be present to receive the money, notice, as plus proceeds of sale, under Rule 37, shall be given, the money being kept in deposit for two calendar months.

If not claimed within this period, it shall be forfeited to Her Majesty.

38. When orders are received from competent authority for the confiscation of anything seized and detained, it shall, with all convenient despatch, be sold or destroyed as the Collector may direct.

39. When a Magistrate declares the confiscation of works, materials or implements, under Section 11 of the Act, they shall be sold or destroyed by dismantling or otherwise under the orders of the Collector.

CHAPTER IV.

Subsidiary Rules.

40. The Commissioner may make subsidiary rules and prescribe all forms necessary for the administration of the Act and these rules.

SCHEDULE (see Rule 7.)

Form of license to manufacture salt.

License to manufacture, store and sell (here specify the quantity of salt to which the manufacture is to be limited) Indian maunds salt at _____ in the district of _____ is hereby granted to (here mention names of licensees and their agents, if any,) under the following conditions, the infraction of any of which shall involve penalties under Act VIII of 1875, and the suspension or cancellation of this license:—

1st.—That the rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council under the said Act, and any subsidiary rules which may be issued by the Commissioner, shall be strictly observed by the licensee, his agents and servants.

2nd.—That none but good salt capable, in the judgment of the officer in charge of the works, of bearing the Government duty shall be manufactured. All inferior salt shall be thrown back for re-dissolution in the salt-wells or pans in the presence of such officer.

3rd.—That the licensee shall manufacture Indian maunds salt within _____ days from the date of this license, and shall remove the whole of the said quantity of salt on payment of duty at the prescribed rate before the (here mention date). If the whole or any part of the said quantity of salt shall not have been removed on payment of duty at the prescribed rate before the (here mention date), all salt then remaining at the place of manufacture or storage shall be forfeited and sold by auction by the Collector, who, having deducted from the amount so realized the duty leviable on the quantity of salt sold and all expenses attendant on the sale, shall make over the balance, if any, to the licensee.

4th.—That a penalty of rupees six per maund shall be paid by the licensee for all salt stolen or made away with, either from the place of manufacture or storage, whether with or without his knowledge, and that, until such penalty shall have been paid, the licensee shall not sell or remove any salt from the place of manufacture or of storage.

5th.—That salt shall be manufactured and stored at no places other than those hereinafter designated without the consent in writing of the Collector (here describe the places of manufacture and of storage).

This license shall have effect from the date hereof until the (here mention date) or until cancelled.

The Collector may, at his discretion and by order given in writing, extend the period of currency of this license.

POLITICAL.

The 5th August 1878.

No. 1596P.—The following extract from the London Gazette of the 21st May 1878, is published for general information :—

At the Court at Windsor, the 16th day of May 1878.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty.

Lord President.

Lord Chamberlain.

Earl of Beaconsfield.

Mr. Secretary Cross.

Whereas by Section 18 of "The Extradition Act, 1870," it is among other things enacted that if by any law made after the passing of the said Act by the Legislature of any British Possession, provision is made for carrying into effect within such Possession the surrender of fugitive criminals who are in, or suspected of being in, such British Possession, Her Majesty may, by the Order in Council applying the said Act in the case of any Foreign State, or by any subsequent Order, either—

Suspend the operation within any such British Possession of the said Act, or of any part thereof, so far as it relates to such Foreign State, and so long as such law continues in force there and no longer :

Or direct that such law or ordinance or any part thereof shall have effect in such British Possession, with or without modifications and alterations, as if it were part of the Act :

And whereas by an Act enacted by the Legislature of Victoria, the short title of which is, "The Extradition Act of Victoria, 1877," it is provided that "all powers vested in and acts authorized or required to be done by a Police Magistrate or any Justice of the Peace in relation to the surrender of fugitive criminals in the United Kingdom under 'The Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873,' are thereby vested in and may in the Colony be exercised and done by any Police Magistrate in relation to the surrender of fugitive criminals under the said Acts :"

And whereas it is further provided by the said Act that the said Act shall not come into operation until Her Majesty shall by Order in Council direct that the said Act shall have effect within the Colony as if it were part of "The Extradition Act, 1870," but that the said Act shall thereafter come into operation as soon as such Order in Council shall have been publicly made known in the Colony.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, in pursuance of "The Extradition Act, 1870," and in exercise of the power in that behalf in the said Act contained, doth by this present Order, by and with the advice of Her Majesty's Privy Council, direct that the said Act shall have effect in the Colony of Victoria, without modification or alteration, as if it were part of "The Extradition Act, 1870."

And the Right Honourable Sir M. E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions hereon accordingly.

C. L. PLEL.

No. 1957P.—The following extract from the London Gazette of the 21st May 1878, is published for general information :—

At the Court at Windsor, the 16th day of May 1878.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Act of Parliament made and passed in the Session of Parliament holden in the thirty-third and thirty-fourth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for amending the Law relating to the Extradition of Criminals," and also by an Act of Parliament made and passed in the Session of Parliament holden in the thirty-sixth and thirty-seventh years of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act to amend the Extradition Act, 1870," it was amongst other things enacted, that where an arrangement has been made with any Foreign State with respect to the surrender to such State of any fugitive criminals, Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that the said Acts shall apply in the case of such Foreign State; and that Her Majesty may, by the same or any subsequent Order, limit the operation of the Order, and restrict the same to fugitive criminals who are in, or suspected of being in, the part of Her Majesty's dominions specified in the Order, and render the operation thereof subject to such conditions, exceptions, and qualifications as may be deemed expedient :

And whereas a Treaty was concluded on the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, between Her Majesty and the President of the French Republic, for the Mutual Extradition of fugitive criminals, which Treaty is in the terms following :—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the President of the French Republic, having recognized the insufficiency of the provisions of the Treaty concluded on the 13th of February, 1843, between Great Britain and France for the reciprocal extradition of criminals, have resolved, by common accord, to replace it by another and more complete Treaty, and have named as their respective Plenipotentiaries for this purpose, that is to say :—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honour-

Sa Majesté la Reine du Royaume Uni de la Grande Bretagne et d'Irlande et le Président de la République Française, ayant reconnu l'insuffisance des dispositions de la Convention conclue, le 13 Février, 1843, entre la Grande Bretagne et la France, pour l'extradition réciproque des malfaiteurs, ont résolu, d'un commun accord, de la remplacer par une autre Convention plus complète et ont nommé, à cet effet, pour leurs Plénipotentiaires respectifs :

Sa Majesté la Reine du Royaume Uni de la Grande Bretagne et d'Irlande, le Très-Honorable able Richard Bickerton Pemell Lord Lyons, a Peer of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, one of Her Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, and Her said Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Government of the French Republic, &c., &c., &c.;

And the President of the French Republic, M. le Duc Decazes, Member of the Chamber of Deputies, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Grand Officer of the National Order of the Legion of Honour, &c., &c., &c.;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers (found in good and due form) have agreed upon the following Articles:—

ARTICLE I.

The High Contracting Parties engage to deliver up to each other those persons who are being proceeded against or who have been convicted of a crime committed in the territory of the one Party, and who shall be found within the territory of the other Party, under the circumstances and conditions stated in the present Treaty.

ARTICLE II.

Native-born or naturalized subjects of either country are excepted from extradition. In the case, however, of a person who, since the commission of the crime or offence of which he is accused, or for which he has been convicted, has become naturalized in the country whence the surrender is sought, such naturalization shall not prevent the pursuit, arrest and extradition of such person, in conformity with the stipulations of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE III.

The crimes for which the extradition is to be granted are the following:—

1. Counterfeiting or altering money and uttering counterfeit or altered money.
2. Forgery, counterfeiting or altering and uttering what is forged, counterfeited or altered.
3. Murder (including assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning), or attempt to murder.
4. Manslaughter.
5. Abortion.
6. Rape.
7. Indecent assault, acts of indecency even without violence upon the person of a girl under 12 years of age.
8. Child-stealing, including abandoning, exposing or unlawfully detaining.
9. Abduction.
10. Kidnapping and false imprisonment.
11. Bigamy.
12. Wounding or inflicting grievous bodily harm.
13. Assaulting a Magistrate, or peace or public officer.
14. Threats by letter or otherwise with intent to extort.
15. Perjury or subornation of perjury.
16. Arson.
17. Burglary or house-breaking, robbery with violence.

Richard Bickerton Pemell Lord Lyons, Pair du Royaume Uni, Chevalier Grand Croix du Très-Honorable Ordre du Bain, Membre du Très-Honorable Conseil Privé de Sa Majesté Britannique, Son Ambassadeur Extraordinaire et Plenipotentiaire près le Gouvernement de la République Française, &c., &c., &c.;

Et le Président de la République Française, M. le Duc Decazes, Membre de la Chambre des Députés, Ministre des Affaires Etrangères, Grand Officier de l'Ordre National de la Légion d'Honneur, &c., &c., &c.;

Lesquels, après s'être communiqué leurs pleins pouvoirs respectifs, trouvés en bonne et due forme, sont convenus des Articles suivants:

ARTICLE I.

Les Hautes Parties Contractantes s'engagent à se livrer réciproquement les individus poursuivis ou condamnés pour un crime commis sur le territoire de l'autre dans les circonstances et sous les conditions prévues par le présent Traité.

ARTICLE II.

Les nationaux respectifs, soit d'origine, soit par l'effet de la naturalisation, sont exceptés de l'extradition; toutefois, s'il s'agit d'une personne qui, depuis le crime ou le délit dont elle est accusée ou pour lequel elle a été condamnée, aurait obtenu la naturalisation dans le pays requis, cette circonstance n'empêchera pas la recherche, l'arrestation et l'extradition de cette personne, conformément aux stipulations du présent Traité.

ARTICLE III.

Les crimes et délits pour lesquels il y aura lieu à extradition sont les suivants:—

1. Contrefaçon ou altération de monnaies contrefaites ou altérées.
2. Faux ou usage de pièces fausses; contrefaçon des sceaux de l'Etat, poisons, timbres et marques publiques, ou usage, des dits sceaux, poisons, timbres et marques publiques contrefaits.
3. Meurtre (assassinat, parricide, infanticide, empoisonnement), ou tentative de meurtre.
4. Coups et blessures volontaires ayant occasionné la mort, sans intention de la donner; homicide par imprudence, négligence, maladresse, inobservation des règlements.
5. Avortement.
6. Viol.
7. Attentat à la pudeur avec violence; attentat à la pudeur même sans violence sur la personne d'une fille âgée de moins de 12 ans.
8. Vol, abandon, exposition ou séquestration illégale d'un enfant.
9. Enlèvement d'un mineur au-dessous de 14 ans, ou d'une fille au-dessous de 16 ans.
10. Séquestration ou détention illégale.
11. Bigamie.
12. Actes de violence ou sévices ayant causé des blessures graves.
13. Violences contre les magistrats et officiers publics dans l'exercice de leurs fonctions.
14. Menaces écrites ou verbales faites en vue d'extorquer de l'argent ou des valeurs.
15. Faux témoignage, subornation de témoins d'experts ou d'interprètes.
16. Incendie volontaire.
17. Vols avec violence, effraction, escalade ou au moyen de fausses clefs.

18. Fraud by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or director, or member, or public officer of any Company made criminal by any Act for the time being in force.

19. Obtaining money, valuable security, or goods by false pretences, including receiving any chattel, money, valuable security, or other property, knowing the same to have been unlawfully obtained.

20. Embezzlement or larceny, including receiving any chattel, money, valuable security, or other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled or stolen.

21. Crimes against Bankruptcy Law.

22. Any malicious act done with intent to endanger persons in a railway train.

23. Malicious injury to property, if the offence is indictable.

24. Crimes committed at sea:—

(a) Any act of depredation or violence by the crew of a British or French vessel, against another British or French vessel, or by the crew of a foreign vessel not provided with a regular commission, against British or French vessels, their crews or their cargoes.

(b) The fact by any person being or not one of the crew of a vessel of giving her over to pirates.

(c) The fact by any person being or not one of the crew of a vessel of taking possession of such vessel by fraud or violence.

(d) Sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting or conspiring to do so.

(e) Revolt or conspiracy to revolt by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

25. Dealing in slaves in such manner as to constitute an offence against the laws of both countries.

The extradition is also to take place for participation, either as principals or accessories, in any of the aforesaid crimes, provided such participation be punishable by the laws of both the Contracting Parties.

ARTICLE IV.

The present Treaty shall apply to crimes and offences committed prior to the signature of the Treaty; but a person surrendered shall not be tried for any crime or offence committed in the other country before the extradition, other than the crime for which his surrender has been granted.

ARTICLE V.

No accused or convicted person shall be surrendered, if the offence in respect of which his surrender is demanded shall be deemed by the Party upon which it is made to be a political offence, or to be an act connected with (connexe à) such an offence, or if he prove to the satisfaction of the police magistrate or of the Court before which he is brought on habeas corpus, or of the Secretary of State, that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offence of a political character.

18. Abus de confiance ou détournement par un banquier, commissionnaire, administrateur, tuteur, curateur, liquidateur, syndic, officier ministériel, directeur, membre ou employé d'une société, ou par toute autre personne.

19. Escroquerie ou recel frauduleux d'argent, valeurs ou objets mobiliers provenant d'une escroquerie. Publications faites de mauvaise foi, comptes rendus écrits ou imprimés mensongers faits dans le but de tromper les actionnaires d'une société, de provoquer des souscriptions ou de déterminer des tiers à prêter de l'argent à la société.

20. Détournement frauduleux, vol ou recel frauduleux de tout objet, argent ou valeur, provenant de vol ou de détournement.

21. Banqueroute frauduleuse.

22. Tout acte commis avec intention de mettre en danger la vie de personnes se trouvant dans un train de chemin de fer.

23. Destruction ou dégradation de toute propriété mobilière ou immobilière, punies des peines criminelles ou correctionnelles.

24. Crimes commis en mer:—

(a) Tout acte de déprédation ou de violence commis par l'équipage d'un navire Britannique ou Français contre un autre navire Britannique ou Français, ou par l'équipage d'un navire étranger non pourvu de commission régulière, contre des navires Britanniques ou Français, leurs équipages ou leurs chargements.

(b) Le fait par tout individu, faisant ou non partie de l'équipage d'un bâtiment de mer, de le livrer aux pirates.

(c) Le fait par tout individu, faisant partie ou non de l'équipage d'un navire ou bâtiment de mer, de s'emparer du dit bâtiment par fraude ou violence.

(d) Destruction, submersion, échouement ou perte d'un navire, dans une intention coupable.

(e) Révolte par deux ou plusieurs personnes, à bord d'un navire en mer, contre l'autorité du capitaine ou du patron.

25. Traite des esclaves, telle qu'elle est définie et punie par les lois des deux pays.

Sont comprises dans les qualifications des actes donnant lieu à extradition, la complicité des faits ci-dessus mentionnés, lorsqu'elles sont punies par la législation des deux pays.

ARTICLE IV.

Le présent Traité s'applique aux crimes et délits antérieurs à sa signature; mais la personne qui aura été livrée ne sera poursuivie pour aucun délit commis dans l'autre pays avant l'extradition, autre que celui pour lequel sa remise a été accordée.

ARTICLE V.

Aucune personne accusée ou condamnée ne sera livrée si le délit pour lequel l'extradition est demandée est considéré par la partie requise comme un délit politique ou un fait connexe à un semblable délit, ou si la personne prouve, à la satisfaction du magistrat de police ou de la cour devant laquelle elle est amenée par l'habeas corpus, ou du Secrétaire d'Etat, que la demande d'extradition a été faite en réalité dans le but de la poursuivre ou de la punir pour un délit d'un caractère politique.

ARTICLE VI.

On the part of the French Government, the extradition shall take place in the following manner in France :—

The Ambassador or other Diplomatic Agent of Her Britannic Majesty in France shall send to the Minister for Foreign Affairs, in support of each demand for extradition, an authenticated and duly legalized copy either of a certificate of conviction, or of a warrant of arrest against a person accused, clearly setting forth the nature of the crime or offence on account of which the fugitive is being proceeded against. The judicial document thus produced shall be accompanied by a description of the person claimed, and by any other information which may serve to identify him.

These documents shall be communicated by the Minister for Foreign Affairs to the Keeper of the Seals, Minister of Justice, who, after examining the claim for surrender, and the documents in support thereof, shall report thereon immediately to the President of the Republic; and, if there is reason for it, a Decree of the President will grant the extradition of the person claimed, and will order him to be arrested and delivered to the British authorities.

In consequence of this Decree, the Minister of the Interior shall give orders that search be made for the fugitive criminal, and in case of his arrest, that he be conducted to the French frontier, to be delivered to the person authorized by Her Britannic Majesty's Government to receive him.

Should it so happen that the documents furnished by the British Government, with the view of establishing the identity of the fugitive criminal, and that the particulars collected by the agents of the French Police with the same view be considered insufficient, notice shall be immediately given to the Ambassador or other Diplomatic Agent of Her Britannic Majesty in France, and the fugitive person, if he has been arrested, shall remain in custody until the British Government has been able to furnish further evidence in order to establish his identity or to throw light on other difficulties in the examination.

ARTICLE VII.

In the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty, other than the Colonies or Foreign Possessions of Her Majesty, the manner of proceeding shall be as follows :—

(A) In the case of a person accused—The requisition for the surrender shall be made to Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs by the Ambassador or other Diplomatic Agent of the President of the French Republic, accompanied by a warrant of arrest or other equivalent judicial document, issued by a Judge or Magistrate duly authorized to take cognizance of the acts charged against the accused in France, together with duly authenticated depositions or statements taken on oath before such Judge or Magistrate, clearly setting forth the said acts, and containing a description of the person claimed, and any particulars which may serve to identify him. The said Secretary of State shall transmit such documents to Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, who shall then, by order under his hand and seal, signify to some Police Magistrate in London that such requisition

ARTICLE VI.

De la part du Gouvernement Français, l'extradition aura lieu ainsi qu'il suit, en France :—

L'Ambassadeur ou autre Agent Diplomatique de Sa Majesté Britannique en France enverra au Ministre des Affaires Étrangères, à l'appui de chaque demande d'extradition, l'expédition authentique et dûment légalisée, soit d'un certificat de condamnation, soit d'un mandat d'arrêt contre une personne inculpée ou accusée, faisant clairement connaître la nature du crime ou du délit à raison duquel le fugitif est poursuivi. Le document judiciaire ainsi produit sera accompagné du signalement et des autres renseignements pouvant servir à constater l'identité de l'individu réclamé.

Ces documents seront communiqués par le Ministre des Affaires Étrangères ou Garde des Sceaux, Ministre de la Justice, qui, après examen de la demande et des pièces à l'appui, en fera un rapport au Président de la République; et s'il y a lieu, un Décret Présidentiel accordera l'extradition de l'individu réclamé et ordonnera qu'il soit arrêté et livré aux Autorités Britanniques.

En conséquence de ce Décret, le Ministre de l'Intérieur donnera des ordres pour que l'individu poursuivi soit recherché et, en cas d'arrestation, conduit jusqu'à la frontière de France pour être livré à la personne chargée de le recevoir de la part du Gouvernement de Sa Majesté Britannique.

S'il arrivait que les documents produits par le Gouvernement Britannique pour constater l'identité, et les renseignements recueillis par les Agents de la Police Française pour le même objet, fussent reconnus insuffisants, avis en serait donné immédiatement à l'Ambassadeur ou autre Agent Diplomatique de Sa Majesté Britannique en France, et l'individu poursuivi, s'il a été arrêté, continuerait à être détenu en attendant que le Gouvernement Britannique ait pu produire de nouveaux éléments de preuve pour constater l'identité ou éclaircir d'autres difficultés d'examen.

ARTICLE VII.

Dans les Etats de Sa Majesté Britannique autres que les Colonies ou possessions étrangères il sera procédé ainsi qu'il suit :—

has been made, and require him, if there be due cause, to issue his warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive.

On the receipt of such order from the Secretary of State, and on the production of such evidence as would in the opinion of the Magistrate justify the issue of the warrant if the crime had been committed in the United Kingdom, he shall issue his warrant accordingly.

When the fugitive shall have been apprehended, he shall be brought before the Police Magistrate who issued the warrant, or some other Police Magistrate in London. If the evidence to be then produced shall be such as to justify, according to the law of England, the committal for trial of the prisoner, if the crime of which he is accused had been committed in England, the Police Magistrate shall commit him to prison to await the warrant of the Secretary of State for his surrender; sending immediately to the Secretary of State a certificate of the committal and a report upon the case.

After the expiration of a period from the committal of the prisoner which shall never be less than fifteen days, the Secretary of State shall, by order under his hand and seal, order the fugitive criminal to be surrendered to such person as may be duly authorized to receive him on the part of President of the French Republic.

(B) In the case of a person convicted—The course of proceeding shall be the same as in the case of a person accused, except that the warrant to be transmitted by the Ambassador or other Diplomatic Agent in support of his requisition shall clearly set forth the crime of which the person claimed has been convicted, and state the fact, place, and date of his conviction. The evidence to be produced before the Police Magistrate shall be such as would, according to the law of England, prove that the prisoner was convicted of the crime charged.

(C) Persons convicted by judgment in default or arrêt de contumace, shall be in the matter of extradition considered as persons accused, and, as such, be surrendered.

(D) After the Police Magistrate shall have committed the accused or convicted person to prison to await the order of a Secretary of State for his surrender, such person shall have the right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus; if he should so apply, his surrender must be deferred until after the decision of the Court upon the return to the writ, and even then can only take place if the decision is adverse to the applicant. In the latter case the Court may at once order his delivery to the person authorized to receive him, without the order of a Secretary of State for his surrender, or commit him to prison to await such order.

ARTICLE VIII.

Warrants, depositions, or statements on oath, issued or taken in the dominions of either of the two High Contracting Parties, and copies thereof, and certificates of or judicial documents stating the facts of conviction, shall be received in evidence in proceedings in the dominions of the other if purporting to be signed or certified by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the country where they were issued or taken, provided such warrants, depositions, statements, copies, certificates, and judicial documents are authenticated by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of the Minister of Justice or some other Minister of State.

Londres que la demande d'extradition a été faite, et le requerra, s'il y a lieu, de délivrer un mandat pour l'arrestation du fugitif.

A la réception de cet ordre et sur la production de telle preuve qui, dans son opinion, justifierait l'émission du mandat, si le fait avait été commis dans le Royaume Uni, le Magistrat délivrera le mandat requis.

Lorsque le fugitif aura été arrêté, on l'amènera devant le Magistrat de Police de qui sera émané le mandat, ou devant un autre Magistrat de Police de Londres. Si la preuve produite est de nature à justifier, selon la loi Anglaise, la mise en jugement du prisonnier dans le cas ou le fait dont il est accusé aurait été commis en Angleterre, le Magistrat de Police l'enverra en prison pour attendre le mandat du Secrétaire d'Etat nécessaire à l'extradition, et il adressera immédiatement à l'extradition, et il adressera immédiatement à ce dernier une attestation de l'emprisonnement avec un rapport sur l'affaire.

Après l'expiration d'un certain temps qui ne pourra jamais être moindre de quinze jours depuis l'emprisonnement de l'accusé, le Secrétaire d'Etat, par un ordre de sa main et muni de son sceau, ordonnera que le fugitif soit livré à telle personne qui sera dûment autorisée, à le recevoir au nom du Président de la République Française.

(B) S'il s'agit d'une personne condamnée:—La marche de la procédure sera la même que dans le cas d'une personne accusée, sauf que le mandat à transmettre par l'Ambassadeur ou autre Agent Diplomatique Français à l'appui de la demande d'extradition, énoncera clairement le fait pour lequel la personne réclamée aura été condamnée et mentionnera la lieu et la date du jugement. La preuve à produire devant le Magistrat de police sera telle que, d'après la loi Anglaise, elle établisse que le prisonnier a été condamné pour l'infraction dont on l'accuse.

(C) Les condamnés par jugement par défaut ou arrêt de contumace sont, au point de vue de la demande d'extradition, réputés accusés, et livrés comme tels.

(D) Après que le Magistrat de police aura envoyé en prison la personne accusée ou condamnée pour attendre l'ordre d'extradition du Secrétaire d'Etat, cette personne aura le droit de réclamer une ordonnance d'habeas corpus; l'extradition devra alors être différée jusqu'après la décision de la Cour sur le renvoi de l'ordonnance, et elle ne pourra avoir lieu que si la décision est contraire au demandeur. Dans ce dernier cas, la Cour pourra immédiatement ordonner la remise de celui-ci à la personne autorisée à le recevoir, sans qu'il soit besoin d'attendre l'ordre d'extradition du Secrétaire d'Etat ou bien l'envoyer en prison pour attendre cet ordre.

ARTICLE VIII.

Les mandats, les dépositions, les déclarations sous serment, délivrés ou recueillis dans les Etats de l'une des Hautes Parties Contractantes, les copies de ces pièces, ainsi que les certificats ou les documents judiciaires établissant le fait de la condamnation, seront reçus comme preuves dans la procédure des Etats de l'autre partie, s'ils sont revêtus de la signature ou accompagnés de l'attestation d'un juge, d'un magistrat ou d'un fonctionnaire du pays où ils ont été délivrés ou recueillis, pourvu que ces mandats, dépositions, déclarations, copies, certificats et documents judiciaires soient rendus authentiques par le serment d'un témoin ou par le sceau officiel du Ministre de la Justice ou d'un autre Ministre d'Etat.

ARTICLE IX.

A fugitive criminal may be apprehended under a warrant issued by any Police Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or other competent authority in either country, on such information or complaint, and such evidence, or after such proceedings as would, in the opinion of the person issuing the warrant, justify the issue of a warrant, if the crime had been committed or the prisoner convicted in that part of the dominions of the two Contracting Parties in which the Magistrate exercises jurisdiction: provided, however, that, in the United Kingdom, the accused shall, in such case, be sent as speedily as possible before a Police Magistrate in London. He shall be discharged, as well in the United Kingdom as in France, if within fourteen days a requisition shall not have been made for his surrender by the Diplomatic Agent of his country in the manner directed by Articles II and IV of this Treaty.

The same rule shall apply to the cases of persons accused or convicted of any of the crimes specified in this Treaty committed on the high seas on board any vessel of either country which may come into a port of the other.

ARTICLE X.

If the fugitive criminal who has been committed to prison be not surrendered and conveyed away within two months after such committal, or within two months after the decision of the Court upon the return to a writ of habeas corpus in the United Kingdom, he shall be discharged from custody, unless sufficient cause be shown to the contrary.

ARTICLE XI.

The claim for extradition shall not be complied with if the individual claimed has been already tried for the same offence in the country whence the extradition is demanded, or if, since the commission of the acts charged, the accusation or the conviction, exemption from prosecution, or punishment, has been acquired by lapse of time according to the laws of that country.

ARTICLE XII.

If the individual claimed by one of the two High Contracting Parties in pursuance of the present Treaty should be also claimed by one or several other Powers, on account of other crimes committed upon their respective territories, his surrender shall be granted to that State whose demand is earliest in date; unless any other arrangement should be made between the Governments which have claimed him, either on account of the gravity of the crimes committed, or for any other reasons.

ARTICLE XIII.

If the individual claimed should be under prosecution, or condemned for a crime or offence committed in the country where he may have taken refuge, his surrender may be deferred until he shall have been set at liberty in due course of law.

In case he should be proceeded against, or detained in such country on account of obligations contracted towards private individuals, his surrender shall nevertheless take place.

ARTICLE XIV.

Every article found in the possession of the individual claimed at the time of his arrest, shall,

ARTICLE IX.

Le fugitif pourra être arrêté sur mandat délivré par tout Magistrat de police, juge de paix ou autre autorité compétente dans chaque pays, à la suite d'un avis, d'une plainte, d'une preuve ou de tout autre acte de procédure qui, dans l'opinion de celui qui aura délivré le mandat, justifierait ce mandat, si le crime avait été commis ou la personne condamnée dans la partie des États des deux Contractants, où ce Magistrat exerce sa juridiction; pourvu cependant, s'il s'agit du Royaume Uni, que l'accusé soit, dans un pareil cas, envoyé aussi promptement que possible devant un Magistrat de police de Londres. Il sera relâché, tant dans le Royaume Uni qu'en France, si, dans les quatorze jours, une demande d'extradition n'a pas été faite par l'Agent Diplomatique de son pays, suivant le mode indiqué par les Articles II et IV de ce Traité.

La même règle s'appliquera aux cas de personnes accusées ou condamnées du chef de l'un des faits spécifiés dans ce Traité et commis en pleine mer, à bord d'un navire de l'un des deux pays et qui viendrait dans un port de l'autre.

ARTICLE X.

Si le fugitif qui a été arrêté n'a pas été livré et emmené dans les deux mois après son arrestation, ou dans les deux mois après la décision de la Cour sur le renvoi d'une ordonnance d'habeas corpus dans le Royaume Uni, il sera mis en liberté, à moins qu'il n'y ait d'autre motif de le retenir en prison.

ARTICLE XI.

Il ne sera pas donné suite à la demande d'extradition, si l'individu réclamé a été jugé pour le même fait dans le pays requis, ou si, depuis les faits imputés, les poursuites ou la condamnation, la prescription de l'action ou de la peine est acquise d'après les lois de ce même pays.

ARTICLE XII.

Si l'individu réclamé par l'une des Hautes Parties Contractantes, en exécution du présent Traité, est aussi réclamé par une ou plusieurs autres Puissances, du chef d'autres infractions commises sur leurs territoires respectifs, son extradition sera accordée à l'Etat dont la demande est la plus ancienne en date; à moins qu'il n'existe entre les Gouvernements qui l'ont réclamé, un arrangement qui déciderait de la préférence, soit à raison de la gravité des crimes commis, soit pour tout autre motif.

ARTICLE XIII.

Si l'individu réclamé est poursuivi ou condamné pour un crime ou un délit commis dans le pays où il s'est réfugié, son extradition pourra être différée jusqu'à ce qu'il ait été mis en liberté conformément à la loi.

Dans le cas où il serait poursuivi ou détenue dans le même pays, à raison d'obligations par lui contractées envers des particuliers, son extradition n'en aura pas moins lieu.

ARTICLE XIV.

Tout objet trouvé en la possession de l'individu réclamé au moment de son arrestation sera, si if the competent authority so decide, be seized, in order to be delivered up with his person at the time when the surrender shall be made. *Such delivery shall not be limited to the property or articles obtained by stealing or by fraudulent bankruptcy, but shall extend to every thing that may serve as a proof of the crime, and shall take place even when the surrender, after having been ordered, shall be prevented from taking place by reason of the escape or death of the individual claimed.

The rights of third parties with regard to the said property or articles are nevertheless reserved.

ARTICLE XV.

Each of the High Contracting Parties shall defray the expenses occasioned by the arrest within its territories, the detention, and the conveyance to its frontier, of the persons whom it may have consented to surrender in pursuance of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE XVI.

In the Colonies and foreign Possessions of the two High Contracting Parties the manner of proceeding shall be as follows :—

The requisition for the surrender of a fugitive criminal who has taken refuge in a Colony or foreign Possession of either Party shall be made to the Governor or chief authority of such Colony or Possession by the chief Consular Officer of the other in such Colony or Possession; or, if the fugitive has escaped from a Colony or foreign Possession of the Party on whose behalf the requisition is made, by the Governor or chief authority of such Colony or Possession.

Such requisitions may be disposed of, subject always, as nearly as may be, to the provisions of this Treaty, by the respective Governors or chief authorities, who, however, shall be at liberty either to grant the surrender or to refer the matter to their Government.

The foregoing stipulations shall not in any way affect the arrangements established in the East Indian Possessions of the two countries by the IXth Article of the Treaty of the 7th March, 1815.

ARTICLE XVII.

The present Treaty shall be ratified and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Paris as soon as possible.

It shall come into operation ten days after its publication, in conformity with the laws of the respective countries.

Either Party may at any time terminate the Treaty on giving to the other six months' notice of its intention.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at Paris, this fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

l'autorité compétente en a ainsi ordonné, saisi pour être livré avec sa personne lorsque l'extradition aura lieu. Cette remise ne sera pas limitée aux objets acquis par vol ou banqueroute frauduleuse; elle s'étendra à toute chose qui pourrait servir de pièce de conviction et s'effectuera même si l'extradition, après avoir été accordée, ne peut s'accomplir par suite de l'évasion ou de la mort de l'individu réclamé.

Sont toutefois réservés les droits des tiers sur les objets sus-mentionnés.

ARTICLE XV.

Chacune des Hautes Parties Contractantes supportera les frais occasionnés par l'arrestation sur son territoire, la détention et le transport à la frontière des personnes qu'elle aura consenti à extraditer, en exécution du présent Traité.

ARTICLE XVI.

Dans les Colonies et autres Possessions étrangères des deux Hautes Parties Contractantes, il sera procédé de la manière suivante :—

La demande d'extradition du malfaiteur qui s'est réfugié dans une Colonie ou Possession étrangère de l'une des Parties, sera faite au Gouverneur ou fonctionnaire principal de cette Colonie ou Possession par le principal Agent Consulaire de l'autre dans cette Colonie ou Possession; ou si le fugitif s'est échappé d'une Colonie ou Possession étrangère de la Partie au nom de laquelle l'extradition est demandée, par le Gouverneur ou le fonctionnaire principal de cette Colonie ou Possession.

Ces demandes seront faites ou accueillies, en suivant toujours aussi exactement que possible les stipulations de ce Traité par les Gouverneurs ou premiers fonctionnaires, qui, cependant, auront la faculté ou d'accorder l'extradition ou d'en référer à leur Gouvernement.

Les stipulations qui précèdent ne modifient en rien les arrangements établis dans les possessions des Indes Orientales des deux Etats par l'Article IX du Traité du 7 Mars, 1815.

ARTICLE XVII.

Le présent Traité sera ratifié, et les ratifications seront échangées, à Paris, aussitôt que faire se pourra.

Il entrera en vigueur dix jours après sa publication dans les formes prescrites par la législation des pays respectifs.

Chacune des Parties Contractantes pourra, en tout temps, mettre fin au Traité, en donnant à l'autre, six mois à l'avance, avis de son intention.

En foi de quoi, les Plénipotentiaires respectifs ont signé ce même Traité et y ont apposé le sceau de leurs armes.

Fait à Paris, le 14 Août 1876.

And whereas the ratifications of the said Treaty were exchanged at Paris on the eighth day of April last :

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and in virtue of the authority committed to Her by the said recited Acts, doth order, and it is hereby ordered, that from and after the thirty-first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, the said Acts shall apply in the case of the said Treaty with the President of the French Republic.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 738.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following correspondence, forwarding, by direction of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India, and the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, copies of despatches and their enclosures from Brigadier-Generals C. C. G. Ross, C.B., and C. P. Keyes, C.B., submitting reports on the operations carried out under their command, which have resulted in the successful accomplishment of the objects which led the Government of India to organize and despatch a force for the coercion of the Jowaki Afridis.

2. The Governor General in Council desires to record the Government of India's high appreciation of the good services of Brigadier-Generals Ross and Keyes, and of the manner in which the operations entrusted to them were conducted and brought to a successful issue.

3. His Excellency in Council also desires to convey the acknowledgments of the Government of India to officers commanding corps, batteries and detachments; to the several staff officers, and to those of the medical, commissariat, and other departments whose services have been brought to notice, as well as to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the force, whose admirable behaviour and endurance during a protracted and trying service merit the highest commendation.

The Governor General in Council will have much pleasure in bringing the services of all concerned to the favorable notice of Her Majesty's Government.

No. 397C, dated Calcutta, 2nd January 1877.

From—MAJOR-GENL. F. S. ROBERTS, C.B., V.C., B.A.,
Quartermaster General in India.

To—COL. H. K. BURNE, C.B., Secretary to the Government of India, Military Dept.

I am directed by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the accompanying report by Brigadier-General C. C. G. Ross, C.B., of the operations of the force under his command in the Jowaki country up to the 21st ultimo.

2. His Excellency trusts that Government will concur with him in considering the behaviour of the troops highly commendable under the somewhat trying circumstances represented by the Brigadier-General Commanding.

3. Sir Frederick Haines will await the Brigadier-General's further report before offering any remarks on the conduct of the operations or of the several officers and men named by General Ross.

No. 131C, dated 21st December 1877.

From—BRIGDR-GENL. C. C. G. ROSS, C.B., Commanding Field Force, Peshawar District.

To—MAJOR-GENL. F. S. ROBERTS, C.B., V.C., B.A.,
Quartermaster General in India.

I have the honor to forward, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, a full report of the operations up to the present date of the field force under my command. I propose in this letter to give His Excellency a brief sketch of the manner in which I have employed the troops entrusted to me and of the services of such officers on my staff and commanding brigades and regiments, as I wish particularly to recommend to His Excellency's notice.

2. At the outbreak of hostilities it was settled that General Keyes, Commanding the Punjab Frontier Force, should establish a military blockade of the Jowaki section of the Adam Khel tribe on their southern frontier by occupying among other points the villages of Pava and Turki, but that on the Peshawar side operations should be confined to placing military garrisons in the police posts on the Shamshattu frontier, and moving a small force of cavalry and infantry to Fort Mackeson and Aimol Chibutra and to Jaluzai. The object in view was to show the other sections of the Adam Khels that the military blockade would be extended to them if they showed signs of co-operating actively with the Jowakis, and as concerns the Ashu Khels of Kandao, with whom we have been in immediate contact, the measures have so far proved completely successful that they have kept their families in their villages and allowed us a free passage to the top of the ridge above Bori.

3. The Jowakis of Bori, whose lands are separated from the Peshawar border by the rocky chain of hills crossed by the Shergashi Pass lying between Kandao and the Kui Taruni defile, were at first believed to be anxious to keep apart from the rest of the tribe. This, however, did not last long, and the raids made by them on the village of Chandan-garhi near Shamshattu and on the guard of the 22nd at Shahkot fully implicated them in the hostile attitude towards the British Government maintained by the sections of the tribe on the Kohat frontier.

4. The solution of the question from a military point of view was considerably simplified by this declaration of their intentions on the part of the Boriwals, as the tribe could now be treated as a whole, and I was accordingly instructed to submit at once a plan of co-operation with General Keyes, providing for the occupation and destruction of the villages of Bori and such further operations as I might find myself in a position to undertake.

5. The concentration of my troops at Fort Mackeson was retarded for several days by unforeseen difficulties. A heavy fall of rain, quite exceptional at this time of the year, caused a flood on the Indus and destroyed the bridge-of-boats, causing a block on the line of communication with Rawal Pindi, which delayed the arrival of the 31st Regiment and of the mules which were required to equip the column. The district roads also became impassable, and the 51st Regiment and Sappers and Miners, who had been left till the last moment at Cherat at the request of the Punjab Government, were unable to march till the weather cleared and working parties could be employed at the numerous nullahs between Jaluzai and Mackeson. The operations of the Commissariat were also retarded by similar causes and by the insufficient number of officers and subordinates available, an error which caused some trouble, and which was not rectified till the second day after the force had taken the field.

6. The question of the invasion of the Adam Khel Afridi country by the troops in the Peshawar command is one which for many months past I have bestowed careful consideration, and, when called on for my views on the subject, deemed it right to recommend the employment of a considerable force. This was necessary, not only on account of the natural strength of the approaches of the Bori valley and of the position of its villages, but in order to secure the promised neutrality of the Ashu Khel and Hussun Khel whose villages lie on the right and left of the pass by which my troops were to advance.

7. The Bori valley, as I have explained elsewhere, is separated from the plain to the south-west of Mackeson by a rocky range of hills crossed by a comparatively low Pass at Kandao, and by a second more direct road known as the Shergashi pass over a higher part of the ridge. My plan of operations, as I have in previous correspondence explained for His Excellency's information, was to occupy the crest of the Shergashi Pass with artillery and infantry, and from this position, which entirely commands the Bori valley, to take such measures as I found most suitable for attacking the villages and destroying their towers and other defences.

8. The road via Kandao was ceded to us by the Ashu Khel, and I accordingly selected this for the advance of one column under Colonel Doran, C.B., which was to make its way to the top of the ridge and turn the Shergashi Pass at the same time as the latter was forced by direct attack by the second column which I placed under the command of Colonel Buchanan, 9th Regiment. The operations of both columns were entirely successful. The skirmishers of the 27th leading the advance of the Kandao column were for a short time under fire, but the small body of the enemy opposed to them were rapidly scattered by the shells thrown among them by the guns of I.-C. Royal Horse Artillery attached to the brigade, and the whole of the baggage of both columns was pushed up by this road. The Shergashi Pass, as I had anticipated, was more strongly held than the portion of the ridge above Kandao, and parties of the enemy were seen not only on the crest, but on most of the commanding positions in the pass. These were, however, easily dispersed by the fire of the heavy battery which was accurate and effective even beyond what I had hoped for from it. The enemy retired across the ridge and on to the hills to the left of the pass whence they kept up a desultory fire at long ranges on the advancing corps. The skirmishers of the 20th on the left of the road and those of the 14th on the right soon gained the top of the ridge, notwithstanding the difficult character of the ground, and the ridge was then in our hands.

9. On the 6th, 7th and 8th instants, the troops were occupied in the destruction of the towers in the Bori valley, the work being done by the Sappers under the superintendence of the officer commanding Royal Engineers, covered by infantry and by the fire of the artillery on the ridge. On the first two days the rocky heights above the villages attacked were held by considerable bodies of the enemy who maintained a brisk though generally ineffective fire, supplemented on several occasions by showers of stones until dislodged by the steady advance of the infantry skirmishers and by the admirably directed shells of the Royal Horse Artillery guns from the top of the Shergashi range. On each occasion the enemy, as is usual in hill fighting, re-appeared as soon as the troops began to retire, but the artillery fire from the ridge and the steadiness of our skirmishers effectually prevented them from pressing on our retreat.

On the last day of our operations in the valley, two of the strongest villages were occupied without resistance. The Afridis appear to have found that their traditional tactics were absolutely useless against the arms and disciplined soldiers opposed to them, and with the exception of a few individuals, none of them on this occasion attempted to hold their ground, or fire upon our men during their retreat.

10. The weather on the 7th and morning of the 8th had been cloudy and threatening, and on the afternoon of the latter day before the troops had left the Bori valley, rain began to fall heavily and continued without intermission, accompanied by intense cold and occasional violent gusts of wind for forty hours. Orders were at once sent to the Commissariat to bring all available tents from Fort Mackeson to the camp at the foot of the pass occupied by the heavy battery and headquarters of the 51st Regiment and 22nd Native Infantry. The force on the hill remained all night without any shelter beyond the great coat and two blankets allowed to each British soldier, and the still more limited amount of covering for native troops allowed by the scale of equipment for the force. No terms can too strongly describe the pluck and high spirit with which the troops made light of the serious discomfort to which they were exposed during the night of the 8th, and in the case of a portion of the force during the succeeding 24 hours. This conduct fully justified the high opinion I had formed of them when in the presence of the enemy.

11. Next morning, the 9th instant, I withdrew the main body of the troops from the ridge, leaving only six companies of infantry and two guns on the crest and keeping the remainder in support at the foot of the pass.

12. I have already mentioned briefly the good service performed by the heavy battery under command of Major Wilson, R. A., in shelling the Shergashi Pass before it was forced by Colonel Buchanan's column. Full particulars regarding the operations of the Royal Horse Artillery battery in covering the advance and retirement of my troops across the Bori valley will be found in the report from the officer commanding Royal Artillery, attached.* Major

* Not published. Manderson, commanding I.-C. Royal Horse Artillery, is fortunate in having a very fine body of men in his battery, many of whom are old soldiers, and the precision and effectiveness of the shell fire of the 9-pounders show that this arm is one which should always be employed in hill warfare where the ground is passable for elephants.

13. The British Infantry as is usual in such operations, were necessarily held to some extent in reserve, but on one occasion I employed two companies of the 51st and the detachment of 200 men of the Rifle Brigade in the front line, and to these detachments I trusted chiefly for the occupation of the ridge on the left (east) of the Shergashi Pass, the security of which was of vital importance, and which I had reason to consider liable to attack. I had every reason to be satisfied with the steady discipline and efficiency of these regiments, and I have much pleasure in recording my thanks to Colonel Madden, commanding the 51st, and Captain Fitzherbert, commanding detachment Rifle Brigade. On the 7th instant, the 9th Foot with the 14th Sikhs occupied the central village of the Bori valley, and the retirement of the left column was covered by the 9th, whose accurate shooting at long ranges on this occasion and on the preceding day when two of their companies held an advanced picquet on a lower ridge in the Bori valley, had a most discouraging effect on the enemy. This regiment was throughout skilfully handled, and officers and men deserve all credit.

14. Among the Native Infantry, the greater part of the work in the hills beyond Bori fell to the lot of the 14th Sikhs, 27th Punjab Native Infantry, and 20th Punjab Native Infantry. Most of the men and officers in these regiments have had considerable experience in hill fighting, and their excellent skirmishing under fire on these difficult crags was among the most noteworthy features of the expedition. The 27th Punjab Native Infantry, under Major Birch, also did their share of hill work creditably, and were selected by me to lead the advance of the right column during the first day's operations. The 22nd Punjab Native Infantry on several occasions held the ridge to the left of the pass in advance of the 51st Regiment. Much hard work in road-making and keeping open the communications has throughout been performed by this regiment and their services in this respect are especially noticed by the Officer Commanding Royal Engineers in his separate report. The two companies of Sappers and Miners have been working without intermission since the force left Mackeson, and the complete success in every instance of the demolitions undertaken by them and the excellent roads for baggage, &c., across the difficult ridge between the Bori valley and the plains bear witness to the skill of their officers and the intelligence and high training of the non-commissioned officers and men. The 17th Bengal Cavalry have also throughout the campaign performed much hard work to my entire satisfaction.

I have now detailed briefly the way in which the different regiments employed have contributed to the success of my operations, and will conclude this portion of my report by begging that the thanks of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief may be expressed to the officers that appear to me to be particularly deserving of his notice.

In the first place, I have the honor to invite His Excellency's attention to the services of the two officers whom I have specially selected for the command of brigades.

Colonel Doran, C.B., is an officer who has long been in command of a Native Infantry regiment, well known for its discipline and efficiency, and the intelligent way he carried out the orders confided to him has been worthy of the highest commendation.

Colonel Buchanan of the 9th Regiment commands one of the finest British regiments which I have had the advantage of seeing upon active service. The column I entrusted to him has been fortunate in being in the front during much of the hard work of this expedition, and the way in which it has been commanded throughout in every detail has, I consider, more than justified his selection from among several others well qualified for such point. I am glad that Colonel Buchanan should have had an opportunity before leaving India of showing his exceptional qualifications for such work.

15. Colonel Buchanan forwards with his report* letters from the officers commanding 14th Sikhs and 20th Punjab Native Infantry. Both of these officers, Colonel Rogers and Major Wauchope, have during the expedition done remarkably good work, and the former, as His Excellency will remember, commanded his regiment in an equally creditable manner during the Black Mountain Expedition in 1868. Major Wauchope wishes to bring to notice the services of Captain Maclean and Lieutenant Jamieson of the regiment under his command. Both of these gentlemen are known to me as officers of great merit, and I fully endorse his recommendation. Colonel Rogers also notices the assistance he has received from Captains Meiklejohn and Irwin, and I am glad to be able to express my approval of their conduct.

15A. The officer commanding 14th Sikhs and 20th Punjab Native Infantry have attached to their report† lists of men whom they wish brought to the notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in connection with their operations. The number of men recommended is considerable, and if His Excellency so directs, a further selection can be made. Among the native officers whose conduct is specially commented on are Subadars Nihal Singh, Suhail Singh and Nund Singh of the 14th Sikhs, who have long been known to me as well deserving His Excellency's notice, and Subadars Mouladad, Mier Mahomed and Zaman Khan of the 20th Punjab Native Infantry, of whom I may with confidence say the same. Subadar Mouladad's services in reporting the course of events in Cabul last summer were noticed in this office (No. 15C of 5th July 1877), and Subadar Sumun Khan's conduct during the reconnaissance of the mouth of the Shergushi Pass on 19th November 1877, was specially noticed by Captain G. N. Trotter, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, vide my letter No. 78C of 22nd November 1877.

16. Lieutenant Bartram, R.E., has been the Commanding Engineer with the force, and I have already noticed the excellent work performed by the Sappers and Miners under his orders. I have found his professional advice of the utmost service on many occasions, and consider that he deserves great credit for the skill and judgment with which he has carried out his laborious duties. Captain Wynne, 51st Regiment, was in charge of the Army Signalling Department. The successful way in which he organized and carried out the duties of this branch have already been noticed in the detailed account of the operations supplied by the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General. This officer has shown an intimate knowledge of army signalling in all its details and of the application of the science to the requirements of an army in the field.

I beg also to request His Excellency's favorable consideration of the excellent manner in which Captain J. M. Trotter, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, and Captain W. Boyes, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, have performed the duties of their respective departments in this short but trying campaign.

The Intelligence Branch of the Quartermaster-General's Department has been most successfully worked both before and during the operations by Captain Trotter, and frequent communications have been maintained with General Keyes right at Jammoo and elsewhere through the heart of the enemy's country. Captain Brownrigg, Rifle Brigade, and Lieutenant Heath, XIth (P. W. O.) Bengal Lancers, have also most materially assisted to the success of the operations of the Quartermaster General's Department. I would also bring to His Excellency's notice the following officers who have most zealously carried out the duties in the field force entrusted to them, viz., Captain Eardley Wilmot, 14th Bengal Lancers, A. D. C., Captain Morrison, 14th Bengal Lancers, Provost Marshal, and Captain W. I. Bax, XIth (P. W. O.) Bengal Lancers, Baggage Master. Captain Burlton-Bennet too deserves mention for the way in which he has carried out the work of Commissariat Department in the field under considerable difficulty.

17. I have much pleasure in concluding my despatch in noticing the cordial co-operation and assistance which I have met with from Captain Cavagnari, c.s.i., Deputy Commissioner, throughout the operations. Captain Tucker of the Police has also been attached to the force as an Assistant Political Officer, and I have much pleasure in expressing my thanks to him for the assistance he has rendered.

Peshawur District No. 143C, dated 10th January 1878, and annexures, with signalling report and plan. Reports on the advance against Pastaoni.

No. 143C., dated Peshawur, 10th January 1878.

From—BRIG.-GENL. C. C. G. ROSS, c.b., Commanding Peshawur District and Field Force,

To—MAJOR-GENL. F. S. ROBERTS, c.b., v.c., E.A., Quartermaster General in India.

I have the honor to report, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, that, in compliance with orders received by telegram from your office, I moved the field force under my command to the Pastaoni Valley on the 31st ultimo. The operation, as I had reason to anticipate from what had been seen of the ground during the reconnaissance on Christmas-day, proved a very difficult one.

The road from Bori to Pastaoni, as His Excellency knows, runs through a deep narrow pass, one of the most rugged and least known in the hills between Kohat and Peshawur. The limestone crags surrounding it are generally precipitous, and completely command the roadway. Both sides of the pass have therefore to be crowned to enable a column with baggage to pass through, and no practicable tract exists for the troops engaged in this operation except along the actual watersheds. These in places diverge considerably from the pass, and the distance which has to be traversed by the troops crowning them is therefore very great.

The instructions I had received led me to believe that I might be required to remain for some days in the Pastaoni Valley, and I accordingly carried three days' rations with the force, in addition to one day's rations (for 31st December) in the men's havresacks. This of course rendered the force under my command available for further movements, if required, but necessitated a considerable train of baggage animals, which might have proved a source of danger had it not been for the excellent conduct and discipline of the officers and troops engaged.

The column employed consisted of I.-C. Royal Horse Artillery, with infantry detachments on the Sargashi ridge, and two brigades under Colonel Doran, c.b., and Colonel Buchanan, 9th Regiment, which were composed as follows:—

2 companies Sappers.

9th Regiment—100 men.

Rifle Brigade—130 men.

27th Regiment, Punjab Native Infantry.

Right Brigade under Colonel Buchanan:—

9th Regiment, less 100 men.

20th Punjab Native Infantry.

The Hazara Mountain Battery, with an escort of 50 men of the 22nd Native Infantry, was attached to the right brigade until the crowning of the Kotal and of both sides of the pass was completed, when it was ordered to join the brigade under Colonel Doran, in case it should be required to cover his advance on Pastaoni.

Colonel Doran, commanding the left brigade, was directed to detach two companies to the crest of the hills on the left of the pass, and to furnish a strong party as a rear guard, the remainder of his brigade being pushed on to the head of the pass, with instructions to await my orders regarding the attack on Pastaoni.

The right brigade under Colonel Buchanan crowned the hills to the right and moved along towards the Kotal, passing over the same ground as on the occasion of my reconnaissance on Christmas-day.

On arrival at the top of the pass, a party under Major Gordon, 20th Punjab Native Infantry, which had been previously detailed, took up a position on the ridge forming the Kotal, which they held during the whole of my stay at Pastaoni.

The advance of the troops to the right and left of the pass was almost entirely unopposed, a few stray shots only being fired at the 27th, and some small parties who opened fire on the advanced skirmishers of the right brigade being at once dispersed by a few well-aimed shells from the Hazara Mountain Battery.

Two companies of sappers and miners followed the advanced guard up the pass and did what was possible to improve the road before the arrival of the baggage, and a strong rear guard, following the latter, completed the column.

On arrival at the top of the pass, I directed Colonel Doran, as soon as his brigade had assembled, to move down the opposite slope and attack the village of Pastaoni. His attack was led by some skirmishers of the 27th and 9th, with the detachment of the Rifle Brigade and other troops in support. The hamlets of Pastaoni, as shown in the accompanying sketch, are hidden from the foot of the pass by small detached block of hills, on the reverse slopes of which they are built. The village appeared from the Kotal to be unoccupied, but the skirmishers, on approaching to within five or six hundred yards of it, were received with a rapid but generally ill-directed fire from a small party of about twenty or thirty of the enemy.

The rocks above the village were quickly occupied by the skirmishers, but not before their defenders had time to gain the hills on the southern side of the valley, where they disappeared after firing a few shots.

I then moved up the Pastaoni Valley towards Wallai, taking with me a portion of the 27th, half battalion 20th Punjab Native Infantry, and a portion of the 9th and the Rifle Brigade. My skirmishers found a party of the 5th Punjab Infantry in the village of Wallai, and I was met by General Keyes in person about a mile above Pastaoni.

Ground had, meantime, been selected for the bivouacs of the different corps in and near Pastaoni, and the greater part of the baggage was in camp before 3 o'clock. The difficulties of the roads, however, were great, and the track was in places so narrow that any load falling off caused a block which took considerable time to clear. A small portion of the regimental baggage animals and all the mules carrying the commissariat stores were so much delayed by these and similar causes, that the officer commanding the troops left on the crest of the pass was directed to prevent their passing the Kotal till the morning of the 1st January. The mules halted on a small plateau immediately below the Kotal on the northern side of the pass. Their front and left were well protected by the five companies of infantry holding the crest, and the 14th Sikhs, who, throughout the day had crowned the rocky spur ending in the Daud Sar peak, with orders not to withdraw till the baggage had passed, remained till next morning on the heights surrounding the plateau without bedding or baggage of any kind for officers or men. The night was an exceptionally severe one, with hard frost and bitterly cold wind, and no terms can too strongly describe the pluck and soldier-like spirit with which these hardships were made light of by the troops on the hill.

The positions occupied by the troops on the crest of the pass and in the Pastaoni village were very strong, and no attack was attempted by the Afridis, although large numbers of them had been seen on the hills towards Torsapar.

I was informed by General Keyes that he intended to withdraw from the positions occupied by his troops on the crest of the hills towards Kohat on the morning of the 1st January; but as my position at Pastaoni was in every way satisfactory as long as the weather continued fine, and the pass to my rear remained practicable, I thought it best, in the absence of orders to the contrary, to remain for another night in the valley. This enabled me to send a survey party to the hills above Wallai, as well as towards Garai, a Hassan Khol village below Pastaoni, and was further intended to show the Afridis that our movements were in no way hastened by their demonstration.

On the 1st January, all troops in camp cooked rations for that day, and the second and the whole of Colonel Buchanan's brigade, with the exception of the mule battery and half the 20th Punjab Native Infantry, were marched to the head of the pass. Next morning at daylight the heights on both sides of the pass were crowned by the same troops as had been employed for this duty on the 31st December, the retirement of both flanks being entrusted to Colonel Buchanan.

The other brigade under Colonel Doran left Pastaoni a couple of hours later, after destroying the towers and setting fire to the village, and followed the baggage through the pass.

The retirement of both brigades was conducted with the utmost regularity, the enemy being entirely held in check by the accurate shooting of the skirmishers, and by an occasional shell from the Hazara Mountain Battery.

In my report on the operations against Bori, I brought to His Excellency's special notice the services of Colonels Doran and Buchanan, commanding the brigades into which I have divided the troops at my disposal, and it will be seen by the above brief account of my expedition to Pastaoni, that I have again had every reason to be satisfied with the skill and energy which they have shown in carrying out in every detail the orders I have given them.

The corps employed on this last expedition were, with the exception of the Hazara Mountain Battery, all present during my first operations against Bori, and the very high opinion I then formed and expressed to His Excellency of their steadiness and discipline, as well as of the qualifications of the officers commanding and serving with them, has been more than confirmed by their conduct on this occasion.

In the interval between the operations against Bori and those in the Pastaoni valley, the detachments of artillery and British and native infantry on the Sargashi ridge have formed a separate command, and Colonel Rogers, whom I specially selected for this post, has shown great skill and knowledge of outpost work in all his arrangements.

The Hazara Mountain Battery has joined the field force since my last report. The intimate knowledge of hill warfare possessed by Captain deLatour and his officers is sufficiently shown by the exceptional efficiency of the battery during the expedition to Pastaoni.

The sappers and miners under Lieutenants Dove and Hill contributed greatly to the success of the expedition, and the way in which their work was directed reflects much credit on Lieutenant Bartram, commanding officer, Royal Engineers, whose services I have already brought to His Excellency's notice.

I have much pleasure in again reporting most favorably on the services of Captain Boyes and of my staff generally. Among these I wish specially to notice Captain Bax, Baggage Master, and Captain Wynne, Superintendent of Signalling. The nature of the operations against Pastaoni rendered the work of the former during the day and night of the 31st extremely important and laborious, and I cannot too highly commend the energy and perseverance with which it was performed.

I have already mentioned the excellence of the signalling arrangements under the direction of Captain Wynne, 51st Regiment, during the attack on Bori. During the expedition against Pastaoni, communications were kept up constantly by heliograph between my head-quarters and the telegraph station in the Mackeson plain, and the precision with which the retirement of the various detachments was effected during my return from Pastaoni was greatly due to the satisfactory distribution and organization of the flag signalling parties. I attach Captain Wynne's report,* which fully explains the details of his work.

* Not published.

The arrangements of the Commissariat Department since my last report, and especially during the expedition to Pastaoni, have been very satisfactory and complete, and much credit is due to Captain Burlton-Bennet and the other officers of the department.

The general instructions issued for the guidance of the medical departments of both British and Indian Forces by Deputy Surgeon-Generals Smith and Allen have in every respect worked satisfactorily, and much credit is due to Doctors Walsh and Caldwell, the Senior Medical Officers in camp, for the way in which these have been carried out. The general hospitals at Fort Mackeson, under Doctors Moore and Cookson, have also worked extremely well, and I have much pleasure in bringing to notice the way in which they have been organized and superintended by the officers in charge.

I attach a map on a scale of 1 mile=1 inch by Mr. Scott of the Frontier Survey, showing the country traversed by my troops and those of General Keyes' force. This gentleman has been working under the orders of his own department; but I think I am right in bringing to His Excellency's notice the great value of his services from a military point of view. His knowledge of the frontier and of hill work generally will always be of the utmost service to any force employed in this part of India.

I would also beg again to mention Captain J. M. Trotter, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General with the force, for the readiness and energy with which he has performed all his duties.

No. 19F-C., dated Allahabad, 7th March 1878.

From—COL. C. C. JOHNSON, C.B., Officiating Quartermaster General in India,

To—COL. H. K. BURNE, C.B., Secretary to the Government of India, Military Dept.

In continuation of the communications noted in the margin, which submitted reports of the operations under Brigadier-General C. C. G. Ross, C.B., in the Jowaki country up to the 3rd January 1878, I am directed by the Commander-in-Chief to forward, for the information of the Government of India, the third report by Brigadier-General Ross, bringing the operations of his force from 3rd January up to their conclusion.

2. Since receipt of this report, information has been received that the submission of the Jowakis is complete, and that the force left on the Shergasha ridge has been withdrawn to cantonments, and the garrison of Fort Mackeson reduced to its normal strength.

3. The requirements of Government demanded that the troops should be in the field for a protracted period.

4. The precipitous and rugged character of the theatre of operations presented great physical difficulties, while an unusual rigor of climate exposed the soldiers to considerable vicissitudes.

5. The opposition of the enemy was fruitless owing to the successful application of our discipline, training and arms.

6. The Commander-in-Chief would draw the attention of Government to the good services of Brigadier-General Ross, C.B., and to the cheerful response of officers and men to every call made on them, and would solicit an expression of its approbation on the conduct of the operations by the Brigadier-General, and the successful manner in which they were carried out by Colonel W. J. Williams, commanding Royal Artillery, and Colonels J. Doran, C.B., and H. J. Buchanan, respectively, commanding brigades.

7. His Excellency would further draw attention to the high encomiums passed by Brigadier-General Ross on the staff officers who accompanied him during these operations, and on the officers commanding batteries, regiments and detachments, and also on the officers of the Army Medical Department attached to the force, all of whom appear to have merited his praise.

8. In addition to the excellent behaviour and efficiency of the troops exhibited in the expedition, there are some features connected with it which, Sir Frederick Haines considers, worthy of remarks, viz., the successful employment of heavy artillery in hill warfare,—the admirable manner in which the signalling service was carried on under Captain Wynne, 51st King's Own Light Infantry,—and the valuable survey operations which Mr. Scott successfully executed from, at times, very exposed positions. The Commander-in-Chief attaches high value to these two auxiliary services, and considers that in all future expeditions special provision should be made for them.

No. 158C., dated Peshawur, 22nd February 1878.

From—BRIG.-GENL. C. C. G. ROSS, C.B., Commanding Peshawur District,

To—MAJOR-GENL. F. S. ROBERTS, C.B. V.C., &c., Quartermaster General in India.

In my previous reports I have described briefly for His Excellency's information the operations I have carried out, under orders from your office, in the Bori and Pastaoni Valleys up to the 3rd January 1878.

I now propose to give you a short account of the last operation of the Peshawur Field Force which, as His Excellency is aware, resulted in the march of my troops from the Peshawur Valley through the heart of the Adam Khel territory to Kohat.

As far as Walai the enemy's country had been already visited by the force under my command, and in the interval between my first expedition to Pastaoni and my final advance the troops had been employed in making a reconnaissance in force to the head of the Waihi Bori Valley and the crest of the hills overlooking Taruni, and in escorting Mr. Scott of the survey, accompanied on each occasion by Captain J. M. Trotter, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General, and the Guides, whose services he had secured, to various points which it was necessary to visit to complete our knowledge of the ground immediately beyond our border, and to finish the map, the compilation of which has been one of the most important military features of the campaign.

Quartermaster General's No. 397C., dated 3rd January 1878, to Military Department, Government of India.
Deputy Quartermaster General's No. 960C., dated 30th January 1878.

Telegram, dated 4th March 1878, from Peshawur District.

The brigades into which I divided the force were composed of the same corps as on my first expedition to Pastaoni, and as before were commanded by Colonel Doran, C.B., and Colonel Buchanan, 9th Regiment.

Five days' rations were taken with the force on this occasion, the whole being carried by the different corps, with the exception of the meat rations for British troops, which remained in charge of the Commissariat.

In the advance through the Bori Chena Pass on the 14th January 1878, the right was again taken by Colonel Buchanan's brigade, and the left and the centre by that under Colonel Doran. This was of course advisable, as the different regiments were thus advancing over ground which was familiar to them, and both officers and men knew exactly the work which was before them.

As regards the disposition of the troops in these brigades, three companies of the 27th Punjab Native Infantry were directed to crown the heights to the left of the Pass. A small force under Lieutenant-Colonel Gordon, 20th Punjab Native Infantry, including one company 9th, one company 20th, 50 men 22nd, and two companies of the 27th were, as before, told off to hold the Pastaoni Kotal during the time the force was to occupy the village below. The remainder of Colonel Doran's brigade was moved up through the Pass, and was directed to form a column of attack at the top, and to hold themselves in readiness to advance upon the village when ordered.

Two guns of the Hazara mountain battery followed the left brigade up the Pass, and two were sent under Colonel Buchanan's orders with the 20th Punjab Native Infantry which formed the advanced portion of the right brigade, and had been directed to establish themselves on the point where the spur forming the Kotal joins the main Torsapur range, and where, according to information received late in the afternoon by the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General, and confirmed by a report brought to Colonel Rogers by a sepoy of the 20th, it seemed likely that some parties of the enemy who were taking refuge in Torsapur would attempt to oppose the advance. A detachment of 14th Sikhs and 20th, as well as the company of the 9th ordered to join Lieutenant-Colonel Gordon's party on the Pastaoni Kotal, were also used for the protection of the right on the Daud Sar spur, and the remainder of the 9th and 14th Sikhs followed the left brigade up the pass road. It was not found possible to make much use of the Sappers and Miners in improving the road, as it was of great importance to get the baggage forward as quickly as practicable, and but little time was available for such operations. Very strong guards were therefore attached to the baggage column to prevent any possibility of the road becoming blocked and to reload any mules which might fall at difficult places. The result of these measures and of the exertions of Captain Bax, Baggage-master, proved most satisfactory, and the whole of the baggage was across the Kotal shortly after mid-day.

The village of Pastaoni was occupied, without resistance, by Colonel Doran's brigade, and the whole force halted for about two hours until I got into communication (by heliograph) with General Keyes' columns which appeared to be occupying nearly the same positions on the Dargai Sar range, as on the occasion of our former advance.

The 20th Punjab Native Infantry, who had been directed to remain on the heights until the baggage had passed, were detained there for some time after the rear guard had crossed the Kotal, by parties of the enemy who, as I had anticipated, appeared on the hills to their right and kept up a desultory fire at long ranges till driven off by some of the marksmen of the regiment.

At about 1 p. m. I despatched a small force under Colonel Buchanan, consisting of the 9th regiment, the Hazara mountain battery, and the 14th Sikhs, accompanied by the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General and Mr. Scott of the survey, with directions to learn what they could of the country about Walai, and to ascertain, as far as possible, how the hills to the west of the Nara Khula defile could be most easily reached by our troops. My instructions, as His Excellency is aware, gave me to understand that General Keyes was about to move a force through the Nara Khula, and I hoped by this reconnaissance to obtain information that would enable me to co-operate with him by occupying the heights on the further side of this Pass.

Colonel Buchanan moved along the spur forming the northern boundary of the valley leading to Walai, towards the crest of the hill which overlooks the Gulotangi, a tributary valley up which it was understood that there was a road leading to Torsapur. The column was fired at during its advance, both from the Gulotangi hill and from the hills to their own right, from the crest of which the 20th Punjab Native Infantry had meanwhile been withdrawn. Several of the enemy were armed with rifles, and were so well protected by the rocks from which they were firing, that it was necessary to dislodge them with a few shells from the Hazara mountain battery. A few shots were also fired by the battery at a party engaged in constructing a Sangah on the Gulotangi hill, which it was thought might prove troublesome next day.

When the columns began to retire, two companies of 14th Sikhs under Captain MacLean were detached with the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General to reconnoitre the village of Walai, this was found unoccupied. From the result of Colonel Buchanan's reconnaissance, I ascertained that my troops, if moved from Pastaoni next day, would, with difficulty, reach the Mandahar Sar hills on the further side of the Nara Khula during daylight, and I therefore determined to diminish the distance between my force and General Keyes' Jamu column by making a short march on the 15th. Orders were accordingly issued for the evacuation of Pastaoni on the following morning, and it was arranged that the commissariat should be moved to the village of Walai which was to be held by Colonel Doran's brigade.

The whole force were under arms at daybreak, and marched shortly afterwards towards Walai, the hills on the left being crowned by the 27th Native Infantry, and the second brigade, under Colonel Buchanan, moving along the spur by which they had advanced on the previous evening.

The village of Walai was occupied without opposition by Colonel Doran's troops, and the 20th Regiment, which formed the advanced guard of the other brigade, was pushed on to the crest of the spur from the main range overlooking the Gulo Tangi Valley, where it had been arranged that Colonel Buchanan should bivouac.

At 9 A.M. I was joined at Walai by General Keyes, who informed me that I could best co-operate with him by sending troops to the crest of the Torsapar range, which here forms the boundary between the Jowakis and the Gali Khel, and by moving them along the watershed towards a column which he was employing in the same way further along the ridge.

The object in view was, I believe, to capture any men or cattle that could by any means be cut off, and to drive the remainder into the territory of the Gali Khel whom it was then proposed to hold responsible for their peaceable behaviour.

Orders were at once sent to Colonel Buchanan to move his brigade towards the Torsapar watershed, and the 20th Punjab Native Infantry, which, as I have explained was in advance, began to move up the spur. When near the top they were delayed for a short time by a party of about 25 of the enemy, who were strongly posted at a short distance from the crest of the hill. The 20th, who were on excellent ground for skirmishing, returned their fire for some minutes without effect, and eventually forced them to retire by turning their flank; they were pursued by the leading skirmishers across the Gali Khel frontier and were soon lost to sight.

The 9th, 14th Sikhs and Hazara mountain battery soon joined the 20th on the watershed, and Mr. Scott, who had accompanied the 20th, was able to add a large extent of hitherto entirely unknown country to his 4-inch map.

In returning the troops followed the same spur by which they had ascended, and turning to the right near the base reached a small basin in the Gulo Tangi valley which had been chosen for their bivouac. The Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General, the Deputy Commissioner, and some Gali Khel Maliks went to the Kotal from which the road crosses to Torsapar, and thence descended the road which leads down the Gulo Tangi Valley to Colonel Buchanan's bivouac.

A portion of Colonel Doran's brigade had been employed during the day in examining the lower part of the Gulo Tangi, and had captured a few prisoners and a considerable number of cattle.

The second brigade bivouaced on excellent ground at the Gulo Tangi and passed the night quietly, but Colonel Doran's brigade which occupied Walai had a position somewhat too extended for the number of troops available to hold it, and a great many shots were fired at their bivouacs in the early part of the night. Fortunately the enemy were at a considerable distance, and no harm was done.

It was determined next morning that the troops under my command should join General Keyes' force at Jamu and Naru Khula on the 17th, as from information received from the Commissioner, it seemed possible that further military operations might be undertaken in the hills lying between the Mandahar Sar and the Kohat Pass. Instructions were therefore sent to Kohat for the collection of supplies for British and Native troops and for the camp followers accompanying the force, and the two companies of Sappers and Miners were directed to march at once to General Keyes' bivouac at the entrance to the Naru Khula, and to improve the road as far as practicable through the pass to Jamu. I at the same time sent orders to the party which I had left on the Pastaoni Kotal to return to Sarghashi by the Daud Sar spur with the exception of one company of the 27th, which was directed to join the headquarters of the regiment at Walai bringing the heliograph party with them. Before closing the signalling station, I sent a heliogram to your office in Calcutta explaining, for His Excellency's information, that I had abandoned my line of communications with Sarghashi.

My troops, as explained above, were not required by General Keyes until the 17th, and I accordingly thought best to employ them meanwhile in adding to our knowledge of the country towards Torsapar. The 14th Sikhs, 20th Punjab Native Infantry and Hazara battery were accordingly again sent under Colonel Buchanan to the watershed above the Torsapar Valley, and it was arranged by Captain Cavagnari that Mr. Scott should be escorted by the Gali Khel Jirga to the Zersapar peak a short distance in advance of the force which was a valuable point for intersecting the numerous hamlets in the valley seen for the first time by Europeans on the previous day. The Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General was accompanied to this peak by Lieutenant Bartram, R.E., and Lieutenant Dunn, 22nd Punjab Native Infantry, and the sketches by these officers which have been sent you, for His Excellency's information, form a most valuable addition to the map.

From Colonel Buchanan's position a considerable body of the enemy were observed attempting to oppose General Keyes' troops who were advancing to the crest of the hills to the north of the Naru Khula, and as the distance was accurately known from Mr. Scott's survey, the Hazara mountain battery were directed to open fire on them, and several well-aimed shells were dropped among them. Colonel Doran's brigade had been despatched at 9 A.M. on the same day towards Pastaoni with orders to visit the gorge to the south of the village, where it was believed that some of the enemy had taken refuge with their cattle. His troops moved along the hills to the right of the Walai Pastaoni Valley, and dropped down on the spring which supplies the village. The place appeared to have been used as an encamping ground by a considerable number of people, but only a few cows were found there, which were driven off by the troops.

Early next morning the force marched towards the Naru Khula, the right and advanced guard being furnished by the second brigade, and the rear and left being protected by the brigade under Colonel Doran, to which I had added two companies of the 14th Sikhs to act as rear guard.

I was met on the road by General Keyes, who requested me to halt my leading brigade at the entrance to the Naru Khula defile, and to allow the other brigade (Colonel Doran's) to move through the Pass and occupy Jamu.

The command of the whole force now devolved upon General Keyes, and as he informed me that he did not require the whole of my troops, and that his operations would probably not be prolonged beyond the 21st, I directed the first brigade to hold itself in readiness to march via Kohat to Sarghashi as soon as other troops arrived to relieve them at Jamu.

The work performed under General Keyes' orders by Colonel Buchanan's brigade is fully described by that officer in his report hereto attached.

It was chiefly of importance from the fact that he was able to reconnoitre a large extent of new country which has proved a valuable addition to the map.

On the 19th I transferred my head-quarters to Jamu, leaving the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General under the orders of General Keyes as directed in a telegram received from your office. On the 21st Colonel Buchanan's brigade arrived at Jamu, and I directed the troops under Colonel Doran to march to Kohat on their way to Sarghashii.

In my former reports I brought to the special notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the efficient support I have received from Colonels Doran and Buchanan, commanding brigades, as well as from Colonel Williams, commanding the artillery, and the officers commanding the various regiments and detachments employed. I also recommended for His Excellency's favorable consideration the services of my staff and of the officers of the Army Medical Department attached to the force.

I hope that the brief account I have here given of the last, and in some ways the most important operation I have attempted in the Afridi hills, will sufficiently show how much reason I have had to be satisfied with the accuracy of the information which has been furnished me; and with the zeal and intelligence with which my orders have been carried out.

No. 157-1073, dated Lahore, 25th April, 1878.

From—COL. S. BLACK, Secy. to Govt., Punjab, Mily. Dept.
To—COL. H. K. BURNE, C.B., Secy. to the Govt. of India, Mily. Dept.

By desire of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, I have the honor to submit a copy of Brigadier-General Keyes' No. 128 F. F., dated 8th ultimo, reporting the withdrawal of troops from the Jowaki hills, and bringing to notice the names of officers whom he considers deserving of commendation.

2. Although detailed reports of all movements of the troops under Brigadier-General Keyes' command have been submitted to the Government of India, His Honor desires to trace briefly the events as they occurred and to make a few observations on the general results of the military operations.

3. In October last, it was decided that the Kohat garrison and the Guide Corps (Infantry) from Mardan, and a regiment of infantry from Abbottabad, should undertake the blockade of the Jowaki Afridis, and should hold certain villages in the Jowaki hills, in order to shorten the line of blockade, and to give us the advantage of holding most of the cultivated lands of the enemy.

4. Accordingly, on the 9th of November, Brigadier-General Keyes, C.B., moved with a force to Turki. The particulars of his movements were reported in this Department No. 276 of the 15th November, 1877. The troops took possession of Turki and Paiah, without encountering any opposition. The enemy fled as our troops advanced. On the 13th November heavy rain fell; on the 14th and 15th the troops, after destroying the towers in the village of Paiah, moved to a better position in front of and threatening Jamu. The enemy made but a slight show of resistance during these operations. On the 16th, 17th and 18th November continuous rain caused considerable inconvenience to the force, as many were without shelter. The men, however, did not suffer in health or spirits.

5. On the 1st December the village of Jamu was attacked and taken. The enemy made no stand. The loss on our side was 8 wounded, whilst the enemy lost in killed and wounded at least 30.

In submitting these reports His Honor observed that it was necessary to press the Jowakis in other directions before we could hope for their submission; and he considered it necessary to urge upon General Keyes and the Commissioner of the Division the urgent necessity of moving into the Pastaoni Valley, into which it was supposed that most of the enemy's cattle and property had been removed.

The village of Jamu was held until the 4th December, on which day Brigadier-General Keyes considered it necessary, on sanitary grounds, to withdraw to his original positions at Turki and Shindeh.

6. On the 7th December, the village of Ghariba was successfully attacked, without any loss on our side. The enemy had a slight loss,* but did not offer any resistance. After destroying the hamlets and towers, the troops were withdrawn. Very heavy rain again fell on the 8th, 9th and 10th December.

7. Up to this time our troops had successfully carried out all the work required of them. Certain villages had been taken, and towers had been destroyed, but as the enemy would not stand, no great blow had yet been inflicted on the Jowakis. His Honor was fully impressed with the necessity of occupying every part of the Jowaki country, and endeavouring to capture cattle, property or men, to bring the tribe to submit to the terms of Government. On the 13th December, therefore, Brigadier-General Keyes' consideration was desired to the possibility of moving into the Pastaoni Valley from the Kohat side. * * This subject was personally discussed by His Honor with General Keyes at Kohat on the 22nd December, and it was then decided that a simultaneous advance should be made on the Pastaoni Valley by both forces under Brigadier-Generals Keyes and Ross. Actual operations were delayed by rain until the 31st December, on which day both Brigadier-Generals succeeded in meeting in the Pastaoni Valley without encountering any opposition. On the 1st January, Brigadier-General Keyes withdrew to his positions at Turki.

At a personal interview with His Honor on the 2nd January, Brigadier-General Keyes proposed that a second advance into the Pastaoni Valley should be undertaken, that the Naru Khula should be forced, and that other parts should be explored. These operations were most successfully carried out on the 15th and four subsequent days in January, but they would have been undertaken at an earlier date had not the Commissioner and Brigadier-General Keyes entertained grave doubts in regard to the attitude of the neutral sections of the Adam Khels, which, however, on examination proved quite unfounded. The troops occupied and overran the Jowaki highlands in the Pastaoni Valley for five days. In submitting the reports of these proceedings His Honor remarked as follows:—

8. Paragraph 9.—In regard to results, "His Honor thinks that he was justified in urging the occupation of the Pastaoni Valley by our troops, and a thorough penetration into the Jowaki hills; and he also thinks that his anticipations of the good effect of these operations have been fully realized, for immediately after the whole country had been overrun the jirga of the tribe made the first move towards submission."

9. No further military operations were undertaken. The tribe virtually submitted, although a considerable time elapsed in discussing the terms and settling how they should meet the demands of Government. Finally, on the 4th of March, the several jirgas of the Adam Khels were received in Darbar at Peshawar to witness the formal submission of the Jowakis.

10. In the report now submitted by Brigadier-General Keyes, a description is given of the circumstances of the season, which were favorable to military operations, and which enabled the blockading force to hold their positions in the Turki and Shindeh plains. The frequent and unusually heavy rainfall maintained an ample water-supply, which in ordinary seasons is very scanty; and although the troops were put to considerable inconvenience and had to endure much exposure, yet the rainy weather affected the enemy also very unfavorably, as they were exposed to it in their bivouacs on the hill sides, and the unusual moisture operated, on the whole, in our favor.

12. No allusion has been made in Brigadier-General Keyes' report to the subject of the slight opposition made by the Jowakis. Throughout the operations our troops were able to move without serious opposition over the enemy's hills, which are extremely rugged and difficult, and might have been held by a spirited enemy against great odds. This is the first time that a force armed with breech-loading arms has been employed in any hill expedition, and His Honor thinks that the results obtained prove most conclusively that the coercion of any hill tribe is now a matter of comparative ease and certainty. Our own troops have gained confidence in their weapons, whilst not only the Jowakis, but the whole Afridi tribe, now know that they cannot safely venture within range of our rifles, which carry so much farther than their own weapons.

13. At the same time His Honor feels that the forces employed against the Jowakis were far more than sufficient to coerce this section of the Adam Khels, if unassisted by other sections; but when the operations began, the nature of the country and the situation of the commanding positions in it were not well known, nor had the good faith of the neutral sections been tested; it was therefore necessary for Brigadier-General Keyes to proceed with caution and in strong force, to make quite sure of the objects in view. Hereafter, should occasion for occupying Jowaki territory arise, the commanding points can be occupied with speed and certainty, and the whole of the country can be held by a much smaller force.

14. In conclusion, I am desired to state that the Lieutenant-Governor fully endorses the commendations bestowed by Brigadier-General Keyes upon the principal officers of his force. His Honor thinks that they, as well as the whole of the force, are deserving of the warm acknowledgments of the Government of India. The Lieutenant-Governor thinks that Brigadier-General Keyes conducted the operations with much care and skill. The small loss which his force sustained, and the fine condition which the men maintained, are due to the excellence of his arrangements.

15. Brigadier-General Ross, C.B., Commanding the Peshawar District, conducted the operations against the Jowakis from the north, and his report upon them has no doubt been submitted to the Government of India through His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

No. 128F.F. dated Abbottabad, 8th March, 1878.

From—Brigadier-General C. P. KEYES, C.B., Commanding Punjab Frontier Force.

To—COLONEL S. BLACK, Secretary to Government of Punjab, Military Dept.

The Jowaki Afridis having tendered their submission to Government in open darbar at Peshawar on the 4th March, 1878, arrangements were immediately made, under instructions personally communicated by the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, for the withdrawal of the troops which have been in occupation of their valley for the last four months, and I have now the honor to report the complete evacuation, yesterday, of the Jowaki Valley, and the return to their respective quarters of the troops which have been employed in the recent operations against that tribe.

2. As promised in my letter No. 118F.F. of 1st February, 1878, I now proceed to give a brief resumé of those operations, and to bring to the notice of Government the names of those officers who, in prominent positions, performed important services and distinguished themselves by their zeal and energy.

3. On the 9th November, 1877, the Paialh Valley was occupied as detailed in my No. 38F.F. of 21st November, and the troops remained in the positions taken up there until the 15th.

4. It appears desirable here to note for future guidance that, under ordinary circumstances, it would be difficult, if not impossible, for a large force to occupy this valley for any length of time, in consequence of the scarcity of water. It is true that there are wells in the principal villages, but these would be only sufficient in dry seasons for a limited number of men; there would be no means of providing for horses or baggage animals. Babri has himself since informed us that the Jowakis themselves are often compelled to go to the Naru for water, and that he fully expected to see us forced to abandon our position from this cause; and he had been comforting himself with the hope of following us up when we retired and inflicting severe loss on our troops. Indeed, as it was, had it not been for the heavy rain which fell on the 12th, we should have been much inconvenienced, as the pools on which our animals were dependent were beginning to fail.

5. Up to this time the enemy appeared in considerable numbers on the hills to the north of our position; but as they would have retreated to the higher ranges if attacked, only to follow us up when we fell back, I considered that it was at that time undesirable to make such a move, as well as contrary to my instructions, which were to maintain strict blockade, and to watch for an opportunity of inflicting loss on the enemy without unnecessarily exposing the troops.

6. My chief anxiety at Paiah was for the safety of our convoys over a long line of road open to ambuscade, every movement along which could be observed from the hills occupied by the enemy within a distance of two miles. It was a marvel to me that they never attempted to annoy us on this road. At first they were deterred by expecting an attack on themselves and were ignorant of our intention; but had we remained much longer at this place, they would have done so, for they had begun, just before we changed ground, to discuss the best way of interrupting our communication.

7. On the 15th November a new position was taken up at Shindeh in front of Jamu, with the object of attacking that place as soon as a favorable opportunity offered. From Shindeh it would have been easy any time to have made an assault on that stronghold; but the enemy would easily have made their escape to the hills beyond, while it was doubtful, then, whether we could have taken a safe position in the valley for occupation. My object was to induce the enemy to suppose that I intended to attack them by the comparatively easy entrance to the valley by Bugh while I searched for a way to get round them and cut off their retreat to the hills.

8. Heavy and long-continued rain put a stop to all active operations, and it was not until the end of November that I satisfied myself that an entrance could be effected at both ends of the valley, notwithstanding the difficult nature of the ground, and that there was every reason to hope that a well-timed movement in three directions would render the retreat of the enemy most difficult, and expose them to heavy loss, if it did not lead to the capture of some at least of their number. In my letter No. 59F.F. of 2nd December, 1877, I had the honor of reporting the manner in which the assault was carried out, and the result of the operations.

9. I would here record my opinion that, in the event of it ever being found necessary to again make a hostile entry into Jamu, it would be desirable to attack it in a somewhat similar manner to that described in these reports, adding, if available, a fourth column to co-operate by the Bazid Khel Kotal.

10. On the 4th December, Jamu was abandoned, the troops falling back on their former position at Shindeh, and on the 7th Ghariba was attacked.

11. I had for some time heard that Mushki (one of the principal Jowaki leaders) had taken up his residence at Ghariba, and it was my object to capture him and his followers, if possible. The indifference which I had purposely shown towards this place produced the effect that I had wished. I have since ascertained that it was believed that I looked upon it as too insignificant a place to attack, as we had remained at Paiah so long without doing so. The inhabitants were consequently off their guard when the troops entered it on the morning of the 7th. Mushki, unfortunately, and most of his followers, had left it the evening before. My report No. 72F.F. of the 9th December, 1877, details the manner in which Ghariba was surrounded, and the result of the operations.

12. On the 31st December the Dargai heights were occupied as reported in my No. 9C. of 5th January, 1878.

13. The Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor having desired me to place on record my opinion of the best mode of assaulting these heights, I would here remark that, in my opinion, it would not be desirable to attempt to force them in face of any serious opposition. They can be ascended from different spurs, any one of which could be rendered almost impregnable by a few determined men, and I cannot conceive any circumstance arising that would justify such a risk. If it be ever again necessary to overrun the Jowaki lands, or to proceed through them to Torchappar, or other (falli Afridi) villages, the proper route would be by Musa Derah. Troops moving by that line would enable columns from the Kohat and Peshawar sides to co-operate with effect.

14. On the 15th January, 1878, the Dargai heights were again occupied, the troops retiring to Turki and Shindeh through the Naru defile on 20th January, 1878, as reported in my No. 115F.F. of 1st February, 1878.

15. It appears desirable to note for future reference that, had it not been for the unusual and abundant rain that fell during our occupation of the valley, it would have been impossible to have maintained our position at Shindeh for more than a few days. At Turki only could a sufficient supply of water be depended on for a large body of troops.

16. I now desire to bring to the notice of Government the admirable conduct of the troops throughout these operations. At Paiah, the men not actually on duty had tolerably fair shelter; but immediately after we had taken up new positions at Shindeh and Turki they were exposed to thirty-six hours' rain with scarcely any shelter, and again not many days afterwards seventy hours' almost continuous rain under similar circumstances. They were without any change of clothes for nearly a month; night duty was exceptionally heavy in consequence of the extended nature of our position, yet the spirits of the men never flagged; their cheerfulness and endurance under the hardships occasioned by the unseasonable and unusually heavy rain was beyond all praise.

17. My hearty thanks and acknowledgments are due to all the officers for their assistance and for the excellent example which they showed to the men by their own bearing throughout these prolonged operations.

18. My special thanks are due to the following officers:—

Colonel D. Mocatta, Commandant, 3rd Sikh Infantry. This officer had much labour and anxiety in command of the Kohat district before active operations commenced. He commanded a column on each occasion in which the troops were engaged, as mentioned in my several despatches at the time, and he has afforded me great assistance at all times; and much credit is due to him for the able manner in which he carried out every duty entrusted to him.

Major G. N. Money, 2nd in command, 3rd Sikh Infantry, who joined his regiment from furlough just before the attack on Jamu, and commanded it with much spirit on that occasion. Subsequently he rendered valuable service by establishing heliographic communication between different posts, the apparatus for which he had purchased and brought from England at his own expense.

The command of the 3rd Sikh Infantry devolved, in the absence of Colonel Mocatta and Major Money, on Captain W. Aislabie, who carried out the duty in the advance on Paiah, Ghariba, the advance on the Dargai heights and operations at the Naru Khula, to my entire satisfaction, and with much credit to himself.

Major C. J. Griffiths, 3rd Sikh Infantry, who was selected for the responsible duty of the command of the Kohat garrison during the absence of the troops. This officer also led the advanced guard on the 9th November through the Tortang Pass.

Colonel P. F. Gardiner, Commandant, 5th Goorkha Regiment, who had charge of the eastern blockade before the troops took the field, and commanded a column throughout the operations, as already reported. This officer's regiment (the 5th Goorkhas) occupied a bare hill on the Sam Jamu plain at Shindeh, and, during the heavy rain first experienced here, his men had no shelter save that afforded by their blankets, which they stretched across sticks for the purpose. Colonel Gardiner's never-varying cheerfulness under great discomfort was not without its due effect on his men, and was very pleasant to witness.

He commanded his column with skill on every occasion on which it was engaged. The command of the regiment, when Colonel Gardiner was employed in command of a column, devolved on Major W. H. Unwin, officiating 2nd in command, who was specially brought to notice in Colonel Gardiner's reports. I fully concur in the favorable notice made of this officer, who carried out his duty when in command of his regiment with zeal and ability.

Major B. Williams, Commandant, 5th Punjab Cavalry. This officer at the commencement of the operations was officiating Commandant of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry, and, as senior officer in command at Gumbat, led the column on the attack on Paiah, and subsequently officiated as Assistant Quartermaster General, and had charge of the convoy road and general line of communication. He commanded his column to my entire satisfaction, and performed all the important duties connected with this charge with much energy and care; and I am further indebted to him for his assistance whilst personally attending me on all occasions on which the troops were engaged.

Colonel J. J. H. Gordon, Commandant, 29th Punjab Native Infantry. I am much indebted to this officer and his regiment for the valuable assistance which they afforded me at all times. When at Khushalgarh, during the heavy flood which swept away the bridge-of-boats at Attock, the men voluntarily turned out, and by their exertions they were instrumental in saving most of the boats of the Khushalgarh bridge. They took a prominent part in the attack on Jamu and subsequent operations, and distinguished themselves by their spirit and dash. Their excellent conduct during the time they were associated with the force merits my warm thanks.

Major H. C. P. Rice, Commandant, 1st Sikh Infantry, who commanded his regiment with much skill and gallantry up to the 16th January 1878, when he was dangerously wounded whilst personally conducting the retirement of the rear skirmishers of his regiment through the Naru Khula. This officer has always distinguished himself by his zeal and intelligence. I am much indebted to him for a valuable reconnaissance which he made by my desire previous to the attack on Jamu, and other prominent services during the operations.

The command of the regiment after Major Rice was wounded devolved on Major A. G. Ross, who distinguished himself by the skilful manner in which he gained the Zira heights with a party of his men on the 16th January 1878, as brought to notice by Colonel Mocatta in his report enclosed in my No. 118F.F. of 1st February.

Major J. W. McQueen, Commandant, 5th Punjab Infantry. This officer held charge of the eastern blockade at Shadipur before active operations commenced, from 19th to 29th October 1877, until the arrival of Colonel Gardiner, and was most useful in collecting information in that quarter and in placing the exposed villages in a state of defence. It was the good fortune of his regiment to hold the most exposed and important point in the position taken up at Shindeh; and to the excellent arrangements of Major McQueen I am much indebted for the safety of that portion of the camp at Shindeh. Major McQueen held command of the right column of attack on Jamu and in the advance on Ghariba, the assault of the Dargai heights, and the advance on Pastaoni. No more important services were performed during the operations than those which fell to the lot of Major McQueen, and I cannot speak in too high terms of the skill, spirit, and dash with which these important duties were performed. He merits my warmest acknowledgments for the assistance which he has rendered me throughout.

Major R. B. Campbell, Commanding Corps of Guides (Queen's Own), who commanded his regiment with great intelligence, and led them with skill on several occasions in the rapid movements made to take the enemy by surprise. He commanded a column on the 7th December which advanced over the difficult ground to surprise the village of Ghariba, and performed these duties to my entire satisfaction.

Major S. J. Brown, who commanded the 6th Punjab Infantry during the operations of the 30th August, and subsequently held a portion of the Khushalgarh road, during the blockade, until the advance of the troops on the 9th November 1877. These harassing and important duties were well performed by this officer. He held command during the active operations until the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel B. R. Chambers on the 26th December 1877, and much credit is due to him for the services thus rendered. Lieutenant-Colonel B. R. Chambers, Commandant, 6th Punjab Infantry, commanded his regiment on the 31st December 1877 and 15th January 1878 during the first and second occupation of Pastaoni, and rendered me valuable assistance on those occasions.

Major A. FitzHugh, who commanded the 4th Punjab Infantry throughout the operations, and afforded me much valuable assistance, and conducted with much skill the important duty of covering the survey party in their movement off the Dargai heights on the 1st January 1878, and in subsequent operations he led his regiment with much determination, though suffering from the effects of a severe fall in the rocky ground on the advance on the Dargai heights.

Captain J. A. Kelso, R. A., Commanding No. 1 Mountain Battery, is deserving of much credit for the manner in which he took his battery over the very difficult ground traversed by the left attack on Jamu, and for the admirable practice of his battery on that occasion. He was most zealous and energetic throughout the whole of the operations, and rendered valuable aid to the infantry at Paiah, Jamu, Ghariba (on two occasions), and the Naru Khula.

Captain G. Swinley, R. A., Commanding No. 2 Mountain Battery, who performed good service with his battery on the first advance on Paiah and on the occasion of the retirement of the 5th Punjab Infantry under Major Stewart on the 12th November 1877 and in subsequent operations. I have received valuable assistance from this officer throughout.

Captain E. J. deLautour, R. A., Commanding No. 4 (Hazara) Mountain Battery, who joined the Field Force with his battery during the movement from Paiah on the 15th November 1877, and served with it until the 22nd December 1877, when he proceeded to join the Peshawur force under Brigadier-General Ross, C. B. The practice of his battery during the occupation of Jamu and Ghariba was most excellent.

The gallant actions performed by Major C. E. Stewart, 5th Punjab Infantry, and Lieutenant G. Gaisford, 5th Punjab Infantry, on the 15th November 1877, and Captain A. J. D. Hawes, 4th Punjab Infantry, on the 1st December 1877, and Captain A. G. Hammond, Corps of Guides (Queen's Own), on the 17th January 1878, were described in my reports on the operations of those dates. I desire, however, again to bring them to notice in this place. I cannot speak too highly of these officers, who have distinguished themselves by their zeal and energy on all occasions.

I have also to remark that Major C. E. Stewart commanded the 5th Punjab Infantry at the advance on Paiah, Jamu, Ghariba, and throughout the operations on the Dargai heights (on both occasions), when the command of a separate column had devolved on the commandant of the regiment. He fully earned the confidence of all ranks by the coolness and skill which he invariably displayed.

Major Lance, Officiating Commandant, 2nd Punjab Cavalry. Although this officer was unable to take part in the active operations under report, it is but just that I should bring his conduct to notice during the previous blockade, when he received the wound which has incapacitated him from further duty, and deprived the Government temporarily of his valuable services. Major Lance's energy, zeal, and the spirit with which he entered into the duty on which he was employed, are deserving of the highest commendation.

Major R. C. Clifford commanded the detachment 2nd Punjab Cavalry with the Field Force up to the end of December 1877, and was conspicuous for the spirit and enterprise with which he conducted all his duties, more especially those of reconnaissance whenever opportunity offered.

Captain F. Carr, who commanded a detachment 5th Punjab Cavalry from early in January in relief of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry. This officer volunteered his services to act as orderly officer on my staff for the operations at Jamu and Ghariba, and further made a most valuable traverse sketch of the road from Gandiali to Jamu.

Surgeon-Major G. Farrell, 2nd Punjab Cavalry. On this officer devolved the duty of organizing the field hospital at Gumbat, and in attending the greater portion of the sick and wounded, who were sent to the rear. These duties he performed to my entire satisfaction, and displayed much skill and energy in the arrangements which he made with very inadequate means at his disposal.

Surgeon-Major J. W. N. Johnson, 5th Goorkha Regiment, senior medical officer at camp Shindeh. To this officer was intrusted the duty of arranging for the field hospital in the operations at the Dargai heights. I feel much indebted to him for his ever ready co-operation.

Surgeon-Major T. P. Wright, 20th Punjab Native Infantry, and Surgeon-Major A. P. Holmes, 1st Sikh Infantry, senior medical officers at camp Turki and under command of Colonel Mocatta, who expressed himself much pleased with the manner in which they carried out their responsible duties.

Captain Harvey, R. E., Field Engineer, who supervised with much skill the demolition of the towers at Paiah, Kushta, Banda, Jamu, and for the energy with which he conducted the varied duties of Field Engineer throughout the operations.

Captain Harvey was ably assisted by Captain H. Morgan, R. A., who volunteered his ready talents on all occasions when his services could be spared from duty with No. 1 Mountain Battery, which he had voluntarily accompanied under Captain Kelso's orders.

Mr. Gibson, of the Revenue Survey Department, who joined the force on the 24th December 1877, and spared himself no pains to obtain a survey of the country.

Major G. Stewart, Corps of Guides, (Queen's Own), for the skill and care with which he prepared a valuable military survey of the Jowaki country. Major Stewart was assisted by Lieutenant C. M. Smith and Lieutenant O. Radford, 3rd Sikh Infantry, who moreover on several occasions rendered good services in furnishing sketches on the occasion of reconnaissances; Lieutenant H. B. Urmoston, 6th Punjab Infantry, who devoted much labor to the preparation of landscape sketches of the country traversed by the troops, and also furnished a military sketch of the country north of the blockades near Tilkan.

Mr. Nigel Jones and the subordinate officials of the Government Telegraph Department, who rendered good service in connection with the field telegraph line from Gumbat to Shindeh.

Captain J. Davidson, Assistant Adjutant-General, Punjab Frontier Force, who accompanied me throughout the operations. I am much indebted for his ready and valuable aid in all difficulties.

Captain Lord William Beresford, 9th Lancers, Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy, who volunteered his services on my personal staff, my thanks are also due.

Major W. C. Mackinnon, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General for Musketry, who accompanied me from the commencement of operations up to the 5th December, when he proceeded on his tour of inspection, which demanded his attention.

Major N. R. Burlton, Special Commissariat Officer, Kohat, to whom I am much indebted for the efficient aid rendered in this department. To the excellent arrangements made by Major Burlton, I attribute the regularity with which the troops were supplied with all necessaries.

Captain A. Gaselee, 4th Punjab Infantry. Much credit is due to this officer for the efficient manner in which he organized the levies and superintended their duties—a task which was performed by him, under many difficulties, to my entire satisfaction. The services performed by this officer were very useful.

19. I cannot close this report without offering my sincere acknowledgments to Brigadier-General Ross, C.B., Commanding Peshawur Field Force, for his hearty co-operation and assistance whilst the Peshawur and Kohat Forces were employed together on the occupation of Pastooni.

On the departure of General Ross to Peshawur through the Naru Khula with a portion of his force on the 18th January, Colonel Buchanan (Brigadier of the Peshawur Force) was placed at my disposal, and to Colonel Buchanan I am indebted for the excellent arrangement made by him for the reconnaissance of the 19th January towards Kahui, and for the final retirement through the Naru Khula conducted by him in person, and for the superintendence of the completion of the survey reports (by Mr. Scott, Revenue Survey Department), whilst his brigade remained in occupation of the Jamu valley.

20. I have to acknowledge the great advantage that I derived in all difficulties from the ready advice and assistance which I obtained from Colonel Sir F. R. Pollock, K.C.S.I., Commissioner of Peshawur, whose counsel I have had throughout these operations.

I have also to thank Captain T. C. Plowden, Deputy Commissioner, Kohat, for his hearty co-operation at all times, and for the valuable aid which he afforded me.

PAY AND ALLOWANCES.

No. 742.—PAY CODE—

The following corrections are to be made in the Pay Code for India, Volume I, "British Troops":—

"149a. Horse allowance is admissible in one capacity only, to an officer holding more than one appointment, whether permanently or temporarily."

Article 217. Insert the word "paid" after the word "higher."

Article 311. Add—"When interpretation is required in any other language than Hindustani, any competent person, whether in or out of the service, may be appointed."

Article 360. After the word "engineers" insert "who have elected for local service."

Article 475. After the words "field batteries" insert the words "irrespective of age."

Article 726, page 152. Add the following:—

"NOTE.—Daughters born to subscribers subsequent to the 7th June 1867, for whom the donation of Rs. 200 has been paid, are allowed to revert to their pensions on becoming widows."

Article 918. Insert the word "administrative" before "officers" in the last line.

Article 1078. For the words "shall from the date he quits his station, if" substitute "shall from the date he is."

Article 1175, clause b. Expunge the words "unless he passes the high proficiency test."

Article 1195. To the Note, add—
"An officer of royal engineers attached to the sappers and miners is allowed when on service or on service movements, free passage by rail for two chargers with permission to keep them in camp; but this indulgence will only be allowed strictly on the condition that the officer taking a second charger is able to make out a clear case of the necessity for so doing."

Article 1299. Expunge the last sentence and substitute "passage money will not be given during the trooping season if he can be accommodated on board a troopship."

Article 1595, page 303. The following to be substituted for the existing remark:—

"Sergeant instructors when detached on duty from headquarters, for a period exceeding one day, receive an extra allowance of Rs. 2 when provided with quarters, and Rs. 1 when not so provided, for every night's absence from home."

Article 1662n. After the words "to be made" insert "(on W. O. Form 467)." At the end of the article add, "The soldier will be informed to what officer he is to apply for his deferred pay."

Article 1662o is reconstructed as follows:—

"1662o. Charges for deferred pay will be supported by a certified copy of the soldier's record of service, and a detailed computation of the amount (on W. O. Form 467), both of which will be prepared by the paymaster from whose payment the soldier is transferred. A receipt in proof of payment will also be required."

1662p. Expunge the words "in all cases" be stated in the proceedings of discharge boards, and in the soldier's parchment certificate of discharge. It will also"

Article 1696. For the words "as a private of the regiment" substitute "as laid down in article 1701a."

Article 1734, clause XII, page 329. After the words "head quarters" insert—
"and for the convalescent depot at Pachmarhi."

Article 1734, clause XV, page 330. For the words "instructing infantry in gun-drill" read—

"instructing cavalry or infantry in gun-drill."

"1935a. The following prizes are granted annually to the royal artillery in India provided a sufficient number of competitors qualify for the same: the prizes will be issued on or after the 1st April in each year for the competition of the preceding cold season:—

ROYAL HORSE AND FIELD ARTILLERY.

No. 743.—The following corrections are to be made in the Pay Code for India, Volume II, "Native Troops":—

Article 5a. The concluding portion of this article, from "The allowance is not admissible," &c., to the end, is reconstructed as follows:—

"The allowance is not admissible to drivers, mahouts and elephant coolies of heavy batteries, but it is specially granted to drivers, muleteers (not baggage muleteers), salootries, and farriers of British and native mountain batteries, except the farriers of native artillery in Bombay."

Article 63. Expunge the second clause "All the members of this branch," &c., to the end; and substitute—"The hospital assistants forming this reserve, when not required for military duty, may be lent to the civil department, receiving from that department their military rate of pay with any special allowances attached to independent and important charges, and any personal allowances for exceptional good service. Hospital assistants for permanent civil employ form a distinct branch from those entertained for military purposes."

Home Department's Resolution dated 24th January 1878, Nos. 16-1-17 to 20th. Military Progs., June 1878, No. 248.

Article 98, clause f, page 28. Under "Governor's body-guard, Bombay," enter—

Rs. As. P.

"Aden troop of cavalry ... 10 9 0"

Article 100. Add—"In the Bengal presidency horse allowance at Rs. 15 a month, is authorized for a period of 30 days after the removal by death or otherwise of a bargheer sowar."

Article 193a. In the first line, after the words "non-commissioned officers," insert " (and also of trumpeters and farriers of Punjab cavalry only):"

Article 340a. The concluding portion of this article from "The allowance is not admissible," &c., to the end, is reconstructed as follows:—

"The allowance is not admissible to drivers, mahouts and elephant coolies of heavy batteries, but it is specially granted to drivers, muleteers (not baggage muleteers), salootries, and farriers of British and native mountain batteries, except the farriers of native artillery in Bombay."

Article 563a is reconstructed as follows:—

"563a. The rates of good-conduct pay and rules for the grant thereof commencing at article 111, are applicable to drivers, muleteers (not baggage muleteers), salootries, and farriers of British and native mountain batteries, except the farriers of native artillery in Bombay. Havildars and naicks of muleteers and drivers are not entitled to good-conduct pay."

Article 564. Expunge the words "driver (not baggage muleteer) of British mountain artillery."

PART IV.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 1st August 1878, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. XIV OF 1878.

An Act to assimilate certain powers of the Local Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

WHEREAS the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissioner-

ship of Oudh are now united under the administration of a single officer; and whereas it is expedient that, so long as such union continues, the powers of the Local Government of Oudh under the enactments hereinafter mentioned should resemble the powers of the Local Government of the North-Western Provinces under the same or like enactments; and whereas doubts have arisen as to the validity of certain acts done since the said union, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. In the Oudh Rent Act, 1868, sections 29, 85, 87 and 91, the following

Omissions from Act words shall be omitted XIX of 1868. (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council," "subject to any orders that may from time to time be issued by the Governor General in Council," "subject to any orders in this behalf that may from time to time be made by the Governor General of India in Council," and "with the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council."

2. For the first sentence of section 6 of the Prisons Act, 1870, the following shall be substituted (namely): "An Inspector General of Prisons shall be appointed in the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb and Oudh by the Local Government, and in the Central Provinces and British Burma by the Governor General in Council."

3. In the Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871, section 5, for the words "The Governor General in Council shall fix," the following words shall be substituted (namely): "The Chief Commissioner, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, shall fix."

In the first sentence of section 6 of the same Act, the words "Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners, Civil Judge of Lucknow and Assistant Commissioners" shall be omitted; and for the second sentence of the same section the following shall be substituted, that is to say: "The Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners, Assistant Commissioners, Extra Assistant Commissioners, Tahsildárs and the Civil Judge of Lucknow shall be appointed by the Chief Commissioner."

In section 10 of the same Act, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

In section 26, first paragraph, of the same Act, the words "with the sanction of the Governor General in Council" shall be omitted; and in the second paragraph of the same section, for the words "Governor General in Council," the words "Chief Commissioner" shall be substituted.

In section 32, last paragraph, of the same Act, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omission from section 32, last paragraph, of same Act.

In section 33, first paragraph, of the same Act, for the words "presiding officer of any Court under this Act," the words "Judicial Commissioner" shall be substituted; and in the second paragraph of the same section, for the words "by the Chief Commissioner, but shall not be removed without the sanction of the Governor General in Council," the words "or removed by the Chief Commissioner" shall be substituted.

Alteration of same Act, section 33, paragraphs 1 and 2.

4. In the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876, section 4, the following words shall be omitted in both the places in which they occur (namely): "subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf;" and in sections 7 and 9 of the same Act the following words shall be omitted (namely): "subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf;" and in sections 14, 19, 20, 51, 183, 212 and 220 of the same Act, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omissions from Act XVII of 1876.

To section 43 of the same Act the following words shall be added (namely): "provided that in the case of settlements of individual mahāls or parts of mahāls, undertaken at other times than at the general settlement and sanctioned by the Chief Commissioner, such confirmation shall not be necessary."

Addition to same Act, section 43.

5. In section 39, first paragraph, of the Oudh Laws Act, 1876, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omission from Act XVIII of 1876, section 39.

In section 45, first paragraph, of the same Act, after the word "and," the words "the Chief Commissioner" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 45 of same Act.

6. * For the purpose of the Prisoners Act, 1871, sections 30 and 31, and of the Reformatory Schools Act, 1876, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh shall be deemed to be subject to the same Local Government.

Modification of Act V of 1871, sections 30 and 31, and Act V of 1876.

7. No order issued, power conferred, act done or appointment or rule made by the Chief Commissioner of Oudh subsequent to the union of the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissionership of Oudh which would have been valid if issued, conferred, done or made by, or with the sanction of, the Governor General in Council, shall be deemed to be invalid merely because it was not so issued, conferred, done or made.

Validation-clause.

8. This Act shall come into force on the passing thereof, and sections one to six (both inclusive) shall continue in force until the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, otherwise directs.

autumn crops; and, in any case, the Government would have some weeks of warning, before great crowds come to the relief-works.

9. It will be understood that, if famine should come, the works in the first, or lightest schedule, are those to be first taken up. But large works, which, under ordinary circumstances, require the sanction of the Government of India or of Her Majesty's Secretary of State, should not be begun without such sanction. It can hardly be possible that any such sudden emergency could arise as to render it necessary to begin works of these classes without previous sanction; and, in the event of continued and increasing pressure, needful attention should be given to the preliminary steps for obtaining it.

It will manifestly be desirable to take up the relief-works as much as possible in the order of their probable utility, subject to their giving the needful occupation to the population of the tracts where distress might actually arise.

10. The North-West Famine Code, which has been approved by the Government of India, shows that the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor is fully alive to the paramount necessity of limiting relief operations to the bare wants of the people; and that he appreciates the need for applying such tests as the exaction of full work, the location of works at a sufficient distance from centres of population, and the restriction of the relief wages to an average subsistence rate. Unless such limitations and restrictions are placed, and maintained, on relief operations, there will not only be risk that the cost of famine relief in India may exceed the utmost resources of the Indian Treasury, but also danger of creating a pauper population taught to rely upon State relief for its support. In any case, even with the most carefully restricted relief administration, the strain on the public exchequer in the event of another year of famine would be extreme; and it would be necessary that its probable financial consequences should be watched from the outset with the greatest care.

SERVICE DONE BY MILITARY OFFICERS DURING THE RECENT FAMINE.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department, (Famine), No. 1385, dated 26th July 1878.

DURING the famine of 1874, many officers, non-commissioned officers and men, belonging to the Army in Bengal, took an active part in the operations for the relief of famine, and did excellent service to the country and to the Government. When sore need for additional assistance was felt last year at the crisis of the famine in Madras and Mysore, officers of the Army were, with the permission of Their Excellencies the Commandors-in-Chief, invited to volunteer for famine-duty. Eighty officers responded to the invitation, and among them were represented the three Armies of India, and all branches of the Service.

2. Now that the work of the famine is nearly over, His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council has much satisfaction in publishing the annexed extracts from the Proceedings of His Grace the Governor of Madras in Council, and of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore. The Governor-General in Council cordially endorses the acknowledgments expressed in these papers to the gentlemen who have gallantly, under a trying climate, and in spite of disease, done a soldier's part in the campaign against famine.

The special thanks of the Government of India are due to the under-mentioned officers who served in Madras :—

Capt. R. Wilson, 13th Madras Infantry.
 " A. P. Broome, 18th Bengal Cavalry.
 " W. W. Biscoe, 19th Bengal Cavalry.
 " G. Vernon, H.M.'s 16th Foot.
 Lieut. C. A. Mercer, Bengal Cavalry.
 " W. N. Lockyer, Royal Artillery.
 " C. L. Casey, Royal Artillery.
 " G. E. Money, Central India Horse.
 Capt. C. Hackett, H.M.'s 5th Fusiliers.
 Lieut. J. Haughton, 10th Bengal Infantry.
 " H. R. L. Holmes, H.M.'s 22nd Foot.
 " A. P. Williamson, H.M.'s 18th Royal Irish.
 Capt. C. H. Stevenson, H.M.'s 18th Royal Irish.
 Lieut. W. A. Campbell, H.M.'s 54th Foot.
 " A. C. G. Lydiard, 31st Bengal Infantry.
 Capt. C. F. N. Guinness, H.M.'s 72nd Highlanders.
 " H. G. Grant, H.M.'s 78th Foot.
 Lieut. L. Gordon, H.M.'s 25th Foot.
 " A. G. Leonard, H.M.'s 59th Foot.
 " H. Kilgour, H.M.'s 5th Fusiliers.
 Lieut.-Col. W. F. Bartleman, 37th Bengal Infantry.
 Lieut. S. P. C. Scott, H.M.'s 48th Foot.
 Capt. D. V. Shortland, Royal Artillery.
 Lieut. W. Cooke, 9th Madras Infantry.
 " R. Johnston, H.M.'s 22nd Foot.

who served in Mysore :—

Lieut.-Col. G. W. Holdsworth, Bengal Infantry.
 Capt. F. D. Mander, 13th Bombay Infantry.
 " W. Chard, H.M.'s 2-7th Royal Fusiliers.
 Lieut. E. A. Mostyn, H.M.'s 2-7th Royal Fusiliers.
 " C. O. Nicholletts, 5th Bombay Light Infantry.
 " W. J. Orr, 25th Bombay Infantry.
 " R. S. Simpson, 21st Bombay Infantry.
 " S. C. F. Peile, 2nd (Queen's Own) Bengal Light Infantry.
 " C. W. Fitzgerald, 3rd Bengal Infantry.
 " C. H. Des Vaux, 4th Bengal Infantry.
 " H. C. Lamb, 4th Bengal Cavalry.
 Capt. J. Henley, H.M.'s 66th Foot.
 Lieut. P. E. Anderson, 25th Bengal Infantry.
 Jemadar Cheda Singh, 16th Bengal Cavalry.

3. His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council has been grieved to learn that the famine-duty has cost one gallant officer his life, and that a number of other officers have suffered severely in health. The Government of India hopes to grant, with the sanction of Her Majesty's Secretary of State, special concessions to officers who have suffered in health from their labours in the Madras Famine; the precise form which these concessions shall take will shortly be made known.

4. His Excellency the Governor General in Council will hereafter take opportunity to acknowledge the good service done, during the recent famine, by many officers, European and Native, belonging to the Public Works, Civil, Medical, Survey, Police, and other Departments.

Copy of the foregoing Resolution, with annexures, forwarded to the Military Department for information; and also for publication in the Gazette of India.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of Madras, Revenue Department (Famine), No. 1490, dated 8th July 1878.

The Army officers from all parts of India, who, having volunteered their services, were placed by the Military Department at the disposal of the Madras Government for famine-duty, having now re-joined their regiments, His Grace the Governor in Council desires to convey to those officers the thanks of Government, and to place on public record the appreciation of their valuable services during the past season.

2. Of those whose services commenced at the close of 1876 or early in 1877, the services of Captain R. Wilson, of the 13th Madras Native Infantry, who held charge of the Red Hills Camp for fifteen months; of Captains A. Broome and W. Biscoe, and of Lieutenant C. A. Mercer, of the Bengal Cavalry, who were employed in the trying climate of Kurnool, without intermission throughout the year; of Captain G. Vernon, 2-16th Foot, who had the and amend the law relating to Railways in India was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. We have saved not only rules, &c., made under the Acts which the Bill proposes to repeal, but also rules made under the enactments which these Acts replaced.

3. We have extended the definition of "Railway" so as to include ferry-boats used for the purpose of, or in connection with, a Railway.

4. It has been held, both in England (Jones v. Festiniog Railway Company, L.R. 3 Q.B. 733) and in India (Jowahir v. Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Company, unreported, and see Holford v. E. I. Ry. Company, 14 Beng. 1), that if a Railway Company has no statutory power authorizing it to use locomotives, it will be liable for damage caused by sparks, even though all reasonable precautions have been taken to prevent them. Our present Railway Act (XVIII of 1854), unlike the English Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, confers no such power. We have therefore, in accordance with a suggestion of the Secretary of State, expressly declared that locomotives may be used on every Indian Railway. The result will be that the Railway Administration will not be liable for such damage without proof of negligence.

5. When a passenger's luggage is at his request placed in the same carriage in which he is to travel and is lost or injured, we have declared, in accordance with the recent decision in Berghum v. Great Eastern Railway Company, 3 C. P. Div. 221, that the Company is not liable, unless the loss or injury has been caused by the neglect or default of their servants.

6. As the law stands in India, when certain specified articles are contained in parcels delivered to a Railway Company, the Company is not liable for loss of or injury to those articles, whatever may be their value, unless they have been formally declared and insured. One or other of these articles is found in the luggage of most first and second class passengers, and the result is that many people, as a rule, travel without declaring their property and run the risk of losing it altogether from accidents to the train or carelessness and misconduct on the part of the Company's servants. In England the Railway Companies are relieved from responsibility only when the value of undeclared articles exceeds £10, and we think that in India Rs. 100 would be a reasonable limit. We have therefore assimilated section 6 (now section 7) of the Bill to section 1 of the Carriers Act, 11 George IV & 1 Wm. IV, chapter 68. Where any article declared and insured under this section is lost or damaged, the owner will, as a rule, be entitled to recover, in the former case, the value of the article lost, and in the latter, the difference between its value before and after the accident. But where he understates the value, he should be concluded by his statement; and we have therefore (in accordance with the decision in McCance v. London and N. W. Railway Company, 3 H. & C. 343) provided that the amount so recoverable shall in no case exceed the declared value.

7. We have also amended section 7 (now section 8) so as to express the substance of the English Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, section 7. The Bill now provides that Railway Companies shall, notwithstanding any notice, condition or declaration, be liable for loss or injury to any articles not specially provided for by the preceding section when such loss or injury is occasioned by a Railway-officer's neglect or default. But this is not to invalidate special contracts as to receiving, forwarding or delivering such articles, provided such contracts are reasonable, and in writing signed by the parties.

8. In the case of accidents attended with serious personal injury, we have required (section 12) the nearest Station-master to give notice to the nearest Magistrate and the officer in charge of the Police-station in the jurisdiction of which the accident occurred.

9. We have expressly empowered (section 14) the Railway Administration to make rules regulating the maximum number of passengers to be contained in each Railway carriage, and the mode in which such number shall be denoted thereon. And we have provided (sections 26, 37) penalties for Railway-officers compelling passengers to enter carriages already full and for passengers wilfully entering such carriages.

10. We have required (section 16) that the amount of the fare shall be specified on the tickets. In the absence of such a provision, we are informed that Native passengers are constantly cheated either by the issuers of tickets or by touts hanging about the stations.

11. We have declared (section 17) that any passenger to whom a ticket has been furnished and for whom there is no room shall be entitled to have his fare at once refunded.

12. We have provided (section 28) penalties for a person travelling by a train of a class superior to that for which his ticket was issued, using or attempting to use a ticket on a day for which it is not available, or wilfully altering or defacing a ticket so as to render the date, number or other material portion thereof illegible.

13. We have declared (section 31) that the fine for not giving an account of goods, or for giving a false account, shall be in addition to the toll to which such goods may be liable. This is in accordance with 8 & 9 Vic., c. 20, section 90.

14. We have added to the offences for which a person may be arrested without warrant those of evading payment of the proper fare (section 25), being intoxicated or committing nuisance (section 32) and entering rooms or carriages reserved for females (section 33). We have increased the fine for being intoxicated or committing nuisance from Rs. 20 to Rs. 50.

15. We have provided (section 38) a penalty for unlawfully making, showing, hiding or removing signals or lights upon or near Railways.

16. The present law (Act XXV of 1871, section 2) provides a penalty for wilfully driving cattle on a fenced Railway, but does not prohibit such driving on unfenced lines. We have, in section 40, made such driving penal whether the line is fenced or unfenced.

17. In some parts of India young Native boys are in the habit of throwing stones at trains and placing obstructions on the rails. When they are under seven years of age the law cannot touch them: when they are above seven and under twelve, they are punishable only when proved by the prosecution to have attained sufficient maturity of understanding to judge of the nature and consequences of their conduct—a proof which, in most instances, is not easily given. Considering the serious risk to life and property caused by such acts, we think the general law should be modified in this respect; and we have accordingly provided, by section 42, that the convicting Magistrate may direct either that such children be punished with whipping, or that their fathers and guardians be punished with fine not exceeding Rs. 20.

18. We have required (section 45) drivers and conductors of omnibuses and other vehicles, while in a station-yard, to obey the reasonable directions of duly authorised Railway-officers. One of the bye-laws framed by the Board of Trade for regulating travelling by railway in England is to the like effect.

19. We have struck out sections 43 and 44 of the Bill as introduced. The latter section is obsolete, as there are now no Heads of District Police and Amíns in the Madras Presidency. The former conflicts with the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 72. We have also omitted the provisions as to tramways contained in section 23 of the Bill as introduced.

20. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

21. The publication ordered by the Council has been made; we recommend that the Bill as now amended be re-published, and that its further consideration be stayed till the Council re-assembles in Calcutta.

SCHEDULES.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Railways in India.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Railway Act, 1878."

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty the Empress of India, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her said Majesty:

Commencement. and it shall come into force on the first day of March 1879.

2. On and from that day, the Acts specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed.

All rules made, notifications published, and powers conferred under any of such Acts, or any enactment thereby repealed, shall (so far as they are consistent herewith) be deemed to have been respectively made, published and conferred under this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Railway." "Railway" includes—

(a) Railways belonging to and worked by Companies;

(b) Railways belonging to Government but worked by Companies;

(c) Railways worked by Government;

(d) land within the fences or other boundary-marks prescribed under section fifty;

(e) all lines of rail, sidings or branches worked over for the purposes of, or in connection with, a Railway;

(f) all stations, offices, warehouses, fixed machinery and other works constructed or being constructed for the purposes of, or in connection with, a Railway;

(g) all ferry-boats used for the purposes of, or in connection with, a Railway.

And in the following sections (namely), twelve, fourteen, nineteen, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-nine, thirty and thirty-five to forty-four (both inclusive), "Railway" includes a Railway under construction or not used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods.

"Railway Administration" means in the case of a Railway worked by Government, the Manager of such Railway, and in the case of a Railway worked by a Company, the Company.

"Railway-officer" means any person employed by a Railway Administration to perform any function in connection with a Railway.

"Passenger." "Passenger" means a passenger by Railway.

"Magistrate" means any person lawfully exercising the powers of a Magistrate and includes a Presidency Magistrate.

4. Every Railway used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway within the meaning of this Act, and every Company to or by whom any such Railway belongs or is worked shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway Company within the meaning of this Act.

CHAPTER II.

ENACTMENTS RELATING TO RAILWAY COMPANIES.

5. It shall be lawful to use on every Railway locomotive engines or other motive power, and carriages and wagons to be drawn or propelled thereby.

6. A Railway Company and (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall in no case be answerable for loss or injury to any passenger's luggage, unless a Railway-officer has booked and given a receipt for the same; and when a passenger's luggage has, at his request or with his consent, been placed in the same carriage in which he is to travel, and is lost or injured, the Company or the Government shall not be liable for such loss or injury unless it has been caused by the neglect or default of a Railway-officer.

7. When any of the articles mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed is contained in any parcel or package delivered to a Railway-officer, and the value of such article exceeds one hundred rupees, the Company or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall not be liable for loss of or damage to such article, unless, at the time of delivery, the value and nature thereof have been declared by the person sending or delivering the same, and an increased charge for the safe conveyance of the same, or an engagement to pay such charge, has been accepted by some person specially authorized in this behalf.

When any article of which the value and nature have been declared under this section has been lost or damaged and such loss or damage has been occasioned by a Railway-officer, the owner thereof is entitled to recover, in case of loss, its value, and in case of damage, the difference between its value immediately before, and its value immediately after, the damage has been so occasioned: Provided that the amount recoverable under this section shall not exceed the value so declared.

8. Notwithstanding any notice, condition or declaration given or made by the Railway Administration, the Railway Company or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall be liable for loss of or injury to any animals, articles or goods (other than those specially provided for by section seven) in the receiving, forwarding or delivering thereof, when such loss or injury is occasioned by the neglect or default of a Railway-officer.

Liability for neglect in carriage of goods, notwithstanding notice.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent the Railway Administration from making a special contract as to the receiving, forwarding or delivering of such animals, articles or goods: Provided that—

(a) such contract is in writing signed by, or on behalf of, the parties thereto, and

(b) the Court before which any question relating thereto is tried considers it to be just and reasonable.

9. If any person fail to pay on demand any sum due for conveyance of any goods by Railway, the Railway Administration may detain all or any part of such goods, or, if the same have been removed from the Railway, any other goods of such person then on such Railway or thereafter coming into the possession of the Railway Administration; and may also sell by public auction, on the expiration of at least fifteen days' notice thereof in one or more of the newspapers published at the place of sale, sufficient of such goods to realize the sum payable as aforesaid, and all charges and expenses of such detention and sale;

and may, out of the proceeds of the sale, retain the sum so payable, together with the charges and expenses aforesaid, rendering the surplus, if any, of such proceeds, and so much of the goods as remains unsold, to the person entitled thereto:

or it shall be lawful for the Railway Administration to recover any such sum by suit.

10. The owner or person having the care of any goods which have been carried upon any Railway, or are brought into any station or warehouse for the purpose of being carried on a Railway, shall, on demand by any Written account of goods to be given on demand.

Railway-officer appointed to receive goods to be carried on that part of the Railway on which such goods have been carried, or are about to be carried, deliver to such officer an exact account in writing signed by him of the number or quantity and description of such goods.

11. Any Railway-officer may refuse to carry upon a Railway any luggage or parcel which he suspects to contain dangerous goods, and may require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact previously to carrying the same;

and in case any such luggage or parcel is received for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, any Railway-officer may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of the contents of the luggage or parcel.

12. Every Railway Administration shall, within twelve hours after the occurrence upon the Railway of any accident attended with serious personal injury, give notice thereof to the Local Government, and the Station-Master nearest to the place at which the accident occurs, or such other officer as the Railway Administration may appoint in this behalf, shall at once give notice of such accident to the nearest Magistrate and to the officer in charge of the Police-station in the jurisdiction of which the accident occurred.

13. The Local Government may direct any Railway Administration to make up and deliver to the Local Government a return of serious accidents occurring in the course of the public traffic upon the Railway, whether attended with personal injury or not, in such form and manner as the Local Government deems necessary and requires for information, with a view to the public safety.

14. Every Railway Administration may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make general rules consistent with this Act for the following purposes (that is to say):—

(a) for regulating the mode by which, and the speed at which, carriages and wagons used on the Railway are to be moved or propelled;

(b) for regulating the times of the arrival and departure of any such carriages and wagons;

(c) for regulating the loading and unloading of such wagons, the weights they may respectively carry and the mode in which such weights shall be denoted thereon;

(d) for regulating the receipt and delivery of goods and other things which are to be conveyed upon the Railway;

(e) for regulating the maximum number of passengers which each carriage and compartment may carry, and the mode in which such number shall be denoted thereon;

(f) for declaring what shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, dangerous goods, and

(g) generally for regulating the travelling upon, and the use, working and management of, the Railway.

Any such rule may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be liable to a fine which may extend to fifty rupees or, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months.

Penalty for breach of rules.

All rules made under this section shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall be otherwise notified to the Railway-officers and the public in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs.

The Governor General in Council may at any time cancel any such rule.

15. A copy of this Act, and of the General Rules, Time-tables and Tariff of charges which may, from time to time, be published for any Railway by any Railway Administration shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place at each station of such Railway, so that they may be easily seen and read.

All such documents shall be so exhibited in English and in the vernacular language of the district in which the station is situate, and in such other language, if any, as the Local Government may direct.

CHAPTER III.

ENACTMENTS RELATING TO PASSENGERS.

16. Every person desirous of travelling on a Railway shall, upon payment of his fare, be furnished with a ticket specifying the class of carriage, the place from and place to which the fare has been paid, and the amount of such fare; and every passenger shall, when required, show his ticket to any Railway-officer duly authorized to examine the same, and shall deliver up such ticket upon demand to any Railway-officer duly authorized to collect tickets.

17. At the intermediate stations, the fares shall be deemed to be accepted and the tickets furnished only upon condition that there be room in the train for which the tickets are furnished.

In case there is not room for all the passengers to whom tickets have been furnished, those who have obtained tickets for the longest distance shall have the preference; and those who have obtained tickets for the same distance shall have the preference according to the order in which they have received their tickets:

Provided that all officers and troops of Her Majesty on duty, and all other persons on the business of the Government who, by virtue of any contract with the Government or, in the case of a Railway worked by Government, of any direction of the Governor-General in Council, are entitled to be conveyed on a Railway in preference to, or in priority over, the public, shall be entitled to such preference and priority without reference to the distance for which, or the order in which, they have received their tickets.

Any passenger to whom a ticket has been furnished at any station and for whom there is no room shall, on returning the ticket, be entitled to have his fare at once refunded.

18. Except with the permission of the Station-Master, no person shall enter any carriage used on any Railway for the purpose of travelling therein without having first paid his fare and obtained a ticket.

19. No person shall carry upon any Railway any dangerous goods, or shall be entitled to require to be carried upon any Railway any luggage or goods which in the judgment of any Railway-officer is or are of a dangerous nature.

CHAPTER IV.

PENALTIES.

(A).—As to Companies.

20. Any Railway Administration omitting to give notice as required by section twelve, clause one, shall forfeit the sum of five hundred rupees for every day during which such omission continues.

21. Any Railway Administration failing to deliver any return mentioned in section thirteen within fourteen days after the same has been required, or to exhibit the copy mentioned in section fifteen in manner required by that section, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such failure continues.

(B).—As to Railway-officers.

22. Any Station-Master or other officer omitting to give notice as required by section twelve, clause two, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

23. Any Railway-officer who is in a state of intoxication whilst actually employed upon a Railway in the discharge of any duty, or who negligently omits to perform his duty, or who performs the same in an improper manner, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees;

and if the duty in any of the cases aforesaid be such that the omission or negligent performance thereof would be likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon such Railway, such officer shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

24. If any Railway-officer endangers the safety of any person—

(a) by disobeying any rule sanctioned and published and notified in the manner prescribed by section fourteen; or

(c) by any rash or negligent act or omission, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

25. Every Railway-officer, and every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway, shall be deemed a "public servant" within the meaning of sections 161, 162, 163, 164 and 165 of the Indian Penal Code.

In the definition of legal remuneration contained in the said section 161, the word "Government" shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include—

(a) a Railway Company, its lessees, representatives and assigns;

(b) the lessees, representatives and assigns of such Company.

26. Any Railway-officer who compels or attempts to compel any passenger to enter a carriage or compartment containing the maximum number of passengers denoted thereon in accordance with a rule made and published under section fourteen, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(C).—As to the Public.

27. Any passenger not producing or delivering up his ticket when so required by a Railway-officer authorized in this behalf shall be liable to pay the fare from the place whence the train originally started, unless he can prove that he has travelled a less distance only, in which case he shall be liable to pay the fare only from the place whence he has travelled.

Every such fare shall, on application by a Railway-officer to a Magistrate, and on proof of the passenger's liability, be recoverable from such passenger as if it was a fine.

28. Any person who defrauds, or attempts to defraud, any Railway Company or the Government—

(a) by travelling, or attempting to travel, upon any Railway without having previously paid his fare;

(b) by riding in or upon a carriage, or by a train, of a higher class than that for which he has paid his fare;

(c) by using or attempting to use a ticket on any day for which such ticket is not available;

(d) by continuing his journey in or upon any Railway-carriage beyond the place to which he has paid his fare without previously paying the fare for the additional distance, and with intent to avoid payment thereof;

(e) by knowingly and wilfully refusing or neglecting, on arriving at the place to which he has paid his fare, to quit such carriage; or who, in any other manner whatever, attempts to evade the payment of his fare, or who wilfully alters or defaces his ticket so as to render the date, number or other material portion thereof illegible, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

29. Any passenger who gets into or upon, or attempts to get into or upon, or quits, or attempts to quit, any carriage upon any Railway, while such carriage is in motion; or who rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, on the steps, or any other part of a carriage, except on those parts which are intended for the accommodation of passengers, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

30. Any person other than the engine-man, fire-man and assistant fire-man who, without the special license of such officer as the Railway Administration appoints in this behalf, rides or attempts to ride upon any locomotive engine or tender upon any Railway; and any person other than the guard or brakesman who, without such license as aforesaid, rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, in or upon any luggage-van or goods-wagon, or other vehicle not appropriated to the carriage of passengers, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

31. Whoever smokes, either in a Railway-station, or in or upon any Railway-carriage, except in places or carriages specially provided for the purpose, shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees for each offence; and whoever persists in so smoking (except as aforesaid) after being warned to desist by any Railway-officer may, in addition to incurring the liability abovementioned, be removed by any Railway-officer from any such carriage, and from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

32. Any person who is in a state of intoxication, or who commits any nuisance, or act of indecency in any Railway-carriage, or upon any part of any Railway; or who wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger,

shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees; and, in addition to such liability, the offender may be removed by any Railway-officer from any such carriage, and also from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

33. If any carriage, compartment or room be reserved by the Railway Administration for the exclusive use of females, any male person who without lawful excuse enters such carriage, compartment or room, knowing the same to be reserved as aforesaid, or remains therein after having been informed of its having been so reserved, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and may be removed therefrom, and also from the premises of the Railway, by any Railway-officer, and shall forfeit his fare.

34. Any owner or person referred to in section ten who wilfully fails to give on demand to any Railway-officer appointed as

For not giving account of goods or giving false account.

therein mentioned an exact account of the number or quantity and description of the goods therein referred to,

or who wilfully gives to such Railway-officer a false account thereof, shall, for every such offence, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every ton of such goods, or for any parcel exceeding one hundredweight, and with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for any quantity of such goods less than a ton or for any parcel less than one hundredweight; and such fine shall be in addition to the toll to which such goods may be liable.

For carrying dangerous goods. 35. Whoever carries upon a Railway any dangerous goods, or delivers to a Railway-officer any such goods for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same, or otherwise giving notice in writing of the nature thereof to such officer, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

36. Whoever wilfully obstructs or impedes any

For obstructing Railway-officer in his duty. Railway-officer in the discharge of his duty on a Railway, or any of the works, stations or premises connected therewith, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

37. Any passenger wilfully entering a carriage

For refusing to leave on request. Railway-officer, or by any other person on behalf of the Railway Administration, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and may be immediately removed from such Railway by such officer or other person as aforesaid.

40. The owner or person in charge of any

For cattle-trespass within Railway-fences. cattle unlawfully driven or straying on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of such cattle shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

Whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowing-

For wilfully driving ly permitted to be on any cattle on Railway. Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of such cattle, otherwise than for the purpose of crossing the Railway at a gate or bar provided for public use, and whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowingly permitted to be on any Railway not so provided, otherwise than for the purpose of lawfully crossing the Railway, the person in charge of such cattle, or if he cannot be identified, then the owner of the said cattle, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the same Act.

All fines imposed under this section may be recovered in manner provided by section twenty-five of the same Act, and may be appropriated in whole or in part in compensation for loss or damage proved to the satisfaction of the convicting Magistrate.

The expression "public road" in sections eleven and twenty-six of the same Act shall be deemed to include a Railway. And any Railway-officer may exercise the powers of seizure provided by the said section eleven.

Explanation.—In this section the word "cattle" includes also elephants, camels, buffaloes, horses, mares, geldings, ponies, colts, fillies, mules, asses, pigs, rams, ewes, sheep, lambs, goats and kids.

41. Whoever, when any engine or train

For opening or not properly shutting gates. approaching along a Railway is in sight, or is otherwise known to be approaching, opens any gate which has been set up across any road for the use or accommodation of any person by the Railway Administration on either side of the Railway, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or attempts to drive any carriage, cattle or other animal or thing, across the Railway; and whoever at any time, in the absence of a gate-keeper, omits to shut and fasten such gate as soon as he and any carriage, cattle or other thing under his charge have passed through the same, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

42. Whenever any male minor under the age of twelve years unlawfully—

For boys obstructing line or throwing stones at train. (a) places or throws upon or across a Railway any wood, stone or other thing, or

(b) removes or displaces any rail, sleeper, spike, key or other thing belonging to the permanent way of a Railway, or

(c) throws or causes to fall against, into or upon any engine, tender, carriage or other vehicle used upon a Railway, any wood, stone or other thing, such minor shall be deemed guilty of an offence, and the convicting Magistrate may in his discretion direct either that the minor shall be punished with whipping, or that his father or guardian shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

(D).—As to Railway-officers and the Public.

43. Whoever, whether a Railway-officer or do, intending by such act or omission to endanger, or knowing that he is thereby likely to endanger, the safety of any person travelling or being upon any Railway, may be sentenced to transportation (or in the case of an European or American, penal servitude) for life or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years.

44. Whoever, whether a Railway-officer or not, rashly or negligently, and without lawful excuse, does any act likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon a Railway, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

45. Every driver or conductor of an omnibus, carriage or other vehicle shall, while in or upon any station-yard or other premises forming part of a Railway, obey the reasonable directions of any Railway-officer duly authorized in this behalf; and every person offending against this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

46. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted and punished under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under this Act or the rules made hereunder:

Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same act or omission.

Arrest of Offenders.

47. If any person commits any offence hereby made punishable by fine, and the name and address of such person are unknown, or there is reason to believe that he will abscond, any Railway-officer or any Police-officer, or other person whom such Railway-officer or Police-officer may call to his aid, may, without any warrant or written authority, arrest and detain such offender until he can be taken before a Magistrate or give sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate, or is otherwise discharged by due course of law.

48. Every person committing any offence mentioned in sections fourteen, twenty-three, twenty-four, thirty-two, thirty-three, forty-two, forty-three and forty-four may be arrested without any warrant or written authority by any Railway-officer, or by any other person whom such officer may call to his aid, or by any Police-officer; and every person so arrested shall, with all convenient despatch, be taken before a Magistrate authorized to punish the offender or to commit him for trial.

Jurisdiction.

49. Any person committing any offence for which under this Act he is liable to a fine only shall be punishable for such offence in any place in which he may be found as well as in any other place in which he may be punishable under any law for the time being in force.

CHAPTER V.

MISCELLANEOUS.

50. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, make rules for providing—

(a) boundary-marks or fences for any Railway or any part thereof, and for roads constructed in connection therewith;

(b) gates or bars at places where any Railway crosses a road on the level; and

(c) persons to open and shut such gates or bars;

and may by such rules determine what kind of fences shall, for the purposes of section forty, be deemed to be suitable for the exclusion of cattle.

51. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare what Government or other Authority shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, the Local Government in respect of the whole or any part of a Railway.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR
GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING
LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Thursday, the 1st August, 1878.

P R E S E N T :

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, G.M.S.I., presiding.
His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, C.S.I.
The Hon'ble Sir A. J. Arbuthnot, K.C.S.I.
Colonel the Hon'ble Sir Andrew Clarke, R.E., K.C.M.G., C.B.
The Hon'ble Whitley Stokes, C.S.I.
The Hon'ble A. R. Thompson, C.S.I.
Lieutenant-General the Hon'ble R. Strachey, R.E., C.S.I., F.R.S.
The Hon'ble B. W. Colvin.
The Hon'ble Mumtáz-ud-Daulah Nawáb Sir Muhammad Faiz Ali Khán Bahádur, K.C.S.I.
The Hon'ble T. H. Thornton, D.C.L., C.S.I.
The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.
The Hon'ble G. H. M. Batten.

NEW MEMBER.

The Hon'ble G. H. M. Batten took his seat as an Additional Member.

ASSIMILATION OF POWERS (NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH) BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to assimilate certain powers of the Local Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and moved that it be taken into consideration. He said that the Governments of the two Provinces were now united under the administration of a single officer, and the object of this Bill, which Sir Edward Bayley had obtained leave to introduce some time ago, was to assimilate, as far as possible, the powers of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissioner of Oudh under certain Acts relating to Rent, Land-revenue and other matters of primary administrative importance.

The Committee had only made four changes, which he would briefly describe to the Council.

In the Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871, the Committee had made certain modifications, the effect of which would be to render the powers of the Chief Commissioner as regards the Courts in Oudh as nearly as possible similar to those of the Lieutenant-Governor as regards the Courts in the North-Western Provinces. For instance, the Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners, Civil Judge of Lucknow and Assistant Commissioners would henceforward be appointed by the Chief Commissioner instead of, as hitherto, by the Governor General in Council. The Judicial Commissioner of Oudh would continue to be appointed by the Government of India.

The second alteration had been made at the suggestion of the Home Department. The Committee had declared that, for the purposes of the Reformatory Schools Act, Oudh and the North-Western Provinces should be deemed to be subject to the same Local Government. There was little hope that more than one reformatory could for many years be established in the united Provinces; and under the existing law the Jail Authorities would be unable to comply with directions of the Criminal Courts under the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 318.

Thirdly, the Committee had given the Chief Commissioner the same power to alter the limits of Districts and Sub-divisions in Oudh which the Lieutenant-Governor had in the North-Western Provinces under Act XIX of 1873, section 14.

The last amendment, which had also been made at the suggestion of the Home Department, would preclude doubts as to the legality of certain appointments which had been made, and acts which had been done, since the union of the two Provinces, by the Chief Commissioner or without the sanction of the Governor General in Council. In the absence of some such amendment the validity of these appointments and acts might possibly be called in question.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Bill as amended be passed. It was not one of much public importance: but it would greatly diminish the correspondence between the Government of India and the Local Government of Oudh; and it would facilitate the transfer of officials from Oudh to the North-Western Provinces and vice versa.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

INDIAN RAILWAY BILL.

Colonel the Hon'ble SIR ANDREW CLARKE presented the preliminary Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India. He said that the Committee had made certain amendments and modifications in the original Bill as presented to the Council, and it was proposed to publish their Report, and to re-publish the Bill. The Report was very full, and the reasons and the authorities by which the Committee had been guided in making those amendments were stated by it in detail. He would not therefore, at present, trouble the Council with any additional remarks on the Bill, as it was not proposed to go on with it until the Council met at Calcutta, when he would take the opportunity of answering any objections, and remarking on any proposals or suggestions, which might have been made regarding the measure.

NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES LAND-REVENUE ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. COLVIN moved that the Hon'ble Nawáb Sir Faiz Ali Khán be added to the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Thursday the 15th August, 1878.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
AUGUST 8TH, 1878.

Friday, 2nd August.—The barometer has fallen at all stations south of a line running from Surat to Balasor, or over the whole of the Peninsula proper. The decrease is greatest at Vizagapatam, where it amounts to '07". It has also fallen very slightly at all the Punjab stations, except Mooltan.

The barometer has risen elsewhere. The increase of pressure is inconsiderable, except in British Burmah, and at the stations north of the Ganges, where it exceeds '05" by small amounts.

The pressure along the coast of Ganjam and Orissa is to-day relatively low. The pressures at False Point and Vizagapatam are less than at any station in Behar and the North-Western Provinces, and indicate the formation of an area of relatively low pressure near the head of the Bay of Bengal east of the Ganjam coast.

The temperature of the Punjab has increased considerably during the preceding 24 hours: the thermometer registered 95·2° at Lahore at 10 A.M. to-day, and 94·0° at Dera Ismail Khan.

Strong westerly winds are blowing to-day along the Guzerat and Bombay coasts. The winds are now very light over the whole of Northern India. Calms are reported from Lahore and Dera Ismail Khan.

The wind velocity at the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal from Masulipatam to Akyab is below the average, and the wind directions indicate feeble cyclonic motion over the area of low pressure to the east of the Ganjam coast.

Heavy rainfall has occurred during the previous 24 hours in the Berars, Hyderabad, and adjacent districts of Bombay: 4·4 inches were recorded at Shahabad to-day, 4·35 inches at Gullburga, 1·1 inches at Sholapore, 1·63 inches at Akola, and 1·01 inches at Belgaum. Passing showers have occurred at the majority of stations. '51 inch at Rangoon and '49 inch at Diamond Island indicate the continuance of moderate rain in British Burmah. '9 inch at Cawnpore, '45 inch at Bareilly, and '3 inch at Agra are the heaviest falls reported from the North-Western Provinces.

Saturday, 3rd August.—The barometer has fallen in Bombay, the Deccan and Berars, the Central Provinces, and in Orissa. The decrease is generally small in amount, and is greatest at Bombay, where it is '052".

The barometer has risen over the larger portion of India. The rise exceeds '05" in Upper India, Assam, Arracan, and Burmah. It is greatest in the eastern districts of the Punjab: the maximum increase (at Lahore) is '134".

The barometric depression at the head of the Bay has advanced during the past 24 hours to the Ganjam and Orissa coasts. The centre of the depression was probably near Ganjam at 10 A.M. to-day. The pressure at Cuttack (the nearest reporting station) was at that hour less than at any other station in India.

There is again a small but well-defined barometric depression in the North-Western Provinces, the centre of which is at Allahabad. The recurrence of this small local area of depression at short intervals has been one of the more striking features in the distribution of pressure during the past six weeks.

The temperature of Northern India and of Assam is now increasing. Temperatures exceeding 90° were recorded at 10 A.M. to-day at Jacobabad, Dera Ismail Khan, Peshawur, Allahabad, Lucknow, Benares, and Sibsagar. The maximum temperature recorded at that hour was 94° at Dera Ismail Khan.

The wind velocity at the Bombay coast stations has decreased considerably during the past 24 hours, and is now below the average.

Although the barometric depression in Orissa is slight (the pressure at the centre is '15" below the normal amount), the wind directions from Bengal and Orissa westwards, as far as Nagpore, Khundwa, Jubbulpore, and Benares, have been influenced by it, and show distinct cyclonic motion. The wind velocity of the stations at the head of the Bay has increased during the past 24 hours, and is now in excess of the normal August velocity.

Very light winds prevail in the Punjab and the Central Provinces. Strong winds have set in at Colombo.

Heavy rain has fallen near the centre of the area of low barometer in Orissa and Ganjam: 4·6 inches were registered at Chitterpore, and 2·42 inches at Cuttack to-day. Rain fell at all the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal, but the amounts were generally small.

General rain occurred during the preceding 24 hours in Western India; the following are the heavier rainfalls reported: Ajmere 3·75 inches, Rajkot 1·9 inches, Bombay 2·03 inches, Belgaum 1·7 inches, and Shahabad 1·8 inches.

Good rain continues to fall in the North-Western Provinces; the more important amounts are: Meerut 3 inch, Shahjahanpore 8 inch, Bareilly 1·5 inches, and the Fatehgarh district from 5 inch to 3 inches.

Light showers fell during the day at the majority of stations in the remaining districts of India.

Sunday, 4th August.—The pressure has diminished during the preceding 24 hours over the whole of India, except the Punjab, the west coast of the Bay of Bengal, and Assam. The decrease of pressure exceeds ·05" in a tract of country extending from Guzerat across India to Agra, Allahabad and Benares. The decrease is greatest at Jubbulpore, where it amounts to ·077".

There is an area of low pressure in the centre of India, including the stations of Jubbulpore and Allahabad. This is the continuation of yesterday's area of barometric depression in Orissa and Ganjam.

The pressure is also low along the coast of Sind and Guzerat. The minimum pressure recorded to-day was 29·527" at Rajkot.

The wind has increased along the Bombay coast, and is blowing a gale at Bombay to-day.

The wind directions in Northern India are abnormal this morning: this is mainly owing to the existence of two areas of low pressure. There is general cyclonic motion about the area of low pressure in Central India.

Light winds prevail in Upper India.

The Indus Valley has received heavy rainfall during the preceding 24 hours: 2·06 inches fell at Peshawar, 2·28 inches at Mooltan, and 1·78 inches at Jacobabad.

The rain recorded to-day in the North-Western Provinces was less in amount than yesterday: 3 inch fell at Meerut and Jhansi. The Fatehgarh district continues to receive favourable rain, from 3 inch to 9 inch falling in three tahseels.

Excessive rain continues in Western India: 2·9 inches fell at Ajmere, 55 inch at Deesa, 1·81 inches at Rajkot, and 2·99 inches at Belgaum.

The strong wind which set in yesterday at Colombo has given heavy rain to the west coast of Ceylon and the coast of Travancore: 2·46 inches were registered at Colombo and 2·14 inches at Cochin to-day.

General rain has also fallen over the area of low pressure, which has advanced north-westwards from the Ganjam coast during the past 24 hours to the centre of India. The more important rainfalls over this area are: 1·9 inches at Chitterpore, 1·98 inches at Nagpore, 94 inch at Hazaribagh, and 1·18 inches at Saugor Island.

2·82 inches were recorded at Silchar, and 2·74 inches at Sibsagar to-day.

Monday, 5th August.—The barometer has fallen over the whole of India, excepting Bombay, the Central Provinces, and the Deccan. The decrease of pressure exceeds ·05" in Burmah, Arracan, South-Eastern Bengal, Assam, and at Bareilly and Lahore in Upper India.

The pressure over Northern India is remarkably uniform to-day. The pressure at Saugor Island at 10 A.M. was 29·549", at Jubbulpore 29·546", at Bareilly, Deesa, and Kurrachee 29·541", at Surat 29·547", and at Lahore 29·544".

There are to-day, as yesterday, two small areas of local barometric depression. The centre of one is at Allahabad, and of the other at Rajkot, in Guzerat. The pressure at the centre of the Guzerat depression (29·500") is very slightly less than that at the centre of the Allahabad depression (29·506").

Temperatures exceeding 90° were registered at Dera Ismail Khan, Jacobabad, Agra, Mooltan, Allahabad, Delhi, and Peshawar.

The wind directions in Northern India show feeble cyclonic motion over the two areas of low pressure. Strong winds continue at Bombay. A gale of wind is reported from Masulipatam. The wind velocity at the Bengal stations is normal. It is increasing in the North-Western Provinces. Calms are reported from several of the Punjab stations. The winds are very light at present in Assam and the Central Provinces.

The rainfall of the preceding 24 hours is smaller in amount than yesterday. Light showers have occurred at the stations in Burmah, Bengal, and Behar. The only heavy falls reported from this area are: 3·91 inches at Goalpara, and 1·80 inches at Akyab.

The area of greatest defect of pressure (including Bombay, the Deccan, Guzerat, and Central Provinces) continues to receive the largest amount of rain. The more important falls reported from this area to-day are: Deesa 74 inch, Rajkot 1·95 inches, Bombay 2·4 inches, Belgaum 2·44 inches, and Jubbulpore 2·22 inches.

Very light showers fell at the Madras stations.

3·39 inches were registered at Cochin to-day.

Tuesday, 6th August.—The barometer has risen over the whole of India, except in the Punjab, Upper Sind, Northern Rajputana, and in Orissa and South-Western Bengal.

The barometric depression in Guzerat has disappeared during the preceding 24 hours.

The decrease of pressure in the Punjab is considerable in amount: it is a maximum at Mooltan, where it amounts to '113".

The diminution of pressure in Orissa is due to the formation of another barometric depression near the head of the Bay. The pressure along the coast is lowest at Saugor Island.

The temperature of the Punjab is increasing: the maximum temperature registered (96°) was observed at Mooltan.

There has been a general decrease in the wind velocity over India during the past 24 hours. The wind is moderating along the west coast of India. Very light winds continue in Upper India. A strong north-westerly wind is reported to-day from Bellary.

The wind directions and velocity at the coast stations of the head of the Bay of Bengal, indicate feeble cyclonic motion about the area of depression off the Orissa coast.

The rainfall of the past 24 hours has been moderate in amount. Fair rain has occurred at the Bengal coast stations within the area of barometric depression: '71 inch fell at Cuttack, '6 inch at False Point, and '68 inch at Saugor Island.

Fair rain is now falling in British Burmah, '88 inch is reported from Rangoon to-day, and 1'57 inches from Diamond Island. Moderate rain has occurred over a part of the North-Western Provinces, defined by the following stations: Lucknow '65 inch, Bareilly '4 inch, Shahjahanpore '2 inch, and Fatehgarh '4 inch.

Showers occurred during the day over the area of heavy rainfall in Western India: the largest amount recorded this morning in this area was '95 inch at Kurrachee.

'62 inch fell at Masulipatam after the gale of wind reported yesterday.

Wednesday, 7th August.—The pressure has diminished in Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, the Berars, Central Provinces, and the Deccan. The decrease is greatest at Nagpore, where it is '078".

The increase of pressure is generally inconsiderable, except in the Punjab, and in Eastern Bengal, Arracan, and Burmah. Lahore is the centre of increase of pressure in the Punjab: the rise of the barometer at that station amounts to '139" during the preceding 24 hours.

The increase of pressure is also considerable in British Burmah, as shewn by the Rangoon observations: the amount at that station is '128"—very slightly less than at Lahore.

The area of low pressure, the centre of which was in the Bay of Bengal, east of the coast of Orissa, yesterday morning, has advanced during the past 24 hours to the Orissa coast, and given rise to a belt or trough of low pressure stretching from the coast of Orissa to Northern Sind.

The temperature is generally moderate to-day, except in certain districts of the Punjab: the thermometer registered 96° at Mooltan this morning, 95'8° at Jacobabad, 95'3° at Delhi, and 95° at Dera Ismail Khan.

The wind distribution is generally similar to what it was on the two previous occasions of the advance of the barometric depressions across Orissa. Westerly winds prevail at the majority of stations to the south of the trough of low pressure, and easterly winds to the north. The wind velocity at the stations in the trough itself, is small and much below the average.

A gale of wind is reported from False Point.

The winds are stronger in the North-Western Provinces than they have been during the past three days.

The sky is overcast in Bengal, British Burmah, Bombay, the Central Provinces, and at the majority of stations in the Deccan and Southern India. It is rapidly clouding over in the Punjab. The least amount of cloud is reported from the majority of stations in the North-Western Provinces, where the sky is slightly more than half-clouded.

The area of barometric depression, which advanced across Orissa during the day, has given fair rainfall; the following amounts were recorded at the reporting stations in this area: Saugor Island 1'07 inches, False Point 1'57 inches, Cuttack 1'62 inches, and Chitterpore '85 inch.

British Burmah appears to be now receiving average rainfall: 1'2 inches were registered at Rangoon to-day, and 2'46 inches at Diamond Island.

Fair rain has fallen at the majority of stations in the North-Western Provinces; the more important falls are: 2'36 inches at Allahabad, '56 inch at Benares, and '64 inch at Lucknow. The hill stations received heavy rain: 2'92 inches were recorded at Mussoorie, and 1'92 inches at Simla.

Continuous rain gave Lahore 2'5 inches. This rain appears to have extended along the base of the hills as far as Rawalpindi, where '26 inch was registered.

Moderate rain continues to fall over the area of heavy rainfall in Western India: .75 inch fell at Deesa.

2.5 inches are reported from Indore. 1.6 inches registered to-day at Morar and 1.8 inches at Jhansi give good rainfall to stations where it has hitherto been scanty.

1.91 inches at Khandwa were due to continuous rain. A thunder-storm gave Jubbulpore .81 inch.

Light showers occurred at several of the stations in the Deccan and Madras: a heavy fall of 2.59 inches is reported from Sholapore.

Cochin continues to receive excessive rainfall: 2.01 inches were reported yesterday, and 2.93 inches to-day.

Thursday, 6th August.—The barometer has risen over the whole of India, except in the North-Western Provinces, and at Lahore and Jubbulpore. The increase of pressure is unusually great at the western stations of the Punjab, and amounts to two-tenths of an inch at Dera Ismail Khan during the preceding 24 hours. The increase of pressure is also considerable at Saugor Island and in Orissa. It is greatest over this area at False Point, where it is .148".

In consequence of this increase of pressure in Upper Punjab and Orissa, and the decrease at Jubbulpore and the North-Western Provinces, the trough of pressure noticed yesterday has contracted into a small area of low pressure in the centre of India. Minima pressures at 10 A.M. to-day were observed at Allahabad (29.531") and Jubbulpore (29.533").

General rainfall over the greater part of India has reduced the temperature, which is nowhere excessive. The only temperatures exceeding 90° recorded to-day are: 91.1° at Lahore, 90.7° at Roorkee, and 90.3° at Delhi.

The wind directions over a large portion of India indicate cyclonic motion of the lower atmosphere round the Allahabad and Jubbulpore area of barometric depression. The low pressure over this portion of India during the preceding 24 hours has given rise to a strong indraught, more particularly in the Gangetic Valley, where the wind velocity during the past 24 hours has been double its normal amount.

Heavy rain has fallen during the previous 24 hours in British Burmah and the Arracan Coast: 1.42 inches were registered to-day at Rangoon, 4.13 inches at Akyab, and 3.61 inches at Chittagong. Moderate rain fell at all the reporting stations in Bengal, Behar, and Orissa, except at Calcutta, where the excessive amount of 4.14 inches was recorded this morning.

Rain in moderate amounts is reported to-day from the majority of stations in the Punjab and North-Western Provinces: 2.31 inches fell at Ajmere, 1.40 inches at Dera Ismail Khan, and .5 inch at Fyzabad.

General rain occurred in Western and Central India, the Berars, and the Central Provinces. The following are the more important rainfalls in this area: Deesa 1.95 inches, Bombay 1.72 inches, Belgaum 1.69 inches, Jubbulpore .87 inch, Sholapore 2.15 inches, Indore .9 inch, Neemuch 1.69 inches, and Morar .8 inch.

Heavy rain continues to fall at Cochin, 2.87 inches being registered to-day.

Light showers occurred at all the Madras stations except Madura and Chitterpore; the heaviest gave Madras .5 inch.

General Summary.—The chief features of the meteorology of the past week have been the formation of two barometric depressions or atmospheric whirls near the head of the Bay of Bengal, and their advance across the coast of Orissa into the interior of India. They have in many points resembled the depression which was described in last week's report. Although the amount of the depression has been small in both cases, these two cyclonic disturbances have very largely influenced the meteorology of India during the week. They were evidently due to rainfall near the head of the Bay of Bengal. The indraught thus produced gave rise to cyclonic motion of the atmosphere over the northern portion of the Bay. The whirls thus formed moved in the general direction of the atmospheric motion in Northern India during the monsoon, i.e., from east to west. Both depressions produced by their advance the same general distribution of pressure in Northern India. The combination of low pressure in Orissa and the Central Provinces due to the disturbance, and of the permanent low pressure in Upper Sind and Central Rajputana, gave rise in both cases to a trough or belt of low pressure stretching from Orissa to Upper Sind.

The first of these was developed on the 1st and 2nd at the head of the Bay. It reached the coast of Orissa on the morning of the 3rd, when it was a well-defined area, oval in shape. On the 4th there was a belt of low pressure stretching from Orissa to Sind. The pressure was lowest on the morning of this day at Jubbulpore and Allahabad, which stations may be described as occupying the lowest portion of the trough. The winds on the western quadrant were comparatively feeble, but after the disturbance had reached Orissa, strong southerly and easterly winds set in over Bengal and Behar.

On the 5th the Allahabad and Jubbulpore area of low pressure of the previous day disappeared, and the trough filled up. The chief consequence of this was marked uniformity of pressure on the 5th and 6th over Northern India. Another whirl, as indicated, by the wind directions on the morning of the 6th at the coast stations of Orissa and Bengal was forming on that day in the north-west angle of the Bay. It reached the Balasore coast on the morning of the 7th, and gave rise on the 8th to a trough of low pressure stretching from Chota Nagpore to Upper Sind, deepest at the two stations of Jubbulpore and Allahabad.

The winds were light on the 6th in Northern India, but increased rapidly on the 7th, and were very strong on the 8th. The wind velocity on this day was double its normal amount in Bengal, Behar, and the North-Western Provinces.

These two disturbances have advanced apparently along the line of separation between the two Indian monsoon currents (the Bombay coast current, and the Bay of Bengal current) in the general direction of motion of the Bay of Bengal current.

Their origin was due to heavy rainfall, and the increased indraught during their existence on land has given general and favourable rain during the past week. The rain has been especially valuable as having occurred to a somewhat larger amount over those districts, which have hitherto received deficient rainfall, viz., Burmah, South-Western Bengal, Orissa, the North-Western Provinces, Bundelcund, Gwalior, and the eastern districts of the Punjab.

The following gives the rainfall at the reporting stations in British Burmah and Arracan from August 1st to 8th:—

Inches.				Inches.
Rangoon	4.44	Akyab	11.05
Diamond Island	3.64	Chittagong	3.96

The abundant rainfall in Orissa and South-Western Bengal during the first eight days of the present month is indicated by the following:—

Inches.				Inches.
False Point	3.40	Sangor Island	3.87
Cuttack	5.61	Calcutta	5.38

The following gives the rainfall from August 1st to August 8th at all the reporting stations in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab:—

Inches.				Inches.
Agra68	Jhanai	2.5
Allahabad	2.38	Fyzabad	1.1
Benares86	Morar	2.68
Lucknow	2.03	Lahore	3.32
Baroilly	2.48	Mooltan	3.84
Roorkee24	Delhi	0.10
Meerut6	Peshawur	2.69
Shahjahanpore	1.3	Rawul Pindi	1.05
Aligarh1	Dera Ismail Khan	1.40
Cawnpore	1.44

Fair rain has thus fallen at all stations in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, except at Roorkee, Aligarh, Meerut, and Delhi, or in the most western divisions of the North-Western Provinces.

Rain has been general over the whole of India, except in Northern Bengal, where there is a partial break in the rains. As noted in last week's report one feature of the present monsoon has been excessive rainfall at isolated stations, due to very heavy showers lasting for two or three days. Ajmir has received 10.88 inches, and Cochin 13.47 inches in this manner during the week. Deesa and Jubbulpore, which have hitherto had deficient rainfall, received good rain during the past week. Five inches have been recorded at the former station this month and 4.62 inches at the latter.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 6TH AUGUST 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Good rain has fallen throughout the West Coast, Northern East Coast, and Ceded districts of Madras, and in Kurnool; in the Southern East Coast districts the fall has been slight, but this is not the season when rain is usual in those tracts; general prospects are reported good. The total number on works is 124,060, and gratuitously relieved 75,746, less by 2,968 and more by 777 than last week. General rain is reported throughout Mysore; prices have slightly fallen in Mysore, Shimoga and Chitaldroog, and prospects are favourable; the total relieved during the week ending the 27th ultimo was, on works, 81,064, gratuitously, 12,648, less by 2,064 and 778 than in the previous week. General heavy rain has fallen in all parts of the Bombay Presidency, including Sind: damage from floods has occurred in Sind, and in Guzerat excessive rain is causing some injury to the crops: prospects are generally excellent, but a break is now wanted in many places. Good rain has fallen throughout the Central Provinces, and break would now be beneficial; prospects are favourable. In Berar also there has been excellent rain, and prospects are good. In Central India excellent rain has fallen throughout Malwa, and good rain in Gwalior; the state of Bundelkhand still gives cause for anxiety, and distress there is increasing. In Rajputana there has been general heavy rain, and prospects are very good. In Bengal the rainfall has somewhat slackened during the week in those parts where it was previously excessive, and good rain has fallen where it was before deficient; prospects are generally favourable, but damage from inundations has occurred in Northern Bengal, Dacca, Furreedpore, and Mymensingh; more rain is also required in parts of Hazáribágh, Sarun, Chittagong Hill tracts, Shahabad, and Gya, and in Purneah and Maldah generally. In Burma there has been a good general fall in all the coast districts, and prospects have much improved, but in the northern inland districts of the Pegu and Tenasserim divisions more rain is required. In Assam there has been moderate rain; the floods in the Valley districts are subiding. In the North-Western Provinces general moderate rain has fallen; except in Benares and Agra, where more rain is required, prospects appear to be favourable. In the Punjab there has been general good rain, except in Umballa (where probably some has fallen since the date of report) and parts of the Hissur division; prospects are elsewhere favourable.

Prepayment of the parcel is optional.

The post office receipt will show the value recoverable from the addressee, and give all needful information with regard to the payment to the sender.

If it is desired to obtain an acknowledgment from the addressee of a registered article or parcel—

Fix additional stamps of the value of one anna on the registered article or the parcel, and present it at the post office window within registration hours, furnishing in writing or verbally the name and full address of the sender. The post office receipt will indicate that an acknowledgment is due.

If a certificate of posting is desired—

Write a copy of the address as given on the article on a slip of paper or in a book and affix a half-anna postage label to it. Present the article and the written copy of the address at the post office window at least half an hour before the hour fixed for closing the mail for which it is intended. The post office will stamp the written copy as a certificate of the posting of the article. This certificate will not obtain for the article any special security in transit; it is merely a certificate of posting, the article being treated like any other article put in the letter box. This rule does not apply to registered articles and parcels for which receipts are given.

BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

At a Half-yearly General Meeting of subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund, held at the Town Hall, Calcutta, on Wednesday, the 24th July 1878.

PRESENT:—The Hon'ble L. S. Jackson, C.I.E., W. Waterfield, Esq., the Hon'ble H. T. Prinsep, the Hon'ble L. R. Tottenham, the Hon'ble A. T. Maclean, H. L. Harrison, Esq., T. T. Allen, Esq., J. C. Geddes, Esq., J. Westland, Esq., W. H. Grimley, Esq., D. M. Barbour, Esq., J. Scobell Armstrong, Esq., and O. Macaulay, Esq.

The Hon'ble H. T. Prinsep, in the Chair.

The following report was submitted by the Managers:—

REPORT.

1. The Managers submit their proceedings for the past half-year for the consideration and sanction of the Meeting.

2 Subject to the approval of the subscribers, they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following families:—

Mrs Campbell	...	£	300
2 daughters	...	"	90
		"	390
One-sixth under Rule 7	...	"	65
Total	...	"	325

The widow and two daughters of the late Mr. D. D. M. Campbell who died at Gónai, Kumaon, on the 5th February last.

Mrs. Russell	...	£	300
6 children	...	"	580
Total	...	"	880

The widow and six children (two sons and four daughters) of the late Mr. C. D. Russell (annuitant of 1856), who died in England on the 24th March last.

Lady Grey	...	£	300
4 children	...	"	220
Total	...	"	520

The widow and four children (two sons and two daughters) of the late Sir William Grey (annuitant of 1871), who died in England on the 15th May 1878.

Mrs. Lawford	...	£	300
2 children	...	"	200
Total	...	"	500

The widow and two children (one son and one daughter) of the late Mr. H. B. Lawford, who died in England on the 12th May last.

Mr. Lawford before leaving India represented that the marriage of his daughter Amy Augusta, which took place on 30th June 1870, had been judicially pronounced invalid, and asked that she might be re-admitted to the contingent benefits of the Fund on payment by him of all arrears of subscription on her account with interest. The Managers replied that they would be prepared to recommend his application to the favourable consideration of the subscribers on the decree being made absolute, and that in the meanwhile it would be necessary for him to submit such a statement of the facts as he would desire to have placed before the service. Mr. Lawford died on the 12th May, soon after his arrival in England on furlough. The eldest son of the deceased, Mr. E. B. Lawford, now makes the following report of the facts of his sister's case :—

"In 1870 she married a Captain Davies, of the Royal Artillery, but two years ago, owing to the disgraceful conduct of her husband, she was obliged to leave him and return to her father. Mr. Lawford shortly afterwards discovered that the marriage, which took place in Scotland, was invalid from the fact that the requisite residence, twenty-one days before marriage, had not been kept. The case was tried before Sir J. Hannen last term, the result being a decree of nullity of marriage with costs. This decree will be made absolute in November."

The recommendation of the Managers in this case will be placed before the subscribers when it is reported that the decree has been made absolute.

3. The Managers, in accordance with Mr. A. F. D. Cunningham's request, submit, for the consideration of this Meeting, his reasons for not reporting his marriage within the month prescribed in Rule V. He says :

"I presume the object of such regulations as the one against which I am said to have offended is to ensure the payment of the enhanced subscription from the date when it falls due. I was married on the 8th of January started almost immediately after for India, sailed from Venice after a fortnight spent in travelling thither, and arrived in Bombay on the 13th February. Between that date and the 2nd of March I was travelling up to my station, Peshawur, from which, immediately on joining, I reported my marriage to you. I had drawn no pay since my marriage, and could not do so for nearly a month after the date of my report, which was made in ample time to allow you to check the subscription paid by me from my first pay bill. I may also state that I was in ignorance of the limit of time within which a report was required, and I submit, with deference to the opinion of the Managers, that as I was travelling from London to Peshawur almost without cessation between the date of my marriage, January 8th, and the 2nd March, when I arrived in Peshawur and reported my marriage to you, such report was made within a reasonable time, and I trust the rule will not, in this case, be stringently applied."

Mr. Cunningham has been reminded that he was duly supplied with a copy of the rules of the Fund; and has been informed that, as it was possible for him to have met their requirements by reporting his marriage within a month of its taking place, the Managers regret that they cannot advise the subscribers to remit the penalty of Rs. 50.

4. In September 1873 Miss Mary F. Watson announced her intention of coming out to India. She was then drawing £100—16-13-4, or £83-6-8 per annum, and her Indian pension should have been Rs. 60—10, or Rs. 50 per mensem. The Fund Office, however, through an oversight at the time, informed her that her pension would be Rs. 60 a month, and she has continued to draw that amount up to the end of March 1878. Immediately on the discovery of the error she was told that the necessary deduction of one-sixth must now be made. As the excess amount was drawn in consequence of incorrect information supplied by the Fund Office, the Managers strongly recommend to the meeting that no refund be demanded from Miss Watson.

5. With reference to the questions at issue between the Government of India and the subscribers to the Fund, the Managers have thought it advisable to request Sir Edward Bayley and Mr. E. F. Harrison to communicate with the Home Government on the subject. The following letter has accordingly been written to those gentlemen :—

"Important questions connected with the condition of the Bengal Civil Fund being at present under consideration of the Secretary of State, it seems to the Managers to be advisable that some member of the service should be authorized to represent them before Her Majesty's Government.

"The Managers have for this purpose made choice of you and ^{Mr. E. F. Harrison} Sir E. Bayley, * * * and I am accordingly to request that you, in conjunction with that gentleman, will place yourself in communication with the Secretary of State, with a view to such discussion of the subject as may be permitted.

"It is the Managers' desire that Her Majesty's Government should be informed of their willingness to recommend to the service any proposal which shall be reasonable and just in character, and which shall conciliate the rights both of the State and of the subscribers."

6. It was resolved at the last general meeting of subscribers to allow Mr. R. Evans to make up his subscription balance to Rs. 6,250. He was required to pay the balance, Rs. 4,438-0-10, within a fortnight after receipt of intimation of the decision of the meeting. Mr. Evans was informed of the decision in a letter dated 28th February, but he appears not to have taken steps immediately on its receipt to pay the amount. A copy of the Fund's letter, forwarded to him through Messrs. Coutts and Company, reached him on the 12th April last, and on the 24th idem, or a fortnight after its receipt, he remitted to his Calcutta agents Rs. 3,314-4-0, and a week later the balance, Rs. 1,118-12-10. Mr. Evans urges unexpected difficulties, arising in great part from the occurrence of the Easter holidays, and hopes that the reckoning of the fortnight may be allowed from the date of receipt of the copy. He has been informed that the Managers will recommend to the general meeting that the payments made by his agents on the 20th and 27th May be accepted. The Managers recommend this case for the favourable consideration of the meeting.

7. The despatch of the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, dated India Office, the 17th January 1878, amending Supplement A of the Civil Pension Code Rule, whereby a Civil Servant resigning the service vacates any office under the Government which he may then hold, and excepting from the rule the offices of Viceroy and Governor-General of India, Governor of Madras, Governor of Bombay, and Ordinary Member of the Council of the Governor-General, has been communicated to the Managers by the Government of India.

Proposed by Mr. Geddes, seconded by Mr. Grimley, and carried—

"That the Managers' Proceedings in admitting the families of the late Messrs. D. D. M. Campbell, C. D. Russell, Sir William Grey, and Mr. H. B. Lawford to the benefits of the Fund be confirmed."

The following proposal was made by Mr. Westland:—"That the Managers be requested, in laying the case of Mr. Lawford before the service, to state whether there are any precedents in the history of the Fund bearing upon it; and also to ascertain from the Secretaries of the other Funds, whether any similar case has arisen in connection with them, and how they have been dealt with." This proposal was not seconded and therefore was not put to the meeting.

Proposed by Mr. Barbour, seconded by Mr. Geddes, and carried—

"That the reply given by the Managers to Mr. A. F. D. Cunningham be approved."

Proposed by Mr. Macaulay, seconded by Mr. Allen, and carried—

"That no refund be demanded from Miss Mary F. Watson."

Proposed by Mr. Tottenham, seconded by Mr. Harrison, and carried:—

"That the letter of the Managers to Sir Edward Bayley and Mr. E. F. Harrison be approved."

Proposed by Mr. Allen, seconded by Mr. Maclean, and carried—

"That the recommendation of the Managers to accept the payments made to complete Mr. R. Evans' subscription balance to Rs. 6,250 be approved."

Proposed by Mr. Westland, seconded by Mr. Barbour, and carried—

"That the Managers be requested to take into consideration the effect on the Revenues of the Fund of the despatch of the Secretary of State referred to in paragraph 7 of the Managers' Report."

A vote of thanks to the Chairman was proposed by Mr. Tottenham and seconded by Mr. Maclean, and carried. The Meeting then separated.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORT AND STATEMENTS ON THE OPERATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ISSUE FOR THE YEAR 1876-77.

No. 712, dated Calcutta, the 27th March 1878.

From—The Head Commissioner of the Department of Issue,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit, for the information of Government, the following report and statements on the operations of the Department of Issue for the year 1876-77:—

No. I.—Statement of the value of Government Currency Notes in circulation throughout India during 1876-77 and previous years.

No. II.—Statement of Notes issued, received, and cancelled during 1876-77.

No. III.—Statement of Receipts and Expenses of the Department of Issue of Paper Currency for the year 1876-77.

CIRCULATION.

2. The maximum, minimum, and average value of Notes in circulation throughout India, on the last day of any month during the last two years, have been as follows:—

Year.		Maximum.	Month.		Minimum.	Month.	Average.
		Rs.			Rs.		Rs.
1875-76	...	12,03,63,585	October 1875	...	10,75,44,640	April 1875	11,35,20,021
1876-77	...	12,43,62,475	January 1877	...	10,70,38,540	May 1876	11,64,16,538

The average value of the reserve held against this circulation will be found at paragraph 19 of this report.

3. The average circulation, dating from the commencement of currency operations, has been as follows:—

				Rs.
In 1862-63	4,41,91,285
„ 1863-64	5,23,25,000
„ 1864-65	6,88,20,116
„ 1865-66	7,72,57,983
„ 1866-67	8,98,93,179
„ 1867-68	9,28,50,848
„ 1868-69	10,14,55,327
„ 1869-70	10,66,90,777
„ 1870-71	9,81,32,240
„ 1871-72	11,41,57,442
„ 1872-73	12,86,40,367
„ 1873-74	11,14,51,907
„ 1874-75	10,67,04,071
„ 1875-76	11,35,20,021
„ 1876-77	11,64,16,538

4. An examination of the lowest amount of circulation in successive seasons is of more importance in judging of the movements of the Note circulation than a comparison of averages.

A statement, in lakhs of rupees, is subjoined for the past nine years; the statement is arranged for the calendar year, which, for this purpose, is more convenient than the official year; the month in course of which the weekly circulation was at the lowest is indicated by the figures in antique type :

Circle.	1869.	1870.	1871.	1872.	1873.	1874.	1875.	1876.	1877.

Thus the minimum of the past year is the highest yet experienced, while the average was only surpassed in 1872-73, the year in which the circulation was inflated by large purchases of securities from the reserve.

I think we may lay down a general rule that the circulation is highest at the beginning of the calendar year, before the rice season begins in Burma, which province is included in no Currency Circle, and lowest after the silver for that trade has been drawn out and despatched by sea. The apparent exceptions are 1871, a year of extreme tightness in the money market, and 1872, in February of which year the securities above mentioned were purchased.

CALCUTTA.

5. In accordance with the orders of the Government of India in the Financial Department Nos. 2715 and 2988, dated respectively the 22nd November and the 6th December 1876, Silver Bullion to the value of Rs. 90,00,000 was transferred by the Master of the Calcutta Mint to the Currency Department, and an equal value of Notes and Coin was issued in lieu thereof to the Reserve Treasury. This Bullion was, under the orders of this Office, coined and remitted to the Currency Office in the following months :—

	Rs.
November 1876	8,00,000
December "	39,00,000
January 1877	21,00,000
February "	21,00,000
March "	1,00,000
TOTAL	90,00,000

6. The measures taken for the relief of the Treasury, in consequence of which nearly all the Bullion intended for the Mint now passes through the Department of Issue, were published in the Notification of the Government of India, No. 2725, dated the 25th November 1876, and the following amounts of Silver Bullion were received from the public at Calcutta. Certificates for the value were issued by the Mint Master, and were paid at the counter of the Currency Office, Calcutta, on the following months :—

	Rs.	A.	P.
November 1876	8,48,905	15	4
December "	2,28,653	14	11
January 1877	36,53,335	7	0
February "	11,20,313	15	2
March "	20,90,930	12	0
TOTAL	79,42,140	0	5

7. Bullion to the value of Rs. 42,53,174-2-9 was transferred to the Mint for coinage, and its equivalent realized from the Bank of Bengal, in payment of Drafts issued by the Assay Master of the Calcutta Mint in my favour.

The value of the Bullion purchased at Calcutta in the preceding year was Rs. 23,00,000.

BOMBAY.

8. In Bombay Silver Bullion, to the value of Rs. 70,00,000, was transferred to the Department by the Master of the Mint in the month of December 1876. Of this amount, 41 lakhs were coined and remitted to the Currency Office in the month of January 1877.

9. In addition to the above transaction, Silver Bullion was purchased from the public in the following months in terms of the Financial Department Notification quoted in paragraph 6 :—

			Rs.	A.	P.
December 1876	30,63,052	8	10
January 1877	1,13,60,721	13	5
February "	70,25,220	10	3
March "	61,87,370	2	7
TOTAL			2,76,36,365	3	1

The value of Assay Drafts realized was in February 1877 Rs. 27,36,038-10-0, and in March 1877 Rs. 59,63,683-2-10, making a total of Rs. 86,99,721-12-10.

One crore and nine lakhs of Bullion were purchased at Bombay in 1875-76.

CALCUTTA SUB-CIRCLE NOTES CASHED AT THE HEAD OFFICE.

10. The following statement shows the amount of Sub-Circle Notes received at the counter of the Calcutta office for Coin or Notes in each month of the year; the aggregate encashment of Allahabad Notes was 7 lakhs less than in the preceding year, and of Lahore Notes 22 lakhs less :—

17. In the above table the amounts paid, in fulfilment of the obligation imposed by the Currency Act to pay, at the Presidency Town, Notes issued at Circle Offices in the interior of each presidency, are marked with the letter (c); the remaining amounts represent accommodation afforded to the public beyond the requirements of the law, which, during the year under review, amounted to Rs. 4,89,47,370, against Rs. 1,85,36,715 of the preceding year.

Thus, under the requirements of the law, the amounts of Notes issued by each Sub-Circle and cashed at its Head Office were in—

Calcutta	...	Rs. 2,45,45,305
Madras	...	69,33,135
Bombay	...	23,31,885

giving an aggregate total of Rs. 3,38,10,325

The increase in the additional accommodation, however, involves very serious expense, though attended with many compensating advantages. Since the importations of Bullion to Bombay increased so largely, it has been found necessary to restrict the accommodation to Notes presented in payment of Government dues, or, in moderate amounts, by travellers. But the effect of this importation upon the Currency is a matter which concerns the present year rather than that under review.

RESERVE.

18. The amount invested in Government Securities held by the Department at the end of the year under report was Rs. 5,99,80,903.

Of this sum, Government Securities to the value of Rs. 30 lakhs were purchased in December 1876 and January 1877. They have, however, since been sold at a slight profit.

The distribution of Coin and Bullion at the end of the year was, in even lakhs, as follows:—

CIRCLES.					Notes in circulation.	Coin and Bullion.	Percentage of circulation.
Calcutta	545	*90	16·5
Madras	120	62	51·6
Bombay	323	†322	99·7

* Of which, 37 lakhs is Bullion.

† Of which, 160 lakhs is Bullion.

19. The average values of the different kinds of Reserve, against Notes in circulation throughout India on the last day of each month during the last two years, have been as follows. For the average value of Notes in circulation, see paragraph 2 of this report.

22. It is necessary to explain that the amount of outstanding Notes includes, besides those in circulation, all Notes held by the Department for re-issue, and also such as, having been withdrawn from circulation by other offices than that of Issue, have not yet been cancelled in the registers of the Office of Issue.

23. The proportion of Notes of each denomination held in the Government Treasuries of each Currency Circle, and in the Presidency Bank of Calcutta, and in that of Madras and its Branches, on the 31st December, is shown in the following table, in which the Treasuries directly under the Government of India are grouped with those of the nearest Circle. The Bank of Bombay is unable to give the return for last year, and some difficulty has been experienced in other cases; indeed, the want of receipt of this information is the chief cause of the late submission of the present report.

Total value of 1875-76, Rs. 1,11,970, and of 1874-75, Rs. 98,030.

25. The total number and value of lost Notes paid under bond from the beginning of the system to the end of the year of report, and the total number and value of claims preferred for the payment of Notes thus discharged, as well as of such claims made good, is as follows :—

	Number.	Amount.
Notes paid under bond of indemnity	18,593	12,10,670
Claims made to Notes paid under bond	12	805
Claims made good	2	520

26. One of the claims made good was on an entire Note of Rs. 500 presented at the Madras Currency Office, and the other on a Note of Rs. 20 presented at Allahabad, after payment in both cases had been made to the losers. The amounts were recovered from the losers under terms of the bonds. The Allahabad case occurred in the year under review.

FORGED NOTES.

27. Four instances of forged Notes were brought to notice in the Bombay Circle during the past year. The forgeries were detected and the Notes forwarded to the Government of India. In each case the Note purported to be of the value of Rs. 100 and of the same series. No doubt they were the work of a single gang, which unfortunately has not been discovered. Warnings have been circulated to receive with great caution Notes which bear the characters of the series in question.

SMALL SILVER COIN AND COPPER.

28. The receipts and issues of small change during the year were as follow :—

29. Worn pice to the nominal value of Rs. 15,550 were received at the Calcutta Currency Office during the year, and withdrawn from circulation.

GOLD.

30. No gold transactions took place during the year at any Circle.

COIN OPERATIONS.

31. The following sums were issued and received at the respective offices during the last two years :—

The progress would be much greater if the financial position of Government enabled large supplies of Notes to be kept in District Treasuries. The contraction on this account is especially noteworthy in Bengal.

36. The proportion of Cash and Notes in the several presidencies and provinces on the 31st March last was as follows :—

GOVERNMENT OR ADMINISTRATION.	Cash.	Notes.
Government of India	92 per cent.	8 per cent.
Lower Bengal	81 "	19 "
Assam	82 "	18 "
North-Western Provinces	90 "	10 "

Central Provinces	94 "	6 "
British Burmah	88 "	12 "

37. Facilities are given for cashing Notes at Revenue Treasuries, as far as this can be done without inconvenience in other directions. In most cases the difficulty is to supply sufficient Notes to meet the demand without locking up an undue sum in the district balances.

A list is subjoined (A) of all Treasuries which throughout the year were able to cash Notes at all times to the extent of the public demand on them; a second list (B) contains the names of Treasuries which were ordinarily able to cash Notes on presentation; and a third (C) the names of Treasuries at which this accommodation was not usually available:—

	CURRENCY AGENCIES.

38. Three new Currency Agencies were established, and one—that of Cuttack—closed, during the year in the Bengal Presidency. Of those open, there were 12 in Lower Bengal, 5 in the North-Western Provinces, and 7 (of which Amritsar was new) in the Punjab, making a total number of 24 Agencies in the Bengal Presidency. There was one Agency—that of Vizagapatam—in the Madras Presidency.

39. The issues and receipts of Notes in exchange for Coin and other Notes in the Agencies of the different Circles of Issue during the year are shown in the following table :—

				Issues	Receipts
				Rs.	Rs.

TOTAL				43,77,800	30,47,400

40. Notes were exchanged for Notes to the following amounts :—

				Rs
Agencies of the Calcutta Circle				52,000
„ Allahabad „	..			58,000
„ Cocanada „	...			50,000
TOTAL				1,90,000

41. The Coin transactions of the Agencies during the year were as follow :—

CIRCLE	Issued	Received
Agencies of the Calcutta Circle	11,74,900	16,82,300
„ Allahabad „	50,000	4,01,000
„ Lahore „	12,17,500	18,06,500
„ Cocanada „	4,15,000	2,98,000
	28,57,400	41,87,800

Coin to the value of Rs. 2,00,000 was remitted from the Vizagapatam Agency to Cocanada.

RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS OF THE DEPARTMENT

42. Statement No. III shows the Receipts of the Department to have been Rs. 23,68,799-4-8.

The Disbursements amounted to Rs. 3,13,656-14-9.

The net Profit of the year amounts to Rs. 20,55,142-5-11, against Rs. 20,32,190-3-8, showing an increase, this year, of Rs. 22,952-2-8.

43. Mr. R. Taylor officiated as Head Commissioner from 4th September to 31st October 1876. I myself only relieved Mr. E. F. Harrison on the 16th March, a fortnight before the close of the year.

NOTIFICATIONS.

ACCOUNTS.

LOANS.

Simla, the 12th August 1878.

No. 2005.

(NOTE.—This Notification will be published, simultaneously, by the Secretary of State for India, in London.)

WHEREAS, by the terms of the Notification No. 28, dated the 20th April 1859, and by the conditions of the Promissory Notes, dated the 31st May 1859, bearing interest at Five-and-a-Half Per Centum per annum, issued in accordance with that Notification, the said Promissory Notes may be paid off and discharged on or after the First day of May 1879, on the expiration of a previous Notice of three months, which Notice may be first given on the First day of February 1879; and, WHEREAS it is the present intention of the Governor General in Council to give the said Notice, and to pay off the said Notes on or about the dates aforesaid, His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council has resolved to raise a Loan of Ten Crores of Rupees for this purpose in the following manner:

First.—This Loan shall be entitled "The Transfer Loan, 1879."

Second.—Promissory Notes will be issued for the said sum of Ten Crores of Rupees in the two alternative Forms annexed to this Notification.

Third.—The Notes in the First Form will bear interest at the rate of four-and-a-half per centum per annum, and the principal repayable will be the amount stated in each Note. The portion of the Loan for which these Notes are issued will be entitled "The Transfer Loan, 1879, Four-and-a-Half Per Cent. Portion."

Fourth.—The Notes in the Second Form will be issued only in exchange for Notes of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan surrendered under the Sixth and Seventh Clauses of this Notification. The portion of the Loan for which these Notes are issued will be entitled "The Transfer Loan, 1879, Seven Shillings Sterling Per Cent. Portion."

These Notes in the Second Form will be discharged in Calcutta, when repayable, by the payment of the equivalent in rupees of eight pounds fifteen shillings sterling for each hundred rupees of their amount; the said equivalent being calculated at the rate of exchange fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Imperial Treasury, for the adjustment of transactions between the Indian and Imperial Governments at the date of the expiry of the Notice of the discharge of the Notes.

Interest will be paid on these Notes at the rate of the equivalent in rupees of three pounds ten shillings sterling per annum for each thousand rupees; the said equivalent being calculated at the rate of exchange fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Imperial Treasury, for the adjustment of transactions between the Indian and Imperial Governments, at the time when each successive instalment of interest becomes due.

Fifth.—The Promissory Notes issued under this Notification, whether in the First or Second Form, will be subject to the usual conditions and privileges as to renewal, consolidation, division, enfacement for the payment of interest at the Bank of England by drafts upon India, or at any Government treasury in India, and the like;

and will not be discharged before the Fifteenth day of September 1893, or until after the expiry of a Notice of not less than three months, which Notice will not be issued before the Fifteenth day of June 1893.

Interest upon them will accrue from the Fifteenth day of March 1879, and will be paid in Calcutta half-yearly, on and after the Fifteenth day of September and the Fifteenth day of March.

No Note will be issued for less than one hundred rupees, or for any amount not being a multiple of one hundred rupees.

Sixth.—Until noon on Monday, the Sixteenth day of September 1878, duly receipted Promissory Notes of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan of 1859-60 will be received at the Banks of Bengal, Madras or Bombay or any of their Branches, or at any Government treasury in India, to be exchanged, without charge, for Promissory Notes of the Transfer Loan hereby advertised, enfaced for the payment of interest in the same manner as the surrendered Notes, either in the First or Second Form, at the option of the owner expressed in the receipt given for the contents of the surrendered Notes. Accrued interest on such surrendered Notes, and, further, interest thereon in advance, to the Thirtieth day of April 1879, at the rate of five-and-a-half per centum per annum, will be promptly paid to the person entitled thereto.

If the owner does not specify the Form (whether First or Second), in which he wishes the Notes of The Transfer Loan, 1879, to be issued to him, these Notes will, in such case, be issued to him in the First, or Four-and-a-Half Per Cent., Form.

Seventh.—Or, until noon of Monday, the Sixteenth day of September 1878, Promissory Notes of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan will be received by the Bank of England in London, to be exchanged as aforesaid; and accrued and anticipation interest as aforesaid, paid to the person entitled, by a draft payable, on demand, in Calcutta, Madras or Bombay.

Eighth.—If, by reason of the duly-certified absence from India or England, as the case may be, of the owner, or of one of the owners, of a Note thus surrendered, a legal receipt for the contents thereof cannot be given by noon on the Sixteenth day of September 1878, then, in such case, the surrender will be accepted if the Note be left in the custody of the Bank, Branch Bank or Treasury in India, or of the Bank of England in London, as the case may be, and a legal receipt given before noon on Monday, the Fourteenth day of October next.

Ninth.—Notes issued in exchange for Notes of the Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan surrendered under the Sixth and Seventh Clauses of this Notification, will form part of the total Transfer Loan of Ten Crores of Rupees hereby advertised, and interest thereon will accrue from the Fifteenth day of March 1879. The aggregate amount of the Notes to be thus issued will be notified in the Gazette of India, and by the Secretary of State in London, as accurately, and as soon as possible after the Sixteenth day of September 1878, and tenders will be received for the whole or part of any amount remaining to complete the said sum of Ten Crores of Rupees in the following manner.

Tenth.—Promissory Notes for such remaining amount will be issued only in the First Form annexed to this Notification.

Eleventh.—Tenders for the said remaining amount will be received by the Comptroller General from this date to noon of Monday, the Twenty-First day of October next. In exercise of the powers conferred by the General Stamp Act, 1869, the Governor General in Council is pleased to remit the duties chargeable under the said Act upon these tenders.

Twelfth.—Each tender must be addressed, in the Form annexed to this Notification, to the Comptroller General, Treasury Buildings, Calcutta, and enclosed in a sealed cover superscribed "Tender for Transfer Loan, 1879, Four-and-a-Half Per Cent. Portion." If the tenderer is not resident in India, he must name an Agent resident in India to whom a letter of allotment may be issued, if any part of the Loan is allotted to such tenderer.

Thirteenth.—Each tender must be accompanied by a receipt from one of the Banks of Bengal, Madras or Bombay, or one of their Branches, or from an Officer in charge of some Government treasury, or by a cheque on a banker in Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, or by Government Promissory Notes made payable to the Comptroller General, for not less than one-hundredth, or, if the tender be for less than five lakhs of rupees, then, for not less than one-fiftieth, part of the tender: this deposit of one or two per centum will be treated as in part payment of the last instalment, and will be forfeited if the allotment is not fully taken up: a cash deposit may, after acceptance of the tender in support of which it is made, be replaced by a Government Promissory Note.

Fourteenth.—The rate at which each tender is made must be specified in Rupees, or Rupees and annas: a tender in which no rate is thus specified, but a subscription is offered at the recorded minimum, or at some specified percentage in addition to the recorded minimum, will be rejected as null and void.

Fifteenth.—The rate at which a tender is made must not contain a fraction of an anna; if a rate containing a fraction of an anna is inserted in any tender, such fraction will be struck out, and the tender treated as if the rate did not contain such fraction of an anna.

Sixteenth.—The minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted will be recorded under the signature of the Comptroller General, and, when the tenders are opened, placed upon the table, in a sealed envelope, but will not be declared unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

Seventeenth.—Tenders will be opened, publicly, at the Office of the Comptroller General in Calcutta, at noon on Monday, the Twenty-First day of October next: but the contents of the tenders will not be disclosed otherwise than as provided in the Nineteenth Clause.

Eighteenth.—Tenders, at the recorded minimum rate, and at rates above the recorded minimum rate, will be accepted in the order of the rates tendered, beginning with the highest rate: the amount allotted at the lowest rate at which tenders are accepted, will be divided amongst those who have tendered at this rate, in proportion, as nearly as may be found convenient, to the amounts of their tenders.

Nineteenth.—As soon as possible after the said Twenty-First day of October next, letters of allotment will be issued to those persons whose tenders are accepted in whole or in part, or to their Agents; and an alphabetical list of the names of those to whom such letters of allotment are issued, will be posted, for general information, at the Head-Offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay.

Twentieth.—Payment of any accepted tender may be made to the account of the Government in the Head-Office of one of the Banks of Bengal, Madras or Bombay or in any Branch of any of these Banks, or into any Government treasury or treasuries in India which may be named in the tender.

Twenty-First.—Accepted tenders must be paid, in three equal instalments, as follows:—

One-third on or before Monday, the Eighteenth day of November 1878:

One-third on or before Thursday, the Nineteenth day of December 1878:

One-third on or before Monday, the Twentieth day of January 1879:

but the whole or any part of any accepted tender may be paid at any time after receipt of the letter of allotment.

Twenty-Second.—Duly receipted Promissory Notes of the Government of India of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan of 1859-60, will be received in payment of accepted tenders, and accrued interest thereon, together with interest thereon in advance to the Thirtieth day of April 1879, promptly paid.

Twenty-Third.—Interest upon each payment made in cash, (not in Promissory Notes under the Twenty-Second Clause,) will be promptly paid in advance at the rate of four-and-a-half per centum per annum, from the date of such payment to the Fourteenth day of March next.

Twenty-Fourth.—Scrip receipts for instalments paid or Promissory Notes of the Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan of 1859-60 surrendered, will be given by the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay or their Branches, or by the Officers in charge of the Government treasuries at which payment or surrender is made, or, in the case of Promissory Notes of the Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan of 1859-60 surrendered in London under the Seventh Clause of this Notification, by the Bank of England. These receipts will, as soon as possible, be exchanged for Promissory Notes in one or other of the annexed Forms, as provided in this Notification.

FIRST FORM OF PROMISSORY NOTE. (See Third Clause.)

FORT WILLIAM, THE 15TH MARCH 1879.

Transfer Loan, 1879, Four-and-a-Half Per Cent. Portion.

Promissory Note for Government Rupees (X), bearing Interest, payable half-yearly, at the rate of Four-and-a-half Rupees per centum per annum.

The Governor General of India in Council does hereby acknowledge to have received from (A. B.) the sum of Government Rupees (X) as a loan to the Secretary of State in Council for India;

and does hereby promise, for and on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council, on demand, three months after Notice of Repayment published by order of the Governor General of India in Council in the Gazette of India, to repay the said loan of Rupees (X) to the said (A. B.), his (or "her" or "their") Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or his (or "her") or their order in Calcutta, with interest to the date appointed for discharge at the rate of four-and-a-half per centum per annum; and such Notice as aforesaid shall be equivalent to a tender of repayment at the period therein appointed for the discharge of this Note.

And the Governor General in Council hereby promises, on and after each succeeding fifteenth day of the Months of September and March, until the expiration of three months after Notice of Repayment as aforesaid (when all further interest will cease), on demand, to pay to the said (A. B.), his (or "her" or "their") Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or his (or "her") or their order, in Calcutta, interest on the said sum of Government Rupees (X) for half-a-year at the rate of four-and-a-half per centum per annum.

The Governor General in Council hereby further engages that Notice of Repayment as aforesaid shall not be given before the Fifteenth day of June 1893, and that this Note shall not be discharged before the Fifteenth day of September 1893.

SECOND FORM OF PROMISSORY NOTE. (See Fourth Clause.)

FORT WILLIAM, THE 15TH MARCH 1879.

Transfer Loan, 1879, Seven Shillings Sterling Per Cent. Portion.

Promissory Note for Government Rupees (X), bearing Interest per thousand rupees per annum, payable half-yearly, at the rate of the equivalent in Rupees, calculated at the adjusting rate of Exchange, of Three Pounds ten shillings sterling.

The Governor General of India in Council does hereby acknowledge to have received from (A. B.) the sum of Government Rupees (X) as a loan to the Secretary of State in Council for India;

and does hereby promise, for and on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council, on demand, three months after Notice of Repayment published by order of the Governor General of India in Council in the Gazette of India, to repay the said loan of Rupees (X) to the said (A. B.), his (or "her" or "their") Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or his (or "her") or their order, in Calcutta, by paying to him (or "her" or "them"), or his (or "her" or "their") Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or his (or "her") or their order, for every hundred rupees, the equivalent in rupees of eight pounds fifteen shillings sterling, calculated at the rate of exchange fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Imperial Treasury, for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and Indian Governments on the date when the aforesaid Notice of Repayment expires, together with interest to the date appointed for discharge at the rate hereinafter promised; and such Notice of Repayment as aforesaid shall be equivalent to a tender of repayment at the period therein appointed for the discharge of this Note.

And the Governor General in Council hereby promises, on and after each succeeding fifteenth day of the Months of September and March, until three months after Notice of Repayment as aforesaid (when all further interest will cease), on demand, to pay to the said (A. B.), his (or "her" or "their") Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or his (or "her") or their order in Calcutta, interest on the said sum of Government Rupees (X) for half-a-year at the rate per hundred rupees per annum, of the equivalent in rupees of seven shillings sterling, calculated at the rate of exchange fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Imperial Treasury, for the adjustment of transactions between the Imperial and Indian Governments, on the day when each half-yearly payment of interest first becomes payable.

The Governor General in Council hereby further engages that Notice of Repayment as aforesaid shall not be given before the Fifteenth day of June 1893, and that this Note shall not be discharged before the Fifteenth day of September 1893.

FORM OF TENDER.

I, A. B., hereby tender for Rupees (X) of The Transfer Loan, 1879, Four-and-a-Half Per Cent. Portion, advertised in the Notification published in the Gazette of India Extraordinary, dated the 12th August 1878, and agree to pay for the same, subject to the conditions notified, at the rate of Rupees (x) annas (y)* for every hundred rupees allotted to me.

* Fractions of an anna not allowed.

I enclose a deposit receipt † for Rupees (Y), and engage, if my offer be accepted, to pay to the account of the Government at the Bank of ‡ (or at the ‡ Branch of the Bank of ‡
† Or cheque or Government Promissory Note.
‡ Here enter the name of Bank, Branch Bank or Treasury.
; or into the Government treasury at ‡ as the case may be) the first instalment on or before Monday, the Eighteenth day of November next, and the several later instalments on or before the dates fixed by the Notification, as follows:—

One-third on or before Monday, the Eighteenth day of November 1878:

One-third on or before Thursday, the Nineteenth day of December 1878:

One-third on or before Monday, the Twentieth day of January 1879.

|| Here insert C. D.'s address, which must be in India. This paragraph should only be inserted if A. B. does not reside in India.

Any allotment made to me may be communicated to C. D.

NOTE.—(1).—A separate tender must be made at each rate tendered, and each tender must be supported by a separate deposit. In order to avoid mistakes, the tender, or, at least, the name of the tenderer, and the amount and rate tendered, should be written in English. The rate tendered should be the whole amount per cent., not the premium or discount: thus;—"One hundred and two," or "One hundred," or "Ninety-nine"; not "Two per cent. Premium," or "Par," or "One per cent. Discount."

SUPPLEMENT C.

Insert the following rule under Section 2 (a), (page 106) of this Supplement:—

1. A Chaplain on the Bengal Establishment who is posted in England to Upper India, who comes to India via Bombay, and who is instructed by the Secretary of State to enquire from the Secretary to the Government of Bombay for orders as to his ultimate destination, is held to have arrived in India either on the date on which he reports his arrival at the station to which he is directed to proceed in the orders he receives at Bombay, or, if he receives no orders at Bombay, on the date on which he reports his arrival at Allahabad. A Chaplain, who is not on the Bombay Establishment, and who is not posted to any station in Upper India, but who comes out to India via Bombay, is held to have arrived in India from the date on which he reports his arrival at the presidency town of the presidency to which he is attached, or, if he receives orders at Bombay to proceed to any particular station, from the date of his arrival at that station.

ACTING ALLOWANCE CODE.

Section 1 (page 223.)

Add the following to the note under case a:—

“But he has power to make appointments to vacancies for periods not exceeding three months.”

PAY AND ALLOWANCES.

The 16th August 1878.

No. 2375.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to declare that whenever any person is employed temporarily by competent authority as an extra servant on any establishment, he is entitled to travelling allowance under the rules applicable to public servants of corresponding rank permanently employed on that establishment.

No. 2403.—A Chaplain appointed to the service while he is in Europe is at present entitled to travelling allowance at eight annas a mile from the metropolis of the presidency to which he is attached to the first station to which he may be posted. His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to sanction the following exceptions to this rule:—

I.—A Chaplain on the Bengal Establishment who is posted in England to Upper India, who comes out to India via Bombay, and who receives no orders at Bombay attaching him to any particular station, is entitled to travelling allowance at eight annas a mile (reduced under the general rules in the case of journeys by rail) for the journey from Allahabad to the station to which he may be first posted.

II.—A Chaplain, who is not on the Bombay Establishment, and who is not posted to any station in Upper India, but who comes out to India via Bombay, may draw travelling allowance at eight annas a mile (reduced under the general rules in the case of railway journey) for the journey between Bombay and any station, other than the presidency town of the presidency to which he may be attached, which he may receive orders to join direct at Bombay. The amount of such travelling allowance is however limited to the amount that would be admissible under the general rules for the journey to that station from the capital town of the presidency or province to which he is attached.

expenses are defrayed by the Riding Masters of Cavalry regiments out of the annual allowance of 7½ a troop granted by our Warrant of 9th February 1855 ;

Our Will and Pleasure is that that part of Our said Warrant granting an allowance to Riding Masters of Cavalry regiments and so much of Article 647 (VI) of Our Warrant of 27th December 1870, as provides that one half the extra-duty pay of Rough Riders of Cavalry regiments shall be defrayed out of the Riding Master's allowance, be cancelled from the 1st April 1878, and that, from that date, provision for the Riding House expenses and the whole pay of the Rough Riders shall be made at the public expense.

Our Further Will and Pleasure is that Riding Masters of Cavalry regiments commissioned as such previous to the new system coming into operation shall be granted an addition to their pay of 1s. a day from the 1st April 1878, but this additional pay shall not be granted in the case of Riding Masters appointed after that date.

Given at Our Court at Windsor, this 30th day of March 1878, in the 41st year of Our Reign.

By Her Majesty's Command,

GATHORNE HARDY.

2. With reference to the foregoing, the allowance of Rs. 34-4-7 per mensem, now drawn for Riding School expenses in each regiment of British Cavalry, will cease from the 1st September 1878; the Riding School expenses and the whole of the allowances to Rough Riders being defrayed by the State.

3. Riding Masters of Cavalry regiments appointed prior to the 1st April 1878, will receive pay and allowances at the following rates, but those appointed on or after that date will draw pay at existing rates :—

PART IV.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 1st August 1878, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. XIV OF 1878.

An Act to assimilate certain powers of the Local Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

WHEREAS the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissioner-

Preamble.

ship of Oudh are now united under the administration of a single officer; and whereas it is expedient that, so long as such union continues, the powers of the Local Government of Oudh under the enactments hereinafter mentioned should resemble the powers of the Local Government of the North-Western Provinces under the same or like enactments; and whereas doubts have arisen as to the validity of certain acts done since the said union, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. In the Oudh Rent Act, 1868, sections 29, 85, 87 and 91, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council," "subject to any orders that may from time to time be issued by the Governor General in Council," "subject to any orders in this behalf that may from time to time be made by the Governor General of India in Council," and "with the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council."

Omissions from Act XIX of 1868.

2. For the first sentence of section 6 of the Prisons Act, 1870, the following shall be substituted (namely): "An Inspector General of Prisons shall be appointed in the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb and Oudh by the Local Government, and in the Central Provinces and British Burma by the Governor General in Council."

Alteration of Act XXVI of 1870, section 6.

3. In the Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871, section 5, for the words "The Governor General in Council shall fix," the following words shall be substituted (namely): "The Chief Commissioner, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, shall fix."

Alteration of Act XXXII of 1871, section 5.

In the first sentence of section 6 of the same Act, the words "Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners, Civil Judge of Lucknow and Assistant Commissioners" shall be omitted; and for the second sentence of the same section the following shall be substituted, that is to say: "The Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners, Assistant Commissioners, Extra Assistant Commissioners, Tahsildárs and the Civil Judge of Lucknow shall be appointed by the Chief Commissioner."

Alteration of same Act, section 6.

In section 10 of the same Act, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omission from section 10 of same Act.

In section 26, first paragraph, of the same Act, the words "with the sanction of the Governor General in Council" shall be omitted; and in the second paragraph of the same section, for the words "Governor General in Council," the words "Chief Commissioner" shall be substituted.

Alteration of same Act, section 26, paragraphs 1 and 2.

In section 32, last paragraph, of the same Act, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omission from section 32, last paragraph, of same Act.

In section 33, first paragraph, of the same Act, for the words "presiding officer of any Court under this Act," the words "Judicial Commissioner" shall be substituted; and in the second paragraph of the same section, for the words "by the Chief Commissioner, but shall not be removed without the sanction of the Governor General in Council," the words "or removed by the Chief Commissioner" shall be substituted.

Alteration of same Act, section 33, paragraphs 1 and 2.

4. In the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876, section 4, the following words shall be omitted in both the places in which they occur (namely): "subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf;" and in sections 7 and 9 of the same Act the following words shall be omitted (namely): "subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf;" and in sections 14, 19, 20, 51, 183, 212 and 220 of the same Act, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omissions from Act XVII of 1876.

To section 43 of the same Act the following words shall be added (namely): "provided that in the case of settlements of individual maháls or parts of maháls, undertaken at other times than at the general settlement and sanctioned by the Chief Commissioner, such confirmation shall not be necessary."

Addition to same Act, section 43.

5. In section 39, first paragraph, of the Oudh Laws Act, 1876, the following words shall be omitted (namely): "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

Omission from Act XVIII of 1876, section 39.

In section 45, first paragraph, of the same Act, after the word "and," the words "the Chief Commissioner" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 45 of same Act.

6. For the purpose of the Prisoners Act, 1871, sections 30 and 31, and of the Reformatory Schools Act, 1876, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh shall be deemed to be subject to the same Local Government.

Modification of Act V of 1871, sections 30 and 31, and Act V of 1876.

7. No order issued, power conferred, act done or appointment or rule made by the Chief Commissioner of Oudh subsequent to the union of the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissionership of Oudh which would have been valid if issued, conferred, done or made by, or with the sanction of, the Governor General in Council, shall be deemed to be invalid merely because it was not so issued, conferred, done or made.

Validation-clause.

8. This Act shall come into force on the passing thereof, and sections one to six (both inclusive) shall continue in force until the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, otherwise directs.

Commencement and continuance of this Act.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following preliminary Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 1st August 1878:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. We have saved not only rules, &c., made under the Acts which the Bill proposes to repeal, but also rules made under the enactments which those Acts replaced.

3. We have extended the definition of "Railway" so as to include ferry-boats used for the purpose of, or in connection with, a Railway.

4. It has been held, both in England (Jones v. Festiniog Railway Company, L.R. 3 Q.B. 733) and in India (Jowahir v. Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Company, unreported, and see Halford v. E. I. Ry. Company, 14 Beng. 1), that if a Railway Company has no statutory power authorizing it to use locomotives, it will be liable for damage caused by sparks, even though all reasonable precautions have been taken to prevent them. Our present Railway Act (XVIII of 1854), unlike the English Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, confers no such power. We have therefore, in accordance with a suggestion of the Secretary of State, expressly declared that locomotives may be used on every Indian Railway. The result will be that the Railway Administration will not be liable for such damage without proof of negligence.

5. When a passenger's luggage is at his request placed in the same carriage in which he is to travel and is lost or injured, we have declared, in accordance with the recent decision in Bergheim v. Great Eastern Railway Company, 3 C. P. Div. 221, that the Company is not liable, unless the loss or injury has been caused by the neglect or default of their servants.

6. As the law stands in India, when certain specified articles are contained in parcels delivered to a Railway Company, the Company is not liable for loss of or injury to those articles, whatever may be their value, unless they have been formally declared and insured. One or other of these articles is found in the luggage of most first and second class passengers, and the result is that many people, as a rule, travel without declaring their property and run the risk of losing it altogether from accidents to the train or carelessness and misconduct on the part of the Company's servants. In England the Railway Companies are relieved from responsibility only when the value of undeclared articles exceeds £10, and we think that in India Rs. 100 would be a reasonable limit. We have therefore assimilated section 6 (now section 7) of the Bill to section 1 of the Carriers Act, 11 George IV & 1 Wm. IV, chapter 68. Where any article declared and insured under this section is lost or damaged, the owner will, as a rule, be entitled to recover, in the former case, the value of the article lost, and in the latter, the difference between its value before and after the accident. But where he understates the value, he should be concluded by his statement; and we have therefore (in accordance with the decision in McCance v. London and N. W. Railway Company, 3 IL & C. 343) provided that the amount so recoverable shall in no case exceed the declared value.

7. We have also amended section 7 (now section 8) so as to express the substance of the English Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, section 7. The Bill now provides that Railway Companies shall, notwithstanding any notice, condition or declaration, be liable for loss or injury to any articles not specially provided for by the preceding section when such loss or injury is occasioned by a Railway-officer's neglect or default. But this is not to invalidate special contracts as to receiving, forwarding or delivering such articles, provided such contracts are reasonable, and in writing signed by the parties.

8. In the case of accidents attended with serious personal injury, we have required (section 12) the nearest Station-master to give notice to the nearest Magistrate and the officer in charge of the Police-station in the jurisdiction of which the accident occurred.

9. We have expressly empowered (section 14) the Railway Administration to make rules regulating the maximum number of passengers to be contained in each Railway carriage, and the mode in which such number shall be denoted thereon. And we have provided (sections 26, 37) penalties for Railway-officers compelling passengers to enter carriages already full and for passengers wilfully entering such carriages.

10. We have required (section 16) that the amount of the fare shall be specified on the tickets. In the absence of such a provision, we are informed that Native passengers are constantly cheated either by the issuers of tickets or by touts hanging about the stations.

11. We have declared (section 17) that any passenger to whom a ticket has been furnished and for whom there is no room shall be entitled to have his fare at once refunded.

12. We have provided (section 28) penalties for a person travelling by a train of a class superior to that for which his ticket was issued, using or attempting to use a ticket on a day for which it is not available, or wilfully altering or defacing a ticket so as to render the date, number or other material portion thereof illegible.

13. We have declared (section 34) that the fine for not giving an account of goods, or for giving a false account, shall be in addition to the toll to which such goods may be liable. This is in accordance with 8 & 9 Vic., c. 20, section 99.

14. We have added to the offences for which a person may be arrested without warrant those of evading payment of the proper fare (section 28), being intoxicated or committing nuisance (section 32) and entering rooms or carriages reserved for females (section 33). We have increased the fine for being intoxicated or committing nuisance from Rs. 20 to Rs. 50.

15. We have provided (section 38) a penalty for unlawfully making, showing, hiding or removing signals or lights upon or near Railways.

16. The present law (Act XXV of 1871, section 2) provides a penalty for wilfully driving cattle on a fenced Railway, but does not prohibit such driving on unfenced lines. We have, in section 40, made such driving penal whether the line is fenced or unfenced.

17. In some parts of India young Native boys are in the habit of throwing stones at trains and placing obstructions on the rails. When they are under seven years of age the law cannot touch them: when they are above seven and under twelve, they are punishable only when proved by the prosecution to have attained sufficient maturity of understanding to judge of the nature and consequences of their conduct—a proof which, in most instances, is not easily given. Considering the serious risk to life and property caused by such acts, we think the general law should be modified in this respect; and we have accordingly provided, by section 42, that the convicting Magistrate may direct either that such children be punished with whipping, or that their fathers and guardians be punished with fine not exceeding Rs. 20.

18. We have required (section 45) drivers and conductors of omnibuses and other vehicles, while in a station-yard, to obey the reasonable directions of duly authorised Railway-officers. One of the bye-laws framed by the Board of Trade for regulating travelling by railway in England is to the like effect.

19. We have struck out sections 43 and 44 of the Bill as introduced. * The latter section is obsolete, as there are now no Heads of District Police and Amíns in the Madras Presidency. The former conflicts with the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 72. We have also omitted the provisions as to tramways contained in section 23 of the Bill as introduced.

20. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

21. The publication ordered by the Council has been made; we recommend that the Bill as now amended be re-published, and that its further consideration be stayed till the Council re-assembles in Calcutta.

SCHEDULES.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Railways in India.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Railway Act, 1878 :"
Short title.
 It extends to the whole of British India and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty the Empress of India, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her said Majesty :
Local extent.

and it shall come into force on the first day of March 1879.
Commencement.

2. On and from that day, the Acts specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed.
Repeal of Acts.

All rules made, notifications published, and powers conferred under any of such Acts, or any enactment thereby repealed, shall (so far as they are consistent herewith) be deemed to have been respectively made, published and conferred under this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause.

" Railway." " Railway " includes—

(a) Railways belonging to and worked by Companies ;

(b) Railways belonging to Government but worked by Companies ;

(c) Railways worked by Government ;

(d) land within the fences or other boundary-marks prescribed under section fifty ;

(e) all lines of rail, sidings or branches worked over for the purposes of, or in connection with, a Railway ;

(f) all stations, offices, warehouses, fixed machinery and other works constructed or being constructed for the purposes of, or in connection with, a Railway ;

(g) all ferry-boats used for the purposes of, or in connection with, a Railway.

And in the following sections (namely), twelve, fourteen, nineteen, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-nine, thirty and thirty-five to forty-four (both inclusive), " Railway " includes a Railway under construction or not used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods.

" Railway Administration " means in the case of a Railway worked by Government, the Manager of such Railway, and in the case of a Railway worked by a Company, the Company.

" Railway-officer " means any person employed by a Railway Administration to perform any function in connection with a Railway.

" Passenger." " Passenger " means a passenger by Railway.

" Magistrate " means any person lawfully exercising the powers of a Magistrate and includes a Presidency Magistrate.

4. Every Railway used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway within the meaning of this Act, and every Company to or by whom any such Railway belongs or is worked shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway Company within the meaning of this Act.

CHAPTER II.

ENACTMENTS RELATING TO RAILWAY COMPANIES.

5. It shall be lawful to use on every Railway locomotive engines or other motive power, and carriages and wagons to be drawn or propelled thereby.
Right to use locomotives.

6. A Railway Company and (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall in no case be answerable for loss or injury to any passenger's luggage, unless a Railway-officer has booked and given a receipt for the same ; and when a passenger's luggage has, at his request or with his consent, been placed in the same carriage in which he is to travel, and is lost or injured, the Company or the Government shall not be liable for such loss or injury unless it has been caused by the neglect or default of a Railway-officer.
No liability for unbooked luggage.
Luggage placed in compartment with passenger.

7. When any of the articles mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed is contained in any parcel or package delivered to a Railway-officer, and the value of such article exceeds one hundred rupees, the

No liability for loss of gold, silver, &c., unless in case of special engagement.

Company or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall not be liable for loss of or damage to such article, unless, at the time of delivery, the value and nature thereof have been declared by the person sending or delivering the same, and an increased charge for the safe conveyance of the same, or an engagement to pay such charge, has been accepted by some person specially authorized in this behalf.

When any article of which the value and nature have been declared under this section has been lost or damaged and such loss or damage has been occasioned by a Railway-officer, the owner thereof is entitled to recover, in case of loss, its value, and in case of damage, the difference between its value immediately before, and its value immediately after, the damage has been so occasioned: Provided that the amount recoverable under this section shall not exceed the value so declared.

8. Notwithstanding any notice, condition or declaration given or made by the Railway Administration, the Railway Company or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall be liable for loss of or injury to any animals, articles or goods (other than those specially provided for by section seven) in the receiving, forwarding or delivering thereof, when such loss or injury is occasioned by the neglect or default of a Railway-officer.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent the Railway Administration from making a special contract as to the receiving, forwarding or delivering of such animals, articles or goods: Provided that—

(a) such contract is in writing signed by, or on behalf of, the parties thereto, and

(b) the Court before which any question relating thereto is tried considers it to be just and reasonable.

9. If any person fail to pay on demand any sum due for conveyance of any goods by Railway, the Railway Administration may detain all or any part of such goods, or, if the same have been removed from the Railway, any other goods of such person then on such Railway or thereafter coming into the possession of the Railway Administration; and may also sell by public auction, on the expiration of at least fifteen days' notice thereof in one or more of the newspapers published at the place of sale, sufficient of such goods to realize the sum payable as aforesaid, and all charges and expenses of such detention and sale;

and may, out of the proceeds of the sale, retain the sum so payable, together with the charges and expenses aforesaid, rendering the surplus, if any, of such proceeds, and so much of the goods as remains unsold, to the person entitled thereto:

or it shall be lawful for the Railway Administration to recover any such sum by suit.

10. The owner or person having the care of any goods which have been carried upon any Railway, or are brought into any station or warehouse for the purpose of being carried on a Railway, shall, on demand by any Railway-officer appointed to receive goods to be carried on that part of the Railway on which such goods have been carried, or are about to be carried, deliver to such officer an exact account in writing signed by him of the number or quantity and description of such goods.

11. Any Railway-officer may refuse to carry upon a Railway any luggage or parcel which he suspects to contain dangerous goods, and may require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact previously to carrying the same;

and in case any such luggage or parcel is received for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, any Railway-officer may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of the contents of the luggage or parcel.

12. Every Railway Administration shall, within twelve hours after the occurrence upon the Railway of any accident attended with serious personal injury, give notice thereof to the Local Government, and the Station-Master nearest to the place at which the accident occurs, or such other officer as the Railway Administration may appoint in this behalf, shall at once give notice of such accident to the nearest Magistrate and to the officer in charge of the Police-station in the jurisdiction of which the accident occurred.

13. The Local Government may direct any Railway Administration to make up and deliver to the Local Government a return of serious accidents occurring in the course of the public traffic upon the Railway, whether attended with personal injury or not, in such form and manner as the Local Government deems necessary and requires for information, with a view to the public safety.

14. Every Railway Administration may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make general rules consistent with this Act for the following purposes (that is to say):—

(a) for regulating the mode by which, and the speed at which, carriages and wagons used on the Railway are to be moved or propelled;

(b) for regulating the times of the arrival and departure of any such carriages and wagons;

(c) for regulating the loading and unloading of such wagons, the weights they may respectively carry and the mode in which such weights shall be denoted thereon;

(d) for regulating the receipt and delivery of goods and other things which are to be conveyed upon the Railway;

(e) for regulating the maximum number of passengers which each carriage and compartment may carry, and the mode in which such number shall be denoted thereon;

(f) for declaring what shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, dangerous goods, and

(g) generally for regulating the travelling upon, and the use, working and management of, the Railway.

Any such rule may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be liable to a fine which may extend to fifty rupees or, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months.

All rules made under this section shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall be otherwise notified to the Railway-officers and the public in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs.

The Governor General in Council may at any time cancel any such rule.

15. A copy of this Act, and of the General Rules, Time-tables and Tariff of charges which may, from time to time, be published for any Railway by any Railway Administration shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place at each station of such Railway, so that they may be easily seen and read.

All such documents shall be so exhibited in English and in the vernacular language of the district in which the station is situate, and in such other language, if any, as the Local Government may direct.

CHAPTER III.

ENACTMENTS RELATING TO PASSENGERS.

16. Every person desirous of travelling on a Railway shall, upon payment of his fare, be furnished with a ticket specifying the class of carriage, the place from and place to which the fare has been paid, and the amount of such fare; and every passenger shall, when required, show his ticket to any Railway-officer duly authorized to examine the same, and shall deliver up such ticket upon demand to any Railway-officer duly authorized to collect tickets.

17. At the intermediate stations, the fares shall be deemed to be accepted and the tickets furnished only upon condition that there be room in the train for which the tickets are furnished.

In case there is not room for all the passengers to whom tickets have been furnished, those who have obtained tickets for the longest distance shall have the preference; and those who have obtained tickets for the same distance shall have the preference according to the order in which they have received their tickets:

Provided that all officers and troops of Her Majesty on duty, and all other persons on the business of the Government who, by virtue of any contract with the Government or, in the case of a Railway worked by Government, of any direction of the Governor General in Council, are entitled to be conveyed on a Railway in preference to, or in priority over, the public, shall be entitled to such preference and priority without reference to the distance for which, or the order in which, they have received their tickets.

Any passenger to whom a ticket has been furnished at any station and for whom there is no room shall, on returning the ticket, be entitled to have his fare at once refunded.

18. Except with the permission of the Station-Master, no person shall enter any carriage used on any Railway for the purpose of travelling therein without having first paid his fare and obtained a ticket.

19. No person shall carry upon any Railway any dangerous goods, or shall be entitled to require to be carried upon any Railway any luggage or goods which in the judgment of any Railway-officer is or are of a dangerous nature.

CHAPTER IV.

PENALTIES.

(A).—As to Companies.

20. Any Railway Administration omitting to give notice as required by section twelve, clause one, shall forfeit the sum of five hundred rupees for every day during which such omission continues.

21. Any Railway Administration failing to deliver any return mentioned in section thirteen within fourteen days after the same has been required, or to exhibit the copy mentioned in section fifteen in manner required by that section, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such failure continues.

(B).—As to Railway-officers.

22. Any Station-Master or other officer omitting to give notice as required by section twelve, clause two, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

23. Any Railway-officer who is in a state of intoxication whilst actually employed upon a Railway in the discharge of any duty, or who negligently omits to perform his duty, or who performs the same in an improper manner, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees;

and if the duty in any of the cases aforesaid be such that the omission or negligent performance thereof would be likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon such Railway, such officer shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

24. If any Railway-officer endangers the safety of any person—

(a) by disobeying any rule sanctioned and published and notified in the manner prescribed by section fourteen; or

(c) by any rash or negligent act or omission, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

25. Every Railway-officer, and every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway, shall be deemed a "public servant" within the meaning of sections 161, 162, 163, 164 and 165 of the Indian Penal Code.

In the definition of legal remuneration contained in the said section 161, the word "Government" shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include—

(a) a Railway Company, its lessees, representatives and assigns;

(b) the lessees, representatives and assigns of such Company.

26. Any Railway-officer who compels or attempts to compel any passenger to enter a carriage or compartment containing the maximum number of passengers denoted thereon in accordance with a rule made and published under section fourteen, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(C).—As to the Public.

27. Any passenger not producing or delivering up his ticket when so required by a Railway-officer authorized in this behalf shall be liable to pay the fare from the place whence the train originally started, unless he can prove that he has travelled a less distance only, in which case he shall be liable to pay the fare only from the place whence he has travelled.

Every such fare shall, on application by a Railway-officer to a Magistrate, and on proof of the passenger's liability, be recoverable from such passenger as if it was a fine.

28. Any person who defrauds, or attempts to defraud, any Railway Company or the Government—

(a) by travelling, or attempting to travel, upon any Railway without having previously paid his fare;

(b) by riding in or upon a carriage, or by a train, of a higher class than that for which he has paid his fare;

(c) by using or attempting to use a ticket on any day for which such ticket is not available;

(d) by continuing his journey in or upon any Railway-carriage beyond the place to which he has paid his fare without previously paying the fare for the additional distance, and with intent to avoid payment thereof;

(e) by knowingly and wilfully refusing or neglecting, on arriving at the place to which he has paid his fare, to quit such carriage;

or who, in any other manner whatever, attempts to evade the payment of his fare, or who wilfully alters or defaces his ticket so as to render the date, number or other material portion thereof illegible, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

29. Any passenger who gets into or upon, or attempts to get into or upon, or quits, or attempts to quit, any carriage upon any Railway, while such carriage is in motion;

or who rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, on the steps, or any other part of a carriage, except on those parts which are intended for the accommodation of passengers, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

30. Any person other than the engine-man, fire-man and assistant fire-man who, without the special license of such officer as the Railway Administration appoints in this behalf, rides or attempts to ride upon any locomotive engine or tender upon any Railway; and any person other than the guard or brakesman who, without such license as aforesaid, rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, in or upon any luggage-van or goods-wagon, or other vehicle not appropriated to the carriage of passengers, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

31. Whoever smokes, either in a Railway-station, or in or upon any Railway-carriage, except in places or carriages specially provided for the purpose, shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees for each offence; and whoever persists in so smoking (except as aforesaid) after being warned to desist by any Railway-officer may, in addition to incurring the liability abovementioned, be removed by any Railway-officer from any such carriage, and from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

32. Any person who is in a state of intoxication, or who commits any nuisance, or act of indecency in any Railway-carriage, or upon any part of any Railway; or who wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger,

shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees; and, in addition to such liability, the offender may be removed by any Railway-officer from any such carriage, and also from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

33. If any carriage, compartment or room be reserved by the Railway Administration for the exclusive use of females, any male person who without lawful excuse enters such carriage, compartment or room, knowing the same to be reserved as aforesaid, or remains therein after having been informed of its having been so reserved, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and may be removed therefrom, and also from the premises of the Railway, by any Railway-officer, and shall forfeit his fare.

34. Any owner or person referred to in section ten who wilfully fails to give on demand to any Railway-officer appointed as therein mentioned an exact account of the number or quantity and description of the goods therein referred to,

or who wilfully gives to such Railway-officer a false account thereof, shall, for every such offence, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every ton of such goods, or for any parcel exceeding one hundredweight, and with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for any quantity of such goods less than a ton or for any parcel less than one hundredweight; and such fine shall be in addition to the toll to which such goods may be liable.

For carrying dangerous goods. 35. Whoever carries upon a Railway any dangerous goods, or delivers to a Railway-officer any such goods for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same, or otherwise giving notice in writing of the nature thereof to such officer, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

For delivering such goods without notice.

36. Whoever wilfully obstructs or impedes any Railway-officer in the discharge of his duty on a Railway, or any of the works, stations or premises connected therewith, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

For obstructing Railway-officer in his duty.

37. Any passenger wilfully entering a carriage already full, or compartment containing the maximum number of passengers which has been denoted thereon in accordance with a rule made and published under section fourteen, shall be punished with fine which may extend to a hundred rupees.

For extinguishing lamps, removing signals or injuring carriage, &c.

38. Whoever without authority extinguishes any lamp in or on any Railway-carriage or engine, or makes, shows, hides or removes any signal or light upon or near any Railway, and whoever negligently damages or injures any carriage, engine, wagon, truck, warehouse, building, machine, fence or any other thing belonging to a Railway, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

39. Whoever unlawfully enters upon a Railway shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees; and if any person so entering refuses to leave such Railway on being requested to do so by any Railway-officer, or by any other person on behalf of the Railway Administration, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and may be immediately removed from such Railway by such officer or other person as aforesaid.

For trespass.

For refusing to leave on request.

40. The owner or person in charge of any cattle unlawfully driven or straying on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of such cattle shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

Whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowingly permitted to be on any Railway.

Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of such cattle, otherwise than for the purpose of crossing the Railway at a gate or bar provided for public use, and whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowingly permitted to be on any Railway not so provided, otherwise than for the purpose of lawfully crossing the Railway, the person in charge of such cattle, or if he cannot be identified, then the owner of the said cattle, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the same Act.

All fines imposed under this section may be recovered in manner provided by section twenty-five of the same Act, and may be appropriated in whole or in part in compensation for loss or damage proved to the satisfaction of the convicting Magistrate.

The expression "public road" in sections eleven and twenty-six of the same Act shall be deemed to include a Railway. And any Amendment of Act 1 of 1871, ss. 11 and 26.

Railway-officer may exercise the powers of seizure provided by the said section eleven.

Explanation.—In this section the word "cattle" includes also elephants, camels, buffaloes, horses, mares, geldings, ponies, colts, fillies, mules, asses, pigs, rams, ewes, sheep, lambs, goats and kids.

41. Whoever, when any engine or train approaching along a Railway is in sight, or is otherwise known to be approaching, opens any gate which has been set up across any road for the use or accommodation of any person by the Railway Administration on either side of the Railway, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or attempts to drive any carriage, cattle or other animal or thing, across the Railway;

For opening or not properly shutting gates.

and whoever at any time, in the absence of a gate-keeper, omits to shut and fasten such gate as soon as he and any carriage, cattle or other thing under his charge have passed through the same, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

42. Whenever any male minor under the age of twelve years unlawfully—

For boys obstructing line or throwing stones at train.

(a) places or throws upon or across a Railway any wood, stone or other thing, or

(f) removes or displaces any rail, sleeper, spike, key or other thing belonging to the permanent way of a Railway, or

(c) throws or causes to fall against, into or upon any engine, tender, carriage or other vehicle used upon a Railway, any wood, stone or other thing, such minor shall be deemed guilty of an offence, and the convicting Magistrate may in his discretion direct either that the minor shall be punished with whipping, or that his father or guardian shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

(D).—As to Railway-officers and the Public.

43. Whoever, whether a Railway-officer or not, wilfully does any act, or wilfully omits to do what he is legally bound to do, intending by such act or omission to endanger, or knowing that he is thereby likely to endanger, the safety of any person travelling or being upon any Railway, may be sentenced to transportation (or in the case of an European or American, penal servitude) for life or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years.

For wilful act or omission endangering passenger.

44. Whoever, whether a Railway-officer or not, rashly or negligently, and without lawful excuse, does any act likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon a Railway, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

45. Every driver or conductor of an omnibus, carriage or other vehicle shall, while in or upon any station-yard or other premises forming part of a Railway, obey the reasonable directions of any Railway-officer duly authorized in this behalf; and every person offending against this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

46. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted and punished under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under this Act or the rules made hereunder:

Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same act or omission.

Arrest of Offenders.

47. If any person commits any offence hereby made punishable by fine, and the name and address of such person are unknown, or there is reason to believe that he will abscond, any Railway-officer or any Police-officer, or other person whom such Railway-officer or Police-officer may call to his aid, may, without any warrant or written authority, arrest and detain such offender until he can be taken before a Magistrate or give sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate, or is otherwise discharged by due course of law.

48. Every person committing any offence mentioned in sections fourteen, twenty-three, twenty-four, thirty-two, thirty-three, forty-two, forty-three and forty-four may be arrested without any warrant or written authority by any Railway-officer, or by any other person whom such officer may call to his aid, or by any Police-officer; and every person so arrested shall, with all convenient despatch, be taken before a Magistrate authorized to punish the offender or to commit him for trial.

Jurisdiction.

49. Any person committing any offence for which under this Act he is liable to a fine only shall be punishable for such offence in any place in which he may be found as well as in any other place in which he may be punishable under any law for the time being in force.

CHAPTER V.

WEEKLY REPORT ON THE CONDITION AND PROSPECTS OF THE DISTRICTS OF THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH, FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 3RD AUGUST 1878.

No. 2364A., dated Naini Tal, the 9th August 1878.

From—C. ROBERTSON, Esq., Secretary to the Govt., N.-W. Provinces and Oudh,

To—The Additional Secretary to Govt. of India, Public Works Dept. (Famine).

In continuation of my letter No. 2253A., dated 2nd August, I am directed to forward, for the information of the Government of India, the weekly abstract of the reports on the condition of the several districts in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, with a comparative memorandum of the prices of wheat and barley for the week ending 3rd August.

2. Prospects have much improved during the week, rain having fallen generally, though very unequally. In Meerut, Sitapur, and parts of Rohilkhund and Benares, the fall has been barely sufficient for present requirements, but elsewhere it has been more abundant, though in most of the rice-growing districts there is still great need for a general down-pour. Owing to scarcity and dearness of seed, and partial failure of the rainfall, the area sown will evidently be below the average.

3. The tendency of prices is still to rise, a slight advance on those of last week having occurred in most districts.

4. There has generally been an increase in the numbers of laborers on relief-works, especially in Agra, Bareilly, Lucknow, Bara Banki, Unao and Partabgarh, but district officers almost unanimously attribute these increases, not to growing distress, but to the recent enhancement of the minimum wage paid to laborers, which is said to attract the people from the field work on which they might find employment, and thus causes competition with private employers, while it encourages idleness and malingering. On this subject, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner has addressed the Government of India separately. That there is, however, also some growth of distress, which must be expected until the coarse grains are harvested, seems evident from the increase in the number of persons relieved in poor-houses. The numbers on relief-works and in poor-houses, during the past fortnight, have been:—

		Week ending 27th July.	Week ending 3rd August.
North-Western Provinces—
Relief-works	...	88,713	97,381
Poor-houses	...	14,998	18,030

NAINI TAL;
The 9th August 1878.

C. ROBERTSON,
Secy. to Govt., N.-W. Provinces and Oudh.

Abstract of the reports on the condition of the general districts of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for the week ending 3rd August 1878.

Division.	District.	Condition of crops.	State of markets.	Prices of food-grains.	Condition of cattle.	Condition of people.	Relief operations, &c.
MEERUT DIVISION.	Dehra Dun ...	The rainfall of the week has been 7·8 inches. The kharif sowings have been completed and rice is being planted out daily.	Well supplied	MAERUT DIVISION. Wheat, 14½ to 16 seers per Re. Barley, 20 " " Gram, 14 " " Juar, 8 " " Rice, 7 " "	Very good	Very good: no distress reported
	Saharanpur ...	The rain during the week registered 0·5 in Nakur, 0·2 in Deoband, 0·8 in Saharanpur, and 0·8 in Roorkee. More rain is needed to prevent the seed already sown being dried up. Sugarcane is thriving well at present.	Well supplied	Wheat, 13 to 15½ seers per Re. Barley, 17 to 22½ " " Gram, 13 to 14 " " Juar, 8 to 10½ " " Rice, 5 to 7 " "	Good	Will grow worse, should fall of rain be delayed much longer.
	Muzaffarnagar	Slight and partial rain during the week of 0·8 in Buhana, and 0·1 only in Muzaffarnagar. The cane is at present in fair condition, but the kharif sowings threaten to be unproductive, the seed not germinating properly. Ploughing has been resumed.	Well supplied	Wheat, 14½ to 15 seers per Re. Barley, 18 to 21 " " Gram, 13½ to 14½ " " Juar, 8½ " "	Fair condition	Good: fever in the Shamli tehsil. No distress reported.	No relief-works or poor-houses in these districts.
	Meerut ...	Three-tenths of rain at Mowana, four-tenths in Hapur, and six-tenths in Baghpat. The delay in the rains is injurious to the kharif.	Well supplied	Wheat, 14 to 15½ seers per Re. MEERUT DIV.—contd.	Aligarh	Two-tenths of rain fell in Hathrass, and eleven-tenths in Sikandra Rao. Barley, 18½ " " Bajra, 7 " " Juar, 7 " " Rice, 8½ " " Gram, 14½ " "	Improving	There is considerable distress among the working classes owing to slackness of labor: but if the season continues favorable, an improvement in their condition may shortly be expected: distress not confined to any particular localities. Mortality is now more normal.	Relief-works.—The average attendance of labourers on the several works has been:— (1.) Under District Engineer ... 380 (2.) Muttra-Achneyra Light Rail-way ... 10,098 (2.) Muttra-Mat branch extension of Ganges Canal ... 1,137 11,565 The relief-works under the District Engineer were closed during the week, and work was commenced on the Mat branch extension on the 29th July. Poor-houses.—The numbers on relief rose to over 2,100 on the 30th July; but since rain fell, the fresh admissions have been more than counterbalanced by the numbers who have left or been drafted to the works, the number of inmates being now 2,021.
AGRA	Agra	The rainfall was—Agra 0·5, Farah 1·0, Fatehpur 1·8, Khairigarh 2·1, Iradatnagar 0·7, Fatehabad 3·3, Pinahat 1·4, Firozabad 1·5, Itradpur 0·8. There are indications of further rain. Barley, 18½ to 18½ " " Bajra, 8½ to 9 " " Juar, 9 to 9½ " " Rice, 8 to 8½ " " Gram, 14 to 14½ " "	Improving; green grass is procurable in abundance.	Cholera has disappeared from the Shahganj poor-house. Fever and dysentery are prevalent throughout the district: and mortality returns are high, chiefly from fevers. No distress of pardashins has been reported during the week.	Relief-works.—There are eight works on hand, and the average attendance daily during the past week has been 21,309 in all. The principal works are:— (1.) Muttra-Achneyra Railway ... 12,987 (2.) Shamsabad to Pinahat Road ... 1,806 (3.) River embankment ... 4,040 (4.) Mirza Khan ki Mandi to Kago-rola Road ... 1,939 Many of the laborers are from the States of Farukhabad ...	There has been very fair rain during the week in all tahsils, except the Sadr and Aligarh, where more is still required. The falls registered—Chibran 3.6, Kanauj 2.9, Tirwa 1.4, Kaunganj 1.3, Aligarh 0.4, Sadr 0.6. This rain is the salvation of the kharif crops for some time to come, and they are recovering rapidly. Juar and bajra sowings are going on. Indigo is said to be poor and stunted.	Well supplied: no exportation.	Wheat, Barley, Rice, Gram,	14½ seers per Re. 18 " " 10 " " 13½ " "	Good: bhussa is comparatively cheap.	The people are now in good heart. The chief diseases are fever and small-pox, and there is no relation between the mortality and the scar-city.	Dholpur, Bharatpur, and Gwalior, and most of them come from long distances to the work. Poor-houses. —The poor-houses continue to fill, there being now 6,749 inmates.

Etah ...	It has been cloudy off and on during the week, with a rainfall of eight-tenths at Kasganj, seven-tenths at Etah, and eleven-tenths at Aliganj. What rain has fallen has done a great deal of good, and was just in time to save the crops which were drying up.	Well supplied	Wheat, Barley, Bajra, Juar, Rice, Gram,	15½ seers per Re. 18½ " " 4 " " 7 " " 8½ " " 15½ " "	Good	Good ... Local showers are reported from different parts of the north of the district. These, from the accounts given, appear to have been far heavier than those experienced at the registering stations.	No relief-works; but three poor-houses (Etah, Kasganj and Aliganj) have recently been re-opened, and the total number of inmates in these is 422 persons.
Mainpuri ...	The rainfall was:— Mustafabad ... 0.9 Karhal ... 1.6 Bhagoan ... 4.5 Mainpuri ... 1.2 Shekoabad ... 2.5 The crops benefited greatly by the rain, and ploughing and sowing operations have been resumed. A shock of earthquake was felt on the 30th, but resulted in no damages: cholera is prevalent.	Relief-works. —There is a daily average attendance of 779 laborers on relief-works, and in Poor-houses the average number on relief is 419.
Etawah ...	The rain registered during the week was:— Etawah ... 1.0 Bhurtna ... 0.7 Bidhuna ... 2.6 Paphund ... 0.9 Auraiya ... 0.7 The crops sown have improved since fall of rain: and sowings, where there had been inadequate rain, have now begun. The crops have benefited by the rain, and sowing of bajra and juar is now general.	Well supplied; but there has been a rise of prices, owing to increase in exports.	ROHILKHAND DIVISION. Wheat, 16½ seers per Re. Barley, 19½ " " Gram, 13½ " " Rice, 5½ " " Bajra, 2½ " " Juar, 8½ " "	Fair	Fair; most of the deaths reported during the week have been from fever. The chankidars sent 48 distressed persons to the relief-works.	Relief-works.— (1) Bisauli and Debtowra ... 898 (2) Aonla road ... 1,048 (3) Budaon and Chandausi road ... 3,677 The latter work started on the 26th July. Poor-house.—The poor-house at Budaon re-opened on the 1st August only.
		There has been a decrease in the numbers on relief-works. The relief camps were started with the relief-works as a tentative measure for ascertaining what distress there was in the interior of the district. The number of persons relieved in them is not so large that they could not be left in an ordinary year to be supported by private charity; but under present circumstances, that is, until prices are lower and the prospects of the kharif crop are assured, they would probably starve if not given food by Government. As the continued deputation of an officer from the tehsil to take charge of the relief camps is causing inconvenience, and better supervision can be exercised at the Sadr station, a poor-house will be opened at Budaon and the relief camps closed. In the relief camps on the 31st July there was a total number on relief of 497 persons.
	Bijnor	The following quantity of rain fell during the week:— Inches. Najibabad ... 2.7 Nagina ... 0.7 Bhampur ... 0.4 Chandpur ... 0.1 None at Bijnor. Rain is required for all the crops; the rice sowing have been partial, and much of the seed has failed.	Regularly supplied.	Wheat, 12½ to 13½ seers per Re. Barley, 15½ to 17 " " Bajra, 3½ to 6 " " Juar, 8 to 10½ " " Gram, 12 to 12½ " "	Fair	Deteriorating; judging by the applications for admission into the poor-house.	Relief-works.—The total daily attendance on works is now 11,669, last week it was 13,269. The people seeking employment mostly come from a radius of 10 or 12 miles, and the amount of work turned out is a very good average. The decrease apparent from the figures for the present, as compared with the previous week, is not a real decrease, but is due to the shifting of gangs from one part of the district to another. There is only one work on which the attendance exceeded 1,000 laborers, viz., Dhampur and Nurpur Road, on which 10,854 laborers were employed.
		It will be urgently needed within the next fortnight. There is as yet no mischief done, except in the partial area of rice sowings. But the crisis is approaching: prices are rising rapidly; the pressure on the poor is increasing, and the district is again falling back into the distress from which it seemed to be emerging.					Poor-houses.—There are now 1,719 paupers in the poor-houses; and the number increases. The condition of applicants is much deteriorated.
		Commissioner notes:—That five-tenths of rain fell at Bijnor and two-tenths at Najibabad on the 2nd August, after Collector's report was written.
Shahjahanpur.		The rainfall of the week is one-tenth at Shahjahanpur and Tilbur; two-tenths at Powayan, and three-tenths at Jalaabad. The fall has been insufficient, except	Well supplied; but trade is sluggish.	Wheat, 13½ to 14 seers per Re. Barley, 17 " " Gram, 14 to 14½ " "	Good	The bunnials are withholding advances until the settlement of their annual accounts (which now is due) has been completed; and also on account of the uncertainty of the season.	Relief-works.—The total number of laborers on the last day of the week was 1,121; in addition to these, there were 278 laborers on the municipal relief-works at Shahjahanpur.

in the north of Tilhar and in the south-east part of Kant and Jalalabad.

The sugarcane is beginning to suffer from drought: sowings of rice and makka are stopped, and the area under rice will be considerably smaller than usual. Other crops continue to be sown, except in the south-west of Jalalabad, where ploughing has been stopped for want of rain.

Commissioner notes.—Good rain has since fallen.

General remarks.—Rain is wanted; but there is no cause for serious apprehension as yet. The total area under kharif will be somewhat smaller than usual, and there is a comparative failure of the rice crops, rice being one of the main staples in some parts of the district: the failure is due partly to the want of rain, partly to the scarcity and the badness of the seed. The dhankar lands in the Jamour Pergana and in the Bankati circle of Jalalabad have for the most part remained uncultivated. The refusal of the bunnias to advance money tends to diminish the area under kharif. After their accounts for last year have been settled, they will probably make advances as usual, should the season prove favourable. There is always a pause at this season, until the accounts for rabi and grain have been settled. There is no real distress throughout the great majority of the population, or in the eastern part of the district. Employment is scarce among the poorer-classes, though a number of them have lately found occupation in weeding and field work. Some also have left the relief-works, it is said, in the hope of obtaining a subsistence upon sag and other green stuff. The relief-works are largely attended by women, but the amount of work done by the ordinary gangs is good: the inefficient gangs have increased, but some of those working in them are better fitted for the poor-house, to which Collector intends removing them. Collector does not think the relief-works are attended by any who could find employment elsewhere, and the number of women at work is a proof of the necessity. Petty crime has somewhat increased.

Commissioner notes.—That "the comparatively small number on the works leads one to the belief that there can be but little distress in the district."

Commissioner remarks.—Since the date of this report, good rain has been reported.

Commissioner remarks.—Although the number on the works is greater than in any of the other districts, the kharif prospects are better than elsewhere, the sugarcane being particularly promising.

Moradabad	The rainfall has been—	Inch.	Sufficiently supplied.	Wheat, Barley, Gram, Rice,	14 1/8 16 1/2 13 1/2 7 1/2	seers per Re.	Good
Moradabad	...	0.2
Bilari	...	0.5
Samthal	...	0.1
Amroha	...	0.3
Tilakudwara	...	0.3
At Hassanpur	...	No rain.

The cultivators are anxiously looking out for more rain: owing to the long continued break in the rains, sowings have been suspended. The crops which have been sown are parched for want of rain.

Poor-houses.—There are 41 paupers on relief.

There is, however, no distress amongst the cultivating classes, and among a considerable portion of the laboring class who have found work in weeding, &c. There is, however, still some difficulty in obtaining employment; but public health is good.

Relief-works.—There are nine relief-works in hand in the district, and the daily average number of laborers on them for the past week has been 3,460. No work has more than 1,000 laborers on it. There is always a struggle on the part of the laborers to get enrolled in an inefficient gang.
Poor-houses.—There are 421 paupers on relief in the poor-house at Moradabad.

ALLAHABAD DIVISION.	Cawnpore	The rainfall during the week was— Inches. Cawnpore ... 3.8 Bilhaur ... 1.9 Sheerajpur ... 2.1 Sath ... 2.3 Ghatampur ... 3.9 Akberpur ... 2.8 Bhojpur ... 1.7 Derapur ... 1.9 Rusabhad ... 2.1 The rain has been general, but rather light in some villages. Bhojpur and Derapur want more, and the fall in Rasulabad is insufficient for the rice. The reports, however, are satisfactory from all tehsils, but it is feared that a portion of the mokai crop will be lost.	Well supplied	Wheat, 13½ to 14½ seers per Re. Barley, 10½ to 17½ " " Rice, 5 to 7½ " " Bajra, 6 to 7 " " Juar, 8 to 9 " " Gram, 13 to 13½ " "	Good	The people are busy again in their fields, and the rise in the price of bajra shows the demand for it for seed. In other respects prices have not changed.	No relief measures.
	Fatehpur	The sky has been cloudy, and there has been an easterly wind. The following is a detail of the rainfall in each tehsil:— Inches. Fatehpur ... 2.6 Ghazipur ... 2.2 Khaga ... 2.7 Khakhru ... 5.6 Kalianpur ... 2.2 Kora ... 1.8 Ploughing and sowing are in progress: rice is being transplanted.	Well supplied	Wheat, 12 to 13½ seers per Re. Barley, 15 to 16½ " " Gram, 12 to 12½ " " Rice, 7 to 8½ " "	Good: cattle disease reported in Kora tehsil.	Fever, small-pox and cholera are prevalent in different localities. Three cases of paupers in distress were reported by chaukidars during the week, and all three were received into the poor-house.	The number of laborers on the Kond tank (a municipal work) fell to 15, when the transplanting of the rice, having created a considerable demand for labor, they were discharged, and obtained employment without difficulty. Poor-houses.—There were 102 inmates in the poor-house against 94 reported last week.
Banda	...	During the week, there has been an average fall of 2 inches throughout the district, and this very fairly distributed too. If the present weather continues, the kharif prospects must be good. Bajra is being sown: most of the other crops are in the ground. Weeding is going on with vigour, employing thousands. The	Well supplied	Wheat, 11 to 12½ seers per Re. Barley, 13 to 16 " " Rice, 6 to 8 " " Gram, 12 to 12½ " "	No disease reported. Fodder and grass are generally plentiful.	Cholera still continues to break out here and there.	The timely fall of rain has averted the necessity for opening relief-works. The number on relief in the Banda poor-house is now 147 paupers.

Kirwee	cotton looks well, and the juar, and even rice, have been greatly revived by the rain of the past few days.	The rainfall registered during the week has been—Teraban 3-6, Dursenda 3-8, and Chibban 3-5. Rain is still falling, and there is every appearance of more, where good, and the prospect of the kharif harvest is favourable.	No deficiency in the supply.	Wheat, 10½ to 11½ Gram, 11 to 12 Barley, 13 to 14½ Juar, 8 to 11 Bajra, 8 to 10	seers per Re. " " " " "	Supply of grass everywhere sufficient, and there is no disease.	The people are busy in the fields, and there is no distress reported. The price of food-grains will soon be cheaper, and the Assistant Collector proposes to close the poor-house when they are so.	There are 137 paupers on relief.
Allahabad	The rainfall was during the week—Allahabad 4-2, Sirathu 5-9, Manjampur 4-3, Bara 2-1, Kurchuna 2-0, Meja 2-3, Handia 1-6, Sorson 5-9, and Phulpur 0-7.	Well supplied	Well supplied	Wheat, 12½ Barley, 14½ Gram, 12½ Rice, 8½ Bajra, 11½ Juar, 11½	seers per Re. " " " " "	Unchanged	Unchanged: general health is good; temporary relief was given to only one individual in the interior of the district: no other cases of distress have been reported.	Relief-works.—The number of laborers on the Siram Road relief-work has again risen to 387. Poor-houses.—There are 367 crippled paupers on relief in the Meja poor-house and its branch institution at Sheorajpur.
Jaunpur	The crops sown at the previous rainfall are now recovering, and people are engaged in sowing.	The registered rainfall of the week is—Jaunpur 2-4, Marahu 1-6, Machlishahr 1-1, Khutaban 2-6, Karakat 2-8. More rain is urgently required: all the upland crops are so far doing well: but the state of the rice crop is critical, there being very few spots where sufficient rain has fallen to allow of transplantation. If copious rain falls within the next week, this crop may be saved.	Fairly supplied	Wheat, 11½ to 12½ Barley, 14½ Gram, 11½ to 12½ Rice, 5½ to 6½	seers per Re. " " " " "	No disease has been reported, and there is sufficient pasturage.	Signs of distress are becoming more apparent. There is, however, plenty of work in the fields; and if sufficient rain would fall to allow of the rice being planted out, general confidence would be restored. The mortality returns do not show any considerable increase on those of last year.	Poor-houses.—Six hundred and seventeen persons have been in receipt of relief at the poor-house. These are either such as would at all times be dependent on others for their food or they are wanderers who have broken down from want of food. Relief-works.—On the Pachhatia Road 84 laborers are employed.
Hamirpur	The rainfall registered during the week has been—Inches. Hamirpur... 3-9, Rathi... 1-4, Kulpahar... 0-2, Muskara... 0-5, Mahoba... 0-8, Mundha... 1-2. The measured rain at Mahoba, Muskara and Kulpahar is insignificant, but does not fairly represent the benefit derived. The fall seems, however, to have been somewhat scanty in the Mahoba and Panwari Pergunnahs. The crops generally are doing very well.	Well supplied	Well supplied	Wheat, 13½ Barley, 14½ Gram, 13½ Juar, 8½ Bajra, 8½ Rice, 7	seers per Re. " " " " "	Doing well	The condition of the people gives no cause for alarm. There is employment for all those who can work. Aged and infirm paupers will probably continue to increase in numbers, until the kharif has been harvested, when prices will, it is to be hoped, begin to fall.	There are 197 paupers in the six tehsili poor-houses.

Abstract of the reports on the condition of the several districts of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for the week ending 3rd August 1878—(continued).

Division.	District.	Condition of crops.	State of markets.	Prices of food-grains.	Condition of cattle.	Condition of people.	Relief operations, &c.
BENARES DIVISION.	Gorakhpur ...	Cloudy weather and beneficial rain all over the district since the 28th July. The rain gauged has been as follows:—Maharajganj 1.1, Padrauna 0.7, Gorakhpur 1.1, Hata 1.5, Deoria 1.4, Bansaon 1.1. The crops, which were in a critical state, owing to the unusually high and dry wind prevailing till the 28th, are now in a favorable condition. Baisakwa rice has ripened in the east of the district. Its out-turn will be reported next week.	Still fairly supplied	Wheat, 11½ seers per Re. Barley, 14 " " Bajra, 5½ " " Rice, 8½ " " Gram, 11½ " "	Fair	No general distress, and cases of individual distress have not increased, probably owing to the abundant employment given in the fields. Sporadic cholera still continues very severe in Gorakhpur city, and in a few villages in the district, but does not seem to be spreading generally.	Relief-works. —The number of laborers is now reduced to 117. The able-bodied are no longer received on the works, as there is abundant labor in the fields. Poor-houses. —The number of paupers on relief has diminished from 860 to 665, as they are drafted off, when fit, to the works, or sent to their houses.
	Basti ...	Until the 20th, no rain fell; but after that date a considerable quantity fell throughout the district, the north being specially favored. The rainfall was—Dunarganj 1.8, Bansi 3.1. Harraiya 1.1, Basti 1.5, and Khalilabad 1.3. The young rice was beginning to suffer when the rain revived it. In some places rice has begun to be transplanted. The crops generally promise well.	Moderately supplied	Wheat, 10½ to 13 seers per Re. Barley, 14 to 17½ " " Bajra, 8 " " Rice, 8 to 8½ " " Gram, 11 to 15 " "	No disease	Continuous drought has seriously affected the employment and resources of the poor. Since rain has fallen, weeding has recommenced; but there is not yet sufficient employment for the masses. Should heavy rain make transplantation of rice general, there would be a large demand for labor.	Relief-works. —The daily average number of laborers on relief-works is 14,324; and in poor-houses 1,369. Besides the laboring gangs, there are some 3,500 old women and little children in relief camps on the line of works.
BENARES DIVISION.	Mirzapur ...	A general and heavy fall of rain occurred all over the district during the last four days of the week: the fall being—Mirzapur 1.7, Chunar 1.5, Koeth 3.6, Robertganj 1.5, Chakai 6.3. The rain has done immense good, though more is still wanted for the rice. All the crops, sugarcane in particular, are looking most healthy. Some of the sawan will be ripe in a fortnight. The kharif prospects are now good.	Scantily supplied	Wheat, 10 to 12 seers per Re. Barley, 12 to 14½ " " Bajra, 7 to 12 " " Gram, 11 to 12 " " Rice, 7½ to 10½ " "	Good	The late rain has removed much anxiety. The fields teem with laborers, and ploughing and weeding are going on everywhere. No sickness reported.	No persons have applied for employment on the Mariahu relief-work kept open during the week. There is no poor-house in this district.
	Azamgarh ...	Rain fell as follows:—Deogonr 5.4, Mahul 2.6, Azamgarh 2.2, Jhanpur 1.3, Mahomedabad 1.4, Nagra 1.5. Rice, sugarcane, indigo and other kharif crop prospects are good.	Moderately supplied: prices are rising.	Wheat, 10½ to 11½ seers per Re. Barley, 12½ to 12½ " " Rice, 6½ to 7 " " Gram, 10½ to 10½ " "	As usual: no sickness reported.	Cholera, fever, and small-pox are still prevalent.	Relief-works. —On the 1st August 449 persons were employed in straightening the road running from the Jhanpur road to the Ghazipur road near the civil station. Poor-houses. —The daily average on relief is 581 paupers.

Benares	... The week's rainfall has been: Benares 1·7, Chandauli 1·7, and Gangapur 1·0. The prospects of the sawan, kodon, and junri are good, but paddy sowing is delayed for want of rain.	Bazars as usual; but prices are rising.	Wheat, 9½ to 11 Barley, 12 to 13 Bajra 7 Rice, 8 to 9 Gram, 10½ to 10½	seers per Re. " " " "	Fair	... No increased mortality; but there is distress to a certain extent on account of high prices. Two hundred pardahnashins are supported from relief funds, and Maharaja Scindia feeds 2,000 persons daily.	Poor-house.—The daily attendance at the special poor-house averages 434 paupers. A poor-house has also been started at Chandauli. The average daily attendance at the Bindalao work still remains 250 persons as in last week.
Ghazipur	... There has been rain as follows:— Inches. Ghazipur ... 0·7 Saidpur ... 1·9 Lamania ... 0·7 Korandih ... 1·9 Rasra ... 3·9 Balua ... 3·0 The kharif and bhadsan crops, which have all been sown, have much benefited by the week's rainfall.	Sufficiently supplied	Wheat, 11 Barley, 12½ Bajra, 9 Rice, 10 Gram, 11½	seers per Re. " " " "	Much improved...	Cholera still prevails to a slight extent.	No relief-works.—In poor-houses, the daily average number on relief is 408.
Kumaon	... There has been rain nearly every night: the fall for the week being—Almorah 1·8, Chumprawat 3·1, Haldwani 2·5, Naini Tal 6·2, Pithoragarh 3·1. The crops are now in very good condition.	Fairly supplied	Wheat, 8½ Barley, 11 Rice, 5½ Gram, 8 Millet, 11	seers per Re. " " " "	Foot rot is still prevalent.	Good	No relief.
Garhwal	... It has been continuously wet: the rain gauged being at Pawai 3·6, and at Srinagar 1·8 inch. There has been for the crops which are now very promising. Madoon has germinated less freely than usual, owing to the use of old seed. There has been slight injury from locusts to millets in some parts.	Well supplied	Wheat, 14 Barley, 16 Rice, 6½ Gram, 6	seers per Re. " " " "	Fair: a little foot disease prevails in the northern pergunnahs.	Satisfactory: a few applications to purchase wheat from the Government stores; but at prices below what it is hoped will be realized by the 15th instant.	No relief.
Terai	... The rainfall of the week has been at Kashipur 0·3, Rudrapur 1·7, Kilpuri 1·0. The rain has been partial. In the east, it has been moderate, in the west, there has been hardly any. If rain does not fall in the next few days, the crops in Bazpur and Kashipur will be lost, except where irrigated. Maize and cotton sowings are nearly finished, but the young crops are drying up in the western pergunnahs. Much rice land is still unsown.	Fairly supplied	Wheat, 14 Barley, 20 Rice, 6½ Gram, 11 Millet, 4	seers per Re. " " " "	Fair	Angry as to prospects where rain has been deficient: and there all operations are at a stand-still.	No relief.

JHANSI DIVISION.	Jhansi	The Commissioner's report for the Division is as follows:— The change of weather reported last week as having set in has continued, and there have been frequent showers; the skies are still heavily clouded and the breeze cool. The rainfall reported is:— Inch Jhansi .. 1.0 Gariaha .. 0.9 Man .. 0.8 No report received from Mach.	Sufficiently supplied.	Prices are unchanged, being— In Jhansi— Wheat, 14 seers per Re. The relief returns do not indicate any increase in the distress among the body of the people; but there is a good deal of pauperism abroad, and the numbers in the poor-houses are increasing. In Pergunnah Moth the Deputy Commissioner reports that need has arisen for additional relief-works. Cholera still prevails in Lalitpur, but appears to be on the decrease, as fewer deaths occurred during the week. It has now made its appearance in the Jalaun district and in the Native States bordering on Jhansi. Small-pox, too, has broken out again in Lalitpur, and there is generally more sickness, but nothing abnormal.	Relief-works. —On seven relief-works in the Jhansi district, the total daily average number of laborers for the week is 2,642; but only one work (the Belpai tank) has more than 1,000 employed, the numbers for this being 1,435, and including convalescent paupers drafted from the poor-house at Man, which is near by. In Jalaun, on three works, the total daily attendance on the last day of the week averaged 1,155 persons: and no work had more than 1,000 laborers on it. There are no relief-works in the Lalitpur district, but the Jhansi and Sangor Road (an ordinary work) is open and gives employment to those who seek for it. Poor-houses. —About 500 persons are reported to be receiving relief at the Man poor-house; the exact number is not known, as returns have not been received. At the Orai poor-house, the daily average was 268, against 210 in the previous week, and on the last day there were 334 inmates.

Lalitpur there has been general and heavy rain during the week; and the prospects there are reported to be good. In Jhansi the rainfall has been partial, and in many places inadequate, and large areas (chiefly stony soil or kunkur) are still unsown. In Pergunnah Moth the fall has been especially deficient. In the Jalaun district the fall has been also unequal, and in Pergunnahs Kunch and Madhogarh, where, since the 1st of June, 2.8 and 4.8 inches, respectively, have been registered, more rain is required. Prospects are, however, on the whole, much brighter than they were last week. Besides the rainfall shown above, 1.2 inches were gauged in Jhansi station on the 2nd August. Ploughing and sowing is still going on in Jhansi and Jalaun, though nearly over in Lalitpur. Cotton and rice have been damaged in Jhansi by the late dry weather, and more rain is required in this district and Jalaun.

Rae Bareilly	There has been general rain all over the district. The fall has been—	Inches.	Unchanged	RAE BAREILLY DIVISION.		Much improved. They are fast getting strong again: no disease reported.	Distress much the same; but their drooping spirits have somewhat revived since the fall of rain.	Relief-works.—The attendance on the 29th July, the latest date for which returns had been received, was— (1.) Maharajgunj and Mghan road 2,551 (2.) Rae Bareilly and Cawnpore road 15,992 Total ... 18,543
				Wheat.	11½ seers per Re.
				Barley,	14½ "
				Gram,	11½ "
				Rice,	6 "

Rain is also reported from the interior of the tehsils: in some places heavy enough to fill the tanks and jhils: but there has not yet been rain enough for dhan cultivation. The crops have benefited considerably by the late rain, and are reported green and healthy.

General Remarks.—The condition of the district is somewhat improved by the rain which has fallen during the week. The crops which were withering have revived, and in some places, in the low lands, dhan is being sown; but the fall has not been sufficient for a general sowing of the crop. The people have re-commenced their field operations. Some difficulty is experienced in getting people in distress to resort to the poor-houses: nearly all preferring to take their chance of obtaining a living by begging. The Commissioner records the following remarks:—
The rain which has fallen during the week has done much good: it has for the present saved the crops already sown, and sowing operations are now being extensively pushed forward. Some dhan will doubtless be sown, but the area under rice will be much less than usual, both from the dearth and difficulty of obtaining seed; and there not having been a sufficient fall of rain at the usual seed time, we still want more rain, and the sooner it comes the better, but immediate cause for anxiety has been removed. Prices have fallen slightly in Rae Bareilly: in Partabgarh and Sultanpur they seem to be stationary. A greater fall was, I think, to be expected; but the buniad, while he raises his prices by the seer, reduces them by the quarter seer only.

Before the rains of the 29th and 30th the numbers on relief-works had been rising rapidly: there has since then, however, been a considerable decrease which the figures given by the Deputy Commissioner do not show. The 31st is the last date I have complete returns for, and on it there were 14,120 on relief-works in this district. Every legitimate means has been used to keep down the numbers, and with this view the labourers were transferred from the north of the district to the Rae Bareilly and Cawnpore Road. I am still strongly of opinion that in the case of the able-bodied there should be no limit to the fine that may be imposed, and that the revised rules are to a great extent responsible for a larger decrease not having taken place in the numbers on relief-works. If an able-bodied man or woman, through sheer laziness, will not earn a full day's wage, I see no hardship in their being made to do on half a meal. They would not put up with this long: they would either do a fair task after a day or two, or leave the works. When they know that a fixed minimum wage is certain, however little they do, there is a great inducement to malingering, and unworthy objects are attracted to the works. The revised rules seem to me to overlook this point; but I am left no discretion in giving effect to them.

Sultanpur	The rainfall registered during the week has been—	Inches.	Fairly supplied	Improving	Much the same as last week	Relief-works.— (1.) Sultanpur Khaga road 551 (2.) Korwar Road 498 Total 1,049	Daily.

	Kadipur	2.7	Gram,	11½ "

All the labourers on the works belong to this district, and are much improved in health. Those who live at a distance from the works are hutted on the works.

Poor-houses.—The numbers of sickly paupers has risen from 734 last week to 845 this week. In the Amethi tehsil, there has been general rain also, and it was though the usual time for sowing dhan has passed, it is believed the numbers on relief-works have probably decreased, owing to work being available elsewhere.

General remarks.—Prospects have much improved this week as there has been rain generally over the district, except at Amethi itself. In the Amethi tehsil, there has been general rain also, and it was though the usual time for sowing dhan has passed, it is believed the numbers on relief-works have probably decreased, owing to work being available elsewhere.

The Commissioner's remarks.—This district has had more rain than either Rae Bareilly or Partabgarh, and the fall seems to have been general and sufficient for all present requirements. Some dhan will be sown, although it is rather late; but the area under dhan for the reasons referred to in my remarks on the Rae Bareilly district must be short. The decrease in the numbers on relief-works is very considerable, but here, as in Rae Bareilly and Partabgarh, the numbers in poor-houses have increased. It seems strange that prices should have risen with such a favorable change in the weather.

	The Commissioner remarks on the district reports of his Division — The numbers on works have increased greatly, partly, if not mainly, in consequence of the new minimum wage arrangement, which Civil and Public Works officer concur in denouncing as worse than a waste of public money, leading, as it does, to an injurious competition in the labour market, and demoralizing the workmen by encouraging idleness.

(2) Chinbut and Setrik Road ... 4,784
(3) Digging Gurtheya near Aishbagh... 281

On (1), the numbers have increased about 70 per cent., and on (2), the numbers have more than doubled since last week. They are still increasing, and will continue to do so as long as the present rule and scale of payments obtain. Not more than 10 per cent. of the laborers are in a weakly condition: the remainder are able-bodied, but are unwilling to work, and progress of works is indifferent.

Poor-houses.—There was an average number of 896 paupers in the two poor-houses; but cholera having broken out among them, they have been dispersed.

The same as last week ...
Relief-works.—The daily average number employed on relief-works (laying down jhil earth on road to Bihar) is now 867; last week there were only 156.

The unnecessarily liberal wages now ordered, the weekly holiday, the fact that able-bodied men get a fair minimum of wage, irrespective of task work, the enjoyment of wages without work on rainy days, and the growing conviction that Government wishes to make its relief-works a means of disbursing charity, are having a very unfortunate effect. We are competing with proprietors for labor now much wanted for weeding the fields, and defeating the real object for which the works were started. The sooner the recent extravagantly liberal modifications in the old allowance rules are rescinded, the better.

Poor-houses.—The numbers relieved in the Unao poor-house, which were 145 last week, are now 192.

Generally fair ...
Relief-works.—The total daily attendance on works is on an average ... 8,346
Last week the number was ... 3,794
The principal work is the Zaidpur and Chinbut Road with 7,274 laborers daily.
The great increase in numbers is due to the favourable minimum rate of wage allowed, which Deputy Commissioner fears has the effect of encouraging idleness.
Poor-houses.—There are 1,116 paupers on relief.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
AUGUST 15TH, 1878.

Friday, 9th August.—The changes of pressure given by to-day's barometric observations are much smaller in amount than they were yesterday.

The barometer has fallen slightly in Bengal, Orissa, Assam, Arracan, and Burmah. It has risen in the Central Provinces, more especially at Jubbulpore, where the increase is $\cdot 103''$. It has fallen slightly in Central Rajputana. This is due apparently to the westward motion of the area of low pressure, which included the stations of Jubbulpore and Allahabad yesterday. This has nearly disappeared, being very faintly indicated by the barometric readings at Ajmere, Agra, and Delhi, which are lower than the readings at all adjacent stations by very small amounts.

Temperatures exceeding 90° were registered at 10 A.M. to-day from Lahore ($92\cdot 1^{\circ}$), Jacobabad ($90\cdot 3^{\circ}$), and Peshawar ($90\cdot 9^{\circ}$).

Strong winds are reported from the coast stations of Sind, Guzerat, and Bombay, to-day. The wind velocity is above the average at the Bengal stations. In the North-Western Provinces the wind is generally diminishing in strength. A gale of wind is reported from Bareilly. The wind directions are generally normal.

The sky is generally overcast, except in Madras, and the Punjab, where the weather is fine with passing clouds.

British Burmah continues to receive fair rainfall: $\cdot 98$ inch was registered at Rangoon to-day.

General rain, moderate in amount at the majority of stations, has fallen in Assam, Bengal, Behar, and Orissa. Silchar received $1\cdot 49$ inches, and Saugor Island $1\cdot 03$ inches, during the past 24 hours. No rain was registered at the majority of stations in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab. The only important rainfall in this area occurred at Benares, where $3\cdot 62$ inches were recorded this morning.

The area of heavy rainfall in Western India continues to receive abundant rain. Deesa is at present a centre of heavy rainfall; $3\cdot 49$ inches were registered at that station to-day.

Rainfalls exceeding one inch were also reported from Neemuch ($1\cdot 88$ inches), Akola ($1\cdot 59$ inches), and Surat ($1\cdot 35$ inches).

$2\cdot 06$ inches were recorded at Cochin to-day, and $1\cdot 14$ inches at Hyderabad, Deccan.

Saturday, 10th August.—The barometer has fallen over the whole of India during the preceding 24 hours. The decrease of pressure exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in the valleys of the Indus, and of the Godavery, along the coast of Orissa, in British Burmah, and along the western coast of India from Goa southwards.

The decrease is greatest at Cochin, where it amounts to $\cdot 112''$, and at Mooltan, where it is $\cdot 98''$.

Temperatures exceeding 90° were registered this morning at Mooltan (91°), Peshawar ($93\cdot 4^{\circ}$), and Dera Ismail Khan (92°).

Light winds are prevalent to-day in Assam, Behar, the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, the northerly stations of the Punjab, and at Madras.

Strong winds continue along the Bombay coast. The wind velocity is generally above the average in the remaining districts of India, more especially in the Central Provinces and the Deccan, and at Bareilly.

Moderate rain has fallen during the past 24 hours in Assam, Arracan, Bengal, and in Western India.

The following rainfalls exceeding one inch were reported this morning: Akyab $1\cdot 38$ inches, Chittagong $2\cdot 42$ inches, Rungpore $1\cdot 13$ inches, Deesa $1\cdot 71$ inches, and Ahmedabad $1\cdot 74$ inches.

Light and unimportant showers fell in the remaining districts of India, excepting the Punjab and Sind.

Sunday, 11th August.—The pressure has increased during the preceding 24 hours in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, Behar, Bengal, Orissa, Assam, Arracan, and Burmah, and has diminished in the remaining divisions of India. The changes of pressure have been generally considerable in amount. The increase is greatest at the two westerly stations of the Punjab, at both of which it is $\cdot 151''$. The diminution of pressure in Western and Southern India exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in Lower Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, Central India, the Berars, and the Deccan; and is most considerable at Rajkot and Bombay, where it is very nearly one-tenth of an inch.

Sind, Guzerat, Rajputana, Central India, and the Berars form the area of minimum pressure in India to-day.

The pressure along the west coast of the Bay of Bengal is lowest at Vizagapatam. An area of barometric depression is forming off this coast to-day.

Strong winds prevail along the west coast of India from Kurrachee to Colombo.

The wind directions at the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal from Masulipatam to Saugor Island, indicate feeble cyclonic motion about the area of low pressure forming off the Ganjam coast.

In the North-Western Provinces, the wind velocity is considerably above the average. Strong winds are reported from the western districts, more especially Bareilly, Delhi, Fatchgarh, and Roorkee.

The strong indraught along the Bombay coast has given general rainfall during the past 24 hours to the whole of Western and Southern India. The following rainfalls were registered to-day at the reporting stations in the Indus Valley:—Peshawar 2 inch, Dera Ismail Khan 1.48 inches, Jacobabad 2.45 inches, and Kurrachee .18 inch.

Rainfalls exceeding one inch are reported to-day from the following stations in Western, Central, and Southern India:—Rajkot 1.02 inches, Nagpore 1.92 inches, Neemuch 5.6 inches, Indore 1.4 inches, Ajmere 1.3 inches, Bangalore 1.47 inches, and Cochin 1.11 inches.

Moderate rain fell during the day in Burmah, Bengal, and Orissa; .94 inch was recorded at Rangoon, 1.01 inches at Akyab, 1.9 inches at Hazaribagh, and 1.05 inches at Cuttack.

Light showers fell at several of the stations in the North-Western Provinces: Allahabad received .65 inch, and Cawnpore .3 inch from passing showers.

Monday, 12th August.—The barometer has risen during the preceding 24 hours at all stations except Kurrachee and Surat. The increase of pressure exceeds one-tenth of an inch at Masulipatam, and at all stations in the Central Provinces, Central India, Central and Eastern Rajputana, Upper Sind, and the western districts of the North-Western Provinces. The pressure is lowest to-day at Kurrachee, where it is 29.475". The area of minimum pressure now includes Sind and Guzerat.

The pressure along the west coast of the Bay of Bengal is to-day, as yesterday, lowest at Vizagapatam. The differences of pressure between this and the neighbouring stations are small, but still sufficient to indicate the existence of an area of slight barometric depression off the coast of Ganjam.

Temperatures exceeding 90° were registered at Lahore, Delhi, Mooltan, and Jacobabad. The maximum temperature observed at 10 A.M. to-day (93.8°) was registered at Jacobabad.

The feeble cyclonic circulation (indicated by the wind directions, and the small wind velocity at the coast stations from Masulipatam to Saugor Island) about the area of depression near the coast of Ganjam, continues as yesterday. The wind directions over the whole of Northern India west of Bengal show a well-marked cyclonic movement about the area of depression and indraught in Lower Sind.

The wind velocity is above the normal amount at Bombay and Rajkot. The increase in the wind velocity is proportionally greatest in the North-Western Provinces and Rajputana. The amount of wind registered to-day at the stations in the North-Western Provinces is from two to three times the average amounts for August.

No rain is reported from any of the stations in the North-Western Provinces, or from the Punjab stations, excepting Peshawar and Rawalpindi, where light showers have fallen.

Rain has fallen during the day at all the stations on or near the coast of the Bay of Bengal: .72 inch was received at Rangoon, 2.39 inches at Akyab, 1.16 inches at Chittagong, 2.05 inches at Calcutta, 1 inch at Cuttack, .38 inch at Masulipatam, and .41 inch at Madras.

The rainfall in Assam, Northern Bengal, and Behar is at present insignificant in amount.

General rainfall occurred in Western, Central, and Southern India. The largest amounts were recorded in Lower Sind, Central India, and the Berars: 1.64 inches fell at Kurrachee, 1.36 inches at Akola, 2.4 inches at Indore, 1.2 inches at Morar, and 1.03 inches at Neemuch.

Rainfalls exceeding one inch are also reported to-day from Hyderabad and Raichore in the Deccan.

Tuesday, 13th August.—The barometer has risen during the past 24 hours over the whole of India, excepting Assam and Arracan.

The increase of pressure has been unusually rapid over yesterday's area of low pressure in Western India, which has consequently nearly disappeared.

The area of barometric depression in the north of the Bay has not yet disappeared. The differences of pressure along the north-west coast of the Bay are very small to-day, and indicate that the depression has not developed any further. The strong northerly element in the wind directions at Saugor Island and False Point indicates that it has advanced to the north-west during the past 24 hours.

The wind velocity has decreased very considerably during the past 24 hours. The only stations at which it is in excess of its normal amount are Kurrachee, Delhi, and Bareilly. In the Deccan and Southern India the wind velocity is now barely half its average amount for August. The wind directions are generally normal, except in Assam and at the coast stations of Orissa and Bengal. The easterly winds at present prevalent in Assam are an unusual feature during the south-west monsoon.

The wind directions at the coast stations of Bengal and Orissa show a feeble cyclonic motion about the area of low pressure off this coast.

Heavy rain has fallen over yesterday's area of low pressure in Western India: Kurrachee received 3.25 inches during the preceding 24 hours, Deesa 2.38 inches, and Rajkot 1.1 inches. The rainfall extended up the Indus Valley as far as Jacobabad, where slight passing showers occurred during the day. Moderate rain also fell at the stations in the Central Provinces, the Berars, and Bombay.

Burmah and Arracan continue to receive fair rain: .84 inch was registered at Rangoon to-day, and 2.76 inches at Akyab.

Moderate rain fell at the coast stations of Orissa and Bengal, which are at present in the north and west quadrants of the barometric depression at the head of the Bay. Cuttack received .65 inch.

Wednesday, 14th August.—The barometer has risen rapidly during the past 24 hours at Kurrachee, and the barometric depression in Western India has now completely disappeared.

The barometer has also risen in the Deccan, Southern India, Burmah, Arracan, Assam, Eastern and Northern Bengal. The increase of pressure exceeds .05" in Upper Assam, Arracan, and Burmah.

The pressure has diminished by small amounts in the remaining districts of India.

The small depression at the head of the Bay yesterday has advanced during the past 24 hours across Orissa, and is to-day very slightly influencing the pressure in Orissa and Chota Nagpore. Its existence is indicated more plainly by the wind directions than by the barometer.

The pressure is above the average at all stations to-day, except Bombay, Belgaum, and Bangalore. The excess of pressure is greatest in Assam, and at Roorkee and Bareilly in Upper India.

There are two small local depressions to-day, the centres of which are at Allahabad and Khandwa.

The temperature of India is nowhere excessive to-day. The only temperatures exceeding 90° recorded this morning were: 92° at Dera Ismail Khan, and 90.1° at Allahabad.

The temperature is at present slightly below the average in all districts, except at those stations of the Punjab and North-Western Provinces where the rainfall has been below the normal amount, and in Behar.

Fair rain has fallen at the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal. A thunder-storm gave Madras 2.21 inches, .99 inch fell at Musulipatam, 1.3 inches at Chitterpore, 1.1 inches at Akyab, and .43 inch at Rangoon.

Light rain fell in Assam and Eastern Bengal: 1.06 inches were registered at Silchar, and .82 inch at Sibsagar.

Showers occurred at the majority of stations in Western India: the only heavy rainfall reported from this area is 1.6 inches at Khandwa.

Good rain fell in several districts of Upper India: 2.6 inches were registered at Lahore, 1.7 inches at Fatchgarh, 1.5 inches at Aligarh, and .5 inch at Meerut. This gives fair rain to those districts of the North-Western Provinces which shared lightly in the general rainfall of last week.

Thursday, 15th August.—The variations of the barometer have been generally small in amount during the past day. Pressure has diminished in Rajputana, Behar, Assam, the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, the northern districts of the Central Provinces, and Bengal. It has risen elsewhere. The rise is greatest at the western stations of the Punjab, where it averages .08". It also exceeds .05" in Orissa.

The Allahabad local barometric depression has extended during the previous 24 hours, and now includes the stations of Jubbulpore and Hazaribagh. The depression is very slight, and is due to the westward advance of the feeble depression which passed across Orissa yesterday.

The temperature registered at 10 A.M. to-day at Mooltan was 94°, and at Jacobabad 92.8°.

The westerly winds along the Bombay coast are now considerably below their normal strength. Light winds prevail over the whole of the Deccan and Southern India.

The wind directions are generally normal, except at certain stations in the neighbourhood of the Allahabad and Jubbulpore area of depression. The wind directions at Jubbulpore, Ajmere, and Lucknow show distinctly the influence of this area of low pressure.

General rain has fallen during the past 24 hours over the greater part of India. Heavy rainfall has occurred in the north of the Punjab: Rawalpindi received 2·97 inches, and Peshawar 1·1 inches, during the day.

Fair rain has fallen in several districts of the North-Western Provinces: a thunder-storm gave Agra 1·79 inches, ·52 inch was recorded at Roorkee, ·38 inch at Allahabad, and from ·2 inch to 1·7 inches in the Fatehgarh district.

Moderate rain fell at the Bengal stations. The rains are light at present in Assam, Northern Bengal, and Behar.

Akyab received the large amount of 4·03 inches of rain during the day.

Western India and the Deccan are again receiving heavy rainfall. Deesa and Bombay were the centres of excessive rain yesterday: 4·63 inches were registered at the former station, and 3·07 inches at the latter, to-day.

1·86 inches fell at Sholapore, and 1·1 inches at Hyderabad (Deccan), during the preceding 24 hours.

Summary.—There is little in the meteorology of the past week which requires special remark. The barometric depression in Western India due to the westward advance of the third area of low pressure from the Bay of Bengal, across Orissa, the Central Provinces and Rajputana, the formation and progress of which was described in last week's report, did not disappear until Wednesday morning (the 14th). It gave very low pressure to Sind, Guzerat, and the adjacent districts of Rajputana, on the 11th, 12th and 13th. Very heavy rainfall accompanied the existence of this depression, more specially at Kurrachee and Deesa. 13·12 inches were registered at the latter station during the week. The average August rainfall for that station is only 16·78 inches. The rainfall for the week at Kurrachee amounted to 5·37 inches, the average for the month being only 1·69 inches.

The only reporting stations which had no rain during the week were Mooltan and Delhi. The rainfall for the week was generally in excess in Western India, the Deccan, Madras, and the Punjab. It varied very slightly from the normal amount at the Burmah and Southern Bengal stations, in Orissa, Chota Nagpore, and the Central Provinces.

The only districts in which the rainfall was markedly defective during the week were Assam, Northern Bengal, Behar, and the North-Western Provinces.

The following table gives the rainfall for the week, and the approximate average weekly rainfall during the month of August at the stations in Assam, Northern Bengal, and Behar:—

	Rainfall from August 9th to 15th.	Approximate average weekly rainfall August.		Rainfall from August 9th to 15th.	Approximate average weekly rainfall August.
Sibsagar ...	1·5	4·0	Rungpore ...	1·73	3·0
Goolpara ...	1·31	3·0	Mozufferpore ...	·92	2·3
Purneah ...	1·5	3·0	Patna ...	·62	2·0

Over this area the rainfall for the past week is barely fifty per cent. of its normal amount.

The distribution and amount of rain during the past week in the North-Western Provinces is given by the following table:—

	Rainfall August 9th to 15th.	Approximate weekly rainfall August.		Rainfall August 9th to 15th.	Approximate weekly rainfall August.
Benares ...	3·97	2·75	Shahjehanpore ...	·2	1·75

Roorkee ...	·77	2·75	Cawnpore ...	·3	1·75
Meerut ...	·6	1·5

The rainfall of the past week is below the average at all the reporting stations, except Benares, Agra and Aligarh. Moderate rain thus continues to be received in the North-Western Provinces. The monsoon rainfall up to the present date is very considerably in defect over the whole of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, (excepting the Rohileund Division) and in Bundelcund.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 13TH AUGUST 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Rain has fallen in all districts of Madras; prospects are generally fair, but excessive rain is reported to have done some damage in Kistna and parts of Godavery and Kurnool, while in parts of Tanjore, Coimbatore and Trichinopoly want of rain is complained of. The total number on relief works is 125,000, and gratuitously relieved 73,456, more by 940 and less by 2,290 than last week. Good rain is reported throughout Mysore; sowings are in progress and prices falling in some districts; the total number on works for the week ending the 3rd instant was 32,315, and gratuitously relieved 13,980, more by 1,251 and 1,337 than in the previous week. General heavy rain is reported from all parts of the Bombay Presidency, including Sind; in Sind floods have done considerable damage, and in Guzerat the crops are suffering much from excessive rain; a break is also required in Khandesh, Násik, Kattywar and Poona; elsewhere prospects are good. General and copious rain has fallen throughout the Central Provinces, and a break would be beneficial; prospects are generally good. In Berar also a break is desired. In Central India there has been copious rain in Malwa and Bhopal, where a break is now needed; good rain has also fallen in Gwalior and Bundelkhand, and prospects are hopeful. In Rajputana there has been good and general rain, and prospects are good. Rain has fallen throughout Bengal, and prospects are generally favourable; the inundation continues in Dacca; in Jessore and parts of Nuddca the outturn of the early rice is deficient owing to insufficient rain; and in Hazáribágh, Sarun, Gya and the Chittagong Hill tracts transplantation is retarded by want of heavy rain. In Burma good rain is now reported from all districts except those of the Tenasserim Division, from which no report has been received; prospects are favourable. In Assam prospects are good; the damage to the asu or early rice from inundation is said to be about $\frac{1}{3}$ ths. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh good rain has fallen in Benares, Jhánsi, Bareilly and Partábgarh; in Meerut, Agra, Lucknow, Sitapur, Fyzabad and Allahabad the fall is reported scanty, but later information announces a fall of 1.79 inch at Agra on the 14th; more rain is generally needed. In the Punjab there has been general rain, except in the Hissar Division; in all other parts of the province prospects are good.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, AUGUST 22ND, 1878.

Friday, 16th August.—The barometer has fallen at all stations except Jubbulpore, Cochin, Colombo, Madras, Bangalore, and Belgaum. The decrease of pressure exceeds one-tenth of an inch in Upper Sind, and a narrow tract of country along the base of the Himalayas. The decrease is greatest at Roorkee, where it amounts to one-sixth of an inch.

The variations from the mean pressure are generally small in Northern India. In Bengal and Assam the pressure is in excess by small amounts varying from $\cdot 02''$ to $\cdot 04''$. It is $\cdot 01''$ in defect at Patna and Allahabad, and $\cdot 02''$ at Hazaribagh. This defines the Allahabad area of barometric depression to-day. At the remaining stations of the North-Western Provinces the pressure is either normal, or very slightly in excess. In the Punjab, the pressure is identical with the mean pressure of the month at Delhi, and is in excess at the remaining stations by amounts ranging from $\cdot 02''$ (at Mooltan) to $\cdot 06''$ (at Lahore).

The pressure is $\cdot 02''$ in defect to-day over the area, which includes the following stations:—Kurrachee, Bombay, Belgaum, and Khandwa. In the Central Provinces it is $\cdot 02''$ in excess.

The excess is considerable in Ceylon, and at Bellary and Vizagapatam, at which stations it amounts to $\cdot 07''$. It is greatest in Arracan and at Chittagong, and probably in Burmah. At Akyab and Chittagong the pressure to-day is $\cdot 1''$ in excess.

There is consequently excessive pressure to the south of India, and in Ceylon, Southern India, the south of the Bay of Bengal (probably), and in British Burmah and Arracan. In Northern India the variations from the mean pressure for August are very small: they, however, indicate the persistence of the Allahabad, and the Sind and Guzerat, areas of depression.

The wind directions are generally normal. The wind has increased very considerably in strength during the past 24 hours at the head of the Bay, and in Bengal. The wind velocity at Saugor Island, Calcutta, and Dacca is double the August average, and indicates a strong indraught from the Bay of Bengal.

The Allahabad area of depression is marked by light winds to-day; calms are reported from Benares and Allahabad, and the amount of wind recorded at these two stations, and at Patna, is barely 30 per cent. of the August average.

The wind velocity in Western, Central, and Southern India is slightly below the average to-day.

The strong indraught along the Bay of Bengal coast, due to the unusually high pressure in the south of the Bay, has given very heavy rainfall to the coast of the Bay from Rangoon westward to Saugor Island. 2.39 inches were registered at Rangoon to-day, 3.91 inches at Akyab, 1.87 inches at Chittagong, and 5.81 inches at Saugor Island.

Fair rain fell in Assam and Northern Bengal: Rungpore received 1.75 inches, Silchar 1.37 inches, Purneah .88 inch, Sibsagar .57 inch, and Goulpara .53 inch.

Moderate rain fell during the day at the Punjab stations: $\cdot 32$ inch was registered at Lahore and Rawalpindi, $\cdot 83$ inch at Mooltan, $\cdot 62$ inch at Dera Ismail Khan.

The only important rainfalls in Western and Southern India are: 3.50 inches at Akola, and 1.49 inches at Ahmedabad. Colombo received 2.76 inches during the day.

Saturday, 17th August.—The barometer has fallen at all stations, except Sibsagar, Bombay, and Surat, at which stations there has been a slight increase of pressure. The amount of the fall is greatest at Rawalpindi and Lahore, where it exceeds one-tenth of an inch. The decrease of pressure exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in the Punjab, Upper Sind, and Rajputana, and at Cochin, Masulipatam, Dacca, and Chittagong.

The highest temperature recorded this morning was $91\cdot 6^{\circ}$ at Allahabad. The temperature of the Punjab and Sind is at present considerably below the average.

The westerly winds at Rajkot and Bombay are considerably stronger to-day. The wind velocity in the Central Provinces and Deccan is in defect.

The wind has slightly increased in strength during the past 24 hours at the head of the Bay, more especially at Saugor Island. The wind directions at Calcutta (N.W.), Hazaribagh (W.N.W.), Jubbulpore (N.W.), Allahabad (N.N.W.), and Lucknow (N.E.), are unusual, and, considered in connection with the wind directions at the stations in Eastern Bengal and at Purneah and Patna, indicate a general indraught towards Bengal and the eastern districts of Behar, and the formation of a cyclonic vortex in Bengal.

The sky is overcast at the great majority of stations. The only station at which the sky was less than half-covered with cloud at 10 A.M. to-day, was Rawalpindi.

The strong moisture-current which has been pouring into Bengal during the past 24 hours has given general rain to Arracan, Assam, and Bengal. The following are the more important amounts reported from that area to-day:—Akyab 1·84 inches, Chittagong 4·14 inches, Dacca 1·35 inches, Sibsagar 2 inches, and Saugor Island 1·02 inches.

Rain occurred during the day in the most westerly districts of the North-Western Provinces: 3·02 inches fell at Roorkee during a thunder-storm, 4·47 inches were registered at the neighbouring hill-station of Mussoorie, 1 inch fell at Meerut, and 42 inch at Delhi.

Fair rain occurred in the Central Provinces and at Bombay: 1·89 inches were recorded at Jubbulpore to-day, 1·3 inches at Khandwa, 88 inch at Nagpore, and 1·29 inches at Bombay.

Sunday, 18th August.—The pressure has increased at the majority of stations. The increase exceeds 0·5" at the Northern Punjab stations, and in Bengal and Assam. It is greatest at Goalpara, where it is one-tenth of an inch.

The decrease of 0·72" at Patna has given rise to a well-marked area of low pressure in Behar. The cyclonic vortex forming on the 16th and 17th in Bengal is now well developed, and has moved westwards during the past 24 hours.

The temperature to-day, in consequence of the general rainfall of the past 24 hours, is unusually mild. The highest temperature registered at 10 A.M. to-day was 88° at Jacobabad.

The winds in the Deccan and Southern India are generally normal in direction and amount.

The wind velocity at the reporting stations near the head of the Bay has diminished slightly during the past 24 hours. It is, however, still above the average. The effect of the strong indraught from the Bay of Bengal during the past 48 hours, is evident over the whole of Northern India. It has given westerly winds to Assam, and easterly winds over the whole of Northern India to the foot of the Suleiman Mountains. Calms are reported this morning at Lucknow and Allahabad: these stations are at some distance west of the Behar area of barometric depression.

The Bay of Bengal moisture-current during the past 48 hours has been, for the first time during the present monsoon, stronger than the current from the Arabian Sea. This, as noted in Friday's report, is due to the existence of unusually high pressure in Southern India and Burmah, and probably over the south of the Bay of Bengal.

It has given general rainfall during the preceding 24 hours to Arracan, Assam, Bengal, Behar, and the North-Western Provinces. The following are the more important rainfalls registered in the Lower Provinces to-day:—Akyab 1·49 inches, Chittagong 7·36 inches, Calcutta 1·27 inches, Goalpara 1·83 inches, Purneah 3·36 inches, and Hazaribagh 1·62 inches.

The following amounts are reported to have fallen at stations in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh:—Fyzabad 1·3 inches, Lucknow 77 inch, Cawnpore 1 inch, and Roorkee 75 inch. Light showers also fell at Meerut, Aligarh, Benares, and Allahabad. The Fatehgarh district is enjoying good rain.

69 inch was registered at Delhi to-day and 2·2 inches at Umballa. Peshawar received the excessive amount of 6·2 inches from continuous rain during the past 24 hours. This heavy rainfall is local, as only 18 inch is stated to have fallen at Rawalpindi.

Light showers occurred over the Western India area of rainfall.

The Central Provinces received general rain: 2·8 inches fell at Nagpore, and 82 inch at Jubbulpore.

1·64 inches were recorded at Colombo to-day.

Monday, 19th August.—The changes of pressure during the past 24 hours are generally small in amount except in Upper India and at Patna. The barometer has fallen at stations on the Bombay coast, in the Western Deccan, and in Southern India and in Ceylon. It has also fallen at Lucknow and in Assam.

The pressure has increased in the remaining districts of India. The increase in the Punjab exceeds one-tenth of an inch, and is greatest at Mooltan, where it is 143". The rise of the barometer during the past 24 hours has been most rapid at Patna, amounting to 155". In consequence of the increase of pressure at Patna and the fall at Lucknow, the area of barometric depression, which was yesterday in Behar, is to-day in Oudh.

The wind directions in the Deccan and Southern India are generally normal, and the velocity slightly below the average.

The winds have moderated very considerably during the past 24 hours at the head of the Bay and in Bengal, and are now below their normal strength.

Strong winds are reported from the stations in the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, and in Oudh, which are situated on the north and east quadrants of the area of low pressure in Oudh. Delhi and Roorkee occupy the same position to-day, with reference to the area of low pressure, that Lucknow and Allahabad did yesterday; and calms are reported at the two former stations to-day, just as they were yesterday at the two latter stations. The wind directions at stations on the north, east, and south quadrants to-day, indicate a strong indraught to the area of low pressure, and of heavy rainfall. On the western quadrant the only effect of the vortex is to suspend the easterly current up the Gangetic Valley for some distance beyond the depression.

The strong moisture-current from the Bay of Bengal, which has been the most striking feature of the meteorology the past four or five days, has given general and heavy rainfall to the North-Western Provinces and Behar during the past 24 hours. The following rainfalls reported to-day indicate the extent and intensity of the precipitation:—Patna 1·38 inches, Benares 1·04 inches, Allahabad 1·18 inches, Fyzabad 3·7 inches, Lucknow 3·13 inches, Cawnpore 2 inches, Jhansi 1·9 inches, Morar 3·4 inches, Delhi 1·25 inches, and Aligarh 5 inch. The Meerut district and the Rohilcund division received very moderate rain during the day.

Excessive rainfall has occurred in the districts of the Punjab bordering on the North-Western Provinces. 11 inches is reported to have fallen on the 18th at Jullundur in 14 hours.

Very light showers occurred in Bengal and Western India.

There is a partial break in the rains over the Deccan and Southern India.

• Tuesday, 20th August.—The barometric changes are generally unimportant. The only significant change is a considerable increase of pressure at Lucknow and Allahabad, and a decrease at Delhi, due to the westward march of the barometric depression, the centre of which at 10 A.M. yesterday was at or near Lucknow. The centre at the same hour to-day was a short distance to the west of Delhi.

The barometer has fallen slightly during the past 24 hours in Bengal, Assam, Arracan, and Burmah, and over that portion of India south of the Kistna.

It has risen over the rest of India. The increase of pressure exceeds ·05" in Sind and Guzerat.

The wind directions at Ajmere, and at the western stations of the North-Western Provinces, indicate indraught to the area of low pressure and of heavy rainfall in Upper India. Calms are reported from all the Punjab stations.

The cyclonic vortex in the North-Western Provinces has given general rain over the whole province, heaviest to-day in the central and western districts. It is also, in consequence of the indraught, accompanied by fine clear weather, or fine weather with passing clouds, over the whole of India to the south and east of the depression.

The following rainfalls indicate the extent and intensity of the precipitation during the past 24 hours due to the cyclonic vortex:—

Lucknow 1 inch, Morar 1·16 inches, Jhansi 7 inch, Aligarh 5·5 inches, Shahjahanpore 1·8 inches, Meerut 2·8 inches, Delhi 2·06 inches, and Umballa 2·3 inches.

The rainfall returns of Simla and Mussoorie indicate that the moisture condensation has been almost entirely confined to the lower strata of the atmosphere.

Those districts of the North-Western Provinces which did not share in the general rainfall reported yesterday, have consequently received heavy rain during the past 24 hours.

3·4 inches were registered at Neemuch to-day, and 1·78 inches at Sibsagar.

• Wednesday, 21st August.—The pressure has increased at all the reporting stations during the past 24 hours, except Roorkee, Masulipatam, Ajmere, and Khandwa. The increase exceeds one-tenth of an inch at Purneah, Goulpara, and Dacca. It is greater than ·05" in Assam, Bengal, Behar, Oudh, and at Agra. The barometric depression in Upper India has advanced much more slowly during the past day, and in a north-westerly direction. It is now rapidly disappearing.

The pressure is relatively low at False Point, Cuttack, and Vizagapatam. This, and the unusual wind directions, appear to indicate the formation of an area of slightly diminished pressure off the coast of Orissa and Ganjam.

The barometric differences between the south of the Bay and the coast of Bengal are considerably below the average. This is chiefly due to the existence to-day of very high pressure in Arracan, Bengal, and Assam, where it is from ·12" to ·18" above the mean pressure for the month.

The wind velocity is above the average at Bareilly and Delhi in Northern India, and at Colombo, where a strong south-west wind has set in during the past 24 hours. The wind velocity is generally from one-half to three-fourths its normal amount. The wind velocity is proportionately least at Bangalore.

The wind directions in South Bengal, Orissa, and Ganjam indicate a feeble indraught towards the area of barometric depression off the coast of Orissa, and Ganjam.

In Upper India, the wind directions, and the high velocity at Delhi and Bareilly, show that there is still a considerable indraught to the area of low pressure and heavy rainfall.

Heavy rain has fallen during the past day in the western districts of the North-Western Provinces, and the adjacent districts of the Punjab, and moderate rain over the central districts of the North-Western Provinces: 2·96 inches were registered at Roorkee this morning, 1·5 inches at Meerut, 3·5 inches at Delhi, and 2·33 inches at Mussoorie.

There is a break in the rains over the greater part of India.

The strong south-west wind in Ceylon and Southern India has given 1·15 inches to Cochin, and the excessive amount of 5·23 inches to Bangalore, during the past 24 hours.

Thursday, 22nd August.—The barometric changes during the past 24 hours are not large in amount. Pressure has increased in the western and central districts of the North-Western Provinces and the eastern districts of the Punjab. It has diminished at the reporting stations in the remaining districts. The decrease of pressure exceeds ·05" in Guzerat, Bombay, Central India, the Deccan, the Central Provinces, and Ganjam. The cyclonic vortex in Upper India has disappeared during the past 24 hours.

There is an area of low pressure in the centre of India, including the stations of Khandwa, Jubbulpore, Nagpore, and Cuttack. The amount of the depression is very slight. The area of low pressure which was off the coast of Ganjam and Orissa, has consequently advanced during the past 24 hours across Ganjam into the Central Provinces.

The wind velocity has increased considerably at the stations near the head of the Bay of Bengal. It has decreased in the North-Western Provinces. The wind directions at the majority of stations in the neighbourhood of the area of low pressure in the centre of India indicate cyclonic motion of the lower atmosphere.

The south-west wind at Colombo has increased in strength during the day.

No rain has fallen in the western districts of the North-Western Provinces, except a light shower at Roorkee; Umballa received 1·6 inches yesterday; 2·2 inches were registered at Fyzabad to-day.

Fair rain has occurred over the area of low pressure in the centre of India: 1·35 inches were recorded at Chitterpore in Ganjam this morning, 4·56 inches at Masulipatam, 2·08 inches at Nagpore, and 1·01 inches at Khandwa. Light showers occurred at Cuttack, Vizagapatam, and Jubbulpore.

Colombo received 3·14 inches from the strong south-west moisture current blowing there yesterday.

The break in the rains continues in the remaining districts of India.

General Summary.—The meteorology of the past week has been peculiarly interesting and suggestive. It illustrates the principles laid down in the note on "recent south-west monsoons," and confirms the relations stated to exist between a high baric gradient and heavy rainfall. The high baric gradient as there stated may be due either to diminished pressure over the land area or increased pressure over the sea area, or to both combined.

The barometer rose steadily from the 11th to the 15th in Ceylon, Southern India and Burmah. This increased atmospheric pressure undoubtedly extended over the south of the Bay of Bengal, and probably over a considerable part of the Indian Ocean to the south of it. The pressure on the 16th was about one-tenth of an inch above the average in the south of the Bay, and varied very slightly from the average for the month in Northern India. There was consequently at this period increased baric gradient, solely due to excessive pressure in the south of the Bay, and indicated on this occasion by high barometer in Ceylon and Burmah.

The increased baric gradient over the Bay gave a strong atmospheric and moisture current to Northern India, which set in on the 15th and continued for several days.

This strong moisture current gave heavy rainfall during the week to Burmah, Aracan, Bengal, Behar, the North-Western Provinces, and the south-eastern districts of the Punjab. It also developed a cyclonic vortex which drifted up the Gangetic valley. The heaviest rain, as a rule, occurred in the neighbourhood of the cyclonic vortex.

Heavy rainfall began along the Aracan coast on the 14th. It extended to Southern Bengal and to British Burmah on the 15th. It was chiefly confined to Bengal on the 16th, Chittagong on this day being the centre of heaviest rainfall. Heavy rainfall continued over Bengal on the 17th, Chittagong and Purneah being the centres of greatest precipitation. Moderate rain also occurred in Behar and the North-Western Provinces on this day. The indraught to the area of heavy rainfall in North-Western Bengal developed a cyclonic vortex on the morning of the 17th, the wind directions at the stations in Bengal, Behar and Chota Nagpore indicating a strong indraught. The centre was at or near Patna at 10 A.M. of the 18th, and at the same hour on the 19th it was in the neighbourhood of Lucknow. It had therefore advanced almost due westwards with an average velocity of from 7 to 8 miles per hour. General rainfall occurred on the 18th over Behar and the North-Western Provinces, heaviest in Oudh, Fyzabad and Lucknow, judging from the limited rainfall reports being the centres of heaviest precipitation on this day. On the morning of the 20th the centre was at a short distance west of Delhi. It had thus advanced to the west-north-westwards during the previous 24 hours with an average velocity of about 7 miles per hour. On the 19th it was accompanied by general rain over the whole of the North-Western Provinces. The heaviest reported falls on this day occurred at Aligarh, Delhi, Meerut and Umballa. The barometric observations taken on the 21st indicate that during the preceding 24 hours it advanced to the north-west from Delhi towards the hills, and was probably broken up on the morning of the 21st.

Heavy rainfall was on the 20th confined to the most western districts of the North-Western Provinces, and the adjacent districts of the Punjab. Delhi was the centre of heaviest precipitation. The only station from this area which reported a fall exceeding one inch on the 21st was Umballa.

The explanation of this remarkable cyclonic vortex which has given heavy general rain to those districts of Northern India where it had hitherto been scanty and where rain was much needed is very simple. It should be remembered that the total amount of moisture in the air over India in the rains at any place would not give it more than three or four inches of rain. It is therefore evident, considering the slight changes of humidity which actually take place during the rains, that heavy rainfall must necessarily be accompanied by a considerable indraught, and the more rapid the rate at which rain falls, the greater must the indraught be. In the present case 48 hours' heavy rainfall in the plain district of Bengal (unbroken by hills) gave rise to a cyclonic vortex. This drifted up the Gangetic valley with the atmospheric current, and as the supply of moisture, which it obtained from all quarters was very considerable, it continued to exist for several days, and gave heavy rainfall in its march over the Gangetic valley. The fact that during its advance the rainfall in Western and Southern India was insignificant in amount, shows that the vortex drew to itself supplies of moisture from the Arabian Sea, as well as the Bay of Bengal.

The extent and intensity of the precipitation in the Lower Provinces is apparent from the following return of the rainfall of the past week :—

			Rain from August 15th to 22nd in inches.				Rain from August 15th to 22nd in inches.
Akyah	8.10	Hazaribagh	4.15
Chittagong	14.41	Patna	1.06
Saugor Island	7.25	Purneah	4.70
Calcutta	2.04

The following gives the rainfall in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab for the same period :—

			Rainfall from August 15th to 22nd in inches.				Rainfall from August 15th to 22nd in inches.
Benares	1.77	Meerut	4.6
Allahabad	2.25	Delhi	8.04

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 20TH AUGUST 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Rain has fallen in all districts of Madras; in parts of Kistna, Godavery, Ganjam and Kurnool there is some complaint of excessive rain, and in parts of Trichinopoly and Coimbatore and in the Wynaud more rain is required; but prospects are generally reported good; prices shew a tendency to fall. The total number on works is 115,590, and on gratuitous relief 70,146, less by 4,410 and 3,310 than last week. In Mysore there has been general rain; the prospects of the crops are good, and prices are falling; the total number on works for the week ending the 10th instant was 31,918, and gratuitously relieved 13,775, less by 397 and 205 than in the previous week. General rainfall is reported from all parts of the Bombay Presidency, including Sind, where much damage has been done in the Kurrachee district from floods; a break, which was much wanted, appears now to have set in throughout Guzerat, Khandesh, Násik, and the Southern Mahratta Country, and prospects are favourable. In the Central Provinces excessive rain continues, and a break is much needed; prices are stationary. In Central India excessive and continuous rain is reported in Malwa; good rain has fallen in Gwalior; some has also fallen in Bundelkhand, but more is required. Heavy rain has fallen in all parts of Rajputana, and prospects are good. General rain is reported throughout Bengal, except in Surin; prospects are generally favourable, but more rain is still required in the Patna division; inundations continue, with damage to the aus crop, in Dacca and Furreedpore. Reports from Assam are favourable. In Burma the rainfall has been good everywhere except in Prome and Thayetinyo, where much more is still required; in the Tenasserim division continuous rain is also needed. Excellent rain has now fallen throughout the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and prospects are everywhere good. In the Punjab there has been general and heavy rain, with floods in the districts under the hills; agricultural prospects are favourable, but damage has been done in the Pesháwar district from inundation.

The Hymns of the Rig-Veda, in the Samhita and Pada Text, Deva-Nagri Character, by Professor F. Max Müller, M. A., in two Volumes. Price, Rs. 24 ; packing and postage, Re. 1.

* The Rig-Veda, the oldest book of Indian literature, has very properly been made one of the principal text-books for those who study Sanskrit in the schools and colleges in India, and though at present a scholar-like knowledge of the Vedic hymns is in the examinations required of the more advanced students only, yet, as soon as editions, translations, grammars, and dictionaries shall have rendered the study of these ancient documents more accessible, I doubt not that the time will come when no one in India will call himself a Sanskrit scholar who cannot construe the hymns of the ancient Rishis of his country.—Extract from Preface.

CASUALTIES AND DANGERS TO NAVIGATION.

The 27th August 1878.

No. 21 of 1878.—The following Notice to Mariners is published for general information :—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

PERSIAN GULF.

Additional information concerning the reported Shoal, N.N.E. of Bahrain.

With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 19, issued from this Department on the 18th July 1878, the following additional information has been received through the Bombay Government :—

The Master of the British Barque Oribe describes this shoal as being about a quarter of a mile in extent, and lying in a north and south direction; the southern end, about 30 yards in diameter, being the shallowest part, and appeared to be nearly awash. The water over the patch is described as being "thick and muddy, with a light curling ripple."

At the time of passing the shoal, Jebel Direng bore N.-E. nearly.

AUSTRALIAN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

Simla, the 24th August 1878.

The following is re-published for general information :—

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Sydney, 7th February, 1878.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, directs it to be notified, for general information, that it is intended to hold under the supervision of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales an International Exhibition, in Sydney, in August, 1879, according to the annexed general programme.

MICHAEL FITZPATRICK.

AUSTRALIAN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION,

TO BE HELD IN SYDNEY, NEW SOUTH WALES, IN AUGUST, 1879.

The Exhibition will be held in buildings specially erected in the Prince Alfred Park, Sydney, New South Wales. All goods forwarded for exhibition, and addressed to the Secretary for that special purpose, are admitted free of duty or customs charged.

In the Agricultural Department, money prizes are awarded as well as printed certificates; in the non-agricultural section, silver and bronze medals, also certificates of commendation.

All exhibits sent may be sold at the Exhibition, but must remain until the final closing.

Applications for space to be made at least one month prior to date of opening, and the necessary forms and all information respecting the exhibition may be obtained of

JULES JOUBERT, Secretary,
227, George-street, Sydney, New South Wales,

Or at the offices of the Commissioners for New South Wales, Paris.

Entries close 1st July.

The Exhibition will be divided into two distinct divisions, as under :—

The Society provides all stands, &c., and undertakes the care and charge of all exhibits, without however incurring any responsibility.

BY-LAWS AND REGULATIONS FOR THE SOCIETY'S EXHIBITION.

I.—Opening.

The Exhibition of 1879 shall open on the 1st August at noon.

II.—Admission.

Members free, on presentation of member's ticket—which is not transferable.

Non-members, one shilling each.

N.B.—The Gate-keeper or Stewards in charge thereof may require proof of ownership of any ticket, and in default of such proof being afforded, may impound the same.

III.—Conditions of Competition.

All exhibits must, on the day of the Exhibition, be bonâ fide the property of the exhibitor, and have been so at least one month previously; and all farm and horticultural produce, excepting in classes A, B, C, D, and E, must be the production of the person exhibiting it.

The same exhibit cannot compete for the Society's prizes in two distinct classes, except where it is permitted by the Council.

Exhibits, although entered in any class, may compete for special prizes, notice of which shall be given on the certificate of entry.

Exhibits entered in the wrong class by the exhibitor will be excluded from competition for prizes, except where permitted by the Executive Committee.

Any exhibit having taken the first prize in a class for two consecutive years, shall not receive any prize in such class, but may be exhibited, and if considered superior to all other exhibits in that class, it shall receive a certificate from the Judges to that effect. Such exhibit shall, however, be eligible to compete for any special prize.

IV.—Certificates of Entry.

The certificate of entry is a printed form, to be obtained from the Secretary, and from the Secretaries of the principal local Societies, and is available for one exhibit only, except in the case of stock entered for sale, when one certificate is sufficient. The exhibitor, therefore, must apply for as many certificates as he has exhibits, except as specified above, and must fill them in according to the forms prescribed. And as it is from these documents that the catalogue will be compiled, it is absolutely necessary that the whole of the questions contained in them should be answered as far as possible.

The certificate will not be valid unless signed by the exhibitor or his agent.

No exhibit will be admitted without a certificate of entry correctly filled in, signed, and delivered by post or otherwise to the Secretary, at the office of the Society, on or before the dates for the closing of entries specified on the certificate of entry or advertised; and the Secretary will acknowledge the delivery of the certificate by returning to the exhibitor a receipt for the same, upon the production of which the exhibit will be admitted into the Society's ground.

No entrances will be received after the dates specified for the closing of the same.

All owners competing in sections 1 and 2 shall be restricted to three entries of pure pedigree (as admissible in the Stud and Herd Book) in each class, but no branch establishment of one partnership shall entitle owners to more than the three aforesaid entries in each class, but they may enter ten others, not necessarily of pure pedigree, for exhibition and sale on the grounds upon payment of a fee of ten shillings for each head, these latter to be placed in yards or covered stalls. In case of protest, based on difference of age, animals to be submitted to the Society's Veterinary Surgeon.

Exhibitors or their agents, when called upon by the Stewards or Committee, shall prove the correctness of their certificates of entry.

No charge will be made to members, upon the certificate of entry for any of the Society's prizes, but a fee of 2s. 6d. will be levied on certificates of entry for non-members.

Such charge as the Committee may determine shall be made for ground or wall space, and the Stewards shall use discretionary power as to the space to be allotted to each exhibitor.

V.—Arrival and Arrangement of Exhibits.

All exhibits must bear a distinctive mark corresponding with that entered upon the certificate of entry, and be delivered to and removed from the Society's ground free of charge.

Exhibitors or their agents must, if requested, point out to the Stewards their respective exhibits, in order that they may be identified, classified, and numbered according to the catalogue before being submitted to the Judges.

No exhibit will be admitted into the Society's ground unless the attendant is in possession of the Secretary's receipt; and each exhibit, when it enters the ground, must be at once put into its proper place.

Exhibits must be brought to the grounds on the days to be hereafter specified.

VI.—Disease or Danger.

Should there be any reason to suspect that any exhibit is either diseased or dangerous, the Society reserves the right of removing the same from, or refusing its admittance to, the Exhibition. No stock will be admitted into the Society's Exhibition without first being passed by Inspectors appointed by the Society.

VII.—Control of Exhibits.

Exhibitors shall, under direction of the Stewards, arrange their exhibits; and no exhibit shall afterwards be moved without the sanction of the Stewards, under a penalty not exceeding £5.

The Committee shall have power to retain the exhibit of any exhibitor so fined, until such fine is paid.

The members of the Executive Committee, and the Stewards in the section, shall at any time have power to enter any space allotted to any exhibitor, and give such directions as regards the exhibits as they may think fit.

Exhibitors will render themselves liable to a penalty of £5 by removing any official placard, ticket, or ribbon, affixed or posted by the Stewards, or by affixing any other placard, ticket, or ribbon, in lieu thereof, or by refusing in any way to carry out the instructions of the Stewards, who shall incur no responsibility by putting these regulations in force.

No exhibitor shall be permitted to be with the Stewards, or Judges during the time of judging the exhibits, unless by special request of the Stewards. And the exhibit or exhibits of any person infringing this rule, shall be at once disqualified.

Live-stock attendants will be supplied by the Stewards with distinguishing badges and required to wear the same, and shall be regarded, during the time of the Exhibition, as servants of the Society, and shall be under the entire control and direction of the Stewards. They shall be in attendance each day of the Exhibition from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M., for the purpose of exhibiting and parading stock.

VIII.—Care and Feeding of Stock.

The Society undertakes to find the necessary accommodation and attendance, if required, for the animals and birds during the Exhibition; but no provision will be made for the feeding of the same (except in the case of Section VI.—Dogs) beyond establishing a store at which fodder may be purchased by exhibitors; nor will the Society provide for the nightly accommodation of entire horses.

IX.—Departure of Exhibits.

The Society reserves the right to retain any exhibit for such time as the Executive Committee may consider necessary; and no exhibit shall be removed from the Exhibition without a formal permit from the Stewards or the Secretary.

The dates on which exhibits will be allowed to be removed will be hereafter specified.

X.—Responsibility.

DAMAGE THROUGH EXHIBITS.—The Society will not be responsible for any accident that may be caused through or by any exhibit, and it shall be a condition of entry that each exhibitor shall hold the Society harmless and indemnify it against any legal proceedings arising from any such accident.

DAMAGE TO EXHIBITS.—The Society will not, under any circumstances, hold itself responsible for any loss or misdelivery of live-stock, or other exhibits, at the Society's Exhibition, or for any damage thereto.

LOSS BY DISEASE.—The signing of the certificate of entry of any animal will be taken as a guarantee that the animal specified is free from all disease, as far as is known to the owner. In case of infectious disease being spread through or by an exhibit, the exhibitor shall be held responsible.

FIRE.—Means will be taken to guard against fire and protect the property at the Exhibition.

XI.—Trials, Parade of Stock, &c.

Due notice will be given by advertisement to exhibitors of the arrangements made by the Stewards for carrying out field trials of implements, machinery, parade of stock, &c.

MOVEMENT AND WORKING.—The conveyance to the trial ground and working of the implements and machinery will be directed by the Stewards, and they will be carried out at the exhibitor's expense.

WORKING IMPLEMENTS.—No implement shall be worked on the ground unless by express order of the Stewards.

GRAIN IN SHEAF, &c.—Grain in sheaf, hay, corn, straw, roots, wool, or any material required for testing the machines, and if wanted horse-power, must be provided by exhibitors.

STEAM.—No exhibitor shall light a fire under, or supply the boiler of any steam-engine, until he has the authority of the Stewards to do so; this authority will be given after the engineer appointed by the Society has examined the engine, and has certified that it is perfectly safe.

The Stewards shall have power to order the removal of any exhibit worked in contravention of this rule.

XII.—Infringement of Regulations.

In the event of a wilful infringement by an exhibitor of any of the foregoing regulations and bye-laws, it shall be in the power of the Council, upon proof of the same, to prohibit such exhibitor from exhibiting and competing at any of the Society's Exhibitions in future.

XIII.—Prize Awards.

The prize awards affixed to all exhibits shall be distinguished by the following colours, viz:—

- Blue for First.
- Red for Second.
- Yellow for Highly Commended.
- Black for Commended.
- Red, white, and blue for Champion.
- Ribbons will only be affixed in Sections 1, 2, 3, and 6.

XIV.—Protests.

All protests must be lodged with the Secretary, or left at the office of the Society, addressed to him, within forty-eight hours from the notification of the Judges' awards.

XV.—Non-Competitive.

The Committee may receive for exhibition only, and not for competition, if space admits, any exhibit not specified in the schedule.

XVI.—Stewards.

Stewards in all sections :—

1. Shall attend at the time and place notified to them by circular.
2. Shall examine as to the correctness of certificates of entry in their respective sections, prior to the completion of the catalogue.
3. Shall attend to the reception, classification, and placing of all exhibits, and to all matters in connection therewith.
4. Shall wait upon the Judges, furnish them with award papers, prize cards, or ribbons, and afford them all information and attention necessary to the discharge of their duties.
5. Shall sign the award papers conjointly with the Judges; see the prize cards or ribbons properly affixed to the prize exhibits, and certify to the awards noted by the Secretary in the Society's Entrance Registry Book.
6. Shall report to the Executive Committee, at least a fortnight before the opening of the Exhibition, the number of attendance they require in their respective departments.
7. Shall arrange amongst themselves for the constant and effective supervision of their sections, the behaviour of the attendants, and the comfort and convenience of both exhibitors and the public.
8. Shall, in case they think it advisable to reject an exhibit in any section, at once report the same to the Executive Committee, who shall take immediate action in the matter.

XVII.—Judging.

AWARD PAPERS.—The Judges shall fill up the award papers supplied to them in all their details, assign reasons for their decisions if requested, sign and hand the same to the Stewards.

INSUFFICIENT MERIT.—When the Judges consider the exhibit of any class does not possess sufficient merit to deserve a prize; or in case of equality of merit, they shall, through the Stewards, at once report the same to the Council with their reasons in full, and the Council shall act as they deem it expedient.

EXTRA PRIZE.—The Judges of any section, should they consider any exhibit deserving of an extra prize, may recommend the Council to award the same.

XVIII.—Privileges.

The privilege of sale of refreshments, fodder, &c., shall be sold by tender at least one month prior to the date of the Exhibition.

No drinks, edibles, or other refreshments, shall be permitted to be sold at the Exhibition otherwise than by the authorized caterer, except by special permission from the Executive Committee.

No entertainment for which a special charge is made shall be permitted at the Exhibition without special permission from the Executive Committee.

XIX.—Exhibitors' Sales.

Public sales of such exhibits as owners may desire to dispose of shall be held at the Exhibition on such days and in such order as shall be duly notified.

XX.—Commission on Sales.

A Commission, or Rebate, of one per cent. on all sales of exhibits, effected either by auction, or privately, during the time of the Exhibition, or previous to the removal of the same, shall be paid to the Society, for the benefit of the General Fund, not later than one month after the close of the sale.

* * * Copies of the above Schedule, and any other information relating thereto, will be forwarded on application to the Secretary, 227, George-street, Sydney; or to

JULES JQUBERT,

Secy. to the Paris Commission, New South Wales Court, Exposition Universelle, Champ de Mars, Paris.

SCHEDULE OF PRIZES.

NOTICE.—This being a full and complete Prize Schedule, it should be preserved by members and intending exhibitors.

N.B.—In all cases where an exhibit is for sale, the price may be entered on the certificate of entry for publication in the catalogue, with the understanding that such exhibit may be claimed at the price named.

In addition to the champion prizes already specified in the schedule, the Council may, on the joint recommendation of the Stewards and Judges, in any other section, award special prizes for the best collection of exhibits.

Arrangements will be made with the Honourable the Minister for Works, and the various steam navigation companies, for the carriage of exhibits on liberal terms.

Special Rules of Exhibition.

I.—The Wool District shall comprise:—

First—That open to all comers.

Second—The intermediate and Saltbush Districts.—These shall comprise the following counties, viz.:—Stapylton, Benarba, Denham, Jamison, Leichhardt, Baradine, White, Courallie, Gregory, Ewenhairs, Oxley, Flinders, Narronnie, Kennedy, Cunningham, Bland, Dowling, Gipp, Bland; the western part of the county of Bourke; the counties of Cooper, Stuart, Nicholson, Franklin, Waljeers, Waradgery, Boyd, the western portion of the counties of Mitchell and Urana; and the counties of Denison, Townsend, Cadell, Wakool and Carr; that portion of New South Wales lying westward of the intermediate district, and all portions of the colony of Queensland, except the Darling Downs proper.

II.—Exhibitors in the Intermediate and Saltbush Districts may compete with the same wools in the classes "open to all comers."

III.—Each lot of wool exhibited for a prize must be the land fibre growth of one person or firm, whose names must be declared, and must have been shorn from sheep which shall have been the property of the exhibitor for at least six months prior to the time of shearing.

IV.—Growers desiring to compete in more classes than one, must make a separate entry for each class.

V.—Exhibits which are entered in other classes may compete for the All Comers and Special Prizes.

VI.—Competitors may enter two lots, but can only take one prize in each class.

VII.—Exhibits entered in the wrong class by the exhibitor will be excluded from competition for prizes.

VIII.—Persons willing to exhibit will please obtain from the Secretary, 227, George-street, Sydney, a certificate of entry, which must be filled up and returned to him before the 1st July.—Any deviation from the rules will disqualify the entry.

IX.—Competitors must certify the number of days' growth of each lot exhibited in all classes except hoggets; and in judging, an allowance or deduction will be made for the difference in time of growth.

X.—No wool will be allowed to compete that is more than 395 days' growth, except the hogget wool, which may be of fourteen months' growth.

XI.—Exhibitors shall state fully the plan of washing or scouring adopted, and the soaps and chemicals used (if any).

XII.—Exhibitors are requested to state also how the sheep or goats were bred from which the exhibits were taken.

XIII.—The wool for exhibition must be delivered free of all charges, at the place appointed for the Show not later than the 15th of July; and on the day to be appointed, the exhibitor or his agent shall unpack and place the wool in the numbered cases allotted to him.

XIV.—Exhibitors are recommended to pack all their exhibits in cases, with each fleece in a separate compartment. The Society will be prepared in Sydney with suitable cases of an uniform size for displaying the wool to advantage during the Exhibition.

XV.—Each and every exhibit must have a different and a distinctive brand of two or three letters only, with the Class or Classes for which it is competing immediately under, marked in ink on one side, and also on the end—not the ordinary or previous brand, or mark, or the initials of the owner. Any other brands, marks, or mottoes will disqualify the exhibitor.

* See Special Regulation 7

Special Regulations.

I.—Exhibitors must be the growers of the wine entered for competition, and the wines the produce of grapes only.

II.—A suitable cellar for the reception of the exhibits is to be provided at least two months previous to the opening of the Exhibition, and kept permanently for the storage of the wines.

III.—Four bottles of each sample of wine, without labels, mottoes, coats of arms, crests or distinctive seals, or marks of any kind, but having only letters affixed (not the initials of the grower) and packed in cases, sealed or locked, shall be delivered at the cellar at least fifteen clear days previous to first day fixed for tasting. The Secretary shall mark the cases with numbers in consecutive order, as received, and enter them in the name of the exhibitor, giving a receipt for the number so entered.

IV.—Competitors may enter as many wines as they please in any one class, but can only take one prize in such class for wines of the same distinctive character, and made from the same description of grape. Exhibitors shall, at the time of delivery at the cellar, forward to the Secretary certificates signed by them, giving the locality where the wines are grown, the name (as far as possible) of the variety or varieties of grapes from which the wines are made, the number of gallons in stock, the age, colour, whether of light character or full-bodied or sweet, price per dozen if in bottle, or if in wood price per gallon, and any other information relative to the character of the wines that may assist the Steward in classifying them.

V.—In case of any infringement or neglect of Rule 4, by which the information therein required is withheld, or if any wilful misstatement be made, which is calculated to mislead the Stewards in the classification, the wine shall in such case be disqualified for competition.

VI.—The Stewards shall check and correct the classification of the wines, and one bottle of each sample shall be opened by them for such classification only; and the name of the exhibitor shall be withheld from them at the time.

VII.—The wines for the 1879 Exhibition shall be classed as follows, viz. :—

1. For the best light White Wine, not older than the vintage of 1877.
2. For the best light White Wine, older than the vintage of 1877.
3. For the best full-bodied White Wine, not older than the vintage of 1877.
4. For the best full-bodied White Wine, older than the vintage of 1877.
5. For the best light Red Wine, not older than the vintage of 1877.
6. For the best light Red Wine, older than the vintage of 1877.
7. For the best full-bodied Red Wine, not older than the vintage of 1877.
8. For the best full-bodied Red Wine, older than the vintage of 1877.
9. For the best sweet White Wine, not older than the vintage of 1877.
10. For the best sweet White Wine, older than the vintage of 1877.
11. For the best sweet Red Wine, not older than the vintage of 1877.
12. For the best sweet Red Wine, older than the vintage of 1877.

Special awards shall be made for the best sample of wine made from each or any one of the following varieties of grape, of the same vintage, viz. :—1, Riesling; 2, Verdelho; 3, White Hermitage; 4, Red Hermitage; 5, Carbinet; 6, Burgundy (or Pinot-noir). The grower shall insert in the certificate (under rule No. 4) the name of the grape from which the wine is made, and certify that the wine is the produce of that grape only. The samples to be sent in under the conditions in rule No. 3, and when placed before the Judges shall compete only with wines made from the same grape of the same vintage.

VIII.—The wines shall be opened on the days appointed for tasting, and placed before the Judges in the order contained in rule 7.

IX.—The tasting shall commence at 1 o'clock on each day.

X.—The youngest wines shall be tasted first.

XI.—Metal plates (japanned) large enough to contain at least three wineglasses each, with legible numbers stamped on the margin, from No. 1 upwards to 50 (or more if necessary) to be provided; also a supply of clean wineglasses of good quality.

XII.—One glass of wine for each Judge on all the samples in each class shall be sent to the Judges' room on the numbered plates before the tasting is commenced—each plate to contain glasses of one sample only; and the sample so placed before the Judge shall consist of one class only at a time.

XIII.—The Judges shall be alone at the time of tasting (in a separate room provided for them), and shall note their decision on each class in detail, on a yard paper furnished by the Society, giving the number of the wines to which they have awarded prize, and the number of those they may think worthy of honourable mention or high commendation, together with their reasons for withholding prizes or honours from the samples not included in the above, and, before the next class is submitted to their judgment, shall hand the award paper, signed by them, to the Steward, who shall deliver it to the Secretary for entry in the Society's books. Should the Judges be unable to agree upon any award, they shall refer the matter to the Steward, whose decision shall be final.

XIV.—No exhibitor will be permitted to question the decision of the Judges, unless it can be shown that some violation of a rule has been the cause of such decision.

XV.—Labels shall be supplied by the growers for two of the bottles sent in, which shall be affixed to them after adjudication for the purpose of exhibition only; the Secretary distinguishing wines to which prizes may have been awarded, and those obtaining honourable mention or high commendation.

XVI.—At the conclusion of the tasting, the Judges shall draw up a report of their proceedings, sign and deliver it to the Steward, by whom it is to be countersigned.

XVII.—The Judges shall be furnished with a list of the prizes to be awarded to each class.

XVIII.—After the adjudication of the wines, the residue of them shall be repacked in the cellar, and remain in the charge of the Steward, for the purpose of testing the same by chemical or other process at any time they may require.

SECTION IX.—SUGARS AND SUGAR-PRODUCING PLANTS.

Regulations.

I.—Exhibitors will not be allowed to show more than two exhibits in any class, and can only take one prize in each class.

II.—All objects for competition must be the property of the exhibitor, or his employer ; and pot plants to be in his possession at least one month before they are exhibited, except in the case of newly imported plants.

III.—Cut flowers to consist of a truss or spike ; and all blooms must have been blown by the exhibitor.

IV.—In the miscellaneous collection of plants, not more than two plants shall be exhibited of any species for which a distinct prize is offered.

V.—Objects not included in the schedule may be exhibited, and the Judges shall have power to recommend prizes or honourable mention.

SECTION XII.—MANURES.

Class.

- 526. For the best sample, not less than 1 cwt. Bronze medal.

Special Regulations.

I.—All exhibits must be of colonial manufacture, and for commercial purposes.

II.—Exhibits to be accompanied by a certificate of analysis from the Society's analytical chemist.

III.—The price per cwt. at which it is offered for sale must be stated.

SECTION XIII.—IMPLEMENTS AND AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY.

This section is of so much importance in a colony where manual labour is scarce and dear, that a great deal of attention will be devoted to it. It is not intended to draw any line between imported and colonial articles, because it is considered that a position of impartiality tends best to stimulate colonial skill in manufactures. Except in the case of a collection of implements and things that can be judged in a quiescent state, prizes will be offered only in such classes of exhibits as can be judged in action either in the field or in the Exhibition ground. Steam engines, threshing machines, sheep-washing machines, sugar-making machinery, chaff-cutters, corn-crushers, winnowing machines, &c., will be judged on the ground. In conformity, therefore, with this arrangement, while the Exhibition is open to every species of machine and tool that can be classed in this section, prizes are only offered for the following articles :—

 596. Cigars, made in the colony from colonial grown leaf.
 596A. Cigars of any manufacture, and of any leaf.

DIVISION II.—NON-AGRICULTURAL.

In this department prizes in the shape of bronze medals will be awarded in case of special merit, as recommended by the Stewards; but a certificate will be given in all other cases.

The silver medals will only be awarded in such exceptional cases, when recommended by the Judges, as to the Council may seem expedient.

A competent jury of gentlemen will be selected to report upon the whole of these exhibits, they being allowed to call in experts when necessary, and on their recommendation, endorsed by the Stewards, the Council may award Champion prizes for the best collection of exhibits.

N.B.—All articles manufactured at the Exhibition may be sold and delivered to purchasers, permits to allow removal being obtained from the Secretary.

No exhibitor must enter two articles of the same sort, and the Stewards will be empowered to refuse admission to articles deemed, for various reasons, inadmissible. Articles not properly entered will not be admitted.

Intending exhibitors are requested to give a full description of their goods.

It is especially requested that exhibitors will pay attention to the regulations concerning the filling up of the certificate. It is from these documents that the catalogue will be compiled; all points of novelty or originality, and other information respecting the exhibits, should be fully stated.

Since it will not be allowed to attach price tickets to the exhibits, it is the more necessary that the price should be mentioned in the catalogue, and therefore that this particular be put in the certificate.

Any exhibitor whose goods can be properly placed together will be at liberty to arrange such goods in his own way, provided his arrangement is compatible with the general scheme of the Exhibition and the convenience of other exhibitors.

Packing cases must be removed at the cost of the exhibitor as soon as the goods are taken charge of by the Stewards.

Articles and packages will be unloaded at the building. Should the exhibitors or their agents not be present, the packages will not be opened, but stored at the risk and expense of the exhibitors.

The Committee may decline to receive any article they may think unsuitable for exhibition, or objects of an inflammatory, offensive, perishable, or dangerous character.

The Committee reserve to themselves the right to receive for exhibition only, and not for competition (if space admit), any object not specified in the schedule, which may be considered to possess special merit.

Packages and articles intended for exhibition should bear on the outside the class or classes, the contents belong to, the name of the exhibitor, and be delivered, free of charge, on or before the 15th July, addressed as follows:—

To the Secretary of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales,

Exhibition Building, Prince Alfred Park, Sydney.

In all classes in the Non-Agricultural Division, no exhibits sent for competition will be allowed to bear the name or brand of the exhibitor.

733. Aerated waters.
734. Mineral waters.
735. Vinegar—Malt or wine.

SECTION VIII.—ARTIZANS' PRIZES.

These prizes are intended to encourage the exhibition of specimens of superior workmanship in wood, metal, stone, leather, &c., and can only be competed for by the actual producers thereof.

Inventions.

Class.

736. In order to encourage mechanical genius, known to exist to a much greater extent than is generally supposed, silver medals will be awarded for the invention of the highest economical value—mechanical, chemical, or other—such having been discovered within the year.

Workmanship.

737. In order to encourage excellence of workmanship, bronze medals will be awarded to Colonial workmen, for work executed during the last twelve months, in wood, metal, textile fibres, leather, or other materials. Competitors need not be members of the Society; nor will they be charged any fee for entry of exhibit.

SECTION IX.—SCHOOLS.

Prizes will be awarded to Public Schools and children attending schools under the Council of Education, under the following regulations:—1. Certificates of merit will be offered for competition among the children of each school, the objects of competition being—

Class.

738. For girls—Plain needlework.
739. Fancy needlework and embroidery.
740. For boys—Mechanical contrivances.
741. Wood carving.
742. Collections of natural history, viz.: Wild flowers (dried); stuffed birds, insects, shells (collections), in which beauty of arrangement will be as much regarded as excellence of specimens.
743. Drawing (open to both boys and girls).

A bronze medal will be awarded to the school taking the greatest number of such prizes. Each school is to be limited to one exhibit in each of the above named classes.

Exhibits intended for competition will have to be selected by the Local Boards, and forwarded to the Exhibition Building, with full particulars connected therewith.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
AUGUST 29TH, 1878.

Friday, 23rd August.—The barometer has fallen over the whole of India, excepting Orissa, Ganjam, and the eastern districts of the Punjab.

The diminution of pressure exceeds '05" in Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, Behar, Chota Nagpore, Northern Bengal, and Assam.

The area of low pressure in the centre of India is to-day defined by the stations of Khandwa, Jubbulpore, and Allahabad. It has, in consequence of the rise of pressure in Orissa, contracted considerably during the past 24 hours.

The lowest pressure at 10 A.M. was observed at Jacobabad in Upper Sind.

The only station at which the temperature exceeded 90° at 10 A.M. to-day was Jacobabad in Upper Sind.

The wind velocity is generally normal in amount in Northern India. In Western India, the Central Provinces, and the Deccan it is slightly below the average. The strong south-west winds at Colombo have moderated slightly during the day. The only stations at which the air-motion is unusually small at present, are Roorkee, Lahore, and Bangalore.

There is distinct cyclonic motion over the area of low pressure in the centre of India to-day.

The disappearance of the cyclonic vortex in Upper India, which has during the past four or five days drawn to itself the moisture-currents of the Arabian Sea and the Bay of Bengal, has been followed by the recommencement of heavy rain in Western India; the following are the more important rainfalls reported from this area of relatively low pressure and of excessive precipitation: Ahmedabad 3.55 inches, Deesa 1.41 inches, Surat 1.65 inches, Bombay 2.02 inches, and Akola 1.10 inches.

The strong south-west current, which yesterday gave heavy rain to Colombo, produced a fall of 4.03 inches at Cochin during the past 24 hours.

The Bay of Bengal monsoon-current has given moderate rain to Bengal and Assam: 1.96 inches were registered at Goalpara to-day.

Vizagapatam received 1.1 inches, and Masulipatam .83 inch, during the day.

Saturday, 24th August.—The changes of pressure during the past 24 hours are unusually small in amount. The area of low pressure in the centre of India has advanced westwards, and now includes the stations of Ajmere and Delhi. The barometer has consequently risen in the Central Provinces, and fallen in Rajputana. The increase of pressure at Nagpore and Jubbulpore slightly exceeds '05".

The wind velocity at the great majority of stations is to-day considerably below the average. The only noteworthy feature to-day is the absence of any easterly element in the winds of Southern and Eastern Bengal, and the prevalence of south-westerly winds in Assam.

The sky was barely half-covered with clouds in the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, the Deccan, and Madras this morning. Over the greater part of India, the weather is generally fine with passing clouds.

The rainfall during the past 24 hours has been very limited in amount. Moderate rain fell in Assam, Sibsagar receiving 1 inch. 1.22 inches were registered at Lahore to-day.

Light showers occurred generally in Western India: the only station in this area which received heavy rain is Ahmedabad, where 3.13 inches were recorded this morning. Heavy rain continues to fall at Cochin: 2.29 inches were registered to-day.

Sunday, 25th August.—The barometer has fallen in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, Behar, Chota Nagpore, Orissa, Bengal, Assam, Arracan, and Burmah. The decrease of pressure exceeds '05" at Peshawar and Rawalpindi in the Punjab, and at Cochin in Southern India.

Pressure has increased in the remaining districts of India. The rise of the barometer exceeds '05" over an area defined by the following stations:—Deesa, Ajmere, Akola, and Bombay.

There is a small local area of barometric depression at Delhi to-day.

Light winds are prevalent at all stations except Saugor Island, where the wind velocity has increased considerably during the past 24 hours.

The wind directions in South and East Bengal, and in Assam, are south-west.

The south-west winds, which set in yesterday morning over South-Eastern Bengal, and Assam, have given fair rain to Assam: 1·14 inches were registered at Goalpara, 1·91 inches at Sibsagar, and ·93 inch at Silchar.

The past 24 hours have been free from rain at the great majority of stations in Bengal, Behar, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab. The only exceptions reported are: ·91 inch at Roorkee, ·53 inch at Bareilly, ·65 inch at Mooltan, and a light shower at Lahore.

The only observing stations in Western India which received fair rainfall during the day were Kurrachee (1·19 inches) and Deesa (·87 inch).

The large amount of 3·98 inches was registered at Cochin to-day.

Monday, 26th August.—The barometer has fallen at the majority of stations in Bengal, Behar, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab. The decrease of pressure is generally inconsiderable, except in the Punjab. It is greatest at Dera Ismail Khan, where it amounts to ·143". The barometer has risen by small amounts in the remaining districts of India.

The wind velocity at the head of the Bay of Bengal is considerably above the normal amount, and continues to have a strong westerly element. The winds are very light to-day in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab. The westerly winds of the Bombay coast are below their normal strength.

The south-west winds from the Bay of Bengal during the past 24 hours have given excessive rain to Goalpara and the adjacent districts: 9·34 inches were registered at that station this morning, and 2·47 inches at Rungpore. 1·12 inches fell at Chittagong. The break in the rains continues in Bengal, Behar, the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Western India.

The following rainfalls are reported from the western districts of the North-Western Provinces: Aligarh 1·4 inches, Fyzabad ·9 inch, Shahjahanpore 1·4 inches, and Roorkee ·55 inch. In Southern India, 2·17 inches were registered at Bangalore, 2·6 inches at Madura, and 1·12 inches at Hyderabad in the Deccan.

Tuesday, 27th August.—The pressure has increased at all stations, except Rawalpindi, Khandwa, and Belgaum.

The increase is greatest in Assam, where it exceeds ·15".

The rise of the barometer is greater than ·05" over the North-Western Provinces, Behar, Chota Nagpore, Bengal, Assam, Arracan, and Burmah. The barometric changes over the rest of India are generally small in amount. Pressure is now very high, and considerably above the average in Assam.

The winds are very light in Central and Southern India. The wind directions in Northern India are somewhat abnormal to-day. Easterly winds in Assam, southerly winds in Southern Bengal, and north-westerly winds in the Central Provinces and the western districts of the North-Western Provinces, appear to indicate a strong indraught into the area of heavy rainfall in Behar, Northern Bengal, and Western Assam. In the area of heavy rainfall itself, calms are reported at Lucknow and Patna. The indraught from the Bay of Bengal is to-day, as yesterday, very strongly marked, and a very strong easterly wind has been blowing at Goalpara during the past 24 hours.

The atmospheric current from the Bay of Bengal has given heavy rainfall during the past 24 hours to Assam, Northern Bengal, Behar, and fair rain to a considerable portion of the North-Western Provinces.

The following are the more important rainfalls reported from this area this morning: Sibsagar 1·38 inches, Goalpara 3·15 inches, Purneah 1·6 inches, Patna 5·34 inches, Benares 1·04 inches, Lucknow ·87 inch, Aligarh 1·3 inches, and Bareilly ·42 inch. The weather in Western and Central India, and the Deccan, is generally fine with passing clouds, and no rain has fallen at the majority of stations. The only rainfall exceeding one inch occurred at Indore, where 1·1 inches were registered this morning. Heavy rain continues to fall in the extreme south of India: Cochin received 1·6 inches during the day, Madura 2·35 inches, and Colombo ·81 inch.

Wednesday, 28th August.—The barometer has risen over the greater part of India. The increase of pressure exceeds one-tenth of an inch over a narrow tract at the foot of the Himalayas extending from Rawalpindi to Goalpara. It is greatest at Roorkee, where it amounts to ·152".

Pressure has diminished over the western half of the Peninsula proper, generally by small amounts. The decrease of pressure, however, exceeds ·05" at Akola and Cochin.

The effect of the barometric changes during the past 48 hours, is to give unusually high pressure to Ceylon, Burmah, Assam, Bengal; whilst in Western India the pressure is considerably below the average, and consequently relatively low to the Bay of Bengal. The pressure in Upper Assam, and at Colombo in Ceylon, are to-day almost identical in amount.

The atmospheric current at the head of the Bay of Bengal has diminished considerably in intensity, and is again slightly below its normal strength. The winds here have now an easterly element, indicating the indraught to the area of heavy rainfall in Behar and the North-Western Provinces. Goalpara has experienced a severe gale of wind during the past 24 hours.

The wind directions in Northern India indicate general indraught towards the area of heavy rainfall, which appears to have extended over too large an area to favour the development of a cyclonic vortex such as occurred during the heavy rainfall of last week. The wind directions at the majority of stations in the Peninsula proper have an easterly element to-day, indicating the existence of high pressure in the Bay of Bengal as well as in Eastern India.

The winds are normal in direction along the coast of Sind and Guzerat. A strong westerly wind is blowing to-day at Kurrachee.

Rain excessive in amount has fallen at Goalpara during the past 24 hours: 8·5 inches were registered this morning. This gives a total fall of 20·99 inches during the preceding three days at that station.

1·77 inches fell at Rungpore during the day, 1 inch was recorded at Mozufferpore, and 2·37 inches at Hazaribagh.

The area of general heavy rainfall was transferred yesterday to the North-Western Provinces; the following rainfalls reported from this area indicate its intensity and extent: Allahabad 1·68 inches, Lucknow ·92 inch, Cawnpore 1·9 inches, Shahjahanpore 3·1 inches, Bareilly 2·72 inches, Roorkee 1·58 inches, Meerut 5·3 inches, and Delhi 3·96 inches.

Heavy rain also fell at Jubbulpore and Nagpore: 1 inch was registered at the former station, and 2·88 inches at the latter.

Light showers occurred at the majority of stations in Western India, the Deccan, and Southern India. Colombo received 1·12 inches.

Thursday, 29th August.—The barometer has fallen during the past 24 hours over the whole of India, excepting the northern districts of the Punjab, and Cochin. The barometric changes are smaller in amount to-day than they were during the preceding two days.

The decrease of pressure exceeds ·05" in Guzerat, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Central Provinces, Behar, and Assam.

The relative distribution of pressure to-day is similar to what it was yesterday. The chief feature is low pressure along the Bombay coast compared with Assam, Arracan, Burmah, and probably the south and east of the Bay of Bengal. There is to-day a local area of high pressure, the centre of which is at Chittagong. It is coincident with the centre of an area of rainfall in South-Eastern Bengal, and Arracan.

Unusually light winds prevail to-day at Rajkot and Bombay, and at the observing stations in the Deccan, and on the Coromandel Coast. The wind directions in this part of India are less abnormal than they were yesterday. The persistent strength at the present time of the Bay of Bengal monsoon-current, compared with that of the Arabian Sea, continues to modify the wind direction and velocity over both Western India and the Deccan.

Moderate winds continue along the Orissa and Bengal Coast. The easterly element in the wind directions at Vizagapatam, False Point, and Saugor Island indicates, as yesterday, a steady indraught from the Bay of Bengal towards Northern India, where the wind is generally normal in direction and intensity. The easterly winds at Goalpara have moderated during the day.

General rain has fallen during the past 24 hours over very nearly the same area as yesterday in Northern India. Heavy rain occurred over Behar and the North-Western Provinces, with the exception of the Agra, Aligarh, and the Fatehgarh districts. The following amounts were registered at the reporting stations in this area:—Patna 3·32 inches, Mozufferpore 1·32 inches, Benares 1·5 inches, Fyzabad 3·5 inches, Lucknow 2·13 inches, Roorkee 2·42 inches, Bareilly ·53 inch, Shahjahanpore ·9 inch, and Delhi 1·32 inches.

Light showers occurred in the northern and western districts of the Punjab.

Arracan and South-Eastern Bengal appear to have received general rainfall during the day: 1·11 inches were registered at Akyab to-day, 1·68 inches at Chittagong, and 2·71 inches at Dacca.

Light showers occurred at the majority of stations in Western and Southern India: 1·31 inches fell at Cochin, where the observer states there has been a severe gale of wind during the preceding 24 hours.

General Summary.—The breaking up of the cyclonic vortex in Upper India, the passage of which up the Gangetic Valley was described in last week's report, was followed by a heavy rainfall for 24 hours in Western India on the 22nd. There was a general break in the rains over the whole of India during the next day.

Strong south-west winds set in on the 24th from the Bay of Bengal over Bengal and Assam. During the remainder of the week the weather in Northern India has been that usually associated with a strong monsoon moisture current from the Bay. General rain has occurred over the whole of Northern India. The rainfall was excessive in Western Assam on the 25th, 26th and 27th. The rainfall extended to Behar and the North-Western Provinces on the 26th, and general rain has been reported from this area (extending from Goalpara to Delhi) from that date to the present time (August 30th). The heavy rainfall has been fairly distributed over the whole of this area day by day, and hence in this respect differs from the heavy rainfall of last week which was much more localized in character, and thus gave rise to a cyclonic vortex.

The current from the Arabian Sea has been feeble during the past week. The rainfall over the part of India to which this current penetrates has consequently been small in amount, and has occurred chiefly as light occasional showers.

Goalpara, Patna, and Cochin have been the centres of heaviest rainfall during the week.

The following table gives the rainfall for the month at the reporting stations in the Lower Provinces, Assam and Burma, and the average rainfall for the month:—

	Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.		Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.
Rangoon ...	12.60	18.56	Rungpore ...	15.78	12.70
Akyah ...	34.32	36.41	Purneah ...	10.66	12.69
Chittagong ...	27.83	22.45	Calcutta ...	11.45	14.29
Dacca ...	10.74	12.32	Cuttack ...	12.10	10.43
Silchar ...	14.34	17.33	Hazaribagh ...	14.23	12.35
Sibsagar ...	16.24	16.60	Patna ...	13.08	8.37
Goalpara ...	32.93	11.61	Mozufferpore ...	7.83	9.27

The rainfall over this area for the month consequently varies very slightly from the average for the amount. Goalpara is the only station which has received excessive rainfall.

The following table gives similar facts for the Punjab, North-Western Provinces and Rajputana:—

	Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.		Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.
Ajmere ...	15.15	7.62	Aligarh ...	12.1	6.31
Benares ...	9.38	11.63	Delhi ...	13.97	6.72
Allahabad ...	7.55	9.40	Meerut ...	12.6	6.49
Lucknow ...	11.73	11.57	Roorkee ...	15.09	12.34
Fyzabad ...	13.7	9.83	Lahore ...	8.06	4.07
Cawnpore ...	7.3	7.61	Rawal Pindi ...	6.31	6.77
Shahjehanpore ...	11.5	7.70	Peshawar ...	11.31	2.14
Bareilly ...	10.21	8.62	Dera Ismael Khan ...	6.29	1.38
Agra ...	3.37	6.85	Mooltan ...	6.43	1.10

The rainfall over this area has consequently been generally in excess for the month. Agra and the eastern divisions of the North-Western Provinces are the only districts which have received less than their normal amounts. The rainfall in the Meerut, Aligarh, Delhi, and Lahore districts has been considerably above the average. The Indus Valley from Peshawur southwards received excessive rainfall during the month.

The following gives similar facts for Bombay, Central India and the Central Provinces:—

	Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.		Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.
Kurrachee... ..	11.27	1.69	Indore ...	10.90	...
Jacobabad... ..	7.98	.99	Neemuch ...	14.95	11.05
Deesa ...	21.45	8.07	Akola ...	14.53	5.65
Rajkot ...	11.41	7.56	Khandwa ...	12.26	7.76
Bombay ...	20.48	15.12	Jubbulpore ...	11.82	14.00
Poona ...	4.99	4.30	Nagpore ...	19.11	8.54
Ahmedabad ...	17.39	9.30

Rain generally above the average occurred over the whole of this area. The Indus Valley in Sind, Deesa, Ahmedabad, Nagpore and Akola were centres of excessive rainfall.

Similar returns for stations in Madras and the Deccan are given in the following:—

	Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.		Total rainfall August 1878.	Average rainfall August.
Chotterpur ...	11.1	5.25	Bellary ...	1.93	2.22
Vizagapatam ...	5.46	6.21	Belgaum ...	14.43	8.79
Masulipatam ...	10.77	5.19	Coimbatore ...	1.10	.99
Madras ...	6.07	4.48	Bangalore ...	11.02	5.76
Cuddapah ...	9.06	4.89	Madura ...	6.57	3.98
Hyderabad ...	9.85	5.30	Cochin ...	34.03	11.37

The rainfall in the Madras Presidency and the Deccan has been very nearly double the normal amount for the month.

It should be remarked that with one or two exceptions the rainfall for the 30th has been included in the above tables.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 27TH AUGUST 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras rain is reported from all districts; damage from excessive rain continues to be complained of in parts of Kistna, Godavery and Kurnool; prospects are generally good. The total number on relief works is 109,474, and gratuitously relieved 67,469, a decrease of 6,116 and 2,677 on the figures for last week. Good rain has fallen throughout Mysore, and prospects are very favourable; prices are falling; for the week ending the 17th instant the numbers in receipt of relief were, works 32,635, gratuitous 13,227, more by 717 and less by 548 than in the previous week. Rain has fallen throughout the Bombay Presidency, but the weather has recently been more broken than before; except in Sind, where much damage has been done by floods, prospects are good. Rain has also been general in the Central Provinces; some damage has been done by excessive falls, but prospects are generally favourable. In Berar the cotton and jowāri are said to be suffering from excessive rain. In Central India continuous rain is reported in Malwa, and consequent damage to the crops; in Gwalior and Bundelkhand good rain has fallen at Morar and Nowgong, but more is still needed. Rain has fallen in all districts of Bengal; more is said to be still required in many places in the Patna division, especially in Sarun, but prospects are generally very favourable. In Assam very heavy rain has fallen in the Valley Districts and Sylhet; prospects are good. In Burma want of rain is causing anxiety in many districts, especially in Thonkwa, Thayetmyo, Tharrawaddy, Prome, and Amherst. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh excellent rain has fallen in all districts except Jhānsi; prices are generally falling, and prospects are good. Rain has fallen in all districts of the Punjab (including Peshāwar, where later information announces 81 inch on the 28th); agricultural prospects are generally favourable, but inundations have done some damage in the districts under the hills.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT. IRRIGATION BRANCH.

IRRIGATION REVENUE REPORT OF THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES FOR THE YEAR 1876-77.

No 365^C A, dated Allahabad, the 5th November 1877
RESOLUTION—By His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, North-Western Provinces.

Read—

Review of Irrigation Revenue Report, North-Western Provinces, for 1876-77, by the Officiating Chief Engineer.

His Honor having read the Officiating Chief Engineer's review of the operations of the Irrigation Department, North-Western Provinces, during 1876-77, is pleased to express his satisfaction at the results therein exhibited. To the Superintending Engineers concerned Sir George Couper offers his thanks for the good services they have rendered.

2. The establishment of a boat-train on the Agra Canal, however desirable, or however remunerative such a measure may be at some future date, must, His Honor thinks, be deferred until an improvement takes place in the financial condition of the Province.

3. The Officiating Chief Engineer's remarks (paras. 38 to 40, 63 to 67, and 99) on the loss of water in the Ganges and Eastern Jumna Canals are indeed interesting. The exact measure, the place, the causes of the loss of water are matters deserving the serious attention of the officers of the department.

To a body of professional men such as the Engineers of the Irrigation Department the knowledge that a large portion of the water entering the Canal is lost en route, will in itself suffice to make the investigation of the loss a matter of great professional interest.

To Canal Engineers as servants of the State, Sir George Ct. of India, to point out the large increase of irrigation, and its accompanying advantages that will follow the introduction of measures to prevent loss of water, to insure that every endeavour will be made to discover the causes of this loss:

CLINTON C. A
Offg. Secy. to Govt., N. W. P.

Nos. 184-198 I, dated Simla, the 7th August 1878.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department (Civil Works, Irrigation).

Read—

Letter No. 1358A, dated 2nd January 1878, from the Government of the North-Western Provinces, forwarding the Irrigation Revenue Report of those Provinces for 1876-77, together with a Resolution reviewing it.

OBSERVATIONS.—The total capital outlay on all canals, whether in operation or under construction, amounted, at the end of the year under review, to Rs. 5,35,61,901, including Rs. 13,84,995 on account of book charges. The outlay during the year was Rs. 41,53,507, of which Rs. 21,54,153 was spent on canals in operation, and Rs. 19,99,354 on canals under construction. Of the year's outlay Rs. 33,57,387 has been debited to the Extraordinary, and Rs. 4,82,218 to the Ordinary Grant, the balance, Rs. 3,13,902, pertains to book charges.

2. The gross revenue (assessments) for the year on all canals was Rs. 40,50,562, of which amount Rs. 30,56,578 was direct, and Rs. 9,93,984 indirect income. The working expenses amounted to Rs. 14,74,156, so that there has been a net profit of Rs. 25,76,406, which is equivalent to 4.81 per cent. on the total capital invested, or 6.13 per cent. on the capital of canals in operation.

3. The net revenue shows an increase over the net revenue of the previous year of Rs. 1,10,075.

4. The interest charges for the year on canals in operation amounted to Rs. 17,74,159, which is less than the net revenue by Rs. 8,02,247.

5. The accumulated interest charges on canals in operation exceed the accumulated net revenue by Rs. 74,55,387, and it is said in para. 17 of the report that the accumulated deficit was reduced by Rs. 7,61,590 during the year under review, but it is not clear how this figure has been arrived at, for the decrease ought apparently to be the difference between the net revenue and the charge for interest for 1876-77 which, as shown in the preceding paragraph, is Rs. 8,02,247.

6. Tables FI and FII in para. 20 of the report show a large increase in the uncollected balances, and the percentage of balance to demand has nearly doubled in consequence. This seems to require attention.

7. The irrigating season is reported (para. 20 of report) to have been an "abnormal one," the kharif rains having been "light and evenly distributed," while those for the rabi were "extraordinarily heavy."

8. Each cubic foot of water entering the head of the Ganges and Eastern Jumna Canals irrigated 192 and 227 acres, respectively.

9. The working of the Ganges Canal has resulted in a profit of about 4 per cent. on the capital outlay. That of the Eastern Jumna Canal gives about 14½ per cent.

10. The prospects of the Agra Canal are highly satisfactory, and so far have exceeded the most sanguine expectation; in this the third year of its working the income has exceeded the expenditure, a result which was not expected to occur till the sixth year. In the following table the gross revenue for three years, the working expenses, and the net profit or loss are compared with Colonel Greathed's forecast, the forecast figures being shown in block type:—

	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
Direct income	{ 6,000	18,000	47,000
	{ 29,970	65,847	1,23,300
Gross income	{ 30,000	1,20,000	1,50,000
	{ 45,760	83,188	1,16,182
Working expenses	{ -24,000	-1,02,000	-1,03,000
	{ -15,790	-17,841	+7,168

income be added (Rs. 22,982 estimated), then the surplus after interest charges is Rs. 30,150.

And Canals, hitherto worked at a loss, have this year a surplus of Rs. 2,792. Last year there was a loss of Rs. 7,578, and before of Rs. 24,113, so that the improvement has been

12. On the whole the operations of the year may be considered very satisfactory, although the continued decrease of navigation on the Ganges Canal is to be regretted.

From the remarks made in para. 4 of Superintending Engineer's and at conclusion of para. 13 of Traffic Manager's Navigation Report (pages 25A and 27A of Revenue Report), the navigable connections with the Agra Canal and with the Ganges at Allahabad appear to be essential to the full development of the inland navigation of the North-Western Provinces.

13. In conclusion, the Government of India desire to point out that the Chief Engineer's remarks regarding the loss of water on the Ganges and Eastern Jumna Canals appear to be based on a doubtful assumption. He says that a fall of 3 inches of rain in the middle of the "rabi" is under ordinary conditions sufficient to suspend artificial irrigation for the remainder of the season. Therefore he assumes that one watering, 3 inches deep, should satisfy a rabi crop and having on purely hypothetical data calculated that 7.7 inches was the depth of each watering on the Ganges Canal (see para. 39 of his report), and 8 inches the depth of watering on the Eastern Jumna Canal during the rabi of 1876-77 (para. 65), he estimates that half of the supply entering the Ganges Canal, and two-thirds of that entering the Eastern Jumna Canal were entirely wasted. But irrespective of the fact that owing to the amount of ammonia which it contains, less rain water will satisfy a crop than canal water, it is manifestly unfair to compare the watering to any particular field given by a widespread rainfall of 3 inches over the whole country with a local application of 3 inches of water to the field. In the former case the field, unless actually situated on the crest of a ridge, receives more or less of the rainfall flowing off the adjacent higher ground, and may be flooded to 6 to 12 inches deep if in low ground. The air too when rain falls is saturated with moisture, and it is well known how much a plant can imbibe through its leaves. The local watering from a canal is on the other hand only given when the weather is dry, and the depth actually delivered is not increased by drainage or infiltration from adjacent higher ground. Under these circumstances there is nothing unreasonable in assuming that it will take a depth of 6 inches of canal water on crops actually irrigated to equal the effect of a general rainfall of 3 inches; and on this hypothesis the loss in canal and distributary channels would, according to the Chief Engineer's calculations, be only 25 per cent. of supply entering the canal, which it has always been known to be.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copy of this Resolution and the Report be forwarded to the Secretary of State, and to the Financial and Revenue, Agricultural and Commerce Departments, for information.

Ordered also, that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the several* other Local Governments and Administrations, in the Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch, for information.

Calcutta, 4th September 1878.

By order, &c.,

A. O. HUME,

Secy. to the Govt. of India.

This Notice will affect the following Charts:—Madras Roadstead, No. 105, and India, East Coast, Cape Comorin to Cocanada, No. 156, both published by the Indian Marine Survey Department, Calcutta; also Admiralty Charts, Coromandel Coast, Nos. 71c & d; India, East Coast, Cape Comorin to Cocanada, No. 828; Bay of Bengal, 70a; and Indian Ocean, No. 748b; also Marine Survey Department and Admiralty Light lists (1878); and Taylor's Sailing Directory, Vol. I, page 459.

If this Notice is received on boardship, the substance of it should be inserted on the Charts affected by it, and introduced into the Sailing Directions to which it relates.

GENERAL.

The 4th June 1878.

No. 378.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to invite tenders for the lease of the Great Coco Island in the Bay of Bengal.

2. The lease will be for a period not exceeding 50 years: the exact proportion of gross produce payable as rent and the term, within the above maximum period, during which the rent offered shall be payable, are left to the tenderers.

3. In addition to the rent stipulated as payable, the lessee will be bound to defray the expense of maintaining peace in the island and on its coasts, and of the administration of civil and criminal justice. The amount of such expense cannot at present be stated; but the Government are prepared to fix a maximum of Rs. 20,000 annually, beyond which the lessee would not be charged with any expenditure on these objects. The Government will, from time to time, fix the cost of such establishments, and such cost the lessee will be required to defray quarterly in advance.

4. The Government reserve to themselves the administration of Civil and Criminal Justice, Customs, Excise, and other Departments of Government, and the lessee will be entitled only to the produce of the soil, and to an exclusive right of fishery for one mile from high water mark, and to the use for local requirements, and not for sale out of the island, of such timber as it produces, and of stone, lime, sand and other building materials.

5. The rent will be taken in kind and will consist of a fixed proportion not less than $\frac{1}{4}$ th of the gross produce of the island. In the case of cocoa-nuts, the fixed proportion must be delivered free at Port Blair or any other place in the Andamans that Government may from time to time direct, in the husk, in good condition and of good quality, and must have been gathered in such proportions at the times most suitable for the manufacture of coir and oil, respectively, as the Superintendent of Port Blair may from time to time require. In the case of other produce, delivery of which will be taken in the island, the Government may at any time require the lessee to commute the produce in kind for a money payment calculated at a rate 20 per cent. below the rate then ruling in the Rangoon market for similar produce of similar quality.

6. The number of living cocoa-nut trees on the island when it is transferred to the lessee will be ascertained, and the lessee will be bound under penalty to maintain at least that number of living cocoa-nut trees, at once planting and rearing young trees in place of those that may die, be blown down, or otherwise destroyed from time to time. The lessee is prohibited from cutting down any cocoa-nut trees without the written permission of the officer to whom Government may delegate authority to grant such permission.

7. The Government also reserve the right to appropriate sites on the island for public buildings, including dwelling houses for officials, sanitarium, &c., paying as compensation only the cost of any improvements effected on the site appropriated. Also to appropriate any timber of spontaneous growth, and any stone, lime, sand or other raw building materials existing in the island, required for such public buildings, enclosures, &c.

8. The Government also reserve a right to refuse their assent to any transfer of the lease of the island by the lessee for the time being. In the event of such power of refusal being exercised, the lessee will be entitled to claim that Government shall themselves take over the unexpired portion of the lease on a fair estimate of the value of the improvements effected by him or his predecessors.

9. Should the lessee in any way violate the provisions of the lease, or fail to pay the stipulated rent on the dates on which it falls due, or omit to take measures for the settlement and working of the island within a term of 2 years from the date of the lease, the Government will cancel the lease and re-enter on possession of the island, without compensation.

10. The Government do not bind themselves to accept the highest, or any, tender made in reply to this advertisement. Tenders should be addressed to the Local Government or Administration of the Province in which the persons tendering may live or carry on business, and will be forwarded by such Local Government or Administration, after such enquiries into the circumstances of the tenderer and his ability to carry out the terms of his tender as may seem proper, to the Government of India in the Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce. Tenders from persons in the United Kingdom should be forwarded through the Secretary of State.

11. The deed of lease to the tenderer whose offer may be accepted will be prepared at his costs and charges in all things by the Government Solicitor, and upon any questions arising between the tenderer and Government in regard to the form of the lease, the opinion of the Advocate General shall be conclusive and equally binding on both parties.

12. Tenders must be sent in within a period of twelve months from the date of this advertisement.

COMMERCE AND TRADE.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The 13th June 1878.

No. 318.—In view to improving the means of communication with Assam, and assisting in the development of the trade of that Province, the Government of India desire the establishment of a line of fast steamers between Dibrugarh and some point near Dhubri, and hereby invite tenders for such a service on the following conditions:—

Conditions of Service.

2. The steamers shall have the following dimensions, and be of the following character:—

Length over all 150 to 200 feet. Speed through the water, 15 miles an hour. Draft, when loaded, not to exceed 3 feet. Accommodation in addition to that for officers and crew—

1st class passengers	4
2nd ditto	8
Coolies	100
Cargo, in addition to coal for 24 hours, steaming full power	10 tons.

Consumption of good English coal, when going full speed, not to exceed 3lb per indicated horse-power per hour.

The vessels shall have one flush deck covered with a wood and canvas roof.

The 1st and 2nd class passenger cabins shall be in a deck-house forward, and the passenger accommodation shall, as much as possible, be forward of the engines.

3. The lower terminus shall be at Dhubri, or such other place as may be rendered desirable by the opening of railway communication, a change in the course of the river, or other circumstances.

4. The upper terminus shall be at Dibrugarh. The intermediate stations shall be those at present touched at by steamers, or such others as commercial necessities, a change in the course of the river, or other circumstances, may, in the opinion of the Government of India, render desirable.

5. The upward journey between Dhubri as the lower terminus and Dibrugarh shall be made in five days, the downward journey in three and a half days; the time-table, subject to alteration by Government as may appear advisable, being as follows :—

UP.		DOWN.
Day 1st.—Anchor between Goalpāra and Beshinghat.		Day 1st.—Dhunsirimukh.
„ 2nd.—Gauhati.		„ 2nd.—Rangamati.
„ 3rd.—Tezpur.		„ 3rd.—Goalpāra.
„ 4th.—Nigri Ting.		„ 4th.—Dhubri (by noon).
„ 5th.—Dibrugarh. ●

Postal Service.

6. At first, the steamer service will only be used by the Postal Department for the carriage of parcel mails (estimated to average in weight three-fourths of a ton) and the servants in charge of them, and for this service proper accommodation will have to be provided. But, in the expectation of more frequent runnings hereafter, any Company tendering shall engage to carry, free of charge, if desired to do so at any time, the entire mail, both letter and parcel, and all servants necessary to its custody and service.

Detentions.

7. The Government of India and the Chief Commissioner of Assam shall, in the case of public necessity, have power to detain a steamer at any place.

8. And the Director-General of Post Offices in India shall have power, in the case of postal necessities, to detain a steamer at any place for a period not to exceed twenty-four hours.

Requisitions.

9. The Government of India, on payment for the same at a rate per ton to be determined, shall, in the case of public necessity, and upon giving seven days' notice, have power to take up the whole or any portion of the fleet of river steamers belonging to the party whose tender may be accepted.

Rates and fares.

10. The maximum fares for passengers shall be the sum of those shown in page 2 of the table published by the Rivers Steam Navigation Company, Limited, on the 1st October, 1874, plus Rs. 4 a day table-money for first-class passengers, and Rs. 2 a day for second-class passengers who desire to be fed on board, for the days occupied in the voyage to the place in question, taking six days for the entire upward and four days for the entire downward journey. Thus, the maximum passenger fare for a single berth in a cabin upwards between Dhubri and Dibrugarh shall be Rs. 83-3, being Rs. 59-3 for the passage, plus six days' table-money at Rs. 4 per day. Similarly, the downwards first-class fare shall be Rs. 55-8, being Rs. 39-8 for the passage, plus four days' table-money at Rs. 4 per day, and so on for other passenger fares. The maximum passenger fares thus fixed shall not be increased without the sanction of the Government of India.

11. Passengers shall be allowed the following baggage free :—

1st class	4 maunds.
2nd „	2 „
3rd „	1 maund.

Extra baggage shall be carried at 4th-class goods rate.

12. The maximum goods rates shall be those shown in the table of the Rivers Steam Navigation Company, Limited, on the 1st January 1874.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, will appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series. The Parts of each Series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set:

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

Irrigation.

REVENUE REPORT, IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT, PUNJAB, FOR THE YEAR 1876-77.

No. 209-22 L., dated Simla, 23rd August 1878.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Read—

Letter from the Government of the Punjab, No. 792 I., dated 21st February 1878, forwarding a copy of the Revenue Report of Irrigation Works in the Punjab for 1876-77, and of the Resolution of that Government reviewing the same.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Capital invested in the Irrigation Works of the Punjab amounted, on the 1st April 1876, to Rs. 3,33,55,030, of which Rs. 2,08,32,420 represents the cost of canals in operation, and Rs. 1,25,22,610 the outlay on works under construction. The expenditure brought to account during the year 1876-77 amounted to Rs. 30,96,880, thus making a total of Rs. 3,64,51,910 to the close of the year: of this amount Rs. 51,71,030 have been contributed by Native States.

2. The gross direct revenue from all sources amounted to Rs. 16,99,122; including “indirect” credits on account of enhanced land revenue, the gross amount of canal revenue for 1876-77 was Rs. 26,68,711.

3. The working expenses amounted to Rs. 14,23,813, leaving a net direct revenue of Rs. 2,75,309, and net direct and indirect return of Rs. 12,44,898. The former sum gives 1.32 per cent. and the latter 6.09 per cent., on Rs. 2,08,32,421, the amount of Capital invested in canals in operation at the beginning of the year.

4. The area irrigated during the year was 1,114,082 acres, the average area irrigated during the past seven years having been 1,154,327 acres.

5. The net revenue and the percentage of profit have been calculated in the Resolution accompanying the Report (para. 6); on the realizations and not on the assessments of the year. This method is undoubtedly the right one when correctness of accounting is involved, or when the financial results of a series of years are exhibited, but in an Administration Report the figures should relate to the assessments of the year concerned. This practice obtains in the Irrigation Revenue Reports of the North-Western Provinces, and should be adopted by the Punjab Government.

6. There should in fact be two statements of the financial results of the year concerned, the one based on assessments, the other on realizations, explanations being given where necessary to show agreement with the Public Works Accounts rendered by the Examiner which are based on realizations. The tables of financial results from commencement of irrigation being for a series of years should, as at present, be based on realizations only.

7. Taking the figures of "assessed" revenue, the net profit for the year rises from Rs. 2,75,309 to Rs. 3,38,460 and the percentage from 1.32 to 1.62.

8. The duty per cubic foot per second of volume entering the head during the rabi agrees very fairly on the Bari Doab Canal with that obtained during previous years on the same canal (see para. 51 of the Chief Engineer's report), and on the Western Jumna Canal during the same season. This makes the marked increase in duty obtained from volume utilized appear open to question, and information is accordingly desired as to whether the volumes entered as escaping are trustworthy.

9. The Government of India would further point out that it gives a misleading and incorrect view of the duty actually done by the water to reduce the volumes actually utilized when demand existed by large volumes allowed subsequently to escape because no demand existed. When a season of irrigation is divided into two parts, during one of which there is a strong demand for water, and during the other, owing to rain, no demand, the duty per cubic foot per second utilized should be calculated for the period only during which demand existed, in order to give a correct idea of the work actually done.

10. The table given in para. 101 of the Chief Engineer's Report exhibits different figures for "the percentage of profit on direct income" in 1874-75 and 1875-76 to what was shown in the reports for those years. The discrepancies require explanation.

11. The Government of India is glad to learn that the important question of utilization of water power is engaging His Honor's special attention. And the Governor General in Council concurs in the view that charges for construction and repairs of flood embankments in the Dera Ghazi Khan District should not fall entirely on the capital of the inundation canals, but should be borne in fair proportion by any other departments which may derive benefit from them.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copies of this Resolution and of the report be forwarded to the Secretary of State, and to the Financial and Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce Departments, for information.

Ordered also, that copies of this Resolution be forwarded to the Govern-

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab and its Dependencies, in the Public Works Department, No. 791, dated 21st February 1878.

READ—

Revenue Reports, 1876-77, and Review by Chief Engineer.

RESOLUTION.—The expenditure brought to account during the year, on the works under the control of the Irrigation Department, was Rs. 29,06,156, of which, however, Rs. 9,90,936 were contributed by Native States, and the addition to the Capital invested in Canal Works by the British Government was, therefore, Rs. 19,15,220. This addition is mainly on account of the construction of the Sirhind Canal, and of the new Branches of the Western Jumna Canal, neither of which at present yield income.

2. The Capital, exclusive of the contributions of Native States, invested in the works, was, on the 1st April 1876, Rs. 2,91,70,520; and on the 1st April 1877 it had, on account of the addition above noted, together with a sum of Rs. 1,55,357, the capitalized value of land revenue abated, increased to Rs. 3,12,41,097.

3. Of this sum, Rs. 2,16,35,124 is the Capital of the canals in operation, and Rs. 96,05,973 of those under construction.

4. The gross "direct" revenue from all sources was Rs. 16,99,122; adding that of the so-called "indirect," it was Rs. 26,68,711. These results are nearly 2½ and 3½ lakhs of rupees less than the collections of the previous year. The reason of this is, that the rabbi crop of 1875-76, the collections on account of which were made in the year under review, was very small on the Western Jumna and Bári Doáb Canals, whereas that of 1874-75 was unusually large.

5. The assessments for the year are Rs. 17,62,273 direct, and Rs. 27,29,834 including the indirect revenue.

6. The working expenses were Rs. 14,23,813, so that the net revenue was Rs. 2,75,309, or 1.32 per cent. on Rs. 2,08,32,121, which was the Capital at the beginning of the year.

With the land revenue due or dependent on the works, the net revenue was Rs. 12,44,898, or 6.09 per cent. on the Capital.

7. The working expenses above referred to are Rs. 61,687 in excess of those of the previous years; this was due to the cost of heavy repairs to the Head Works of the Bári Doáb Canal, as explained in para. 40 of the Chief Engineer's Review.

8. The charge for interest on the Capital invested in canals under construction and in operation is Rs. 14,18,693.

The net revenue of the year, direct and indirect, from canals in operation, exceeds the interest charges on their Capital by Rs. 2,54,992.* The excess of the net revenue over interest charges on the canals up to the end of the year was Rs. 2,04,69,894.† Deducting Rs. 15,81,606, the interest on the Capital spent on canals under construction, the net income is still Rs. 1,88,85,288 greater than the total charges for interest.

9. The area irrigated during the year was 1,114,082 acres, against 1,098,429 in the previous year. The average acreage irrigated in the seven previous years was 1,154,327 acres.

10. The following table shows the areas irrigated and the rain-fall for eight years:—

From this it will be seen that the area irrigated by permanent canals was slightly under, whilst that of the Inundation Canals was considerably over, the average. The rainfall was favorable for the Inundation Canals, and unfavorable for those of perennial flow.

WESTERN JUMNA CANAL.

11. The total area irrigated during the year under review is 56,887 acres more than in the previous year. That the areas under both crops are above the average of late years, is due to the seasons being favorable for irrigation, and possibly also to the completion of the measurements for the new settlement. There is a large increase of 63,032 acres under wheat, and a smaller increase under cotton and sugarcane; the decrease under rice is 5,753 acres.

* Excludes Madhopur Workshops ... Rs. 40,627
† Do. do ... " 6,40,602

12. The assessments of the year show a profit of 13·44 per cent. from the direct and 22·36 from the total income, as against 11·71 and 22·23 per cent. respectively in the previous year. From this it is apparent that the Western Jumna Canal continues to pay a handsome profit upon its assumed Capital.

13. The state of the realizations is satisfactory; the total outstandings at the end of the year amounted to Rs. 6,699.

DELHI AND GURGAON WORKS.

14. There was a slight increase of 889 acres in the total area irrigated, and the loss on the Capital invested was 4·23 instead of 4·50 per cent. in the previous year.

There were showers throughout the whole year, but the rains were light.

15. The working expenses were Rs. 12,302, against Rs. 12,580, in the previous year. These works are in course of transfer to the Civil Department; and, as the Superintending Engineer states that there has been no irrigation from them during the current year, they may be said to have now passed from the list of revenue-paying works in the Canal Department.

BARI DOAB CANAL.

16. The areas irrigated in the kharif and rabbi crops were 16,587 acres less and 4,700 acres more than those of the previous year. The deficiency in the kharif was caused by a heavy fall of 17½ inches of rain in July, which secured that crop without the aid of artificial irrigation; constant rain during the cold weather made the rabbi cultivation independent of the canal. Compared with the previous year, which was a very poor one, there is an increase in the area under rice and wheat, and a decrease in that under sugarcane and cotton.

17. The working expenses amounted to Rs. 5,53,652, and were Rs. 72,713 in excess of the expenditure of the previous year, which in turn was larger than usual. Explanation is given in para. 40 of the Chief Engineer's Review. In addition to the special repairs to the weir, the maintenance charges were considerably enhanced by expensive repairs to a masonry fall.

18. There is a small increase of revenue from water-power. The development of this source of income has received His Honor's special attention, and it is hoped that the vast power available at each fall in the canal may be gradually utilized instead of being lost as it now is. It must, however, be kept in mind that the most important cities,—Delhi, Lahore, and Amritsar,—where there is the chief demand for water-power, are situated far from the upper parts of the canals, where the fall is greatest and the most power available.

19. The unrealized balances of demands on account of water and water-advantage rates were small, and call for no special notice.

UPPER SUTLEJ.

20. There is a profit from all sources of 1·75 per cent. for the year on the Capital of these canals. The calculation by which this result is obtained is shown in detail in paras. 58-59 of the Chief Engineer's Review.

21. The area irrigated was very little more than half that of the previous year. For this two causes are alleged: first, the previous rabbi crop was a very large one, and could not be gathered until the time for preparing the ground for the kharif had passed; secondly, the time for revising the present rates was approaching, and this exercised a disturbing effect on the irrigators.

22. That there is any profit at all is due to reduction in the charges for Direction owing to the Lower Bari Doab Circle having been abolished.

LOWER SUTLEJ AND CHENAB CANALS.

23. The operations of the year show a profit from all sources of 157·65 per cent. on the Capital invested in the canals, as against 158·90 per cent. in the previous year. 285,615 acres, the largest area yet recorded, were irrigated during the year. The increase in comparison with last year's area was 7,762 acres. Amongst the principal crops there is a marked increase in the area under indigo. The cost of irrigation to the cultivators has decreased yearly; it has now fallen to Re. 1·36 per acre. The calculated cost of maintenance has also been for some years decreasing, and is now Re. 0·71 per acre.

INDUS SERIES.

24. There is an increase of 21,614 acres in the area irrigated by these canals as compared with the previous year; but the total area, viz., 166,574 acres, does not much exceed the average of the four preceding years.

25. The income from all sources shows a loss of 5·05 as against 1·12 per cent. in the previous year. This unfavorable return is due to increased cost of establishment, owing principally to promotions, to an exceptional payment to the Survey Department for work connected with the Derajat and Sindh Sagar Project, and to the insufficiency of the fixed contribution of Rs. 45,000 to cover half the cost of clearance; this last item will shortly come under review.

26. The Financial Commissioner has arranged that in the returns for the current year credit should be taken for the remissions to Jágirdars of the revenue on irrigated lands. This will show more fairly than at present the earnings of the canals. The charges for construction and repairs of embankments in the Dera Ghāzi Khan District for keeping out the inundation of the Indus should not be laid entirely upon the Inundation Canals, as they have other uses besides protecting the heads of these canals.

SHAHPUR CANALS.

27. The returns from these canals are again favorable, the profit being Rs. 11,640, or 54·85 per cent. on a Capital of Rs. 21,221. The area irrigated was 9,123 acres, or 5,082 acres more than in the previous year; there was a large increase in both crops. The causes of this were—a favorable season, a complete clearance of the canals, and an improved system of distribution.

GENERAL.

28. From the figures in the Revenue Accounts Current in the Chief Engineer's Review it appears that on the canals in operation the charges for Establishment, including Direction and Accounts, amount to Rs. 6,96,842. The expenditure on Extensions and Improvements, Maintenance and Repairs, &c., was Rs. 7,26,971, and the income Rs. 17,62,273; the total with which the cost of Establishment should be compared is therefore Rs. 24,89,244. Taking 25 per cent. on this, Rs. 6,22,311 is the sum which, at the outside, Establishment should cost. The present charges are Rs. 74,531 more than they should be.

If the services of the Officers of the Irrigation Branch, who have been reported as available for transfer, can be utilized in some other part of India, the charge for Establishment will be reduced to its normal proportion.

29. This report is submitted two months later than the specified date; every effort should be made to submit the next year's report punctually.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

R. HOME, Major, R. E.,

Cffg. Joint-Secretary to Government, Punjab, P. W. D., Irrigation Branch.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S REVIEW OF REVENUE REPORT FOR 1876-77. WESTERN JUMNA CANAL CIRCLE.

WESTERN JUMNA CANAL.

The debit to capital, exclusive of interest, was increased by Rs. 5,56,171; of this, the expenditure on works was as follows:—

3. The profit for the year, therefore, amounts to Rs. 5,81,773, or 13·44 per cent. on the Capital debit at the beginning of the year, without taking the land revenue due or dependent on the works into consideration; adding this the net income becomes Rs. 9,67,698, or 22·36 per cent. on the Capital, against Rs. 11·72 and 22·26 in the previous year.

4. The Capital, on which the percentage of the year is calculated, is increased by Rs. 5,16,138, as compared with that in 1875-76.

5. The result for the past three years, based on the earnings, is as follows:—

		1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
		Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Income ...	{ Water-rates ...	9,17,929	7,61,809	9,16,244

Percentage on Capital from net	{ Direct income ...	20·29	11·71	13·44
	{ Do. plus indirect ...	31·44	22·24	22·36

6. The increase in cost of Direction, which alone seems to call for special notice, is partly caused by the reduction of a Division, and partly because it was necessary to attach to the Superintending Engineer's Office an Officer whose services were not required in the Province, but whom the Government of India has not as yet been able to transfer.

7. The area irrigated for the past five years is as follows:—

Years.		Kharif.	Rabbi.	TOTAL.
1872-73	...	202,371	149,450	351,821
1873-74	...	171,630	140,117	311,747

1875-76	...	188,189	121,406	309,595
1876-77	...	175,729	190,753	366,482

8. The average area irrigated of the last eight years is 390,766 acres, so that the crop during the year under review may be considered as 24,000 acres short. It is, however, 56,887 acres more than last year's crop; and this is attributed to a more favorable season for irrigation, and to the fact alluded to in para. 50 of Superintending Engineer's Report, that the zamindars are resuming the irrigation which they abandoned while settlement operations were in progress, in the hope of securing a light assessment.

9. As observed in the Chief Engineer's Review of the Revenue Report for the year 1873-74, para. 10, the decrease in irrigation has been by no means an unmitigated evil; land which was over-saturated with water has been greatly dried; land which was over-cropped has had a rest; and endeavours have been made, in re-distributing the water, to prevent the great over-irrigation of certain low-lying lands, regarding which many complaints were made by zamindars and by Civil Officers.

* The figures, which represent the share of land revenue due or dependent on the works, were obtained from the Financial Commissioner. There is still a question whether those which represent the enhancement in the Hamsi Division are correct. Enquiry is being made, and, if necessary, a correction will be made in the next year's accounts.

10. Now that it is understood by the cultivators that they gain nothing as regards their assessment of land revenue by declining to irrigate, and, further, that they find the necessity for irrigation to enable them to meet the land revenue demands with comfort, the restriction placed on irrigation is complained of; and, in so far as the enhanced land revenue is taken under the present settlement, which soon expires, whether the land is irrigated or not, with some justice. The matter is receiving the attention of the Local Government.

11. The area of double-cropped lands for five years was as follows :—

	Acrea.
1872-73	39,302
1873-74	30,935
1874-75	51,896
1875-76	28,309
1876-77	39,298

12. The following were the acres irrigated of the four principal crops for the last five years :—

	1872-73.	1873-74.	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
	Acrea.	Acrea.	Acrea.	Acrea.	Acrea.

GRAND TOTAL	351,821	311,717	382,847	309,595	366,482

13. These figures call for very little remark; the principal fluctuations observable being, as usual, in cotton and wheat.

The area of indigo sown for the past six years is as follows :—

	Acrea
1871-72	3,337
1872-73	6,189
1873-74	12,165
1874-75	2,871
1875-76	11,513
1876-77	1,086

This extraordinary falling-off is mainly to be attributed to the fact of the Rājā of Jīnd having ceased to buy it from the zamīndārs. Some few years ago he greatly encouraged the culture of indigo, and agreed with his ryots to buy it from them. Presumably he has not found it to pay as well as he expected, and has given up the speculation.

14. The percentages of flow and lift irrigation and double-cropped land were for five years :—

	KHARIF.		RABBI.		TOTAL.		Double-cropped land.
	Flow	Lift	Flow.	Lift.	Flow.	Lift.
1872-73	93.81	6.19	80.23	19.67	88.08	11.92	11.17
1873-74	94.24	5.76	79.00	21.00	87.39	12.61	9.92
1874-75	96.94	3.96	91.49	8.51	93.38	6.62	13.55
1875-76	96.08	3.92	90.57	9.43	93.91	6.09	10.31
1876-77	96.31	3.69	90.32	9.68	93.10	6.81	10.72

15. The proportion of kharif and rabbi irrigation has been as follows :—

	Kharif.	Rabbi.
1872-73	57.52	42.48
1873-74	55.95	44.05
1874-75	41.83	58.17
1875-76	60.78	39.22
1876-77	47.95	52.05

16. The average water-rate per acre irrigated for five years is as follows :—

	1872-73.	1873-74.	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Kharif, per acre	2.92	3.07	3.01	2.75	2.94
Rabbi, do.	2.09	2.03	2.08	2.03	2.09

17. The value of the cubic foot per second of total water-supply was as follows:—

		Kharif.	Rabbi.
		Rs.	Rs.
1872-73	...	261	149
1873-74	...	254	121
1874-75	...	226	187
1875-76	...	203	124
1876-77	...	231	202

18. The duty obtained in acres from the total supply during past five years is detailed below:—

			Kharif.	Rabbi.
			Acres.	Acres.
1872-73	89	71
1873-74	83	60
1874-75	74	89
1875-76	73	61
1876-77	78	97

19. It is difficult to account satisfactorily for the fluctuations here shown; the fact being that the season most favorable for irrigation is neither a very dry nor a very wet year, but one which is dry when water is required for cultivation, but in which there is sufficient rainfall to supplement the canal-water in time to save the crops, and to keep the river sufficiently full to enable a good supply to be sent down the canal with little trouble and expense.

20. The maintenance charges for the past five years per acre irrigated are as follow:—

	1872-73.	1873-74	1874-75	1875-76.	1876-77.
Maintenance, whole canal	1.14	1.20	0.88	1.21	1.06
Repairs, distributaries	0.09	0.06	0.03	0.07	0.04
Expenditure ... } Establish.

21. The decrease here is not entirely satisfactory, being to some extent caused by the impossibility of making thorough silt-clearances.

22. The state of water collections was as follows:—

	Balance from previous year.	Rabbi. 1875-76	Kharif. 1876-77.	TOTAL.
Demands	88,461	2,35,737	5,05,732	8,29,930
Realizations	88,461	2,35,737	1,99,033	8,23,231
Balance unrealized	6,699	6,699

23. The balance unrealized is very small—probably it has reached its minimum.

DELHI AND GURGAON IRRIGATION WORKS.

24. There was no expenditure on Capital Account during the year; the total amount was as before, excluding interest, Rs. 1,83,410; including interest Rs. 4,18,257.

33. The following statement shows the assessments, remissions and collections of the land revenue due or dependent on the works up to end of the year, but the figures for 1876-77 are liable to be altered, owing to the additions by Civil Officers and remissions for the rabbi crop as stated above not being known till the following year. The additions made by the Civil Officers are on account of resumed jágir lands and to chahi lands which have given up well-irrigation and used canal-water; the remissions for well-lands are on account of irrigation from wells being assessed at the time of settlement at well-irrigated rates:—

34. The Revenue Account shows a profit of nearly Re. 0·31 per cent. from direct income, that is, all income save that from land revenue due or dependent on the works; adding the latter the percentage rises to Rs. 1·37 nearly—results which cannot but be considered extremely unsatisfactory.

35. The decrease of Rs. 28,035 in the water-rates from irrigation is due entirely to the adverse season, as explained in para. 12 of Superintending Engineer's report; the increase of Rs. 3,074 in the miscellaneous income is due to the sale of thinnings of canal plantations sold for the repairs of head works at Mādhopur; the mill-rent also increased by Rs. 2,642, due in a great measure to the improvements to the buildings.

36. It is hoped that the revenue from this source will continue to increase. A new set of mills has been built at Dhāriwāl, on the main road from Amritsar to Pathānkot, and with judicious encouragement on the part of the Superintending and Executive Engineers there can be but little doubt that the mills will let well, and become year by year a more valuable source of income.

37. That they have not already done so is a matter of surprise, and the Superintending, Engineer will be requested to give the matter consideration, and take steps to induce reliable contractors to take a lease of the mills.

38. The following statement shows the cost of maintenance, the income assessed, and the area irrigated by the Bári Doáb Canal, for the last ten years :—

39. From this it will be seen that the area irrigated during the year under review is considerably less than that of any other year shown in the statement. The income is smaller than that of any other year save 1869-70, when the canal was closed for a month from the middle of September to the middle of October, and irrigation was further discouraged by the demand made for arrears of water-advantage rate.

40. Expenditure shows a general tendency towards increase, though some of the fluctuations, especially in the Establishment charges, can be explained. For instance, the formation of a new Circle, to which a number of highly paid Officers were attached, and whose places were either left blank or filled by less highly paid Officers, at once reduced the charges both for Executive Establishment and for Direction; whereas, on the other hand, abolishing that Circle and bringing some of the Officers back enhances the Establishment charges. With respect to the maintenance charges which amount to Rs. 2,97,476, and which appear excessive, it must be borne in mind that of this amount the special repairs to the weir form a very large part. If these be deducted, maintenance is reduced to the more reasonable figure of Rs. 1,42,001. The increase in the charge for Direction is partly due to the abolition of the Lower Bári Doáb Circle, and partly to the present method of adjusting the charge, which was introduced in the second half of 1875-76, whereby 5 per cent. on the Capital outlay on works only is charged to Capital, and the balance to Revenue. The foot-note* below will elucidate the effect of this arrangement, and show that of a given total charge of Rs. 71,351 for Direction, under the old system Rs. 23,168 would have gone to Capital and Rs. 48,183 to Revenue; under the present system Rs. 5,892 only will be charged to Capital and Rs. 65,459 to Revenue.

41. It must also be borne in mind that, speaking generally, a year which is good for canal income is also a year of cheap maintenance; for the absence of the rain, which creates the demand for irrigation, reduces the floods in the river and consequent damage; whereas in a year like that under review, heavy rain not only makes artificial irrigation unnecessary, but also brings down great floods which destroy the works and cause expensive repairs.

* Result from the old and new method of calculating Direction, taking the figures of Capital and Revenue Expenditure and Receipts for 1874-75.				Rateably according to the expenditure on Capital and Revenue plus half the Receipts.	Five per cent. of outlay on works to Capital, balance to Revenue.

42. The areas irrigated for the past five years in acres are—

Years.				Kharif.	Rabbi.	TOTAL.
				Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
1872-73	96,718	132,078	228,796
1873-74	100,913	131,233	232,146

1876-77	75,748	126,964	202,712

43. Compared with last year, there is a decrease of 16,587 acres in the kharif, which is due to the heavy fall of 17½ inches in July, rendering the bulk of the crop independent of canal-water; the rabbi harvest promised well for canal income, but the constant rain, which occurred in January and February, after the canal crops were fully irrigated, caused them to suffer more than those growing on high lands which had not received canal-water. The rabbi on unirrigated lands was the finest in quantity and quality which there has been in the Punjab for many years, and the irrigating community were somewhat discouraged to find that their neighbours, who had either held back in hopes of rain, or whose lands were so situated that they could not get canal-water, had larger and finer crops than they had. There was too much rain, and the unirrigated crops on low-lying ground suffered, the irrigated fields suffering of course to a greater extent, inasmuch as their land was saturated with canal-water before the rainfall.

44. The area of double-cropped lands for five years was as follows:—

				Acres.
1872-73	14,936
1873-74	24,672
1874-75	30,818
1875-76	25,200
1876-77	26,288

45. There is an increase of 1,028 acres in the double-cropped land, which is not a matter for congratulation.

46. The following were the areas irrigated of the four principal crops for the last five years:—

				1872-73.	1873-74.	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
				Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.

GRAND TOTAL	228,796	232,146	279,813	214,599	202,712

The Reasonable rainfall in July diminished the irrigated area of cotton; rice shows a small increase over last year; and there was also a small increase in the wheat crop.

47. The percentages of flow and lift irrigation, and double-cropped land, were for five years:—

				KHARIF.		RABBI.		TOTAL.		Double-cropped land.
				Flow.	Lift.	Flow.	Lift.	Flow.	Lift.

1873-74	43.5	56.5
1874-75	31.2	68.8
1875-76	48.0	52.0

51. The duty obtained in acres from the water during the past five years is detailed below :—

	1872-73.		1873-74.		1874-75.		1875-76.		1876-77.

52. The maintenance charges for the past five years per acre irrigated are as follow :—

	1872-73.	1873-74.	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Total charges	1.38	1.45	1.21	2.24	2.73
Rājbaḥa repairs	0.17	0.16	0.16	0.16	0.17

53. The cost of assessments was less by about Rs. 904 than during the previous year. The saving is in the preparation of the demand statements, the cost of measurements having been proportionately higher in comparison with the area than it was last year. This is attributed to sickness in establishment, and to the rain having made the fields so swampy that the work had to be more slowly done.

54. The state of water collections was as follows :—

	Balance in 1875-76.	Rabbi, 1875-76.	Kharif, 1876-77.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Demands	5,200	2,63,256	2,53,830	5,22,286
Realizations	5,168	2,62,811	2,51,481	5,19,460
Balance at close of year	32	445	2,349	2,826

This is an improvement on the result of the previous year, the unrealized balance at the end of the year being Rs. 2,826, against Rs. 5,200.

55. The state of the collections of the land revenue or owner's rate due to, or dependent on, the works is shown below.

	Balance of assessment from Kharif 1865-66 to Rabbi 1867-68.	Balance of assessments from Kharif 1868-69 to Kharif 1875-76.	Rabbi, 1875-76.	Kharif 1876-77.	Total.

The balance, Rs. 3,792, uncollected, is small, and the state of this account may therefore be considered to be satisfactory.

UPPER SUTLEJ INUNDATION CANALS.

56. The Capital debit of these canals, exclusive of interest, was increased by Rs. 51,688 ; of this, the expenditure on works was as follows :—

59. The Revenue Account Current is drawn out in the same form as that for all other canals, in order to admit of easy comparison in the various entries ; but, as it stands, it is somewhat misleading, as these canals have almost no direct revenue, the charge for water being included in the land revenue. The actual state of the account for the year is—expenditure, Rs. 78,358 ; income, Rs. 87,392 ;—balance, Rs. 9,034, or 1·75 per cent. profit on the Capital.

60. That there is a profit on the year's operations is solely to be accounted for by the reduced charges on account of Direction. The charges for this for the last four years were as follow :—

	Rs.
For 1873-74	23,217
" 1874-75	22,254
" 1875-76	16,757
" 1876-77	6,898

61. The main cause of this decrease is the abolition of the Lower Bári Doáb Circle, and the consequent placing of this Division under the charge of the Superintending Engineer, Bári Doáb Circle ; so that whereas, while it was in the Lower Bári Doáb Circle, it shared the cost of a Superintending Engineer and his Office with one other Division, it now shares this expense with four other Divisions.

62. For the past three years the income and expenditure were as follow.

					1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
					Rs.	Rs.	Rs.

63. The result of the year's operations shows an apparent loss of Rs. 65,317, or 12.6 per cent. on the Capital; but, as explained in para. 59, the true result is a profit of Rs. 9,034, or 1.75 per cent.

64. The areas irrigated for the last five years are as follow.

					Kharif.	Rabbi.	TOTAL.
					Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
1872-73	74,901	60,446	135,350
1873-74	33,935	31,298	65,233
1874-75	49,749	34,371	84,120
1875-76	48,719	90,218	138,937
1876-77	28,029	46,214	74,243

65. In para. 49 of the Superintending Engineer's report several reasons for the falling-off in area irrigated are given, and are all entitled to respect.

66. Taking the eight years from 1869-70 to 1876-77 inclusive, the average will be found to be 101,365 acres; so that the year's irrigation is 27,122 acres under average, though, as Superintending Engineer shows, only 4,000 acres under the average of bad years.

67. The principal causes for the falling-off were the extraordinary rabbi harvest of the previous year, which was so great that it was not got off the fields until too late for a large kharif to follow; and secondly, late rising of the river. There is further the fact that the present rates which were introduced in 1873-74 are subject to revision in the year 1877-78, and that with the view of insuring themselves against a possible enhancement, or, if fortunate, of obtaining a reduction of existing rates, the zamindars have to some extent avoided the use of canal-water, and have made the complaints alluded to by the Superintending Engineer.

68. Steps have already been taken in connection with the revision of the rates now in force, and endeavour will be made to adjust them correctly; the officers concerned have had four years' experience of the present rates, and do not consider that any very important changes will be required.

69. The following table gives the detail of the area and assessments of the fluctuating land revenue.

				KHARIF.		RABBI.		TOTAL.
				Area.	Amount.	Area.	Amount.	Area.	Amount.
				Acres.	Rs.	Acres.	Rs.	Acres.	Rs.

				23,167	37,154	34,996	29,323	58,163	66,477

70. The average duty of the water for the past three years is as follows.

	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Kharif	46.4	40.13	27.9
Rabbi	124.6	152.14	124.2

71. The falling-off of duty performed by the cubic foot of water in the kharif is probably to be attributed to the fact that 136 villages which had irrigated during the kharif of the previous year did not take water.

72. The proportions of overflow to lift for the past three years were as follow.

	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.
Overflow	84.8	91.8	90.7
Lift	5.2	8.2	9.3

73. The measurements and compilation of the assessments are made by the patwāris with fairly satisfactory results. At present the great want felt is for an adequate supervising Revenue establishment: the Government officers ask for this in order that irrigation may not be concealed; the zamīndārs, in order that their irrigation may be recorded as it occurs, and that they may be thus protected from erroneous assessment after rain or well-water has made it doubtful whether canal-water was used.

81. The increase in area irrigated is satisfactory.

82. The area of principal crops for the last five years is as follows.

83. As noticed in the case of the Western Jumna Canal, indigo is the most fluctuating crop; presumably the state of the market has a great deal to do with the marked variations. The crop during the year under review was the largest since 1868-69.

84. The proportion of overflow to lift for the last five years was—

	1872-73.	1873-74.	1874-75.	1875-76.	1876-77.

89. The result, therefore, of the operations of the year, as far as direct revenue is concerned, is a loss of Rs. 1,67,828, or 29·18 per cent. on Capital; if the land revenue due or dependent on the works is included, the loss is decreased to Rs. 29,067, or Rs. 5·05 on Capital.

90. This account is, however, not quite fair to the canals; because there is a sum of Rs. 30,957 of land revenue which is remitted to Jágirdárs for which the canal is entitled to credit: it has been decided, since the Examiner's figures were arrived at, that the canals are entitled to this sum, and that it should be shown in the accounts which exhibit the share of land revenue due to the canals. Had this been shown, the result would be a small profit.

91. It is also urged with much reason that the Capital of these canals has been improperly weighted with expenditure on embankments and river protective works, required quite as much for the protection of the district as for that of these canals, and that if this account was corrected, the canals would show a handsome profit. There is truth in this, and the matter is now being investigated. It may be convenient to exhibit the cost of these protective measures in the yearly reports regarding the Indus Canals, but to calculate the percentage yielded by the canals on a Capital consisting not only on that spent on them, but also on other works, must be misleading.

93. The only figures calling for remark are those showing Works Rs. 9,30½ more than last year, due to payments to the Survey Department on account of work done for this Department, and Establishment, Executive, the increase under which is doubtless due to promotions.

94. The proportion of overflow to lift for the last five years was—

97. As on the Western Jumna Canal, this return shows that the indigo in the Deraját is not exempt from the sudden fluctuations which characterize the crop elsewhere.

98. The measurements were made by the village patwáris with somewhat better results than last year's.

99. The assessment of Rs. 45,000 is again shown to be under the mark as representing half the cost of clearance, which amounted to Rs. 49,681.

REMARKS ON ESTABLISHMENT.

109. During the year under review, Colonel Gulliver, R.E., was Chief Engineer and Joint-Secretary up to the 16th December 1876, when he was relieved by Major R. Home, R.E. Captain Broadfoot, R.E., was Assistant Secretary throughout the year.

110. The undermentioned officers were deputed to Madras and Bombay on Famine duty. As the Department is, owing to the closure of the special Survey Divisions and the Lower Bári Doab Circle, over strength, no inconvenience was felt in consequence of their absence.

Mr. H. Daniell, Assistant Engineer, 1st grade, from 18th January 1877.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 5th September 1878, and is hereby promulgated for general information —

ACT No XV of 1878

An Act to make better provision for the management of the Husainábád endowment at Lucknow

Whereas in the year 1838 the third King of Oudh, Muhammad Ali Shah, built at Lucknow a Mosque called Husainábád Mubárak for the purpose of the celebration therein of certain religious ceremonies and for the ultimate interment of himself and his mother;

Preamble

And whereas, on or about the twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah deposited the sum of twelve lakhs of Lucknow sicca rupees in the treasury of the late East India Company at the Residency at Lucknow.

And whereas by a deed of gift dated the 15th of the month of Ramazán in the year 1255 of the Hijra, corresponding with the said twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah declared that the annual interest on the said sum of twelve lakhs of rupees at the rate of four per centum per annum, together with the rent of certain shops therein referred to and the income of certain religious offerings, should be applied to the payment of the pensions of certain persons therein mentioned and their descendants (hereinafter called "the pensioners") and to defraying the expenses of the said Mosque and the repairs of a road therein mentioned, and by the same deed the said Muhammad Ali Shah appointed two of his servants named Bahik-úd-Daulah Sayyad Imám Ali Khán Bahádúr and Azimullá Khán Bahádúr, and after them their descendants, generation after generation, to be Superintendents (mut'ualis) of the said Mosque, and Sharf-úd-Daulah Muzaffar-úl-Mulk Muhammad Ibráhím Khán Bahádúr Mustakím Jung, and his descendants after him, to be Agent of the pensioners only, and the expenses of the said Mosque were to be paid in perpetuity from the said treasury to the said two Superintendents and their descendants after them and the said pensions were to be paid through the said Agent, and the said deed further provided that, in the event of failure of heirs of the said Superintendents or Agent, the British Resident for the time being at Lucknow should, with the concurrence of three fourths of the pensioners, appoint one of their number to the vacant post. And the deed now in recital also contained the following provisions —

"As the pensioners enumerated in this deed are objects of our peculiar consideration and favour, it is necessary that the Resident for the time being, owing to the union and friendship subsisting between the two Governments, treat them with kindness, and, considering them deserving of the support of the British Government, always afford them his aid and assistance

"The undermentioned items of income are hereby remitted and shall be devoted to the expenses of the Husainábád Mubárak and its dependencies, and all the property in it is given by us as a gift. It shall not be optional with the sovereigns of Oudh, at any time, on any account whatsoever, to interfere in any way with it, and let the Resident for the time being, at the request of the mut'ualis or Superintendents in this particular matter, give his countenance and support that this good work may continue in existence for ever ;"

And whereas the items of income so referred to were the rents of certain shops attached to the said Mosque and the income from religious offerings thereto;

And whereas, on the fifth day of December 1839, Colonel Caulfield, the British Resident at Lucknow, addressed a letter to the said Muhammad Ali Shah in which he acknowledged the receipt of the said deed of gift, and stated that His Majesty might rest satisfied that every attention would be paid by the Resident to the wishes therein expressed, that his relatives would ever meet with the utmost attention, and that their interests would always be attended to by the Resident so far as his official duty permitted;

And whereas, some time after the said twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah added to the endowment so created Government promissory notes amounting to the sum of two millions four hundred and seventeen thousand five hundred sicca rupees, but he did not expressly declare any trusts of such further endowment;

And whereas the said notes are believed to have been in September 1841 converted into Government promissory notes for Company's rupees and to have been then endorsed in favour of the said Superintendents and the Agent;

And whereas, at some time between the same date and the month of February 1856, certain surplus funds of the said endowment were invested in Government promissory notes, some in the names of the said Superintendents and Agent, and some in the names of the said Superintendents only;

And whereas, after the mutiny of 1857 and the re-occupation of Lucknow, the said Mosque was found to have been stripped of all its valuable property; and the promissory notes of which the said endowment then consisted were missing, and it appeared on enquiry that the said Agent had joined the mutineers and been killed during an attack on the said city, and that the said Superintendents had sold certain of the same promissory notes;

And whereas the Government of India thereupon removed the existing Superintendents from their office, and called upon the existing pensioners to appoint under the hereinbefore-recited provisions of the fourth article of the said deed of gift two other Superintendents and an Agent;

And whereas the Nawábs Mohsin-úd-Daulah and Mumtáz-úd-Daulah were accordingly appointed Superintendents, and Sakamutulla Khán was appointed Agent, and such appointments were confirmed by the then Chief Commissioner of Oudh in the year 1860;

And whereas in the meanwhile most of the promissory notes so missing as aforesaid were recovered, and of some of the others duplicates were granted by Government;

And whereas the Superintendents and Agent appointed as last aforesaid subsequently obtained from the Civil Court at Lucknow a declaration of their title to the arrears of interest which had accrued due on the promissory notes then constituting the said endowment;

And whereas, in the month of June 1864, the said promissory notes and arrears were assigned to the said Superintendents and Agent free from all restrictions;

And whereas the said Nawáb Mohsin-úd-Daulah has recently died, but the said deed of gift confers no power to appoint any other person to be a Superintendent in his stead;

And whereas it is doubtful whether the aforesaid appointment of Superintendents and Agent was a regular and valid appointment, and whether there exists any person who can exercise the power of appointment conferred on the Resident by the said deed of gift;

And whereas, owing to the changes which have happened since the death of the said Muhammad Ali Shah, it is expedient to provide for the management of the said endowment in manner hereinafter appearing;

And whereas it is also expedient to indemnify all persons for anything done before the passing of this Act which might lawfully have been done if the said appointments of the said Nawábs and Sakamutulla Khán had been valid;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The Local Government may call upon the pensioners and such of the descendants of the said Muhammad Ali Shah as may for the time being reside at Lucknow to nominate so many persons, not less than six in number, as they or a majority of them think fit to be trustees of the said endowment; and may appoint three of the persons so nominated to be such trustees:

Provided that the said Nawáb Mumtáz-úd-Daulah shall be one of the persons nominated and appointed as aforesaid.

2. If any of the said trustees dies, or is desirous of being discharged, or refuses or becomes incapable to act, or is declared an insolvent, or is guilty of any misconduct which in the opinion of the Local Government disqualifies him to be a trustee, then and so often the Local Government may call upon the pensioners and such descendants to nominate so many persons, not less than two in number, as they or a majority of them think fit to be trustees of the said endowment, and may appoint one of the persons so nominated to be a trustee in the stead of the trustee so dying or desiring to be discharged, or refusing or becoming incapable to act, or declared an insolvent, or deemed disqualified.

3. If the pensioners and such descendants, on being called upon under section one or section two to nominate, fail to do so within one month from the date on which they are so called upon, the Local Government may (except as provided in respect of the said Nawáb Mumtáz-úd-Daulah in section one) appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be trustees of the said endowment: Provided that the number of the trustees shall not in the whole exceed three.

4. The appointment of trustees under this Act shall be effected by a notification in the local official Gazette, and the appointee shall become a trustee on the date fixed in the notification, or if no date is fixed, from the day after its appearance in such Gazette.

5. The validity of any such appointment so notified shall not be questioned in any Court of justice.

6. After the first appointment of trustees under this Act, the whole property of the endowment shall, for the purposes of the endowment, always be vested in the whole body of trustees for the time being.

Devolution of property.

7. The trustees for the time being under this Act shall, for the purposes of the endowment, have the entire management of the property and affairs of the endowment, and shall be responsible for the due conduct of such affairs.

Management.

In the event of any difference of opinion among the trustees, the decision of the majority of them shall prevail; and such majority may, on behalf of themselves and their co-trustee, execute all such assurances as may be requisite for carrying into effect any lease or other disposition of any property of the endowment.

8. With the previous sanction of the Local Government, the said trustees may from time to time appoint some person, not being one of their own body, to act as their Secretary, to keep their accounts, conduct their correspondence and perform other ministerial duties, and may suspend or dismiss any person so appointed.

Trustees to appoint Secretary.

Every person so appointed shall, so long as he continues to act as Secretary, be entitled to receive from the trustees such salary not less than one hundred rupees per mensem as the trustees, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may direct.

9. If the said trustees, on being called upon by the Local Government, when the office of Secretary is vacant, to nominate a Secretary under section eight, fail to do so within one month from the date on which they are so called upon, the Local Government may appoint such person as it thinks fit to be Secretary; and every person so appointed shall, so long as he continues to act as Secretary, be entitled to receive from the trustees such salary as the Local Government may direct.

Power of Government to appoint in certain cases.

10. The Local Government may in its discretion dismiss any Secretary appointed under section eight or section nine who is guilty of any misconduct which, in the opinion of the Local Government, disqualifies him to be Secretary.

Power of Government to dismiss Secretary

11. The receipts of the said trustees for any monies or securities which may be paid or transferred to them in pursuance of this Act or the trusts thereof shall discharge the person paying or transferring the same therefrom and from being concerned to see to the application thereof, or being accountable for the non-application or misapplication thereof.

Receipts of trustees.

12. The said trustees shall be chargeable only with such monies and securities as they respectively actually receive, and shall not be answerable the one for the other of them, nor for any banker, broker or other person in whose hands any of the property of the endowment may be placed; nor for the insufficiency or deficiency of any securities, nor otherwise for any loss or misapplication of the said property, unless the same is occasioned by or through their own wilful neglect or default; and they may reimburse themselves out of the said property all expenses properly incurred in or about the execution of their trust.

Indemnity of trustees.

13. The Local Government may from time to time require the said trustees to render such accounts and other information respecting the said endowment as it thinks fit; and any trustee failing to comply with such requisition, or furnishing false information respecting such endowment, shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 175, section 176 or section 177 (as the case may be) of the Indian Penal Code.

Power to call for accounts and information.

14. All officers and other persons are hereby indemnified for anything done before the passing of this Act which might lawfully have been done if the hereinbefore-recited appointments of the said Nawabs and Sakamutulla Khan had been valid; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any such officer or other person in respect of anything so done.

Indemnity-clause.

D. FITZPATRICK,

*Secy. to the Govt. of India,
Legislative Department.*

- (5) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, by reason of the refusal of any person to act under the same, or by the refusal or non-acceptance of any office thereby granted, totally fails of the intended purpose :
- (6) an instrument executed by any party thereto which becomes useless in consequence of the transaction intended to be thereby effected being effected by some other instrument duly stamped :
- (7) an instrument executed by any party thereto which is inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, and in lieu whereof another instrument made between the same parties and for the same purpose is executed and duly stamped :

Provided that in the case of an executed instrument—

- (a) such instrument is given up to be cancelled :
- (b) the application for relief is made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, except where from unavoidable circumstances any instrument for which another instrument has been substituted cannot be given up to be cancelled within the aforesaid period, and in that case within six months after the date of execution of the substituted instrument, and except where the spoiled instrument has been sent abroad, and in that case within six months after it has been received back in any part of British India : and
- (c) no suit has been instituted in which the instrument could or would have been given or offered in evidence :

Provided also that, in the case of stamped paper not having any executed instrument written thereon, the application for relief is made within six months after the stamp has been purchased from the stamp-vendor.

53. When any person has inadvertently used for an instrument liable to duty a stamp of a description other than that prescribed for such instrument by the rules made under the powers hereinbefore conferred or a stamp of greater value than was necessary, or has inadvertently used any stamp for an instrument not liable to any duty, the Collector may, on application made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, and upon the instrument, if liable to any duty, being re-stamped with the proper duty, cancel and allow as spoiled the stamp so misused.

54. In any case in which allowance is made for spoiled or misused stamps, the Collector may give in lieu thereof other stamps of the same denomination and value or, if required, and he thinks proper, stamps of any other denomination to the same amount in value or, at his discretion, the same value in money, deducting one anna for each rupee.

Allowance how to be made.

CHAPTER VII.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

55. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent herewith for regulating—

Powers to make subsidiary rules.

(a) the description of stamps and (in the case of impressed stamps) the size of the stamped paper to be used for each kind of instrument chargeable under this Act ;

(b) the supply and sale of such stamps and stamped papers, the persons by whom such sale is to be conducted, and the duties and remuneration of such persons, and

(c) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

56. All rules made under this Act shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

57. Any person receiving any money exceeding twenty rupees in Procedure where receipts are required.

amount or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note for an amount exceeding twenty rupees, or receiving in satisfaction of a debt any movable property exceeding twenty rupees in value shall, on demand by the person paying or delivering such money, bill, cheque, note or property, give a duly stamped receipt for the same.

58. Every Local Government shall cause this Act to be translated, indexed and sold cheaply.

Act and the schedules hereto annexed to be carefully translated into the principal vernacular languages of the territories subject to its control. A full alphabetical index shall be added to every such translation, and the translation and index shall be printed and sold to the public at a price not exceeding four annas per copy.

CHAPTER VIII.

CRIMINAL OFFENCES AND PROCEDURE.

59. Any person drawing, making, issuing, endorsing or transferring, or Penalty for executing instrument on paper not duly stamped.

signing otherwise than as a witness, or presenting for acceptance or payment, or accepting, paying or receiving payment of, or in any manner negotiating, any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note without the same being duly stamped, any person executing or signing otherwise than as a witness any other instrument chargeable with stamp-duty without the same being duly stamped, and any person voting or attempting to vote under any proxy not duly stamped, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees :

Provided that when any penalty has been paid in respect of any instrument under section thirty-five or section thirty-eight, the amount of such penalty shall be allowed in reduction of the fine (if any) subsequently imposed under this section in respect of the same instrument upon the person who paid such penalty.

60. Any person affixing an adhesive stamp to any instrument and failing to cancel such stamp in manner directed by section eleven, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

61. Any person who, with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, executes any instrument in which all the facts and circumstances required by section twenty-eight to be set forth in such instrument are not fully and truly set forth, and any person who, being employed or concerned in or about the preparation of any instrument, neglects, or omits with intent as aforesaid, fully and truly to set forth therein all such facts or circumstances, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

62. Any person who being required under section fifty-seven to give a receipt refuses or neglects to give the same, or who upon a payment to the amount of twenty rupees or upwards gives a receipt for a sum not amounting to twenty rupees, or separates or divides the amount paid with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

63. Every person who—

(a) receives, or takes credit for, any premium or consideration for any contract of insurance, and does not, within one month after receiving, or taking credit for, such premium or consideration, make out and execute a duly stamped policy of such insurance; or

(b) makes, executes or delivers out, or pay or making, &c., any or allows in account, or agrees to pay or allow in account, any money upon or in respect of any policy which is not duly stamped, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

64. Any person drawing or executing a bill of exchange or a policy of marine insurance purporting to be drawn or executed in a set of two or more, and not at the same time drawing or executing on paper duly stamped the whole number of bills or policies of which such bill or policy purports the set to consist, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

65. Whoever utters any instrument having thereon any adhesive stamp which has to his knowledge been used for any other executed instrument, or practises or is concerned in any fraudulent act, contrivance or device not herein specially provided for, with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

66. Any person appointed to sell stamps who knowingly disobeys any rule made under section fifty-five, and any person not so appointed who sells or offers for sale any stamp other than a stamp purchased by him in good faith for his own private use, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

67. No prosecution in respect of any offence punishable under this Act, or the General Stamp Act, 1869, or any Act thereby repealed, shall be instituted without the sanction of the Collector or such other officer as the Local Government generally, or the Collector specially, authorizes in that behalf.

The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, or any officer authorized by it in this behalf, may stay or compound proceedings in any such prosecution.

68. Every such offence shall be triable—

- (a) within the limits of the Presidency-towns, by a Presidency Magistrate; and
- (b) outside those limits, by Magistrates exercising powers not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class.

69. Every such offence committed in respect of any instrument may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which such instrument is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which such offence might be tried under the law relating to Criminal Procedure for the time being in force.

70. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act, or the rules made under it, or from being liable under such other law to any higher punishment or penalty than that provided by the rules made under this Act: Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th September, 1878:—

No. 6 of 1878.

A Bill to amend Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages).

• Whereas by Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages), section

Preamble.

five, it is enacted that when any publisher or printer is called upon by a Magistrate or Commissioner of Police to execute a bond under that Act in respect of any newspaper, the publisher of such newspaper may deliver to such Magistrate or Commissioner an undertaking in writing to the effect that no words, signs or visible representations shall, during the year next following the date of such undertaking, be printed or published in such newspaper which have not previously been submitted to such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, or which on being so submitted have been objected to by such officer, and that when such undertaking has been so delivered, no such bond and no such deposit as is mentioned in section four of the said Act shall be required from the publisher or printer of such newspaper during the said year;

And whereas by the last paragraph of section eight of the same Act it is provided that the publisher of any newspaper may, on the publication of a notice in respect thereof under section six of the said Act, and before anything has become liable to forfeiture under the said section eight in respect of such newspaper, deliver to the Magistrate of the District, or to the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency-town, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such newspaper is published, an undertaking as aforesaid, and, if such Magistrate or Commissioner accepts such undertaking, nothing shall become liable to forfeiture as aforesaid between the date on which such undertaking is so accepted and the end of the period for which it is given;

And whereas by the same Act, section eighteen, it is enacted that when any publisher of a newspaper has given any undertaking as aforesaid, and during the period for which such undertaking is given, any words, signs or visible representations which have not been submitted to the officer appointed as aforesaid, or which on being so submitted have been objected to by him, are printed or published in such newspaper, such publisher and the printer of such newspaper shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both;

And whereas it is expedient to repeal the enactments and proviso hereinbefore recited and the reference in section three of the said Act to the said section five; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The following portions of the said Act are repealed (that is to say): sections five and eighteen, the last paragraph of section eight, and in section three, the words “and subject to the provisions of section five.”

Repeal of Act IX of 1878, sections 5 and 18, and parts of sections 3 and 8.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In his despatch dated the 31st May 1878, the Secretary of State in Council conveyed the sanction of Her Majesty's Government to the Vernacular Press Act. But with reference to the provisions of the Act under which a publisher may undertake to submit a proof of his newspaper to the Local Government before publishing the same, he requested that the Governor General in Council would refrain from putting this part of the Act into operation, taking power by fresh legislation to suspend or abandon it if this was deemed necessary. After a careful consideration of the frame of the Act, fresh legislation has been deemed necessary to carry out the wishes of Her Majesty's Government, and accordingly the present Bill has been prepared, by which the enactments relating to the provisions noticed by the Secretary of State's despatch are repealed.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th September 1878:—

1. We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps and Court-fees was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers specified in the annexed list.

2. The Bill as originally introduced was intended to combine in one enactment the law relating to general stamps and that relating to Court-fees, which have been kept separate since the year 1867.

The circumstance that there were a certain number of provisions common to both laws seemed to make this arrangement to some extent a convenient one. But on examination the provisions thus common to both laws are found to be so few, that it seems to the majority of us that, even from the draftsman's point of view, the proposed consolidation would not be an improvement. It is, moreover, the majority would observe, to be borne in mind that the members of the mercantile community and many other persons who have frequently in the course of their daily business to refer to the general stamp-law have scarcely ever any concern with the law of Court-fees, and that to such persons an Act treating of both subjects, together with constant transitions from one to the other, would be extremely confusing and awkward to use.

For these reasons we have deemed it best to adhere to the existing arrangement of the law, and confine the present Bill to the subject of general stamps, leaving the subject of Court-fees to be separately dealt with.

It may be added as a further reason in favour of this course that certain questions relating to Court-fees are not yet ripe for decision, and that it would in all probability lead to an undue delay in the amendment of the general stamp-law if we were to wait till we were in a position to make any definite recommendation regarding them.

3. The portion of the original draft embodied in the present Bill will be found to have been considerably altered both in substance and in form. Many of the amendments made have been suggested in the communications received by us from the various authorities consulted, or have been borrowed from the English Stamp Acts of 1870. The rest (which are chiefly of a formal nature) have been adopted with a view to clearness or simplification.

We proceed to notice the more important of them.

4. The definitions of the following terms, namely :—

"Affidavit,"	"Letter of Credit,"
"Banker,"	"Negotiable Instrument,"
"Bottomry-Bond,"	"Promissory Note,"
"Respondentia-Bond,"	"Property,"
"Counterpart,"	"Protests,"
"Impressed,"	"Stamp,"
"Instrument,"	"Stamp-law,"

have been omitted; of these, "Bottomry-Bond" and "Respondentia-Bond" are covered by the definition of "Mortgage," and "Letter of Credit" by that of "Bill of Exchange." The rest have been omitted as superfluous.

5. The definitions of the following instruments, namely,— "Charter-party," "Composition-deed," "Delivery-order," "Warrant for goods" (described in the former Bill and in the existing law as "Dock-warrant") and "Notarial Act," have been transferred to the first schedule, as these instruments are not mentioned elsewhere.

6. The definition of "Bill of lading" has been so drawn as to exclude receipts given for goods received by cargo boats for shipment within the limits of a port.

7. The definition of "Bond" has been enlarged so as to include expressly the ordinary "khātā" or "tamassuk," and also instruments securing the repayment of a loan in kind.

8. The definitions of "Chief Controlling Revenue Authority" and "Collector" have been extended so as to include certain persons to whom the Government may delegate the functions of these authorities under the Act.

9. The term "Conveyance" has been expressly limited to transfers of property (whether movable or immovable) on sale, as it is in the English Stamp Act.

10. "Lease" has been made to include a "pattā;" also a kabūliyat where the latter instrument is not a counterpart of a lease, but is the only instrument passing between the parties.

11. The definition of "Mortgage-deed" has been enlarged, so as to include all instruments with the exception of a particular class of documents therein specified, pledging movable property. This change goes to maintain the existing law.

12. The term "Receipt" has for the purposes of the stamp-law been declared to include all acknowledgments of the discharge of a debt, whether by the payment of money, delivery of goods or otherwise, and all acknowledgments of the receipt of money, bills of exchange, promissory notes and cheques, whether in satisfaction of a debt or otherwise; but in connection with this extension of the term, the schedule of exemptions should be referred to.

13. "Settlement" has been re-defined, so as to exclude dispositions of property for religious or charitable purposes; such dispositions will accordingly be stamped as "Instruments of Gift," which are by the Bill made chargeable as "Conveyances."

14. We have in section 8, at the instance of the Government of India in the Financial Department, made the power to reduce or remit stamp-duties retrospective as well as prospective.

15. In section 11, which corresponds with section 12 of the former Bill, the obligation to cancel an adhesive stamp by writing the name or initials of the person affixing the same across it has been omitted, it being simply provided, in accordance with the existing law, that the stamp shall be cancelled in such manner as effectually to prevent its being used again. The obligation imposed by the Bill as introduced was, it appears to us, unsuited to the very large number of cases in which the person affixing the stamp would be unable to write.

16. The effect of the definition of the term "duly stamped" when applied to sections 12, 13, 14 and 15, is to invalidate all instruments in respect of which the rules laid down by these sections have been violated; but it will be seen, on reference to sections 35 and 36, that provision is made for validating such instruments on easy terms.

17. Section 7 of the former Bill in regard to the misapplication or wrong use of any particular description of stamps has been omitted as now unnecessary, its object being effected by the definition just referred to taken in conjunction with section 9.

18. In section 18, corresponding with section 9 of the former Bill, the period within which an instrument executed out of British India may be stamped has been extended from one to two months.

19. In section 19 we have, following the English Act, introduced a proviso protecting a person who in good faith takes a foreign bill bearing a proper stamp, though it may afterwards turn out that such stamp was not affixed in accordance with the law.

20. The provision as to the rate of exchange in respect of the Mauritius dollar in section 21 of the former Bill has been omitted from section 20, as it is understood that the rupee has been substituted for the dollar currency in that place.

21. Sections 25 and 26 (corresponding to section 34 (b) and section 12 of Act XVIII of 1869) and section 29 (which is altogether new) have been framed on the lines of the sections of the English Act relating to valuations for duty.

Section 28, which is a generalization of section 34 (a) of Act XVIII of 1869, is similarly taken from the English law.

22. The provisions of chapter 3 (relating to adjudication) have been made expressly applicable to instruments or drafts of instruments brought to the adjudicating officer prior to their execution. It has been a question under the present law whether any person could, before executing an instrument, claim an adjudication as to the amount of duty to which such instrument would be liable, and we think it desirable to enable him to do so.

23. The provision in this chapter empowering the Collector to require an abstract to be furnished to him is taken from the English Act. It is obviously useful as saving the Collector's time when the document is a lengthy one.

24. The obligation to examine all instruments coming before them in the execution of their duty, and the power of impounding such as appear to be not duly stamped, have been extended, by section 34, to all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, in which category are included not only all judicial officers, but persons acting as arbitrators, special commissioners and the like, and to all executive officers having charge of any office, except police-officers. Under one or other of these heads, it is thought, all persons having any public duty to discharge, and whose position and standing are such as to justify their being invested with such powers, will be found to be included. It would for obvious reasons be inexpedient to assign such functions to police-officers. Power has been given to the local Governments to declare who for the purposes of this chapter (IV) shall be deemed to "have charge of an office."

25. The penalty leviable by a Civil Court before admitting in evidence an instrument not duly stamped has, by section 35, been increased from four to ten times the deficient amount of duty, and it is provided further that in no case shall the fine levied be less than five rupees; but the Collector is, by section 37, empowered to remit any portion of the amount so levied in excess of the minimum fine of five rupees.

26. By section 38, the Collector is authorized to levy a fine, the amount of which is in no case to be less than five rupees, and which may extend to the amount leviable in the Civil Courts under section 35. The provision of the former Bill in regard to the levy of interest on the unpaid amount of any duty chargeable has been omitted, as likely to cause trouble and inconvenience wholly disproportionate to the advantage to be gained by its retention.

27. The power given to the Collector under the former Bill of prosecuting before a Magistrate any person who might appear to have committed a criminal offence in regard to the stamping of any instrument, irrespective of the levy of deficient duty or penalty in respect of such instrument, has been retained, but subject to the condition that no such prosecution shall be instituted unless the deficient duty and penalty are not paid, or it appears to the Collector that the neglect or omission to use the proper stamp proceeded from an intention to evade payment of the duty.

28. The provision of the former Bill enabling a Collector to recover any deficient amount of stamp-duty or any penalty payable under this chapter as an arrear of revenue, has been omitted.

When the person from whose custody the instrument has come has not been concerned in the execution of it, it seems to us that it would, generally speaking, be unfair to compel him to pay, and when he has been so concerned, the proper course clearly is to prosecute him for the offence he has committed.

29. The third proviso to section 35 is intended to settle an important question, regarding which there is at present a conflict of opinion, namely, the question as to whether an objection for want of stamp can be allowed in appeal when the document has been received in evidence in the Court below. We think it should not be allowed. The advantage gained to the revenue by allowing it seems to us to be more than counterbalanced by the delay and expense which must frequently be caused to suitors when a document forming the basis of the decision in the Court below is rejected on a purely technical ground in appeal. It might, no doubt, be provided that, on the defect being brought to notice in appeal, the party relying on the document might remedy it by paying in the deficient stamp-duty and penalty in the Appellate Court; but there would frequently be cases in which, being the respondent, he would not be present, or in which, if present, he would not have the money at hand at the moment, or in which again he would find it more to his interest to substitute other evidence for that objected to; and in such cases the result would usually be a postponement or remand. For these reasons we have deemed it best to provide that a document once admitted shall not afterwards be objected to; but for the protection of the revenue, we have in section 51 given power to the Appellate Court, either of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, to take the question of the stamp-duty into consideration; and if it declares that a higher duty or penalty was payable than was actually paid and the deficiency is not then paid, or it appears that there was an intention to evade the stamp-law, the Collector may, notwithstanding the admission of the document in evidence, prosecute for any offence that may have been committed.

We consider such a power necessary, not only in cases in which a lower Court has pronounced an erroneous decision on a question of liability to stamp-duty, but still more in the much larger class of cases in which it has overlooked the point altogether.

30. The provisions of section 50, corresponding with section 47 of the former Bill, have been so modified as to confine the references to such Courts as are presided over by not less than three Judges.

31. The provisions allowing a refund in the case of spoiled adhesive stamps and of instruments void for want of registration have been omitted. It would be almost impossible to devise adequate protection against frauds on the revenue if refunds were granted in the case of spoiled adhesive stamps; and it seems inexpedient to provide for the mitigation of any of the consequences attaching to neglect of the registration law.

32. In modification of the absolute prohibition of the sale of stamps by any person other than a licensed vendor contained in the former Bill, it is now provided (by implication in section 66) that a person who has in good faith purchased a stamp for his own use may, in the event of his not requiring the same, resell it. This change renders unnecessary the retention of the provision of section 80 of the former Bill for the recovery in the way of a refund of the value of a stamp purchased by any person for his own use which he does not require.

33. We have, in the case of a spoilt stamped paper on which no instrument has been executed, made the period within which an application must be made for a refund run from the date of the purchase of such stamp from the stamp-vendor instead of, from the time at which it is spoilt. By so doing we get rid of an issue of fact on which much false evidence would be likely to be adduced.

34. In section 57, the obligation of giving a receipt has been confined to cases in which the money paid, or the value of the property delivered, exceeds 20 rupees.

35. A provision equivalent to that of section 51 of the General Stamp Act, 1869, has been introduced in section 58 with the object of giving the utmost possible publicity to the requirements of the stamp-law.

36. The maximum limit of fine for the offence of under-stamping has been raised (section 57) from 200 rupees to 500 rupees; but on the other hand it has been provided when any person from whom any penalty has been recovered under chapter IV is prosecuted and convicted in a Criminal Court, the amount of the penalty so paid is to be allowed as a set-off against, and to be deducted from, the amount of any fine which he may be sentenced to pay under this chapter.

37. In lieu of the provision of the former Bill rendering the parties to an instrument in which the full consideration passing under such instrument is not truly set forth in all cases liable to a fine of five times the amount of the proper duty which would have been payable if the consideration were truly stated, together with a further fine which might amount to 500 rupees, the liability of such persons has been restricted (section 61) to cases in which there appears to have been a fraudulent intention; and a single fine without any minimum limit, but with a maximum limit of 5,000 rupees (the limit fixed in section 35 of the present Act for the similar offence when committed by a person employed professionally in the preparation of the instrument) has been provided. The minimum limit of fine fixed by section 35 of the present Act has likewise been abolished, and all parties concerned in the wilful suppression or misrepresentation as regards the amount of the consideration given for, or the value of, the property to which the instrument relates, whether they are the executors of, or the persons employed in drawing up, such instrument, are made punishable in like degree. The effect of these alterations is to simplify, and probably on the whole to mitigate, the existing law.

38. By section 69 we have made an offence committed in respect of any instrument triable in any place in which such instrument may be found, as well as in any place in which it would be triable under the Criminal Procedure Code.

39. We now proceed to notice the changes we have made in the schedules. To begin with, we have thrown the schedule of ad valorem duties and that of fixed duties into a single schedule arranged in alphabetical order, which we think will be found simpler and easier for reference. We have further made changes both of substance and of form in several of the articles. The Bill as introduced provided for an increase of about 50 per cent. in the duty on bills of exchange and promissory notes payable otherwise than on demand; but it has seemed to the majority of us that, except under circumstances of considerable financial pressure, we should not be warranted in imposing this additional tax upon the commerce of the country, especially at a season of comparative depression like the present. We have accordingly amended the Bill so as to keep the duties on these instruments at their present rates.

40. In connection with the subject of bills of exchange, we may further mention that we have deemed it unnecessary to make any change in the existing law by which the duty payable on bills drawn in sets is distributed over the several parts. We have accordingly omitted the foot-note to the first schedule of the Bill as introduced, and inserted a table like that contained in the existing Act.

41. We have in article 29 expanded article 3 of the first schedule to the Bill as introduced, first by extending it to hypothecations of movable property, and secondly by extending it (with duty equal to that on bills of exchange) to cases when the loan is repayable more than three months, but not more than one year, from the date of the instrument. This, we believe, will afford considerable relief in a very large class of mercantile transactions which would otherwise be chargeable with the mortgage-duty.

42. Policies of insurance have been divided into two classes—(1) marine policies, and (2) all other policies, including life policies. For the first, it is proposed to maintain the rates prescribed by the existing law. In the present days of quick communications marine policies have a very short currency, in most cases not exceeding three months, and the number of policies of this class issued is much greater than formerly. There is consequently, in the opinion of the Committee, no good ground for reverting, as the original Bill would have done, to the higher rates of duty which were charged previous to 1869. As regards life and other kinds of insurances, the case is different, and some increase seems permissible. The rates we propose for them are medium rates, 25 per cent. below the rates laid down in the former Bill, and 50 per cent. in excess of the rates charged on policies of insurance generally under the existing law.

43. The Bill as introduced omitted the minimum rate of two annas to which bonds and other instruments chargeable as bonds involving an amount not exceeding 25 rupees are subject under the present Stamp Act. The effect was to make every bond and other instrument similarly chargeable involving an amount, however small, liable to a duty of four annas. As a compromise between this rate, which in the case of very small transactions would in our opinion be unduly heavy, and the rates prescribed by the existing law, we propose that the two annas rate be continued in respect of bonds and other instruments chargeable at bond-rates where the amount secured by such instrument does not exceed ten rupees.

44. We have provided that the duty on amounts above Rs. 1,000, both in the case of the "Bond" class, and the "Conveyance" class of instruments, shall ascend by steps of Rs. 2-8 and Rs. 5 in lieu of Rs. 5 and Rs. 10, respectively, as provided by the former Bill. The effect of this reduction is to maintain the existing rates of duty on amounts ranging between Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 10,000 in respect of Bonds and Conveyances, and the several instruments similarly chargeable.

45. We have in article 20 inserted words to make it clear that only copies certified by a public officer are chargeable with duty.

46. As important additions to the schedule we desire to mention—

Bought and sold notes (No. 45), and

Enrolment of a vakil under the letters patent of a High Court, (No. 25), and among omissions we would direct attention to article 52, by which the duty it was proposed to take on receipts between 10 rupees and 20 rupees has been abandoned.

47. The duty payable on articles of clerkship (No. 8) we propose to reduce from 500 rupees, the amount chargeable under the existing law and under the Bill as introduced, because a new duty of 250 rupees is imposed (by article 26) on enrolment as an Attorney.

48. The entries in the exemption schedule are for the most part transferred from existing enactments or from notifications issued by the Government under the powers conferred by the present Stamp Act; but among those now added we may mention—

(1.) Receipts for payments of money exceeding 20 rupees, when such payment is made without consideration, as e. g., in the case of a subscription to some religious, charitable or public object;

(2.) "Lease, pattá, kabúliyat or other undertaking to cultivate, occupy or pay rent for land granted to or by a cultivator without the payment or delivery of any fine or premium when a definite term is expressed and such term does not exceed one year or when the annual rent reserved does not exceed Rs. 100.

(3.) "Counterpart of any lease granted to a cultivator."

49. We think that such instruments as "Articles of Association," which deal with important interests, may reasonably bear a somewhat higher duty than that to which they have heretofore been subjected; we propose therefore that the amount be raised from fifteen to twenty-five rupees.

50. We desire to acknowledge the valuable criticisms received from the Chambers of Commerce at Madras and Bombay, from Mr. Justice Sewell White and Mr. Justice Plowden, from Mr. C. D. Field, District Judge of Burdwan, from Mr. Jacob, Registrar of the Judicial Commissioner's Court, Central Provinces, from the Committee appointed by the Panjáb Government, and from Bábu Upendra Náth Mittra, Government Pleader, Dacca.

51. The publication ordered by the Council has been made; but the Bill has been so considerably altered by us that we are of opinion that it should be republished.

* WITH all deference to the opinion of the other Members of the Select Committee, I beg to observe that I fail to see the reason why settlements made for religious and charitable purposes should not come under the same head as family settlements. Considering the laudable objects for which the former are intended, they ought not, in my opinion, to be charged with a higher rate of stamp-duty than the latter.

With regard to article 50, clause (c), Schedule I (Power of Attorney), though in its present form it meets my objection respecting joint execution, I still take exception to it for this reason: when I took objection to this clause I did not mean that different attorneys for different objects should be constituted by one instrument. What I meant to say was that provision should be made to enable a person or persons to execute a power in favour of one or more persons to "act in more than one transaction or generally," such power to act being exercised simultaneously or concurrently by the persons named in the instrument. I have already stated my reasons for this proposed modification in my former note, and I need not repeat them here.

With these remarks I subscribe the report.

The 28th August, 1878.

JOTÍNDRA MOHAN TAGORE.

† I AGREE with this report except as to article 46 of Schedule I, which I think must be further altered or struck out altogether.

G. H. P. EVANS.

‡ On consideration, I agree with Mr. Evans. The clause as it stands would apply to the statement of the balance in a banker's pass-book not signed by the constituent.

SCHEDULE III.

ACTS REPEALED.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

- Short title. 1. This Act may be called
 "The Stamp Act, 1879."
 Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;
 And it shall come into Commencement. force on the first day of January 1879.

2. On and after that day, the Acts specified in the third schedule shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the same schedule. But all rules framed under the General Stamp Act, 1869, and then in force shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made hereunder. And all references made to the General

Stamp Act, 1869, in enactments passed subsequently thereto shall be deemed to be made to this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Interpretation-clause. (1.) "Bill of exchange" includes also a hundi and a letter of credit:

(2.) "Bill of lading" means any instrument signed by the owner of a vessel or his agent, acknowledging the receipt of goods therein described, and undertaking to deliver the same at a place and to a person mentioned or indicated in such instrument; but does not include any such instrument when the goods therein described are received at a place within the limits of any port as defined under the Indian Ports Act, 1875, and are to be delivered at another place within the limits of the same port:

(3.) "Bond" means—

(a) any instrument whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another, on condition that the obligation shall be void if a specified act is performed, or is not performed, as the case may be;

(b) any instrument attested by a witness or witnesses and not payable to order or bearer, whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another; and

(c) any instrument so attested whereby a person obliges himself to deliver grain or other agricultural produce to another:

(4.) "Cheque" means a bill of exchange drawn on a banker or person carrying on the business of banking, and payable on demand:

(5.) CHAPTER II.

STAMP-DUTIES.

A.—Of the liability of Instruments to Stamp-duty.

5. Subject to the exemptions contained in the second schedule, the following instruments shall be liable to stamp-duty of the amount indicated in the first schedule as the proper duty therefor respectively, that is to say:—

(a) every instrument mentioned in the same schedule, and executed in British India on or after the first day of January 1879;

(b) every bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note drawn or made out of British India on or after that day and accepted or paid, or presented for acceptance or payment, or endorsed, transferred or otherwise negotiated, in British India; and

(c) every instrument (other than a bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note) mentioned in the same schedule, executed out of British India on or after that day, and relating to any property situate, or to any matter or thing done or to be done, in British India.

6. When in the case of any conveyance, lease, mortgage or settlement several instruments are employed for completing the transaction, the principal instrument only shall be chargeable with the ad valorem duty prescribed for such conveyance, lease, mortgage or settlement in the first schedule, and the other instruments shall be chargeable with such other duty as may be prescribed for them in that schedule; but such last-mentioned duty shall not exceed the ad valorem duty payable in respect of the principal instrument.

7. The parties may determine for themselves which of such instruments shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the principal instrument.

8. An instrument so framed as to come within two or more of the descriptions within several descriptions of the first schedule shall, when the rates chargeable thereunder are different, be charged with the highest of such rates:

Provided that any such instrument purporting to effect several distinct objects shall be chargeable with the aggregate amount of the duties to which instruments effecting separately each of such objects would be liable under this Act.

9. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by order published in the Gazette of India, reduce or remit whether prospectively or retrospectively, in the whole or any part of British India, the duties chargeable under this Act on all or any of the instruments mentioned in the first schedule, or on any particular class of such instruments, or on any of the instruments belonging to such class, or on any of the instruments mentioned in the same schedule, when executed or granted by or to any particular class of persons, or by or to any members of such class, and may in like manner cancel or vary such order to the extent of the powers hereby given.

Power to reduce or remit rates of stamp-duty.

Every such cancellation or variation shall be published in the Gazette of India.

B.—Of Stamps and the mode of using them.

9. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, all stamp-duties

Duties how to be paid, which may from time to time be chargeable by law in respect of any instruments shall be paid, and such payment shall be indicated on such instruments, by means of stamps—

(a) according to the provisions herein contained, or

(b) when no such provision is applicable thereto, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

10. The following instruments may be stamped

Use of adhesive and with adhesive stamps, namely :—

(a) instruments chargeable with the duty of one anna ;

(b) bills of exchange and promissory notes drawn or made out of British India ; and

(c) transfers by endorsement of shares of public companies and associations.

Unless the Governor General in Council otherwise directs, all other instruments shall be stamped with impressed stamps only.

11. Whoever affixes any adhesive stamp to

Cancellation of adhesive stamps. any instrument liable to duty shall, at the time of affixing the same, cancel such stamp in such manner as to show that it has been used, and so that the same shall be incapable of being used for any other instrument.

Any instrument bearing an adhesive stamp which has not been cancelled in manner herein required shall, so far as such stamp is concerned, be deemed to be unstamped.

12. Every instrument written upon stamped

How instruments are to be written and stamped. paper shall be written in such manner, and every instrument for which an adhesive stamp is used shall be so stamped, that the stamp may appear on the face of the instrument and cannot be used for or applied to any other instrument.

13. No second instrument chargeable with

Only one instrument to be on same stamp. stamp-duty shall be written upon a piece of stamped paper upon which an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty has already been written: provided that nothing in this section shall prevent an endorsement being made upon any instrument for the purpose of transferring any right created or evidenced thereby.

14. When an impressed stamp is used to defray

Employment of single impressed stamp. the amount of duty with which any instrument is chargeable, such amount shall be defrayed by a single stamp, except when such amount exceeds one thousand rupees, in which case it may be defrayed by two or more impressed stamps of which the aggregate amount is the amount so required :

Provided that, when a single impressed stamp of any amount less than one thousand rupees is not procurable on application to the Collector or stamp-vendor appointed under the rules hereinafter mentioned, it shall be lawful, on such Collector or stamp-vendor making a certificate to that effect, for the person requiring such stamp to defray the duty chargeable by two or more impressed stamps, of which the aggregate amount is not less than the amount of such duty :

Provided also that when any instrument cannot conveniently be written on a single piece of stamped paper bearing a stamp of the amount required for such instrument, it may be commenced on such piece of paper, and when such piece of paper is filled, be continued on one or more pieces of paper each bearing a stamp of eight annas, or when the amount of duty chargeable in respect of such instrument is less than eight annas, of the amount so chargeable.

15. When more stamped papers than one are used under section fourteen

Employment of several stamped papers. for an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty, each paper so used shall contain a part of the instrument.

16. Where the duty with which an instrument

Denoting. is chargeable, or the exemption of such instrument from duty, depends in any manner upon the duty paid upon another instrument, the payment of such last-mentioned duty shall, if application be made in writing to the Collector for that purpose, and on production of both the instruments, be denoted upon such first-mentioned instrument in such manner as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

C.—Of the Time of stamping Instruments.

17. Instruments chargeable with stamp-duty

Instruments executed in British India and executed in British India shall be stamped before or at the time of execution.

18. Every instrument chargeable with such Instruments other than bills, cheques and notes executed out of British India. duty executed out of British India, and not being a bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, may be stamped within two months after it has been first received in British India ; or, where such instrument cannot, with reference to the description of stamp prescribed for such instrument, be duly stamped by a private person, it may be taken within the said period of two months to the Collector, and he shall stamp the same, in such manner as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by rule prescribe, with a stamp of such value as the person presenting such instrument may require and pay for.

19. The first holder in British India of any bill

Bills, cheques and notes of exchange, cheque or promissory note drawn or made out of British India shall, before he presents the same for acceptance or payment, or endorses, transfers or otherwise negotiates the same in British India, affix thereto the proper stamp and cancel the same, unless such stamp has been already affixed and cancelled :

Provided that if, at the time any such bill, cheque or note comes into the hands of any holder thereof in British India, the proper adhesive stamp is affixed thereto and cancelled in manner prescribed by section eleven, and such holder has no reason to believe that such stamp was affixed or cancelled otherwise than by the person and at the time required by this Act, such stamp shall, so far as relates to such holder, be deemed to have been duly affixed and cancelled. But nothing contained in this proviso shall relieve any person from any penalty incurred by him for omitting to affix or cancel a stamp.

D.—Of Valuations for Stamp-duty.

20. When an instrument is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of an amount expressed in certain currencies, pounds sterling, pounds currency, francs or dollars, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the following scale:—

One pound sterling or pound currency is equivalent to ten rupees:

One hundred francs are equivalent to forty rupees:

One Mexican or China dollar is equivalent to two rupees four annas:

21. When an instrument is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of any money expressed in any other foreign or colonial currency, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the current rate of exchange on the day of the date of the instrument.

22. When an instrument is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of any stock or of any marketable security, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such stock or security according to the average price thereof on the day of the date of the instrument.

23. When an instrument contains a statement of current rate of exchange, or average price, as the case may require, and is stamped in accordance with such statement, it is, so far as regards the subject-matter of such statement, to be deemed duly stamped, unless or until it is shown that such statement is untrue, and that the instrument is in fact insufficiently stamped.

24. When interest is expressly made payable by the terms of an instrument, such instrument shall not be chargeable with duty higher than that with which it would have been chargeable had no mention of interest been made therein.

25. When any property is conveyed to any person in consideration, wholly or in part, of any debt due to him, or subject either certainly or contingently to the payment or transfer of any money or stock, whether being or constituting a charge or incumbrance upon the property or not, such debt, money or stock is to be deemed the whole or part, as the case may be, of the consideration in respect whereof the conveyance is chargeable with ad valorem duty.

26. When an instrument is executed to secure the payment of an annuity, or other sum payable periodically, or when the consideration for a conveyance is an annuity or other sum payable periodically, the amount secured by such instrument or the consideration for such conveyance (as the case may be) shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be—

(a) when such sum is payable for a definite period so that the total amount to be paid can be previously ascertained, such total amount;

(b) when such sum is payable in perpetuity or for an indefinite time not terminable with any life in being at the date of the execution of such instrument or conveyance, the total amount which, according to the terms of such instrument or conveyance, will or may be payable during the period of twenty years next after the date of such instrument or conveyance; and

(c) when such sum is payable for an indefinite time terminable with any life in being at the date of the execution of such instrument or conveyance, the total amount which will or may be payable as aforesaid during the period of twelve years next after the date of such instrument or conveyance.

27. When the amount or value of the subject-matter of any instrument is chargeable under this Act with ad valorem duty cannot be ascertained, nothing shall be recoverable under such instrument more than the highest amount or value for which, if stated in an instrument of the same denomination, the stamp actually used would have been sufficient.

28. All facts and circumstances affecting the liability of any instrument to ad valorem duty, or the amount of ad valorem duty with which any instrument is chargeable, shall be fully and truly set forth in such instrument.

29. (a.) When any property has been contracted to be sold for one consideration for the whole, and is conveyed to the purchaser in separate parts or parcels by different instruments, the consideration shall be apportioned in such manner as the parties think fit, so that a distinct consideration for each separate part or parcel is set forth in the conveyance relating thereto, and such conveyance shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of such distinct consideration.

(b.) When property contracted to be purchased for one consideration for the whole by two or more persons jointly, or by any person for himself and others, or wholly for others, is conveyed in parts or parcels by separate instruments to the persons by or for whom the same was purchased for distinct parts of the consideration, the conveyance of each separate part or parcel shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of the distinct part of the consideration therein specified.

(c.) When a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the same to any other person, and the property is in consequence conveyed immediately to the sub-purchaser, the conveyance is to be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration for the sale by the original purchaser to the sub-purchaser.

(d.) When a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance, contracts to sell the whole, or any part or parts thereof, to any other person or persons, and the property is in consequence conveyed by the original seller to different persons in parts or parcels, the conveyance of each part or parcel sold to a sub-purchaser shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect only of the consideration moving from such sub-purchaser, without regard to the amount or value of the original consideration, and the conveyance of the residue (if any) of such property to the original purchaser shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect only of the excess of the original consideration over the aggregate of the considerations moving from the sub-purchasers : •

Provided that the stamp-duty on such last mentioned conveyance shall in no case be less than one rupee.

(c.) When a sub-purchaser takes an actual conveyance of the interest of the person immediately selling to him, which is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration moving from him, and is duly stamped accordingly, any conveyance to be afterwards made to him of the same property by the original seller shall be charged with a duty equal to that which would be chargeable on a conveyance for the consideration obtained by such original seller; or when such duty would exceed five rupees, with a duty of five rupees.

E.—Duty by whom payable.

30. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the expense of providing the proper stamp shall be borne—
Duties by whom payable.

(a) in the case of any instrument described in numbers 1, 10, 12, 13, 22, 27, 29, 30, 43, 53, 54, 56 and 59, clauses (a) and (b), of the first schedule—by the person drawing, making or executing such instrument :

(b) in the case of a policy of insurance—by the insured :

(c) in the case of a conveyance or lease—by the grantee or lessee :

(d) in the case of an instrument of partition—by the parties thereto in proportion to their respective shares in the property comprised therein :

(e) in the case of an instrument of exchange—by the parties in equal shares : and

(f) in the case of a certificate of sale—by the purchaser of the property to which such certificate relates.

CHAPTER III.

ADJUDICATION OF DOUBTS AS TO STAMPS.

31. When any instrument, whether executed or not, and whether previously stamped or not, is brought to the Collector, and the person bringing it applies to have the opinion of that officer as to the duty (if any) chargeable in respect of the same and pays a fee of such amount (not exceeding five rupees and not less than eight annas) as the Collector may in each case direct, the Collector shall determine the duty (if any) to which, in his judgment, the instrument is liable :

and may for that purpose require to be furnished with an abstract of the instrument, and also with such evidence as he may deem necessary, in order to show to his satisfaction whether all the facts and circumstances affecting the liability of the instrument to duty, or the amount of the duty chargeable thereon, are fully and truly set forth therein, and may refuse to proceed upon any such application until such abstract and evidence have been furnished accordingly :

Provided that no evidence furnished in pursuance of this section shall be used against any person in any proceeding whatever, except in an inquiry as to the duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable ; and every person by whom any such evidence is furnished shall, on payment of the full duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable, be relieved from any penalty he may have incurred by reason of the omission to state truly in such instrument any of the facts or circumstances aforesaid.

32. When an instrument brought to the Collector under section thirty-one is chargeable with duty and—

(a) the Collector determines that it is already fully stamped, or

(b) the duty determined by the Collector under section thirty-one, or such a sum as, with the duty already paid on the instrument is equal to the duty so determined, has been paid, the Collector shall certify by endorsement on such instrument that the full duty (stating the amount) with which it is chargeable has been paid.

When such instrument is not chargeable with duty, the Collector shall certify in manner aforesaid that such instrument is not so chargeable.

Any instrument upon which an endorsement has been made under this section shall be deemed to be duly stamped, or not chargeable with duty, as the case may be; and if chargeable with duty, shall be receivable in evidence or otherwise and may be acted upon and registered as if it had been originally duly stamped :

Provided that the Collector shall not make any such endorsement—

(a) on any instrument executed in British India and brought to him after the expiration of one month from the date of its execution ;

(b) on any instrument executed out of British India and brought to him after the expiration of three months after it has been first received in British India ; or

(c) on any instrument chargeable with the stamp-duty of one anna, or any bill of exchange or promissory note when brought to him after the drawing or execution thereof on paper not duly stamped.

33. The whole or any part of any payment under this chapter shall be made in stamps, or in cash, or partly in stamps and partly in cash, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

Payments under this chapter how made.

as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

CHAPTER IV.

INSTRUMENTS NOT DULY STAMPED.

34. Every person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, and every person in charge of a public office except an officer of Police, before whom any instrument chargeable with stamp-duty is produced, or comes in the execution of his duty, shall examine such instrument in order to ascertain whether it is duly stamped; and if it appears to any such person that such instrument is not duly stamped, he shall impound the same:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require any Magistrate or other Judge of a Criminal Court to examine or impound any instrument coming before him in the course of any proceeding other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Provided also that, in the case of a Judge of a High Court, the duty of examining and impounding any instrument under this section may be delegated to such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf.

The Local Government may, from time to time, determine who shall be deemed to be for the purpose of this section persons in charge of public offices.

35. No instrument chargeable with stamp-duty shall be received in evidence in any suit or proceeding, or shall be acted upon or registered unless such instrument is duly stamped:

Proviso.

Provided that—

1st, any such instrument, not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or a bill of exchange or promissory note, may be received in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same was chargeable under the law in force when it was first executed or (in the case of an instrument insufficiently stamped) of the amount required to make up such duty, together with a penalty of five rupees, or when ten times the amount of the proper stamp-duty or deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, of a sum equal to ten times such amount.

2nd, nothing herein contained shall prevent and in certain criminal proceedings the reception of any instrument in evidence in any proceeding in a Criminal Court other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

3rd, when an instrument has been admitted in evidence, such admission shall not, except as provided in section fifty-one, be called in question on the ground that the proper stamp-duty has not been paid in respect of such instrument.

36. When the person impounding an instrument under section thirty-four has by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence and receives such instrument in evidence upon payment of a penalty as provided by section thirty-five, he shall send to the Collector an authenticated copy of such instrument, together with a certificate in writing, stating the amount of the duty and penalty levied in respect thereof.

In every other case the person so impounding an instrument shall send it in original to the Collector.

37. When a copy of an instrument is sent to the Collector under the first paragraph of section thirty-six, he may, if he thinks fit, refund any portion of the penalty in excess of five rupees which has been paid in respect of such instrument, or when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written or stamped in contravention of section twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen, he may refund the whole penalty so paid.

38. When the Collector impounds any instrument under section thirty-four, or receives any instrument sent to him under the second clause of section thirty-six, he shall adopt the following procedure:—

(a.) If he is of opinion that such instrument is duly stamped, or is not an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty, he shall certify by endorsement thereon that it is duly stamped, or that it is not so chargeable (as the case may be), and shall upon application made to him in this behalf deliver such instrument to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct.

(b.) If the Collector is of opinion that such instrument is chargeable with stamp-duty under the law in force at the time it was first executed and is not duly stamped, he shall require the payment of the proper duty or the amount required to make up the same, together with a penalty of five rupees; or if ten times the amount of the proper duty or of the deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, then such penalty not less than five rupees and not more than ten times the amount of such duty or portion as he thinks fit:

Provided that, when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written or stamped in contravention of section twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen, the Collector may, if he thinks fit, remit the penalty prescribed by this section.

Every certificate under clause (a) of this section shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated therein.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only, or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

39. If any instrument liable to stamp-duty under the law in force at the time it was first executed and which is unstamped or insufficiently stamped is produced by any person of his own motion before the Collector within one year from the date of its execution, and such person brings to the notice of the Collector the fact that such instrument is unstamped or insufficiently stamped, as the case may be, and offers to pay to the Collector the amount of the proper duty, or the amount required to make up the same, and the Collector is satisfied that such instrument has not been duly stamped by reason of accident, mistake or urgent necessity, he may, instead of proceeding under sections thirty-four and thirty-eight, receive such amount and proceed as next hereinafter prescribed.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

40. When the stamp-duty and penalty (if any)

Endorsement of instruments on which duty has been paid under section 35, 38 or 39. leviable in respect of any instrument have been paid under section thirty-five, section thirty-eight or section thirty-nine, the person admitting such instrument in evidence or the Collector (as the case may be) shall certify by endorsement thereon that the proper stamp-duty and penalty (stating the amount of each) have been levied in respect thereof, and the name and residence of the person paying them.

Every instrument so endorsed shall thereupon be admissible in evidence or otherwise, and may be registered and acted upon as if it had been duly stamped, and shall be delivered on his application in this behalf to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct :

Provided that no instrument which has been received in evidence under section thirty-five shall be so delivered until the Collector certifies in writing that its detention is no longer necessary.

41. The Collector may, notwithstanding the Levy of penalty no bar to prosecution. levy of a penalty under this chapter in respect of an instrument, prosecute any person who appears to have committed an offence against the stamp law in respect of such instrument :

Provided. Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted in the case of any instrument in respect of which such a penalty has been paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper stamp-duty.

42. When any duty or penalty has been paid

Persons paying duty or penalty may recover same in certain cases. under section thirty-five, section thirty-eight or section thirty-nine by any person in respect of an instrument, and by agreement or under the rules prescribed by section thirty of this Act or under any other law in force at the time such instrument was executed some other person was bound to bear the expense of providing the proper stamp for such instrument, the first mentioned person shall be entitled to recover from such other person the amount of the duty or penalty so paid ; and for the purpose of such recovery any certificate granted in respect of such instrument under section forty shall be conclusive evidence of the facts herein certified.

43. When any penalty is levied under section

Remission of penalty levied under section 5 or 38. thirty-five or thirty-eight, the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority may, upon application in writing made within one year from the date on which such penalty is so levied, refund such penalty wholly or in part.

44. If any instrument sent to a Collector

Non-liability for loss of instruments sent under section 38. under the second paragraph of section thirty-six be lost, destroyed or injured during transmission, the person sending the same shall not be liable for such loss, destruction or injury.

When any instrument is about to be so sent, any Deposit of copy of instrument so sent.

person may require a copy thereof to be made at his expense and authenticated by the person impounding such instrument, and to be deposited in the Court or office of such last mentioned person until he otherwise directs.

45. When any bill of exchange or promissory

Power of payee to stamp bills, notes and cheques received by him unstamped.

note chargeable hereunder with the duty of one anna or any cheque is presented for payment unstamped, the person to whom it is so presented may affix thereto the necessary adhesive stamp, and upon so doing, may pay the sum payable upon such bill, note or cheque, and may charge the duty against the person who ought to have paid the same, or deduct such duty from the sum payable as aforesaid, and such bill, note or cheque shall, so far as respects the duty, be deemed good and valid.

But nothing herein contained shall relieve any person from any penalty he may have incurred in relation to such bill, note or cheque.

CHAPTER V.

REFERENCE AND REVISION.

46. If any Collector acting under section thirty-

Procedure where Collector entertains doubt as to duty chargeable. eight entertains doubt as to the amount of stamp-duty with which any instrument is chargeable, he may draw up a statement of the case, and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, for the decision of the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, and such Authority shall consider the case and send a copy of its decision to the Collector, and he shall proceed to assess and charge the duty in conformity with such decision.

47. The Chief Controlling Revenue Au-

Reference to High Court. thority may state any case coming before it under this Act, and refer such case with its own opinion thereon, if the case arise in the Presidency of Fort Saint George or the Presidency of Bombay, to the local High Court : if it arise in the North-Western Provinces or Oudh, to the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces : if it arise in the Panjáb, to the Chief Court of the Panjáb : if it arise in the Central Provinces, to the High Court of Judicature at Bombay : and if it arise in any other part of British India, to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Every such case shall be decided by not less than three Judges of the High Court or Chief Court to which it is referred, and in case of difference the opinion of the majority shall prevail.

48. If the High Court or Chief Court is not

Power of Court to call for further particulars. satisfied that the statements contained in the case are sufficient to enable it to determine the questions raised thereby, it may refer the case back to the Revenue Authority by which it was stated, to make such additions thereto or alterations therein as the Court may direct in that behalf.

49. The High Court or Chief Court, upon the Procedure in disposing of reference. hearing of any such case, shall decide the questions raised thereby and shall deliver its judgment thereon containing the grounds on which such decision is founded: and it shall send to the Revenue Authority by which the case was stated, a copy of such judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar, and the Revenue Authority shall, on receiving the same, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

50. If any Court other than a Court mentioned in section forty-seven entertains doubt as to the amount of stamp-duty to be paid in respect of any instrument under the first proviso to section thirty-five, the Judge may draw up a statement of the case and refer it with his own opinion thereon for the decision of the High Court to which, if he were the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, he would under section forty-seven refer the same, and such Court shall deal with the case as if it had been referred under section forty-seven and send a copy of its judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar to the Judge making the reference, who shall dispose of the case conformably to such decision.

Every reference under this section made by a Court subordinate to a district Court shall be made through the district Court.

51. When any Court in the exercise of civil jurisdiction makes any order admitting any instrument in evidence as properly stamped or as not requiring a stamp, or upon payment of duty and a penalty under section thirty-five, the Court to which an appeal would lie from the decision of such first-mentioned Court may, of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, take such order into consideration; and if it is of opinion that such instrument should not have been received in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under section thirty-five, or without the payment of a higher duty and penalty than those paid, may record a declaration to that effect, and determine the amount of duty with which such instrument is chargeable, and may require any person in whose possession or power such instrument then is to produce the same, and may impound the same when produced.

When any declaration has been recorded under this section, the Court recording the same shall send a copy thereof to the Collector and, where the instrument to which it relates has been impounded or is otherwise in the possession of such Court, shall also send such instrument, and thereupon the Collector may, notwithstanding anything contained in the order admitting such instrument in evidence, or in any certificate granted under section forty or in section forty-one, prosecute any person for any offence against the stamp law which the Collector considers him to have committed in respect of such instrument:

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted where the amount (including duty and penalty) which according to the determination of such Court was payable in respect of the instrument under section 35 is paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper stamp-duty.

Provided also that no declaration made under this section shall, except for the purposes of a prosecution for an offence as aforesaid, affect the validity of any order admitting any instrument in evidence, or of any certificate granted under section forty.

CHAPTER VI.

REFUNDS.

52. Subject to such rules as may from time to time be made by the Governor or General in Council as to the evidence which the Collector may require, allowance shall be made by the Collector for the following impressed stamps, namely:—

(a.) The stamp on any paper inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, obliterated or by any means rendered unfit for the purpose intended, before any instrument written thereon is executed by any party, and for which stamp no money or other consideration has been paid or given to the attorney, pleader or other person employed to transact the business intended to have been carried into execution thereby, or to the person by whom the same was written:

(b.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, signed by or on behalf of the drawer or intended drawer, but not delivered out of his hands to the payee or intended payee, or any person on his behalf, or deposited with any person as a security for the payment of money, or in any way negotiated, issued or put in circulation, or made use of in any other manner whatever, and which, being a bill of exchange or cheque, has not been accepted by the drawee, and provided that the paper on which any such stamp is impressed does not bear any signature intended as or for the acceptance of any bill of exchange or cheque to be afterwards written thereon:

(c.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note signed by, or on behalf of, the drawer thereof, but which from any omission or error has been spoiled or rendered useless, although the same, being a bill of exchange or cheque, may have been presented for acceptance or accepted or endorsed, or, being a promissory note, may have been delivered to the payee, provided that another completed and duly stamped bill of exchange or promissory note is produced identical in every particular, except in the correction of such error or omission as aforesaid, with the spoiled bill or note:

(d.) The stamp used for any of the following instruments, that is to say:—

- (1) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found to be absolutely void in law from the beginning:
- (2) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found unfit by reason of any error or mistake therein for the purpose originally intended:
- (3) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but which, by reason of the death of any person by whom it is necessary that it should be executed without having executed the same, or of the refusal of any such person to execute the same, or to advance any money intended to be thereby secured, cannot be completed so as to effect the intended transaction in the form proposed:
- (4) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, for want of the execution thereof by some material and necessary party, and his inability or refusal to sign the same, is in fact incomplete and insufficient for the purpose for which it was intended:

13. The goods rates shall not be raised beyond the maximum without the sanction of the Government of India.

Government Subsidy.

14. Exclusive of any payment which may be determined upon, as in paragraph 9 above, when any portion of the fleet is taken up by Government, the Government of India will, in consideration of the service performed under the conditions mentioned, pay for a period of five years a sum per trip, a trip being understood to be a journey from Dhubri or other terminus to Dibrugarh and back again.

15. Tenders must state the sum per trip for which the service required will be performed. The service will at first be twice a week. But it is to be understood that, if it shall hereafter be agreed between the Government of India and the party, if any, whose tender is accepted, to run more frequently, the extra service shall be performed on the same terms, and under the same conditions as the bi-weekly service.

16. Tenders must state distinctly the date by which parties tendering are prepared to enter upon the service required.

17. The Government of India require any party tendering to bind himself, under penalties for non-observance, to enter upon the service by a stated date, and to perform the service according to the conditions above specified. As regards unpunctuality, liability to penalty will be considered to commence when twenty-four hours beyond the periods mentioned in the time-table in paragraph 5 have elapsed.

18. Tenders, which will be received up to the 31st October 1878, should be submitted to the Local Government or Administration of the Province in which the tenderers are resident.

19. The Government of India do not bind themselves to accept the lowest or any tender.

RESOLUTION.—Under the "Indian Coinage Act, 1870," silver coins of British India, which have been clipped, or filed, or defaced, or diminished otherwise than by use, are declared not to be legal tender.

2. The same Act provides that certain authorities may cut or break silver coins tendered to them, which have been reduced in weight otherwise than by reasonable wear, returning the pieces to the person tendering the coin.

3. The practice of marking, notching, and filing, or otherwise injuring, the coin, being still more or less prevalent in some parts of India, and it being necessary, in order to secure conformity with the provisions of the law, to repress such practices as far as practicable, the Government of India is pleased to issue the following orders.

4. In those Provinces in which the Local Government shall be of opinion that the provisions of the law may be strictly enforced without causing undue pressure on the community, the following measures shall be adopted:—

- A. The Presidency Banks, and their Branches, and all Public Treasuries, shall, with convenient despatch, cause all shroff-marked, notched, or otherwise defaced, silver coin in their custody, which has not lost more than two per cent. weight, to be exchanged, at the nearest Currency Office, for Notes or legal coin. The Currency Offices will transmit the defaced coin, thus received, with any similarly defaced coin in the Currency Reserve, to the nearest Mint, to be exchanged for legal coin. No shroff-marked, notched, or otherwise defaced, silver coin, shall, henceforth, be issued from any Public Treasury.
- B. The Mint will receive, at their nominal value, all such coins, and bear the expense of their re-coinage.
- C. After a reasonable delay, to be determined by the Local Government, and to be notified for general information, no such defaced coin shall be received in payment of Government demands.
- D. The officers authorised so to do under the Indian Coinage Act, should cut, or break, in pieces, any such defaced coin tendered to them, the weight of which shall have been reduced otherwise than by reasonable wear; the broken pieces being returned to the person who tendered the coin.

- E. If such defaced coin is not so reduced in weight as to justify its destruction, the officer to whom it is tendered, should offer to accept it, at the rate of one rupee per tolah of its actual weight; and coin so accepted should be exchanged at the nearest Currency Office, as before directed, with a view to its re-coinage.

5. In Provinces in which the Local Government shall be of opinion that the foregoing Rules C and D should not be immediately enforced, the following procedure shall apply:—

- F. Rules A, B, and E will be carried out as in the other case.

- G. Notice should be publicly given in the principal towns and bazars of the Province, that the practice of notching, or marking, or otherwise defacing, the coin, renders it liable to be rejected by every one on tender for payment; and that it is the intention of the Government to refuse such coin in payment of public demands, after a reasonable time has elapsed within which the defaced coin can be exchanged for legal coin: that defaced coin, which has lost weight otherwise than by reasonable wear, if tendered at a Public Treasury, will be liable to be cut or broken: and that the Government will enforce the law on this subject, at some future time which cannot be long delayed.

- H. After a reasonable delay, to be determined by the Local Government, and to be notified for general information, no public officer should receive, in payment of Government demands, coins which have been greatly defaced, even though they have not lost so much weight as to cease to be a legal tender on that account.

- I. The application of Rule D shall be so far modified, that only such coins shall be cut or broken as are notably reduced in weight otherwise than by reasonable wear.

6. The Local Governments will, from time to time, issue such instructions for the guidance of officers, in giving effect to Rules H and I, as they may think suitable to local circumstances, bearing in mind the importance of gradually eradicating the practice of defacing the coin.

7. In those Provinces in which Rules C and D are not enforced, special reports should be prepared yearly, for submission to the Government of India in the Financial Department, as to the condition of the coin in the Public Treasuries, and as to the progress made in suppressing the defacement.

8. The Currency Department should, for the present, report monthly the amount and description of coins received for re-coining, under the operation of this Resolution, with a Statement of the Provinces from which they were received.

ORDERED, that this Resolution be published in the Gazette of India for general information, and distributed for information and guidance as follows:—

- (1) To the several Departments of the Government of India.
- (2) To the several Local Governments and Administrations.
- (3) To the Comptroller General, and to the several Accountants General, and Deputy Accountants General in independent charge.
- (4) To the several Chiefs of Departments administered by the Government of India in the Financial Department.

INTERPRETATION OF SECTION 201 OF THE CUSTOMS ACT, VIII OF 1878.

From A. O. HUME, Esq., C.B., Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, to the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal, and the Chief Commissioner of British Burma,—No. 1, dated Simla, the 2nd September 1878.

DOUBTS have arisen as to the interpretation of the terms of Section 201 of the Sea Customs Act, VIII of 1878, which provides that "the Customs Collector may in his discretion, upon payment of one rupee, authorise any document, after it has been entered and recorded in the Custom-house, to be amended." This section reproduces the last clause of Section 191 of Act VI of 1863, the fee being limited to one rupee by the new Act, whereas under the old law it might have amounted to ten rupees.

2. It seems that the practice under the old law in some Custom-houses was to levy a fee or not, according to the discretion of the Collector. This is the view still held in Calcutta, and perhaps in some other Custom-houses.

Another interpretation of the section, however, and this is the interpretation which it appears has been adopted recently in the Bombay Custom-house, is that the law allows of the exercise of the Collector's discretion only in regard to permission to make an amendment; but that if such permission is given, the payment of the fee of one rupee must be insisted on.

3. It seems to the Governor General in Council that this is in fact the correct interpretation of the section. The law, as framed, does not extend any discretion to the payment of the fee, which follows necessarily on authority for the amendment being given, and it is only in regard to the authorization of an amendment that a discretionary power remains.

4. It has, however, been represented that the levy of the fee in every case without exception causes unnecessary hardship and annoyance, and as it is clear that the authority vested by law with the entire disposal of the revenue realised by such fees and which can also direct their refund, is competent to dispense with their payment, the Governor General in Council is pleased to authorize Customs Collectors to dispense with the payment of the fee in cases in which its enforcement is not considered necessary to check carelessness and prevent unnecessary trouble being given to Customs establishments. His Excellency in Council does not doubt that the discretionary power now vested in Customs Collectors will be wisely and liberally exercised, and the great importance of maintaining, so far as may be possible, friendly relations between the mercantile community and the customs establishments always borne in mind.

5. Cases sometimes occur in which alterations are made in the quantities entered in the papers presented by importers, the actual quantity as ascertained by weighment being found to be less than the invoice weight. In all such cases duty should of course be charged on the quantities and qualities specified in the papers as amended, not as originally entered at the Custom-house.

Secretary to the Government of India.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1878.

Friday, 30th August.—The changes of pressure have been generally moderate in amount during the past 24 hours. The barometer has risen over the whole of India, excepting Bombay and the Berars. The consequence of this double series of changes is to bring into greater relief the present abnormal distribution of pressure. Pressure is exceptionally high to-day in Assam, Arracan, and British Burmah. The pressure at Akyab at 10 A.M. to-day was '036" higher than at Colombo, and '163" higher than at Bombay.

Light winds are reported at the great majority of stations to-day.

The persistence of high pressure in Burmah, Arracan, and probably over a considerable portion of the Bay of Bengal, relative to Western India, continues to give a marked easterly element to the wind directions in the Central Provinces and the Berars, and at Bombay and Deesa.

Rainfall, generally moderate in amount, has occurred in Northern Bengal, Behar, and the North-Western Provinces, or over the same area as on the previous day. The following rainfalls exceeding one inch were registered this morning:—Rungpore and Hazrigh each 1·17 inches, Purneah 1·68 inches, Fatehgarh 1·3 inches, Shahjehanpore 2·4 inches, Bareilly 1·14 inches, and Meerut 1·1 inches.

A thunder-storm gave Dera Ismail Khan 1·91 inches. Light scattered showers occurring in the other divisions of India.

Saturday, 31st August.—The barometer has risen at all stations, with the exception of Goalpara and Rawalpindi.

The increase of pressure exceeds '1" in Sind, and along the foot of the Himalayas from Peshawar to Lucknow. It is greater than '05" over the whole of India, excepting Assam, Arracan, and the West Coast of India from Guzerat southwards.

The distribution of pressure to-day is similar in character to what it has been during the past three days, and is very abnormal.

Pressure continues excessively high in Assam, Arracan, and Burmah, and probably the adjacent portions of the Bay of Bengal. In consequence of the considerable increase of pressure in Sind and the Punjab, the barometric range over India to-day is unusually small.

Light winds are at present prevalent over the whole of India. The wind directions in consequence of the persistent abnormal distribution of pressure, are extremely irregular, more especially in Western and Central India.

South-westerly winds have set in again over Southern Bengal, and westerly winds in Assam.

The easterly current up the Gangetic Valley continues well-marked. The wind directions at Benares, Lucknow, and Agra contain an unusual northerly element.

Moderate rain has fallen in Northern India: Dacca received 1 inch, Lucknow 1·68 inches, Meerut 1·7 inches, Fyzabad 1·2 inches, and Morar 1·5 inches. The only rain reported from the Punjab is 1·3 inches at Umballa and a light shower at Delhi.

Madras and the Deccan appear to have received general rain during the day: 2·22 inches fell at Hyderabad (Deccan), 1·8 inches at Cuddapah, 2·11 inches at Poona, 1·27 inches at Bellary, and '6 inch at Madura.

Sunday, 1st September.—The changes of pressure have been generally moderate in amount during the past 24 hours. The barometer has fallen over the whole of India, excepting Bombay, the Berars, and the Northern Deccan. The change of pressure exceeds '05" at the three stations of Cochin, Sibsagar, and Purneah.

Taking the arithmetical mean of the average pressure for August and September as an approximation to the average pressure of the 1st of September, the following table gives the comparison between the averages thus obtained, and the reduced barometrical readings recorded to-day for the most important stations:—

Sibsagar	... '06" in excess.	Deesa	... '09" in excess.
Dacca	... '15" " "	Bombay	... '02" " "
Calcutta	... '17" " "	Jubbulpore	... '10" " "
Hazaribagh	... '14" " "	Nagpore	... '14" " "
Allahabad	... '14" " "	Vizagapatam	... '14" " "
Agra	... '13" " "	Bellary	... '06" " "
Roorkee	... '12" " "	Madras	... '01" in defect.
Delhi	... '11" " "	Bangalore	... '02" " "
Mooltan	... '14" " "	Colombo	... '06" " "
Kurrachee	... '09" " "		"

The preceding table shows that the distribution of pressure is very abnormal. It is excessively high over the whole of Northern and Central India, and is considerably below the average in the South of India, more especially at Colombo.

The barometric range over India is, consequently, considerably below the average.

The wind velocity is below the average, more especially in Upper, Western, and Southern India. The wind directions are more or less abnormal in consequence of the abnormal distribution of pressure. Easterly winds are blowing to-day at several stations in the Madras Presidency and the Deccan. South-west winds continue in Bengal and Assam.

The amount of rain during the past 24 hours is small. The only rainfalls exceeding 1 inch reported to-day are: Patna 2·37 inches, Madras 1·01 inches, and Colombo 1·81 inches. Coimbatore received 1 inch.

Monday, 2nd September.—The barometric changes during the past 24 hours are generally moderate in amount. Pressure has diminished at all stations except Jubbulpore, Akola, Cochin, and Colombo. The decrease of pressure exceeds '05" in Sind, Guzerat, the Punjab, North-Western Provinces, Northern Behar and Bengal, and at Bombay.

The general distribution of pressure is similar to what it was yesterday. Pressure is to-day relatively high at Deesa and Bellary. There is also a local area of low pressure at Masulipatam.

The wind velocity is generally below the average. The wind directions are more or less abnormal in consequence of the persistent unusual distribution of pressure. In Madras, the Deccan, and Bombay, the wind directions continue to present a well-marked easterly element.

In Assam, Bengal, Behar, Chota Nagpore, and the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, south-westerly and westerly winds are generally prevalent. The winds over the whole of India are at present local rather than general in character.

The rainfall of the past 24 hours is very moderate in amount. Light showers have fallen at the majority of stations in the North-Western Provinces, Bombay, and Bengal.

Assam and the adjacent districts of Bengal received fair rainfall from the south-west winds which have been blowing from the Bay of Bengal for the past 48 hours.

3·08 inches fell at Silchar, 1·2 inches at Dacca, and 1·09 inches at Goalpara.

A thunder-storm gave Deesa 1·64 inches.

Masulipatam and Cochin continue to be centres of heavy rainfall in Southern India: 1·36 inches fell at the former station, and 2·68 inches at the latter.

Tuesday, 3rd September.—The barometer has fallen over the greater part of India. The decrease of pressure exceeds '05" in Burmah, Assam, Southern Bengal, and in the Punjab. The barometer has risen at all stations in the Deccan and Southern India, excepting Madras and Bellary.

The temperature is generally increasing with the cessation of rainfall. The maximum temperature recorded at 10 A.M. to-day was 97·8°, observed at Jacobabad.

The wind velocity has increased considerably at Bombay and Saugor Island. Light winds continue to be prevalent over the greater part of India. The wind directions in Northern India are drawing round generally to the west. Culms are reported to-day at Lucknow, Rawalpindi, and Dera Ismail Khan.

The south-west winds from the Bay of Bengal have given fair rain during the past 24 hours to Assam and Eastern Bengal: Goalpara received the largest amount, 3·5 inches being registered there this morning; 1·51 inches fell at Silchar, and 1·93 inches at Rungpore.

Pulse Point received 1·6 inches from continuous rain during the day.

Moderate rain fell at several stations of the North-Western Provinces during the day; '94 inch was registered at Agra, and '44 inch at Lucknow.

Wednesday, 4th September.—The barometric changes during the past 24 hours are moderate in amount. Pressure has increased at the majority of stations. The increase exceeds $\cdot 05''$ at Peshawar, in Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, and the Western Deccan. The barometer has fallen slightly in Arracan, Orissa, and Eastern Bengal.

These changes are gradually tending towards the normal distribution of pressure for September.

The temperature is rapidly increasing over the whole of India. The maximum temperature registered at 10 A.M. to-day was $97\cdot 2^{\circ}$ at Lahore.

Light winds continue to prevail over the greater part of India. North-westerly winds have set in at the majority of stations in the North-Western Provinces. Calms are reported from the Assam stations to-day. The strongly-marked westerly element in the wind directions of Southern Bengal continues.

The rainfall of the past 24 hours is very small in amount: $1\cdot 45$ inches fell at Sibsagar; Saugor Island received $3\cdot 23$ inches during a thunder-storm; $\cdot 85$ inch was recorded at Calcutta.

Continuous rain during the day gave Rangoon $2\cdot 85$ inches.

Heavy rain occurred at Cuddapah and at Mozufferpore, the former receiving $3\cdot 4$ inches, and the latter $1\cdot 63$ inches.

Thursday, 5th September.—The changes of pressure during the past 24 hours are generally moderate in amount. Pressure has increased in the North-Western Provinces, Bengal, Assam, Arracan, Burnah, and in the extreme south of India. The increase slightly exceeds $\cdot 05''$ at Silchar and Akyab.

The diminution of pressure exceeds $\cdot 05''$ at Nagpore and at the Trans-Indus stations of the Punjab.

The following gives the comparison of the pressure to-day at the more important stations with the means for September:—

Sibsagar	... $\cdot 02''$ in excess.	Delhi	... $\cdot 01''$ in defect.
Silchar	$\cdot 06''$ "	Lahore	... $\cdot 05''$ "
Dacca	... $\cdot 06''$ "	Dera Ismail Khan	... $\cdot 11''$ "
Akyab	... $\cdot 04''$ "	Kurrachee	... $\cdot 02''$ "
Calcutta	... $\cdot 07''$ "	Deesa	... $\cdot 03''$ "
Patna	... $\cdot 04''$ "	Khandwa	... $\cdot 01''$ "
Allahabad	... $\cdot 03''$ "	Akola	... $\cdot 02''$ "
Jucknow	... $\cdot 02''$ "	Bellary	... $\cdot 01''$ "
Roorkee	... 0 "	Bangalore	... $\cdot 02''$ "
Jubbulpore	... $\cdot 03''$ "	Madras	... $\cdot 03''$ "
Nagpore	... $\cdot 02''$ "
Vizagapatam	... $\cdot 03''$ "

Hence generally the variations of pressure are much smaller than they were three or four days ago. The deficiency of pressure in Western India, which has formed a prominent feature of the present monsoon, continues as strongly marked as hitherto. The pressure is above the average in Eastern and Northern India (excepting the Punjab), Southern and Eastern Bengal forming the area of greatest excess of pressure. This also was one of the more important features in the distribution of pressure at the commencement of the present monsoon.

The barometric range to-day over India exceeds $\cdot 32''$. The average barometric range for September is $\cdot 24''$, so that it is slightly above the mean.

There has been a marked increase of humidity during the past 24 hours at the majority of stations. This has considerably reduced the temperature, excepting at the Punjab stations, where a further increase has taken place. The maximum temperatures in the shade recorded at 10 A.M. were $99\cdot 3^{\circ}$ at Jacobabad and $98\cdot 2^{\circ}$ at Lahore.

The wind velocity is below the average at all stations except Bombay, Bareilly, and Roorkee. It varies from thirty to eighty per cent. of its normal amount.

The fall of the barometer in Upper India has been followed by a change of the wind in the Gangetic Valley from west to east. Easterly winds now prevail from Assam westwards to Lahore.

Heavy rain occurred over Eastern Bengal and Arracan, and fair rain at the Burmah stations: $1\cdot 47$ inches were registered at Diamond Island, $\cdot 91$ inch at Rangoon, $4\cdot 10$ inches at Akyab, $2\cdot 02$ inches at Chittagong, and $4\cdot 05$ inches at Silchar. Passing showers gave moderate rain in other districts of Bengal, and in Behar, Orissa, and the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces: Cuttack received $2\cdot 11$ inches, Purneah $\cdot 94$ inch, Hazaribagh $\cdot 61$ inch, Benares $\cdot 78$ inch, Allahabad $\cdot 63$ inch, and Fatehgarh $1\cdot 4$ inches.

The Arabian Sea monsoon-current continues unusually weak. Surat received $\cdot 8$ inch during the day.

Fair rain fell at several stations in the Deccan and Southern India: 1·5 inches were recorded at Cochin, 1·03 inches at Bangalore, 2 inches at Cuddapah, ·7 inch at Vizagapatam, and ·48 inch at Madura.

General Summary.—There is little to note in the meteorology of the past week. Pressure at the end of last week was unusually high in Burmah, Assam and Ceylon. It was considerably below the average in Western India. The barometric range over India, and therefore the baric gradient, was consequently abnormally small. This indicated light winds in India, a feeble current from the adjacent seas to the land area of India, and a general break in the rains. The week's weather has been quite in accordance with what theory suggests. It has been a week of light winds, fine or sultry weather, occasional heavy local showers, and of re-distribution of pressure. Pressure has decreased generally in Eastern and Northern India, and increased slightly in Western India. The two most prominent features in the distribution of pressure are relatively low pressure in Western India and high pressure in Southern Bengal. The leading irregularities in the distribution of pressure are thus similar to what they were at the beginning of the present monsoon.

The following gives the rainfall of the past week at the more important meteorological stations:—

	Inches.		Inches.
Rangoon	4·27	Dera Ismail Khan	1·91
Akyab	3·91	Kurrachee	0
Chittagong	4·02	Deesa	1·64
Silchar	9·25	Ajmir	·27
Sibsagar	4·04	Surat	1·05
Goulpara	4·84	Bombay	·55
Dacca	2·84	Akola	·76
Calcutta	1·36	Khandwa	·13
Purneah	3·97	Jubbulpore	1·31
Cuttack	2·17	Nagpore	·44
Patna	3·36	Vizagapatam	1·80
Hazaribagh	2·72	Masulipatam	2·11
Benares	1·68	Bellary	2·43
Allahabad	1·59	Belgaum	·08
Agra	1·94	Bangalore	1·98
Lucknow	3·01	Madras	1·79
Bareilly	1·83	Cochin	4·74
Roorkee	·06	Madura	5·70
Delhi	·18	Coimbatore	1·00
Lahore	0	Cuddapah	7·80
Peshawar	·06	Colombo	2·08
Mooltan	·54

Judging from the above returns, it will be seen that the Bay of Bengal monsoon current has given an average of from three to five inches to Burmah, Assam, Bengal and Behar, and from one inch and a half to three inches to Orissa and the Central and Eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces. The rainfall of the Punjab and adjacent districts of the North-Western Provinces is almost nil.

The Arabian sea monsoon current has given very light rain to Western India during the week, the average for the Bombay Presidency, Guzerat, and the Berars probably not exceeding three quarters of an inch.

The Deccan and Madras Presidency appear to have received heavy rain by easterly winds from the Bay of Bengal. At average of at least two inches has been received during the week over this area.

Silchar, Cuddapah and Madura have been centres of heavy rainfall during the week.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 3RD SEPTEMBER 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Good rain has fallen in all districts of Madras, and general prospects continue favourable; in Kistna the upland crops are recovering from the damage done by the recent excessive rain. The total number on works is 102,006, and gratuitously relieved 62,402, less by 7,468 and 5,067 than last week. Excellent general rain is reported from Mysore; prospects are good, and prices falling; for the week ending the 24th ultimo the total number on works was 31,129 and gratuitously relieved 13,199, less by 1,506 and 28 than in the previous week. In the Bombay Presidency the rainfall has moderated during the week, and the break has done much good; no rain has fallen in Sind, where the floods are decreasing; prospects are generally favourable. A break has also set in in the Central Provinces, though heavy showers are reported from some districts; prospects are good. A beneficial break is reported from Berar. In Central India excessive rain appears to continue in parts of Malwa, to the injury of the autumn crops; in Gwalior prospects have much improved, but in Bundelkhand more rain is still required. In Rajputana the rainfall of the week has been generally light, and prospects are favourable. Abundant rain is reported from all parts of Bengal and Behar, except the extreme Eastern districts, Howrah and Hooghly, and Orissa; the crops are generally very promising. In Assam there has been good rain; some injury has been done by floods in Sylhet, but prospects are generally favourable. There has been a general deficiency of rain in Burma, and in Myanourg, Prome, and Thavetmyo the state of the crops is bad; elsewhere prospects are generally fair, but more rain is wanted, especially in the Tenasserim division (the latest reports announce heavy rain at Akyab and good rain at Rangoon). In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh there has been general and abundant rain, prospects are good and prices falling. In the Punjab abundant rain is reported from Delhi, Hissar and Umballa; none has fallen at Jullundur, Lahore, or Amritsar; prospects are good and prices falling throughout the Province.

PAY AND ALLOWANCES.No. 867.—FURLOUGH—

The following Military letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, is published for general information, in continuation of G. G. O. No. 837, dated 4th August 1876 :—

Military, INDIA OFFICE,
No. 194. London, 18th July 1878.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD,

PARA. 1. In the Marquis of Salisbury's Military Despatch No. 148 of the 15th June 1876, you were informed that it had been decided to assimilate, with some exceptions, the rates of pay drawn by officers of the Indian cadres of Royal Artillery, while on leave in this country, from brigades serving in India, to the rates drawn by officers of the old Royal Artillery.

2. I have now decided to place the officers of the Indian cadres of Royal Engineers on the same footing in respect to their English pay. The rates will be assimilated, generally, to the rates drawn by officers of the old Royal Engineers, making exception, however, in favour of the grades of officers hitherto drawing higher pay under Indian regulations.

3. This change will have effect from the 1st April 1878.

I have, &c.,

(Sd.) CRANBROOK.

2. These rates of furlough pay will also be issued in India, in substitution of those promulgated in G. G. O. No. 538 of 1872.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 5th September 1878, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XV OF 1878.

An Act to make better provision for the management of the Husainábád endowment at Lucknow.

Whereas in the year 1838 the third King of Oudh, Muhammad Ali Shah, built at Lucknow a Mosque called Husainábád Mubárak for the purpose of the celebration therein of certain religious ceremonies and for the ultimate interment of himself and his mother ;

And whereas, on or about the twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah deposited the sum of twelve lakhs of Lucknow sicca rupees in the treasury of the late East India Company at the Residency at Lucknow :

And whereas by a deed of gift dated the 15th of the month of Ramazán in the year 1255 of the Hijra, corresponding with the said twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah declared that the annual interest on the said sum of twelve lakhs of rupees at the rate of four per centum per annum, together with the rent of certain shops therein referred to and the income of certain religious offerings, should be applied to the payment of the pensions of certain persons therein mentioned and their descendants (hereinafter called "the pensioners") and to defray-

ing the expenses of the said Mosque and the repairs of a road therein mentioned ; and by the same deed the said Muhammad Ali Shah appointed two of his servants named Rafik-ud-Daulah Sayyad Imán Ali Khán Bahádur and Azimullá Khán Bahádur, and after them their descendants, generation after generation, to be Superintendents (mufwalis) of the said Mosque, and Sharf-ud-Daulah Muzaffar-ul-Mulk Muhammad Ibrahim Khán Bahádur Mustakim Jung, and his descendants after him, to be Agent of the pensioners only, and the expenses of the said Mosque were to be paid in perpetuity from the said treasury to the said two Superintendents and their descendants after them, and the said pensions were to be paid through the said Agent ; and the said deed further provided that, in the event of failure of heirs of the said Superintendents or Agent, the British Resident for the time being at Lucknow should, with the concurrence of three-fourths of the pensioners, appoint one of their number to the vacant post. And the deed now in recital also contained the following provisions :—

"As the pensioners enumerated in this deed are objects of our peculiar consideration and favour, it is necessary that the Resident for the time being, owing to the union and friendship subsisting between the two Governments, treat them with kindness, and, considering them deserving of the support of the British Government, always afford them his aid and assistance.

"The undermentioned items of income are hereby remitted and shall be devoted to the expenses of the Husainábád Mubárak and its dependencies, and all the property in it is given by us as a gift. It shall not be optional with the sovereigns of Oudh, at any time, on any account whatsoever, to interfere in any way with it, and let the Resident for the time being, at the request of the mut'wallis or Superintendents in this particular matter, give his countenance and support that this good work may continue in existence for ever ;"

And whereas the items of income so referred to were the rents of certain shops attached to the said Mosque and the income from religious offerings thereto;

And whereas, on the fifth day of December 1839, Colonel Caulfield, the British Resident at Lucknow, addressed a letter to the said Muhammad Ali Shah in which he acknowledged the receipt of the said deed of gift, and stated that His Majesty might rest satisfied that every attention would be paid by the Resident to the wishes therein expressed, that his relatives would ever meet with the utmost attention, and that their interests would always be attended to by the Resident so far as his official duty permitted;

And whereas, some time after the said twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah added to the endowment so created Government promissory notes amounting to the sum of two millions four hundred and seventeen thousand five hundred sicca rupees, but he did not expressly declare any trusts of such further endowment;

And whereas the said notes are believed to have been in September 1841 converted into Government promissory notes for Company's rupees and to have been then endorsed in favour of the said Superintendents and the Agent;

And whereas, at some time between the same date and the month of February 1856, certain surplus funds of the said endowment were invested in Government promissory notes, some in the names of the said Superintendents and Agent, and some in the names of the said Superintendents only;

And whereas, after the mutiny of 1857 and the re-occupation of Lucknow, the said Mosque was found to have been stripped of all its valuable property; and the promissory notes of which the said endowment then consisted were missing, and it appeared on enquiry that the said Agent had joined the mutineers and been killed during an attack on the said city, and that the said Superintendents had sold certain of the same promissory notes;

And whereas the Government of India thereupon removed the existing Superintendents from their office, and called upon the existing pensioners to appoint under the hereinbefore-recited provisions of the fourth article of the said deed of gift two other Superintendents and an Agent;

And whereas the Nawábs Mohsin-úd-Daulah and Mumtáz-úd-Daulah were accordingly appointed Superintendents, and Sakamutulla Khán was appointed Agent, and such appointments were confirmed by the then Chief Commissioner of Oudh in the year 1860;

And whereas in the meanwhile most of the promissory notes so missing as aforesaid were recovered, and of some of the others duplicates were granted by Government;

And whereas the Superintendents and Agent appointed as last aforesaid subsequently obtained from the Civil Court at Lucknow a declaration of their title to the arrears of interest which had accrued due on the promissory notes then constituting the said endowment;

And whereas, in the month of June 1864, the said promissory notes and arrears were assigned to the said Superintendents and Agent free from all restrictions;

And whereas the said Nawáb Mohsin-úd-Daulah has recently died, but the said deed of gift confers no power to appoint any other person to be a Superintendent in his stead;

And whereas it is doubtful whether the aforesaid appointment of Superintendents and Agent was a regular and valid appointment, and whether there exists any person who can exercise the power of appointment conferred on the Resident by the said deed of gift;

And whereas, owing to the changes which have happened since the death of the said Muhammad Ali Shah, it is expedient to provide for the management of the said endowment in manner hereinafter appearing;

And whereas it is also expedient to indemnify all persons for anything done before the passing of this Act which might lawfully have been done if the said appointments of the said Nawábs and Sakamutulla Khán had been valid;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The Local Government may call upon the pensioners and such of the descendants of the said Muhammad Ali Shah as may for the time being reside at Lucknow to nominate so many persons, not less than six in number, as they or a majority of them think fit to be trustees of the said endowment; and may appoint three of the persons so nominated to be such trustees:

Provided that the said Nawáb Mumtáz-úd-Daulah shall be one of the persons nominated and appointed as aforesaid.

2. If any of the said trustees dies, or is desirous of being discharged, or refuses or becomes incapable to act, or is declared an insolvent, or is guilty of any misconduct which in the opinion of the Local Government disqualifies him to be a trustee, then and so often the Local Government may call upon the pensioners and such descendants to nominate so many persons, not less than two in number, as they or a majority of them think fit to be trustees of the said endowment, and may appoint one of the persons so nominated to be a trustee in the stead of the trustee so dying or desiring to be discharged, or refusing or becoming incapable to act, or declared an insolvent, or deemed disqualified.

3. If the pensioners and such descendants, on being called upon under section one or section two to nominate, fail to do so within one month from the date on which they are so called upon, the Local Government may (except as provided in respect of the said Nawáb Mumtáz-úd-Daulah in section one) appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be trustees of the said endowment: Provided that the number of the trustees shall not in the whole exceed three.

4. The appointment of trustees under this Act shall be effected by a notification in the local official Gazette, and the appointee shall become a trustee on the date fixed in the notification, or if no date is fixed, from the day after its appearance in such Gazette.

5. The validity of any such appointment so notified shall not be questioned in any Court of justice.

6. After the first appointment of trustees under this Act, the whole property of the endowment shall, for the purposes of the endowment, always be vested in the whole body of trustees for the time being.

7. The trustees for the time being under this Act shall, for the purposes of the endowment, have the entire management of the property and affairs of the endowment, and shall be responsible for the due conduct of such affairs.

In the event of any difference of opinion among the trustees, the decision of the majority of them shall prevail; and such majority may, on behalf of themselves and their co-trustee, execute all such assurances as may be requisite for carrying into effect any lease or other disposition of any property of the endowment.

8. With the previous sanction of the Local Government, the said trustees may from time to time appoint some person, not being one of their own body, to act as their Secretary, to keep their accounts, conduct their correspondence and perform other ministerial duties, and may suspend or dismiss any person so appointed.

Every person so appointed shall, so long as he continues to act as Secretary, be entitled to receive from the trustees such salary not less than one hundred rupees per mensem as the trustees, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may direct.

9. If the said trustees, on being called upon by the Local Government, when the office of Secretary is vacant, to nominate a Secretary under section eight, fail to do so within one month from the date on which they are so called upon, the Local Government may appoint such person as it thinks fit to be Secretary; and every person so appointed shall, so long as he continues to act as Secretary, be entitled to receive from the trustees such salary as the Local Government may direct.

10. The Local Government may in its discretion dismiss any Secretary appointed under section eight or section nine who is guilty of any misconduct which, in the opinion of the Local Government, disqualifies him to be Secretary.

11. The receipts of the said trustees for any monies or securities which may be paid or transferred to them in pursuance of this Act or the trusts thereof shall discharge the person paying or transferring the same therefrom and from being concerned to see to the application thereof, or being accountable for the non-application or misapplication thereof.

12. The said trustees shall be chargeable only with such monies and securities as they respectively actually receive, and shall not be answerable the one for the other of them, nor for any banker, broker or other person in whose hands any of the property of the endowment may be placed; nor for the insufficiency or deficiency of any securities, nor otherwise for any loss or misapplication of the said property, unless the same is occasioned by or through their own wilful neglect or default; and they may reimburse themselves out of the said property all expenses properly incurred in or about the execution of their trust.

13. The Local Government may from time to time require the said trustees to render such accounts and other information respecting the said endowment as it thinks fit; and any trustee failing to comply with such requisition, or furnishing false information respecting such endowment, shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 175, section 176 or section 177 (as the case may be) of the Indian Penal Code.

14. All officers and other persons are hereby indemnified for anything done before the passing of this Act which might lawfully have been done if the hereinbefore-recited appointments of the said Nawábs and Sakamutulla Khán had been valid; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any such officer or other person in respect of anything so done.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th September 1878 :—

1. We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps and Court-fees was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers specified in the annexed list.

2. The Bill as originally introduced was intended to combine in one enactment the law relating to general stamps and that relating to Court-fees, which have been kept separate since the year 1867.

The circumstance that there were a certain number of provisions common to both laws seemed to make this arrangement to some extent a convenient one. But on examination the provisions thus common to both laws are found to be so few, that it seems to the majority of us that, even from the draftsman's point of view, the proposed consolidation would not be an improvement. It is, moreover, the majority would observe, to be borne in mind that the members of the mercantile community and many other persons who have frequently in the course of their daily business to refer to the general stamp-law have scarcely ever any concern with the law of Court-fees, and that to such persons an Act treating of both subjects, together with constant transitions from one to the other, would be extremely confusing and awkward to use.

For these reasons we have deemed it best to adhere to the existing arrangement of the law, and confine the present Bill to the subject of general stamps, leaving the subject of Court-fees to be separately dealt with.

It may be added as a further reason in favour of this course that certain questions relating to Court-fees are not yet ripe for decision, and that it would in all probability lead to an undue delay in the amendment of the general stamp-law if we were to wait till we were in a position to make any definite recommendation regarding them.

3. The portion of the original draft embodied in the present Bill will be found to have been considerably altered both in substance and in form. Many of the amendments made have been suggested in the communications received by us from the various authorities consulted, or have been borrowed from the English Stamp Acts of 1870. The rest (which are chiefly of a formal nature) have been adopted with a view to clearness or simplification.

We proceed to notice the more important of them.

4. The definitions of the following terms, namely:—

"Affidavit,"	"Letter of Credit,"
"Banker,"	"Negotiable Instrument,"
"Bottomry-Bond,"	"Promissory Note,"
"Respondentia-Bond,"	"Property,"
"Counterpart,"	"Protests,"
"Impressed,"	"Stamp,"
"Instrument,"	"Stamp-law,"

have been omitted; of these, "Bottomry-Bond" and "Respondentia-Bond" are covered by the definition of "Mortgage," and "Letter of Credit" by that of "Bill of Exchange." The rest have been omitted as superfluous.

5. The definitions of the following instruments, namely,— "Charter-party," "Composition-deed," "Delivery-order," "Warrant for goods" (described in the former Bill and in the existing law as "Dock-warrant"), and "Notarial Act," have been transferred to the first schedule, as these instruments are not mentioned elsewhere.

6. The definition of "Bill of lading" has been so drawn as to exclude receipts given for goods received by cargo boats for shipment within the limits of a port.

7. The definition of "Bond" has been enlarged so as to include expressly the ordinary "khātā" or "tamassuk," and also instruments securing the repayment of a loan in kind.

8. The definitions of "Chief Controlling Revenue Authority" and "Collector" have been extended so as to include certain persons to whom the Government may delegate the functions of these authorities under the Act.

9. The term "Conveyance" has been expressly limited to transfers of property (whether movable or immovable) on sale, as it is in the English Stamp Act.

10. "Lease" has been made to include a "pattā;" also a kabūhyat where the latter instrument is not a counterpart of a lease, but is the only instrument passing between the parties.

11. The definition of "Mortgage-deed" has been enlarged, so as to include all instruments with the exception of a particular class of documents therein specified, pledging movable property. This change goes to maintain the existing law.

12. The term "Receipt" has for the purposes of the stamp-law been declared to include all acknowledgments of the discharge of a debt, whether by the payment of money, delivery of goods or otherwise, and all acknowledgments of the receipt of money, bills of exchange, promissory notes and cheques, whether in satisfaction of a debt or otherwise; but in connection with this extension of the term, the schedule of exemptions should be referred to.

13. "Settlement" has been re-defined, so as to exclude dispositions of property for religious or charitable purposes; such dispositions will accordingly be stamped as "Instruments of Gift," which are by the Bill made chargeable as "Conveyances."

14. We have in section 8, at the instance of the Government of India in the Financial Department, made the power to reduce or remit stamp-duties retrospective as well as prospective.

15. In section 11, which corresponds with section 42 of the former Bill, the obligation to cancel an adhesive stamp by writing the name or initials of the person affixing the same across it has been omitted, it being simply provided, in accordance with the existing law, that the stamp shall be cancelled in such manner as effectually to prevent its being used again. The obligation imposed by the Bill as introduced was, it appears to us, unsuited to the very large number of cases in which the person affixing the stamp would be unable to write.

16. The effect of the definition of the term "duly stamped" when applied to sections 12, 13, 14 and 15, is to invalidate all instruments in respect of which the rules laid down by these sections have been violated; but it will be seen, on reference to sections 35 and 36, that provision is made for validating such instruments on easy terms.

17. Section 7 of the former Bill in regard to the misapplication or wrong use of any particular description of stamps has been omitted as now unnecessary, its object being effected by the definition just referred to taken in conjunction with section 9.

18. In section 18, corresponding with section 9 of the former Bill, the period within which an instrument executed out of British India may be stamped has been extended from one to two months.

19. In section 19 we have, following the English Act, introduced a proviso protecting a person who in good faith takes a foreign bill bearing a proper stamp, though it may afterwards turn out that such stamp was not affixed in accordance with the law.

20. The provision as to the rate of exchange in respect of the Mauritius dollar in section 21 of the former Bill has been omitted from section 20, as it is understood that the rupee has been substituted for the dollar currency in that place.

21. Sections 25 and 26 (corresponding to section 34 (b) and section 12 of Act XVIII of 1869) and section 29 (which is altogether new) have been framed on the lines of the sections of the English Act relating to valuations for duty.

Section 28, which is a generalization of section 34 (c) of Act XVIII of 1869, is similarly taken from the English law.

22. The provisions of chapter 3 (relating to adjudication) have been made expressly applicable to instruments or drafts of instruments brought to the adjudicating officer prior to their execution. It has been a question under the present law whether any person could, before executing an instrument, claim an adjudication as to the amount of duty to which such instrument would be liable, and we think it desirable to enable him to do so.

23. The provision in this chapter empowering the Collector to require an abstract to be furnished to him is taken from the English Act. It is obviously useful as saving the Collector's time when the document is a lengthy one.

24. The obligation to examine all instruments coming before them in the execution of their duty, and the power of impounding such as appear to be not duly stamped, have been extended, by section 34, to all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, in which category are included not only all judicial officers, but persons acting as arbitrators, special commissioners and the like, and to all executive officers having charge of any office, except police-officers. Under one or other of these heads, it is thought, all persons having any public duty to discharge, and whose position and standing are such as to justify their being invested with such powers, will be found to be included. It would for obvious reasons be inexpedient to assign such functions to police-officers. Power has been given to the local Governments to declare who for the purposes of this chapter (IV) shall be deemed to "have charge of an office."

25. The penalty leviable by a Civil Court before admitting in evidence an instrument not duly stamped has, by section 35, been increased from four to ten times the deficient amount of duty, and it is provided further that in no case shall the fine levied be less than five rupees; but the Collector is, by section 37, empowered to remit any portion of the amount so levied in excess of the minimum fine of five rupees.

26. By section 38, the Collector is authorized to levy a fine, the amount of which is in no case to be less than five rupees, and which may extend to the amount leviable in the Civil Courts under section 35. The provision of the former Bill in regard to the levy of interest on the unpaid amount of any duty chargeable has been omitted, as likely to cause trouble and inconvenience wholly disproportionate to the advantage to be gained by its retention.

27. The power given to the Collector under the former Bill of prosecuting before a Magistrate any person who might appear to have committed a criminal offence in regard to the stamping of any instrument, irrespective of the levy of deficient duty or penalty in respect of such instrument, has been retained, but subject to the condition that no such prosecution shall be instituted unless the deficient duty and penalty are not paid, or it appears to the Collector that the neglect or omission to use the proper stamp proceeded from an intention to evade payment of the duty.

28. The provision of the former Bill enabling a Collector to recover any deficient amount of stamp-duty or any penalty payable under this chapter as an arrear of revenue, has been omitted.

When the person from whose custody the instrument has come has not been concerned in the execution of it, it seem to us that it would, generally speaking, be unfair to compel him to pay, and when he has been so concerned, the proper course clearly is to prosecute him for the offence he has committed.

29. The third proviso to section 35 is intended to settle an important question, regarding which there is at present a conflict of opinion, namely, the question as to whether an objection for want of stamp can be allowed in appeal when the document has been received in evidence in the Court below. We think it should not be allowed. The advantage gained to the revenue by allowing it seems to us to be more than counterbalanced by the delay and expense which must frequently be caused to suitors when a document forming the basis of the decision in the Court below is rejected on a purely technical ground in appeal. It might, no doubt, be provided that, on the defect being brought to notice in appeal, the party relying on the document might remedy it by paying in the deficient stamp-duty and penalty in the Appellate Court; but there would frequently be cases in which, being the respondent, he would not be present, or in which, if present, he would not have the money at hand at the moment, or in which again he would find it more to his interest to substitute other evidence for that objected to; and in such cases the result would usually be a postponement or remand. For these reasons we have deemed it best to provide that a document once admitted shall not afterwards be objected to; but for the protection of the revenue, we have in section 51 given power to the Appellate Court, either of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, to take the question of the stamp-duty into consideration; and if it declares that a higher duty or penalty was payable than was actually paid and the deficiency is not then paid, or it appears that there was an intention to evade the stamp-law, the Collector may, notwithstanding the admission of the document in evidence, prosecute for any offence that may have been committed.

We consider such a power necessary, not only in cases in which a lower Court has pronounced an erroneous decision on a question of liability to stamp-duty, but still more in the much larger class of cases in which it has overlooked the point altogether.

30. The provisions of section 50, corresponding with section 47 of the former Bill, have been so modified as to confine the references to such Courts as are presided over by not less than three Judges.

31. The provisions allowing a refund in the case of spoiled adhesive stamps and of instruments void for want of registration have been omitted. It would be almost impossible to devise adequate protection against frauds on the revenue if refunds were granted in the case of spoiled adhesive stamps; and it seems inexpedient to provide for the mitigation of any of the consequences attaching to neglect of the registration law.

32. In modification of the absolute prohibition of the sale of stamps by any person other than a licensed vendor contained in the former Bill, it is now provided (by implication in section 66) that a person who has in good faith purchased a stamp for his own use may, in the event of his not requiring the same, resell it. This change renders unnecessary the retention of the provision of section 50 of the former Bill for the recovery in the way of a refund of the value of a stamp purchased by any person for his own use which he does not require.

33. We have, in the case of a spoilt stamped paper on which no instrument has been executed, made the period within which an application must be made for a refund run from the date of the purchase of such stamp from the stamp-vendor instead of from the time at which it is spoilt. By so doing we get rid of an issue of fact on which much false evidence would be likely to be adduced.

34. In section 57, the obligation of giving a receipt has been confined to cases in which the money paid, or the value of the property delivered, exceeds 20 rupees.

35. A provision equivalent to that of section 51 of the General Stamp Act, 1869, has been introduced in section 58 with the object of giving the utmost possible publicity to the requirements of the stamp-law.

36. The maximum limit of fine for the offence of under-stamping has been raised (section 57) from 200 rupees to 500 rupees; but on the other hand it has been provided when any person from whom any penalty has been recovered under chapter IV is prosecuted and convicted in a Criminal Court, the amount of the penalty so paid is to be allowed as a set-off against, and to be deducted from, the amount of any fine which he may be sentenced to pay under this chapter.

37. In lieu of the provision of the former Bill rendering the parties to an instrument in which the full consideration passing under such instrument is not truly set forth in all cases liable to a fine of five times the amount of the proper duty which would have been payable if the consideration were truly stated, together with a further fine which might amount to 500 rupees, the liability of such persons has been restricted (section 61) to cases in which there appears to have been a fraudulent intention; and a single fine without any minimum limit, but with a maximum limit of 5,000 rupees (the limit fixed in section 35 of the present Act for the similar offence when committed by a person employed professionally in the preparation of the instrument) has been provided. The minimum limit of fine fixed by section 35 of the present Act has likewise been abolished, and all parties concerned in the wilful suppression or misrepresentation as regards the amount of the consideration given for, or the value of, the property to which the instrument relates, whether they are the executants of, or the persons employed in drawing up, such instrument, are made punishable in like degree. The effect of these alterations is to simplify, and probably on the whole to mitigate, the existing law.

38. By section 69 we have made an offence committed in respect of any instrument triable in any place in which such instrument may be found, as well as in any place in which it would be triable under the Criminal Procedure Code.

39. We now proceed to notice the changes we have made in the schedules. To begin with, we have thrown the schedule of ad valorem duties and that of fixed duties into a single schedule arranged in alphabetical order, which we think will be found simpler and easier for reference. We have further made changes both of substance and of form in several of the articles. The Bill as introduced provided for an increase of about 50 per cent. in the duty on bills of exchange and promissory notes payable otherwise than on demand; but it has seemed to the majority of us that, except under circumstances of considerable financial pressure, we should not be warranted in imposing this additional tax upon the commerce of the country, especially at a season of comparative depression like the present. We have accordingly amended the Bill so as to keep the duties on these instruments at their present rates.

40. In connection with the subject of bills of exchange, we may further mention that we have deemed it unnecessary to make any change in the existing law by which the duty payable on bills drawn in sets is distributed over the several parts. We have accordingly omitted the foot-note to the first schedule of the Bill as introduced, and inserted a table like that contained in the existing Act.

41. We have in article 29 expanded article 3 of the first schedule to the Bill as introduced, first by extending it to hypothecations of movable property, and secondly by extending it (with duty equal to that on bills of exchange) to cases when the loan is repayable more than three months, but not more than one year, from the date of the instrument. This, we believe, will afford considerable relief in a very large class of mercantile transactions which would otherwise be chargeable with the mortgage-duty.

42. Policies of insurance have been divided into two classes—(1) marine policies, and (2) all other policies, including life policies. For the first, it is proposed to maintain the rates prescribed by the existing law. In the present days of quick communications marine policies have a very short currency, in most cases not exceeding three months, and the number of policies of this class issued is much greater than formerly. There is consequently, in the opinion of the Committee, no good ground for reverting, as the original Bill would have done, to the higher rates of duty which were charged previous to 1869. As regards life and other kinds of insurances, the case is different, and some increase seems permissible. The rates we propose for them are medium rates, 25 per cent. below the rates laid down in the former Bill, and 50 per cent. in excess of the rates charged on policies of insurance generally under the existing law.

43. The Bill as introduced omitted the minimum rate of two annas to which bonds and other instruments chargeable as bonds involving an amount not exceeding 25 rupees are subject under the present Stamp Act. The effect was to make every bond and other instrument similarly chargeable involving an amount, however small, liable to a duty of four annas. As a compromise between this rate, which in the case of very small transactions would in our opinion be unduly heavy, and the rates prescribed by the existing law, we propose that the two annas rate be continued in respect of bonds and other instruments chargeable at bond-rates where the amount secured by such instrument does not exceed ten rupees.

44. We have provided that the duty on amounts above Rs. 1,000, both in the case of the "Bond" class, and the "Conveyance" class of instruments, shall ascend by steps of Rs. 2-8 and Rs. 5 in lieu of Rs. 5 and Rs. 10, respectively, as provided by the former Bill. The effect of this reduction is to maintain the existing rates of duty on amounts ranging between Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 10,000 in respect of Bonds and Conveyances, and the several instruments similarly chargeable.

45. We have in article 20 inserted words to make it clear that only copies certified by a public officer are chargeable with duty.

46. As important additions to the schedule we desire to mention—

Bought and sold notes (No. 15), and

Enrolment of a vakil under the letters patent of a High Court, (No. 25), and among omissions we would direct attention to article 52, by which the duty it was proposed to take on receipts between 10 rupees and 20 rupees has been abandoned.

47. The duty payable on articles of clerkship (No. 8) we propose to reduce from 500 rupees, the amount chargeable under the existing law and under the Bill as introduced, because a new duty of 250 rupees is imposed (by article 26) on enrolment as an Attorney.

48. The entries in the exemption schedule are for the most part transferred from existing enactments or from notifications issued by the Government under the powers conferred by the present Stamp Act; but among those now added we may mention—

(1.) Receipts for payments of money exceeding 20 rupees, when such payment is made without consideration, as e. g., in the case of a subscription to some religious, charitable or public object;

(2.) "Lease, pattá, kabúliyat or other undertaking to cultivate, occupy or pay rent for land granted to or by a cultivator without the payment or delivery of any fine or premium when a definite term is expressed and such term does not exceed one year or when the annual rent reserved does not exceed Rs. 100.

(3.) "Counterpart of any lease granted to a cultivator."

49. We think that such instruments as "Articles of Association," which deal with important interests, may reasonably bear a somewhat higher duty than that to which they have heretofore been subjected; we propose therefore that the amount be raised from fifteen to twenty-five rupees.

50. We desire to acknowledge the valuable criticisms received from the Chambers of Commerce at Madras and Bombay, from Mr. Justice Sewell White and Mr. Justice Plowden, from Mr. C. D. Field, District Judge of Burdwan, from Mr. Jacob, Registrar of the Judicial Commissioner's Court, Central Provinces, from the Committee appointed by the Panjáb Government, and from Bábu Upendra Náth Mitra, Government Pleader, Dacca.

51. The publication ordered by the Council has been made; but the Bill has been so considerably altered by us that we are of opinion that it should be republished.

G. H. P. EVANS.†
E. C. MORGAN.

* With all deference to the opinion of the other Members of the Select Committee, I beg to observe that I fail to see the reason why settlements made for religious and charitable purposes should not come under the same head as family settlements. Considering the laudable objects for which the former are intended, they ought not, in my opinion, to be charged with a higher rate of stamp-duty than the latter.

With regard to article 50, clause (c), Schedule I (Power of Attorney), though in its present form it meets my objection respecting joint execution, I still take exception to it for this reason: when I took objection to this clause I did not mean that different attorneys for different objects should be constituted by one instrument. What I meant to say was that provision should be made to enable a person or persons to execute a power in favour of one or more persons to "act in more than one transaction or generally," such power to act being exercised simultaneously or concurrently by the persons named in the instrument. I have already stated my reasons for this proposed modification in my former note, and I need not repeat them here.

With these remarks I subscribe the report.

The 28th August, 1878.

JOTINDRA MOHAN TAGORE.

† I AGREE with this report except as to article 46 of Schedule I, which I think must be further altered or struck out altogether.

G. H. P. EVANS.

‡ On consideration, I agree with Mr. Evans. The clause as it stands would apply to the statement of the balance in a banker's pass-book not signed by the constituent.

SCHEDULE III.

ACTS REPEALED.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

- Short title. 1. This Act may be called
 "The Stamp Act, 1879."
 Local extent. It extends to the whole of
 British India;
 Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January 1879.

2. On and after that day, the Acts specified in the third schedule shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the same schedule. But all rules framed under the General Stamp Act, 1869, and then in force shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made hereunder. And all references made to the General

Stamp Act, 1869, in enactments passed subsequently thereto shall be deemed to be made to this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Interpretation-clause.
 "Bill of exchange." (1.) "Bill of exchange" includes also a hundi and a letter of credit:

(2.) "Bill of lading" means any instrument signed by the owner of a vessel or his agent, acknowledging the receipt of goods therein described, and undertaking to deliver the same at a place and to a person mentioned or indicated in such instrument; but does not include any such instrument when the goods therein described are received at a place within the limits of any port as defined under the Indian Ports Act, 1875, and are to be delivered at another place within the limits of the same port:

(3.) "Bond" means—

(a) any instrument whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another, on condition that the obligation shall be void if a specified act is performed, or is not performed, as the case may be;

(b) any instrument attested by a witness or witnesses and not payable to order or bearer, whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another; and

(c) any instrument so attested whereby a person obliges himself to deliver grain or other agricultural produce to another:

(4.) "Cheque" means a bill of exchange drawn on a banker or person carrying on the business of banking, and payable on demand:

(5.) "Chief Controlling Revenue Authority" means, in the Presidency of Fort St. George and the territories respectively under the administration of the Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, the Board of Revenue: in the Presidency of Bombay, outside the limits of the town of Bombay, a Revenue Commissioner: in the Panjáb, the Financial Commissioner; and elsewhere, the Local Government or such officer as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint by name or in virtue of his office in this behalf:

(6.) "Collector" means, within the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Collector of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, respectively, and, without those limits, the Collector of a District, and includes a Deputy Commissioner and any officer whom the Local Government may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette appoint by name or in virtue of his office in this behalf:

(7.) "Conveyance" means any instrument by which property (whether movable or immovable) is transferred on sale:

(8.) "Duly stamped" as applied to an instrument means stamped or written upon stamped paper in accordance with the law applicable to such instrument when it was first executed:

(9.) "Instrument of partition" means any instrument whereby persons interested in property, jointly or in common, or as co-parceners, or as members of an undivided family, divide or agree to divide such property in severalty, and includes also a final order for partition passed by any Revenue authority:

(10.) "Lease" includes also a pattá, and a kabúliyat or other undertaking in writing, not being a counter-part of a lease, to cultivate, occupy or pay rent for immovable property:

(11.) "Mortgage-deed" includes every instrument (other than an instrument mentioned in the first schedule, No. 20) whereby, for the purpose of securing money advanced, or to be advanced, by way of loan, or an existing or future debt, one person transfers, or purports to transfer, to another a right over specific property:

(12.) "Paper" includes vellum, parchment or any other material on which an instrument may be written:

(13.) "Policy of insurance" means any instrument by which one person, in consideration of a premium, engages to indemnify another against loss, damage or liability arising from an unknown or contingent event:

(14.) "Power-of-attorney" means any instrument (other than a document chargeable with a fee under the law relating to Court-fees for the time being in force) empowering a person to act in the stead of the person executing it:

(15.) "Receipt" means any note, memorandum, writing or advertisement whatsoever, whereby any goods are acknowledged to have been received in satisfaction of a debt, or whereby any money or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note is acknowledged to have been received, or whereby any debt or demand, or any part of a debt or demand, is acknowledged to have been settled, satisfied or discharged, or which signifies or imports any such acknowledgment, whether the same is or is not signed with the name of any person:

(16.) "Schedule" and "schedules" respectively mean a schedule and schedules to this Act annexed:

(17.) "Settlement" means any disposition in writing of movable or immovable property—

(a) which is made in consideration of marriage, or

(b) which, not being testamentary, is made for the purpose of dividing the property of the settlor among his family or those for whom he desires to provide.

It includes an agreement in writing to make such a disposition:

(18.) "Vessel" means anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property:

(19.) "Written" and "writing" include every mode in which words or figures can be expressed upon paper.

4. The schedules and everything therein contained are to be read and construed as part of this Act.

Schedules to be read as part of Act.

CHAPTER II.

STAMP-DUTIES.

A.—Of the liability of Instruments to Stamp-duty.

5. Subject to the exemptions contained in the second schedule, the following instruments shall be liable to stamp-duty of the amount indicated in the first schedule as the proper duty therefor respectively, that is to say:—

(a) every instrument mentioned in the same schedule, and executed in British India on or after the first day of January 1879;

(b) every bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note drawn or made out of British India on or after that day and accepted or paid, or presented for acceptance or payment, or endorsed, transferred or otherwise negotiated, in British India; and

(c) every instrument (other than a bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note) mentioned in the same schedule, executed out of British India on or after that day, and relating to any property situate, or to any matter or thing done or to be done, in British India.

6. When in the case of any conveyance, lease, mortgage or settlement several instruments are employed for completing the transaction, the principal instrument only shall be chargeable with the ad valorem duty prescribed for such conveyance, lease, mortgage or settlement in the first schedule, and the other instruments shall be chargeable with such other duty as may be prescribed for them in that schedule; but such last-mentioned duty shall not exceed the ad valorem duty payable in respect of the principal instrument.

The parties may determine for themselves which of such instruments shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the principal instrument.

7. An instrument so framed as to come within two or more of the descriptions in the first schedule shall, when the rates chargeable thereunder are different, be charged with the highest of such rates:

Provided that any such instrument purporting to effect several distinct objects shall be chargeable with the aggregate amount of the duties to which instruments effecting separately each of such objects would be liable under this Act.

8. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by order published in the Gazette of India, reduce or remit whether prospectively or retrospectively, in the whole or any part of British India, the duties chargeable under this Act on all or any of the instruments mentioned in the first schedule, or on any particular class of such instruments, or on any of the instruments belonging to such class, or on any of the instruments mentioned in the same schedule, when executed or granted by or to any particular class of persons, or by or to any members of such class, and may in like manner cancel or vary such order to the extent of the powers hereby given.

Power to reduce or remit rates of stamp-duty.

Every such cancellation or variation shall be published in the Gazette of India.

B.—Of Stamps and the mode of using them.

9. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, all stamp-duties which may from time to time be chargeable by law in respect of any instruments shall be paid, and such payment shall be indicated on such instruments, by means of stamps—

(a) according to the provisions herein contained, or

(b) when no such provision is applicable thereto, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

10. The following instruments may be stamped with adhesive and with adhesive stamps, namely:—

(a) instruments chargeable with the duty of one anna;

(b) bills, of exchange and promissory notes drawn or made out of British India; and

(c) transfers by endorsement of shares of public companies and associations.

Unless the Governor General in Council otherwise directs, all other instruments shall be stamped with impressed stamps only.

11. Whoever affixes any adhesive stamp to any instrument liable to duty shall, at the time of affixing the same, cancel such stamp in such manner as to show that it has been used, and so that the same shall be incapable of being used for any other instrument.

Any instrument bearing an adhesive stamp which has not been cancelled in manner herein required shall, so far as such stamp is concerned, be deemed to be unstamped.

12. Every instrument written upon stamped paper shall be written in such manner, and every instrument for which an adhesive stamp is used shall be so stamped, that the stamp may appear on the face of the instrument and cannot be used for or applied to any other instrument.

13. No second instrument chargeable with stamp-duty shall be written upon a piece of stamped paper upon which an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty has already been written: provided that nothing in this section shall prevent an endorsement being made upon any instrument for the purpose of transferring any right created or evidenced thereby.

14. When an impressed stamp is used to defray the amount of duty with which any instrument is chargeable, such amount shall be defrayed by a single stamp, except when such amount exceeds one thousand rupees, in which case it may be defrayed by two or more impressed stamps of which the aggregate amount is the amount so required:

Provided that, when a single impressed stamp of any amount less than one thousand rupees is not procurable on application to the Collector or stamp-vendor appointed under the rules hereinafter mentioned, it shall be lawful, on such Collector or stamp-vendor making a certificate to that effect, for the person requiring such stamp to defray the duty chargeable by two or more impressed stamps, of which the aggregate amount is not less than the amount of such duty:

Provided also that when any instrument cannot conveniently be written on a single piece of stamped paper bearing a stamp of the amount required for such instrument, it may be commenced on such piece of paper, and when such piece of paper is filled, be continued on one or more pieces of paper each bearing a stamp of eight annas, or when the amount of duty chargeable in respect of such instrument is less than eight annas, of the amount so chargeable.

15. When more stamped papers than one are used under section fourteen for an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty, each paper so used shall contain a part of the instrument.

16. Where the duty with which an instrument is chargeable, or the exemption of such instrument from duty, depends in any manner upon the duty paid upon another instrument, the payment of such last-mentioned duty shall, if application be made in writing to the Collector for that purpose, and on production of both the instruments, be denoted upon such first-mentioned instrument in such manner as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

C.—Of the Time of stamping Instruments.

17. Instruments chargeable with stamp-duty and executed in British India shall be stamped before or at the time of execution.

18. Every instrument chargeable with such duty executed out of British India, and not being a bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, may be stamped within two months after it has been first received in British India; or, where such instrument cannot, with reference to the description of stamp prescribed for such instrument, be duly stamped by a private person, it may be taken within the said period of two months to the Collector, and he shall stamp the same, in such manner as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by rule prescribe, with a stamp of such value as the person presenting such instrument may require and pay for.

19. The first holder in British India of any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note drawn or made out of British India shall, before he presents the same for acceptance or payment, or endorses, transfers or otherwise negotiates the same in British India, affix thereto the proper stamp and cancel the same, unless such stamp has been already affixed and cancelled:

Provided that if, at the time any such bill, cheque or note comes into the hands of any holder thereof in British India, the proper adhesive stamp is affixed thereto and cancelled in manner prescribed by section eleven, and such holder has no reason to believe that such stamp was affixed or cancelled otherwise than by the person and at the time required by this Act, such stamp shall, so far as relates to such holder, be deemed to have been duly affixed and cancelled. But nothing contained in this proviso shall relieve any person from any penalty incurred by him for omitting to affix or cancel a stamp.

D.—Of Valuations for Stamp-duty.

20. When an instrument is chargeable with Conversion of amount ad valorem duty in respect of expressed in certain currencies. an amount expressed in pounds sterling, pounds currency, francs or dollars, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the following scale:—

One pound sterling or pound currency is equivalent to ten rupees:

One hundred francs are equivalent to forty rupees:

One Mexican or China dollar is equivalent to two rupees four annas:

21. When an instrument is chargeable with Conversion of amount ad valorem duty in respect of any money expressed in any other currencies. foreign or colonial currency, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the current rate of exchange on the day of the date of the instrument.

22. When an instrument is chargeable with Stock and marketable securities to be valued. ad valorem duty in respect of any stock or of any marketable security, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such stock or security according to the average price thereof on the day of the date of the instrument.

23. When an instrument contains a statement of current rate of exchange, or average price, as the case may require, and is stamped in accordance with such statement, it is, so far as regards the subject-matter of such statement, to be deemed duly stamped, unless or until it is shown that such statement is untrue, and that the instrument is in fact insufficiently stamped.

24. When interest is expressly made payable by the terms of an instrument, such instrument shall not be chargeable with duty higher than that with which it would have been chargeable had no mention of interest been made therein.

25. When any property is conveyed to any person in consideration, wholly or in part, of any debt due to him, or subject either certainly or contingently to the payment or transfer of any money or stock, whether being or constituting a charge or incumbrance upon the property or not, such debt, money or stock is to be deemed the whole or part, as the case may be, of the consideration in respect whereof the conveyance is chargeable with ad valorem duty.

26. When an instrument is executed to secure the payment of an annuity, or other sum payable periodically, or when the consideration for a conveyance is an annuity or other sum payable periodically, the amount secured by such instrument or the consideration for such conveyance (as the case may be) shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be—

(a) when such sum is payable for a definite period so that the total amount to be paid can be previously ascertained, such total amount;

(b) when such sum is payable in perpetuity or for an indefinite time not terminable with any life in being at the date of the execution of such instrument or conveyance, the total amount which, according to the terms of such instrument or conveyance, will or may be payable during the period of twenty years next after the date of such instrument or conveyance; and

(c) when such sum is payable for an indefinite time terminable with any life in being at the date of the execution of such instrument or conveyance, the total amount which will or may be payable as aforesaid during the period of twelve years next after the date of such instrument or conveyance.

27. When the amount or value of the subject-matter of any instrument is indeterminate, such instrument shall be chargeable under this Act with ad valorem duty cannot be ascertained, nothing shall be recoverable under such instrument more than the highest amount or value for which, if stated in an instrument of the same denomination, the stamp actually used would have been sufficient.

28. All facts and circumstances affecting the liability of any instrument to ad valorem duty, or the amount of ad valorem duty with which any instrument is chargeable, shall be fully and truly set forth in such instrument.

29. (a.) When any property has been contracted to be sold for one consideration for the whole, and is conveyed to the purchaser in separate parts or parcels by different instruments, the consideration shall be apportioned in such manner as the parties think fit, so that a distinct consideration for each separate part or parcel is set forth in the conveyance relating thereto, and such conveyance shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of such distinct consideration.

(b.) When property contracted to be purchased for one consideration for the whole by two or more persons jointly, or by any person for himself and others, or wholly for others, is conveyed in parts or parcels by separate instruments to the persons by or for whom the same was purchased for distinct parts of the consideration, the conveyance of each separate part or parcel shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of the distinct part of the consideration therein specified.

(c.) When a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the same to any other person, and the property is in consequence conveyed immediately to the sub-purchaser, the conveyance is to be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration for the sale by the original purchaser to the sub-purchaser.

(d.) When a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance, contracts to sell the whole, or any part or parts thereof, to any other person or persons, and the property is in consequence conveyed by the original seller to different persons in parts or parcels, the conveyance of each part or parcel sold to a sub-purchaser shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect only of the consideration moving from such sub-purchaser, without regard to the amount or value of the original consideration, and the conveyance of the residue (if any) of such property to the original purchaser shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect only of the excess of the original consideration over the aggregate of the considerations moving from the sub-purchasers :

Provided that the stamp-duty on such last mentioned conveyance shall in no case be less than one rupee.

(e.) When a sub-purchaser takes an actual conveyance of the interest of the person immediately selling to him, which is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration moving from him, and is duly stamped accordingly, any conveyance to be afterwards made to him of the same property by the original seller shall be charged with a duty equal to that which would be chargeable on a conveyance for the consideration obtained by such original seller; or when such duty would exceed five rupees, with a duty of five rupees.

E—Duty by whom payable.

30. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the expense of providing the proper stamp shall be borne—

(a) in the case of any instrument described in numbers 1, 10, 12, 13, 22, 27, 29, 30, 43, 53, 54, 56 and 59, clauses (a) and (b), of the first schedule—by the person drawing, making or executing such instrument :

(b) in the case of a policy of insurance—by the insured :

(c) in the case of a conveyance or lease—by the grantee or lessee .

(d) in the case of an instrument of partition—by the parties thereto in proportion to their respective shares in the property comprised therein :

(e) in the case of an instrument of exchange—by the parties in equal shares : and

(f) in the case of a certificate of sale—by the purchaser of the property to which such certificate relates.

CHAPTER III.

ADJUDICATION OF DOUBTS AS TO STAMPS.

31. When any instrument, whether executed or not, and whether previously stamped or not, is brought to the Collector, and the person bringing it applies to have the opinion of that officer as to the duty (if any) chargeable in respect of the same and pays a fee of such amount (not exceeding five rupees and not less than eight annas) as the Collector may in each case direct, the Collector shall determine the duty (if any) to which, in his judgment, the instrument is liable ;

and may for that purpose require to be furnished with an abstract of the instrument, and also with such evidence as he may deem necessary, in order to show to his satisfaction whether all the facts and circumstances affecting the liability of the instrument to duty, or the amount of the duty chargeable thereon, are fully and truly set forth therein, and may refuse to proceed upon any such application until such abstract and evidence have been furnished accordingly :

Provided that no evidence furnished in pursuance of this section shall be used against any person in any proceeding whatever, except in an inquiry as to the duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable ; and every person by whom any such evidence is furnished shall, on payment of the full duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable, be relieved from any penalty he may have incurred by reason of the omission to state truly in such instrument any of the facts or circumstances aforesaid.

32. When an instrument brought to the Collector under section thirty-one is chargeable with duty and—

(a) the Collector determines that it is already fully stamped, or

(b) the duty determined by the Collector under section thirty-one, or such a sum as, with the duty already paid on the instrument is equal to the duty so determined, has been paid, the Collector shall certify by endorsement on such instrument that the full duty (stating the amount) with which it is chargeable has been paid.

When such instrument is not chargeable with duty, the Collector shall certify in manner aforesaid that such instrument is not so chargeable.

Any instrument upon which an endorsement has been made under this section shall be deemed to be duly stamped, or not chargeable with duty, as the case may be; and if chargeable with duty, shall be receivable in evidence or otherwise and may be acted upon and registered as if it had been originally duly stamped :

Provided that the Collector shall not make any such endorsement—

(a) on any instrument executed in British India and brought to him after the expiration of one month from the date of its execution ;

(b) on any instrument executed out of British India and brought to him after the expiration of three months after it has been first received in British India, or

(c) on any instrument chargeable with the stamp-duty of one anna, or any bill of exchange or promissory note when brought to him after the drawing or execution thereof on paper not duly stamped.

33. The whole or any part of any payment under this chapter shall be made in stamps, or in cash, or partly in stamps and partly in cash, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

CHAPTER IV.

INSTRUMENTS NOT DULY STAMPED.

34. Every person having by law or consent of Examination and Im- parties authority to receive poundings of instruments. evidence, and every person in charge of a public office except an officer of Police, before whom any instrument chargeable with stamp-duty is produced, or comes in the execution of his duty, shall examine such instrument in order to ascertain whether it is duly stamped; and if it appears to any such person that such instrument is not duly stamped, he shall impound the same:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require any Magistrate or other Judge of a Criminal Court to examine or impound any instrument coming before him in the course of any proceeding other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Provided also that, in the case of a Judge of a High Court, the duty of examining and impounding any instrument under this section may be delegated to such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf.

The Local Government may, from time to time, determine who shall be deemed to be for the purpose of this section persons in charge of public offices.

35. No instrument chargeable with stamp-duty shall be received in stamped inadmissible in evidence in any suit or evidence, &c. proceeding, or shall be acted upon or registered unless such instrument is duly stamped:

Provided,

Provided that—

1st, any such instrument, not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or a bill of exchange or promissory note, may be received in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same was chargeable under the law in force when it was first executed or (in the case of an instrument insufficiently stamped) of the amount required to make up such duty, together with a penalty of five rupees, or when ten times the amount of the proper stamp-duty or deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, of a sum equal to ten times such amount.

2nd, nothing herein contained shall prevent and in certain criminal the reception of any instrument in evidence in any proceeding in a Criminal Court other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

3rd, when an instrument has been admitted in evidence, such admission shall not, except as provided in section fifty-one, be called in question on the ground that the proper stamp-duty has not been paid in respect of such instrument.

36. When the person impounding an instrument under section thirty-four has by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence and receives such instrument in evidence upon payment of a penalty as provided by section thirty-five, he shall send to the Collector an authenticated copy of such instrument, together with a certificate in writing, stating the amount of the duty and penalty levied in respect thereof.

In every other case the person so impounding an instrument shall send it in original to the Collector.

37. When a copy of an instrument is sent to the Collector under the first paragraph of section thirty-six, he may, if he thinks fit, refund any portion of the penalty in excess of five rupees which has been paid in respect of such instrument, or when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written or stamped in contravention of section twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen, he may refund the whole penalty so paid.

38. When the Collector impounds any instrument under section thirty-four, or receives any instrument sent to him under the second clause of section thirty-six, he shall adopt the following procedure:—

(a.) If he is of opinion that such instrument is duly stamped, or is not an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty, he shall certify by endorsement thereon that it is duly stamped, or that it is not so chargeable (as the case may be), and shall upon application made to him in this behalf deliver such instrument to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct.

(b.) If the Collector is of opinion that such instrument is chargeable with stamp-duty under the law in force at the time it was first executed and is not duly stamped, he shall require the payment of the proper duty or the amount required to make up the same, together with a penalty of five rupees; or if ten times the amount of the proper duty or of the deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, then such penalty not less than five rupees and not more than ten times the amount of such duty or portion as he thinks fit:

Provided that, when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written or stamped in contravention of section twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen, the Collector may, if he thinks fit, remit the penalty prescribed by this section.

Every certificate under clause (a) of this section shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated therein.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only, or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

39. If any instrument liable to stamp-duty under the law in force at the time it was first executed and which is unstamped or insufficiently stamped is produced by any person of his own motion before the Collector within one year from the date of its execution, and such person brings to the notice of the Collector the fact that such instrument is unstamped or insufficiently stamped, as the case may be, and offers to pay to the Collector the amount of the proper duty, or the amount required to make up the same, and the Collector is satisfied that such instrument has not been duly stamped by reason of accident, mistake or urgent necessity, he may, instead of proceeding under sections thirty-four and thirty-eight, receive such amount and proceed as next hereinafter prescribed.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

40. When the stamp-duty and penalty (if any) leviable in respect of any instrument have been paid under section thirty-five, section thirty-eight or section thirty-nine, the person admitting such instrument in evidence or the Collector (as the case may be) shall certify by endorsement thereon that the proper stamp-duty and penalty (stating the amount of each) have been levied in respect thereof, and the name and residence of the person paying them.

Every instrument so endorsed shall thereupon be admissible in evidence or otherwise, and may be registered and acted upon as if it had been duly stamped, and shall be delivered on his application in this behalf to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct :

Provided that no instrument which has been received in evidence under section thirty-five shall be so delivered until the Collector certifies in writing that its detention is no longer necessary.

41. The Collector may, notwithstanding the levy of a penalty under this chapter in respect of an instrument, prosecute any person who appears to have committed an offence against the stamp law in respect of such instrument :

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted in the case of any instrument in respect of which such a penalty has been paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper stamp-duty.

42. When any duty or penalty has been paid under section thirty-five, section thirty-eight or section thirty-nine by any person in respect of an instrument, and by agreement or under the rules prescribed by section thirty of this Act or under any other law in force at the time such instrument was executed some other person was bound to bear the expense of providing the proper stamp for such instrument, the first mentioned person shall be entitled to recover from such other person the amount of the duty or penalty so paid ; and for the purpose of such recovery any certificate granted in respect of such instrument under section forty shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein certified.

43. When any penalty is levied under section thirty-five or thirty-eight, the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority may, upon application in writing made within one year from the date on which such penalty is so levied, refund such penalty wholly or in part.

44. If any instrument sent to a Collector under the second paragraph of section thirty-six be lost, destroyed or injured during transmission, the person sending the same shall not be liable for such loss, destruction or injury.

When any instrument is about to be so sent, any person may require a copy thereof to be made at his expense and authenticated by the person impounding such instrument, and to be deposited in the Court or office of such last mentioned person until he otherwise directs.

45. When any bill of exchange or promissory note chargeable hereunder with the duty of one anna or any cheque is presented for payment unstamped, the person to whom it is so presented may affix thereto the necessary adhesive stamp, and upon so doing, may pay the sum payable upon such bill, note or cheque, and may charge the duty against the person who ought to have paid the same, or deduct such duty from the sum payable as aforesaid, and such bill, note or cheque shall, so far as respects the duty, be deemed good and valid.

But nothing herein contained shall relieve any person from any penalty he may have incurred in relation to such bill, note or cheque.

CHAPTER V.

REFERENCE AND REVISION.

46. If any Collector acting under section thirty-eight entertains doubt as to the amount of stamp-duty with which any instrument is chargeable, he may draw up a statement of the case, and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, for the decision of the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, and such Authority shall consider the case and send a copy of its decision to the Collector, and he shall proceed to assess and charge the duty in conformity with such decision.

47. The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority may state any case coming before it under this Act, and refer such case with its own opinion thereon, if the case arise in the Presidency of Fort Saint George or the Presidency of Bombay, to the local High Court : if it arise in the North-Western Provinces or Oudh, to the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces : if it arise in the Panjab, to the Chief Court of the Panjab : if it arise in the Central Provinces, to the High Court of Judicature at Bombay : and if it arise in any other part of British India, to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Every such case shall be decided by not less than three Judges of the High Court or Chief Court to which it is referred, and in case of difference the opinion of the majority shall prevail.

48. If the High Court or Chief Court is not satisfied that the statements contained in the case are sufficient to enable it to determine the questions raised thereby, it may refer the case back to the Revenue Authority by which it was stated, to make such additions thereto or alterations therein as the Court may direct in that behalf.

49. The High Court or Chief Court, upon the hearing of any such case, shall decide the questions raised thereby and shall deliver its judgment thereon containing the grounds on which such decision is founded: and it shall send to the Revenue Authority by which the case was stated, a copy of such judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar, and the Revenue Authority shall, on receiving the same, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

50. If any Court other than a Court mentioned in section forty-seven entertains doubt as to the amount of stamp-duty to be paid in respect of any instrument under the first proviso to section thirty-five, the Judge may draw up a statement of the case and refer it with his own opinion thereon for the decision of the High Court to which, if he were the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, he would under section forty-seven refer the same, and such Court shall deal with the case as if it had been referred under section forty-seven and send a copy of its judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar to the Judge making the reference, who shall dispose of the case conformably to such decision.

Every reference under this section made by a Court subordinate to a district Court shall be made through the district Court.

51. When any Court in the exercise of civil jurisdiction makes any order admitting any instrument in evidence as properly stamped or as not requiring a stamp, or upon payment of duty and a penalty under section thirty-five, the Court to which an appeal would lie from the decision of such first-mentioned Court may, of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, take such order into consideration; and if it is of opinion that such instrument should not have been received in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under section thirty-five, or without the payment of a higher duty and penalty than those paid, may record a declaration to that effect, and determine the amount of duty with which such instrument is chargeable, and may require any person in whose possession or power such instrument then is to produce the same, and may impound the same when produced.

When any declaration has been recorded under this section, the Court recording the same shall send a copy thereof to the Collector and, where the instrument to which it relates has been impounded or is otherwise in the possession of such Court, shall also send such instrument, and thereupon the Collector may, notwithstanding anything contained in the order admitting such instrument in evidence, or in any certificate granted under section forty or in section forty-one, prosecute any person for any offence against the stamp law which the Collector considers him to have committed in respect of such instrument:

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted where the amount (including duty and penalty) which according to the determination of such Court was payable in respect of the instrument under section 35 is paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper stamp-duty.

Provided also that no declaration made under this section shall, except for the purposes of a prosecution for an offence as aforesaid, affect the validity of any order admitting any instrument in evidence, or of any certificate granted under section forty.

CHAPTER VI.

REFUNDS.

52. Subject to such rules as may from time to time be made by the Governor General in Council as to the evidence which the Collector may require, allowance shall be made by the Collector for the following impressed stamps, namely:—

(a.) The stamp on any paper inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, obliterated or by any means rendered unfit for the purpose intended, before any instrument written thereon is executed by any party, and for which stamp no money or other consideration has been paid or given to the attorney, pleader or other person employed to transact the business intended to have been carried into execution thereby, or to the person by whom the same was written:

(b.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, signed by or on behalf of the drawer or intended drawer, but not delivered out of his hands to the payee or intended payee, or any person on his behalf, or deposited with any person as a security for the payment of money, or in any way negotiated, issued or put in circulation, or made use of in any other manner whatever, and which, being a bill of exchange or cheque, has not been accepted by the drawee, and provided that the paper on which any such stamp is impressed does not bear any signature intended as or for the acceptance of any bill of exchange or cheque to be afterwards written thereon:

(c.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note signed by, or on behalf of, the drawer thereof, but which from any omission or error has been spoiled or rendered useless, although the same, being a bill of exchange or cheque, may have been presented for acceptance or accepted or endorsed, or, being a promissory note, may have been delivered to the payee, provided that another completed and duly stamped bill of exchange or promissory note is produced identical in every particular, except in the correction of such error or omission as aforesaid, with the spoiled bill or note:

(d.) The stamp used for any of the following instruments, that is to say:—

- (1) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found to be absolutely void in law from the beginning:
- (2) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found unfit by reason of any error or mistake therein for the purpose originally intended:
- (3) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but which, by reason of the death of any person by whom it is necessary that it should be executed without having executed the same, or of the refusal of any such person to execute the same, or to advance any money intended to be thereby secured, cannot be completed so as to effect the intended transaction in the form proposed:
- (4) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, for want of the execution thereof by some material and necessary party, and his inability or refusal to sign the same, is in fact incomplete and insufficient for the purpose for which it was intended:

- (5) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, by reason of the refusal of any person to act under the same, or by the refusal or non-acceptance of any office thereby granted, totally fails of the intended purpose :
- (6) an instrument executed by any party thereto which becomes useless in consequence of the transaction intended to be thereby effected being effected by some other instrument duly stamped :
- (7) an instrument executed by any party thereto which is inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, and in lieu whereof another instrument made between the same parties and for the same purpose is executed and duly stamped :

Provided that in the case of an executed instrument—

- (a) such instrument is given up to be cancelled :
- (b) the application for relief is made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, except where from unavoidable circumstances any instrument for which another instrument has been substituted cannot be given up to be cancelled within the aforesaid period, and in that case within six months after the date of execution of the substituted instrument, and except where the spoiled instrument has been sent abroad, and in that case within six months after it has been received back in any part of British India : and
- (c) no suit has been instituted in which the instrument could or would have been given or offered in evidence :

Provided also that, in the case of stamped paper not having any executed instrument written thereon, the application for relief is made within six months after the stamp has been purchased from the stamp-vendor.

53. When any person has inadvertently used for an instrument liable to duty a stamp of a description other than that prescribed for such instrument by the rules made under the powers hereinbefore conferred or a stamp of greater value than was necessary, or has inadvertently used any stamp for an instrument not liable to any duty, the Collector may, on application made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, and upon the instrument, if liable to any duty, being re-stamped with the proper duty, cancel and allow as spoiled the stamp so misused.

54. In any case in which allowance is made for spoiled or misused stamps, the Collector may give in lieu thereof other stamps of the same denomination and value or, if required, and he thinks proper, stamps of any other denomination to the same amount in value or, at his discretion, the same value in money, deducting one anna for each rupee.

CHAPTER VII.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

55. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent herewith for regulating—

Powers to make subsidiary rules.

(a) the description of stamps and (in the case of impressed stamps) the size of the stamped paper to be used for each kind of instrument chargeable under this Act ;

(b) the supply and sale of such stamps and stamped papers, the persons by whom such sale is to be conducted, and the duties and remuneration of such persons, and

(c) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

56. All rules made under this Act shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

57. Any person receiving any money exceeding twenty rupees in amount or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note for an amount exceeding twenty rupees, or receiving in satisfaction of a debt any movable property exceeding twenty rupees in value shall, on demand by the person paying or delivering such money, bill, cheque, note or property, give a duly stamped receipt for the same.

Procedure where receipts are required.

58. Every Local Government shall cause this Act and the schedules hereto annexed to be carefully translated into the principal vernacular languages of the territories subject to its control. A full alphabetical index shall be added to every such translation, and the translation and index shall be printed and sold to the public at a price not exceeding four annas per copy.

Act to be translated, indexed and sold cheaply.

CHAPTER VIII.

CRIMINAL OFFENCES AND PROCEDURE.

59. Any person drawing, making, issuing, endorsing or transferring, or signing otherwise than as a witness, or presenting for acceptance or payment, or accepting, paying or receiving payment of, or in any manner negotiating, any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note without the same being duly stamped, any person executing or signing otherwise than as a witness any other instrument chargeable with stamp-duty without the same being duly stamped, and any person voting or attempting to vote under any proxy not duly stamped, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees :

Provided that when any penalty has been paid in respect of any instrument under section thirty-five or section thirty-eight, the amount of such penalty shall be allowed in reduction of the fine (if any) subsequently imposed under this section in respect of the same instrument upon the person who paid such penalty.

Penalty for executing instrument on paper not duly stamped.

Allowance for misused stamps.

Allowance how to be made.

60. Any person affixing an adhesive stamp to any instrument and failing to cancel such stamp in manner directed by section eleven, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

61. Any person who, with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, executes any instrument in which all the facts and circumstances required by section twenty-eight to be set forth in such instrument are not fully and truly set forth, and any person who, being employed or concerned in or about the preparation of any instrument, neglects, or omits with intent as aforesaid, fully and truly to set forth therein all such facts or circumstances, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

62. Any person who being required under section fifty-seven to give a receipt refuses or neglects to give the same, or who upon a payment to the amount of twenty rupees or upwards gives a receipt for a sum not amounting to twenty rupees, or separates or divides the amount paid with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

63. Every person who—

(a) receives, or takes credit for, any premium or consideration for any contract of insurance, and does not, within one month after receiving, or taking credit for, such premium or consideration, make out and execute a duly stamped policy of such insurance; or

(b) makes, executes or delivers out, or pay or making, &c., any policy not duly stamped, or allows in account, or agrees to pay or allow in account, any money upon or in respect of any policy which is not duly stamped, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

64. Any person drawing or executing a bill of exchange or a policy of marine insurance purporting to be drawn or executed in a set of two or more, and not at the same time drawing or executing on paper duly stamped the whole number of bills or policies of which such bill or policy purports the set to consist, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

65. Whoever utters any instrument having thereon any adhesive stamp which has to his knowledge been used for any other executed instrument, or practises or is concerned in any fraudulent act, contrivance or device not herein specially provided for, for devices to defraud the revenue.

Government of any stamp-duty, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

66. Any person appointed to sell stamps who knowingly disobeys any rule made under section fifty-five, and any person not so appointed who sells or offers for sale any stamp other than a stamp purchased by him in good faith for his own private use, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

67. No prosecution in respect of any offence punishable under this Act, or the General Stamp Act, 1869, or any Act thereby repealed, shall be instituted without the sanction of the Collector or such other officer as the Local Government generally, or the Collector specially, authorizes in that behalf.

The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, or any officer authorized by it in this behalf, may stay or compound proceedings in any such prosecution.

68. Every such offence shall be triable—

- (a) within the limits of the Presidency-towns, by a Presidency Magistrate; and
(b) outside those limits, by Magistrates exercising powers not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class.

69. Every such offence committed in respect of any instrument may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which such instrument is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which such offence might be tried under the law relating to Criminal Procedure for the time being in force.

70. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act, or the rules made under it, or from being liable under such other law to any higher punishment or penalty than that provided by the rules made under this Act: Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th September, 1878:—

No. 6 of 1878.

A Bill to amend Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages).

Whereas by Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages), section five, it is enacted that when any publisher or printer is called upon by a Magistrate or Commissioner of Police to execute a bond under that Act in respect of any newspaper, the publisher of such newspaper may deliver to such Magistrate or Commissioner an undertaking in writing to the effect that no words, signs or visible representations shall, during the year next following the date of such undertaking, be printed or published in such newspaper which have not previously been submitted to such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, or which on being so submitted have been objected to by such officer, and that when such undertaking has been so delivered, no such bond and no such deposit as is mentioned in section four of the said Act shall be required from the publisher or printer of such newspaper during the said year;

And whereas by the last paragraph of section eight of the same Act it is provided that the publisher of any newspaper may, on the publication of a notice in respect thereof under section six of the said Act, and before anything has become liable to forfeiture under the said section eight in respect of such newspaper, deliver to the Magistrate of the District, or to the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency-town, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such newspaper is published, an undertaking as aforesaid, and, if such Magistrate or Commissioner accepts such undertaking, nothing shall become liable to forfeiture as aforesaid between the date on which such undertaking is so accepted and the end of the period for which it is given;

And whereas by the same Act, section eighteen, it is enacted that when any publisher of a newspaper has given any undertaking as aforesaid, and during the period for which such undertaking is given, any words, signs or visible representations which have not been submitted to the officer appointed as aforesaid, or which on being so submitted have been objected to by him, are printed or published in such newspaper, such publisher and the printer of such newspaper shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both;

And whereas it is expedient to repeal the enactments and proviso hereinbefore recited and the reference in section three of the said Act to the said section five; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The following portions of the said Act are repealed (that is to say): sections five and eighteen, the last paragraph of section eight, and in section three, the words “and subject to the provisions of section five.”

Repeal of Act IX of 1878, sections 5 and 18, and parts of sections 3 and 8.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In his despatch dated the 31st May 1878, the Secretary of State in Council conveyed the sanction of Her Majesty's Government to the Vernacular Press Act. But with reference to the provisions of the Act under which a publisher may undertake to submit a proof of his newspaper to the Local Government before publishing the same, he requested that the Governor General in Council would refrain from putting this part of the Act into operation, taking power by fresh legislation to suspend or abandon it if this was deemed necessary. After a careful consideration of the frame of the Act, fresh legislation has been deemed necessary to carry out the wishes of Her Majesty's Government, and accordingly the present Bill has been prepared, by which the enactments relating to the provisions noticed by the Secretary of State's despatch are repealed.

THE HON'BLE MR. MARKBY'S RETIREMENT FROM THE VICE-CHANCELLORSHIP OF THE CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

No. 246, dated Simla, the 11th September 1878.

From—C BERNARD, Esq, Officiating Secy. to the Govt. of India, Home Dept.,
To—The HON'BLE W. MARKBY, Vice-Chancellor of the Calcutta University.

THE Governor General in Council cannot allow you to lay down the Vice-Chancellorship of the University of Calcutta, on the occasion of your departure from India, without expressing his acknowledgments of the service you have done to the cause of education and enlightenment in India. While ably performing the arduous duties of a High Court Judge, you have, by precept and example, shown educated Natives and Europeans how they can, consistently with the performance of their regular duties, actively promote the cause of intellectual progress. During the last two years you have most successfully guided the deliberations of the University Senate, with whom rests the practical control of higher education among 135 millions of Her Majesty's Indian subjects. His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council considers that your Vice-Chancellorship has been marked, not only by steady and useful progress, but also by more than one important step of University reform.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
SEPTEMBER 12TH, 1878.

Friday, 6th September.—The changes of pressure are considerable in Northern and Western India. Pressure has increased at the Punjab stations, the increase exceeding $\cdot 08''$ at Lahore, Peshawar, Dera Ismail Khan, and Rawalpindi. The barometer has fallen over the rest of India, except at Akyab and its neighbourhood. The decrease of pressure averages $\cdot 11''$ at Rajkot, Surat, and Bombay.

Pressure now differs by very small amounts from the normal amount in Northern India. It is very considerably below the average in Bombay, Guzerat, the Berars, and Northern Deccan.

There has been a large fall of temperature in the Punjab: the maximum temperature recorded in the Punjab this morning was 88° , observed at Mooltan. The thermometer registered $94\cdot 3^{\circ}$ at Jacobabad at 10 A.M. to-day.

Easterly winds continue to prevail over Northern India. The wind directions (south) at Jubbulpore and Nagpore show the influence of the Bay of Bengal in modifying the wind in the centre of India.

Westerly winds have again set in over the south of India.

The easterly current up the Gangetic Valley, although not very powerful, has given fair rain during the day to Bengal, and to the western districts of the North-Western Provinces: Silchar received $1\cdot 5$ inches, False Point $1\cdot 10$ inches, Lucknow $\cdot 59$ inch, Jhansi $1\cdot 1$ inches, Bareilly $1\cdot 09$ inches, Roorkee $1\cdot 43$ inches, and Umballa 2 inches.

Khandwa and Nagpore in the Central Provinces received heavy rain: $1\cdot 42$ inches fell at the former, and $2\cdot 46$ inches at the latter station.

$1\cdot 3$ inches were registered at Indore, and 1 inch at Ajmere.

Southern India continues to receive fair rain: $2\cdot 11$ inches fell at Madras, $\cdot 6$ inch at Madura, and $1\cdot 7$ inches at Cochin.

Saturday, 7th September.—Pressure has diminished in all districts excepting the Punjab and the adjacent portions of the North-Western Provinces. The decrease exceeds $\cdot 05''$ at Surat and Bombay. Pressure is now very considerably below the average in Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, and the Berars. It is $\cdot 16''$ in defect at Bombay and Akola, $\cdot 11''$ at Kurrahee, and $\cdot 1''$ at Deesa.

An area of barometric depression is forming off the coast of Guzerat and Bombay.

The barometric range over India to-day is $\cdot 31''$, and is therefore above the average.

Light easterly winds prevail in Northern India. The wind velocity has increased considerably at Bombay, and a gale of wind is reported from that station. The south-westerly winds in Southern India are increasing in strength.

South-west winds at Belgaum, south-east winds at Bombay and Surat, and east winds at Rajkot appear to indicate indraught towards an area of low pressure (and probable rainfall) off the coast of Guzerat and Bombay.

Light showers have fallen in Bengal, Arracan, Assam, and Behar. The only reporting station which received heavy rain was Silchar: $2\cdot 28$ inches were recorded there this morning.

The western districts of the North-Western Provinces have received very heavy rainfall: $1\cdot 81$ inches were registered at Agra, $\cdot 8$ inch at Cawnpore, $\cdot 6$ inch at Lucknow, 6 inches at Aligarh, $4\cdot 1$ inches at Shahjehanpore, and $1\cdot 1$ inches at Meerut. $1\cdot 5$ inches have fallen at Jullundur in the Punjab during the past 48 hours.

Showers occurred during the day at the majority of the reporting stations in the Bombay and Madras Presidencies: Surat received $3\cdot 15$ inches, Ahmedabad $\cdot 97$ inch, and Neemuch $1\cdot 05$ inches; $\cdot 6$ inch fell at Madras and Vizagapatam.

Sunday, 8th September.—The barometric changes during the past 24 hours are generally small and unimportant. The barometer has risen at the majority of stations. The increase exceeds $\cdot 05''$ at Mooltan and Dera Ismail Khan, and at Bombay and Bellary. A fall of the barometer of $\cdot 041''$ at Rajkot has taken place, and the pressure at that station is now less than at any other reporting station.

The distribution of pressure and the wind directions at the stations on and near the North-West Coast of India, appear to indicate that the area of low pressure noted in yesterday's report is approaching the coast of Guzerat. It has very considerably influenced the weather along the West Coast of India during the day.

Sind is to-day the area of maximum temperature. The highest temperature recorded this morning was 93° at Kurrachee.

Light winds are now prevalent over the whole of Northern India. A gale of wind is blowing on the West Coast of India from Cochin northwards as far as Bombay and perhaps Surat. The winds on the northern quadrant at Deesa, Rajkot, and Kurrachee, although indicating indraught towards the area of barometric depression off the coast of Guzerat, are comparatively feeble. The average velocity of the wind during the past 24 hours at Bombay has been 32 miles per hour.

Light showers have fallen at several stations in Bengal, Assam, Behar, and the North-Western Provinces. The only stations in this area which report heavy rain are: Silchar, where 1·95 inches have fallen; and Aligarh, where 3·9 inches were recorded.

The weather is generally fine and dry in the Punjab.

The barometric depression off the West Coast of India has given moderate rain to the Bombay coast region. The largest amount reported from this area is ·83 inch at Bombay.

Light showers fell in the Madras Presidency.

Monday, 9th September.—The changes of pressure are unimportant, except in Western India. The barometer is now rising rapidly at Bombay, Surat, Deesa, and Rajkot. The increase of pressure during the past 24 hours averages one-tenth of an inch at these four stations. The pressure over the Indus Valley from Kurrachee to Peshawar is now almost uniform.

The barometric observations of to-day appear to indicate that the area of low pressure off the coast of Guzerat and Bombay is now disappearing. The wind directions at Rajkot, Deesa, and Kurrachee, on the other hand, suggest a northward motion of the barometric depression. High winds at Bombay, Rajkot, and Kurrachee indicate the continuance of an indraught to an area of low pressure or heavy rainfall. The barometric depression is apparently moving northwards, and at the same time gradually filling up.

The temperature of the Punjab is again rapidly increasing. Temperatures exceeding 90° are reported from the majority of stations in the Punjab and Sind.

The wind velocity has decreased slightly at Bombay; it has, however, averaged 28 miles per hour during the day. The winds at Rajkot and Kurrachee have not only altered considerably in direction, but increased in strength. This is most probably due to the northward march of the area of depression. The winds are very light in Northern India, and calms are reported from several stations.

The rainfall in Northern India during the past 24 hours is very slight: 1·54 inches fell at Silchar, 1·64 inches at Purneah, ·89 inch at Agra, and ·91 inch at Rangoon. No rain fell in the Punjab.

Moderate rainfall has occurred at the coast stations from Bombay to Kurrachee: Bombay received 1·11 inches, and Kurrachee ·62 inch.

A light shower is reported at Madras.

Tuesday, 10th September.—The barometer has fallen in the Punjab, the northern districts of the North-Western Provinces, and in Assam; the fall exceeds ·05" at the western stations of the Punjab. Pressure has increased in the remaining districts of India; the increase exceeds ·05" in Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, the Berars, Central Provinces, and at Vizagapatam and Masulipatam on the west coast of the Bay of Bengal. The increase is greatest at Rajkot, where it amounts to ·101".

The comparison of the pressure to-day with the average pressure for September show that it is above the average, excepting in Assam, the western districts of the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and at Madras. In consequence of the rapid increase of pressure during the past 24 hours, it is now very high in Western India. It is also very considerably above the average in Ceylon and Southern India. Low pressure in the Punjab, and high pressure in Ceylon, consequently give a high barometric range over India.

The winds are now below their average strength at all stations except Bombay and Madras. They are unusually light in Assam, Behar, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab, being only from thirty to fifty per cent. of their normal strength. Easterly winds continue over the Gangetic Valley as far as Patna. In the North-Western Provinces, westerly or north-westerly winds have set in.

In Bengal and Assam, the winds are again from the south-west, and indicate a determination of the Bay of Bengal current towards Assam and North-Eastern Bengal.

Fair rain is falling in Assam and Northern Bengal: Goalpara received 1·44 inches, Rungpore 2·63 inches, and Purneah ·92 inch. South Bengal, Behar, the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Central India have had little or no rain during the day. The only station which reports a fall exceeding one inch from this area is Fyzabad.

Light showers have fallen at one or two stations in Western India.

Heavy rain has been received by several stations in Southern India: 3·06 inches fell at Masulipatam, 1·24 inches at Bangalore, and 1·51 inches at Cochin.

Wednesday, 11th September.—The barometer has fallen at every station except Bombay. The decrease of pressure is small in amount in Western and Southern India. It varies from ·05" to ·136" in Northern and Eastern India. It exceeds ·1" in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, Behar, and Bengal, and is greatest at the trans-Indus stations of the Punjab, and Upper Sind, and in Northern Bengal and Western Assam.

Pressure consequently continues high in Ceylon, Southern India, the Deccan, and Bombay, and is abnormally low over the whole of Northern India, more especially in the Punjab.

The barometric range over India to-day is ·46", nearly double its normal amount for September.

The winds at all stations in Western India, excepting Kurrachee, are now considerably below their average strength. The wind velocity is increasing at the head of the Bay of Bengal; south-westerly winds continue in the south of Bengal; westerly or north-westerly winds have now set in at all stations in the Gangetic Valley except Patna and Bageilly. The wind is also from the north-west in the Central Provinces.

The south-west winds from the Bay of Bengal (noted in yesterday's report) have during the day given fair rain to Assam and Northern Bengal, heaviest, as on previous occasions, at Goalpara: 2·99 inches were registered at that station to-day, 1·02 inches at Sibsagar, and ·95 inch at Silchar.

Heavy local rain occurred at a few stations in Central, Upper, and Western India: Lucknow received 2 inches, Hazaribagh 1·24 inches, Jubbulpore 1·09 inches, Neemuch 1·3 inches, and Bombay 1·04 inches.

The excessive amount of 7·82 inches fell at Sholapore during the past 24 hours; Hyderabad (Deccan) received 1·99 inches.

Thursday, 12th September.—A further considerable diminution of pressure has occurred over the whole of India; the increase exceeds ·05" at all stations, excepting those in Assam, Northern Bengal, and Behar, and at Allahabad, Benares, Akola, and Madras. It exceeds ·1" in Sind, Guzerat, Western Rajputana, and the north of the Punjab. It is a maximum at Kurrachee, where it amounts to ·151".

In consequence of this general fall of pressure (greatest in Northern India), the barometric range over India has now increased to ·52".

The following table gives the differences between the pressure to-day and the mean pressure for September:—

Akyab	·12" in defect.	Kurrachee	·19" in defect.
Sibsagar	·08" "	Ajmere	·12" "
Calcutta	·13" "	Deesa	·10" "
Patna	·13" "	Bombay	·06" "
Agra	·15" "	Nagpore	·04" "
Delhi	·21" "	Vizagapatam	·18" "
Lahore	·23" "	Bellary	·03" "
Mooltan	·26" "	Madras	·08" "
Dera Ismail Khan	·27" "	Bangalore	·03" "
		Colombo	·02" in defect.

It indicates that the pressure is below the mean for the whole of India, that the defect in the Deccan and Southern India is generally small, and that in Northern India it ranges from ·12" at Akyab to ·27" at Dera Ismail Khan.

High temperatures continue to be registered in the Punjab. Lahore and Jacobabad are the centres of maximum temperature. The temperature at the former station was 94·1° at 10 A.M. to-day.

The unusually low barometer in Northern India has given rise, during the past 24 hours, to stronger winds, more especially along the West Coast of India, at the head of the Bay of Bengal, and in Assam. The average wind velocity at Kurrachee has been 28 miles per hour during the past day.

Easterly winds have set in over Assam, and in Northern Bengal and Behar. Calms are reported at Allahabad and Lucknow: to the west of these stations, north-westerly winds continue along the foot of the Himalayas, and south-westerly winds at Agra, Delhi, and Ajmere. The Cochin observer reports a gale of wind to-day.

The increased indraught from the Bay of Bengal which has accompanied the very low barometer in Northern India has given heavy and general rainfall to Burmah, Arracan, Assam, and Northern Bengal. The more important amounts received in this area are:

Rangoon 1·39 inches, Akyah 1·16 inches, Dacca 2·55 inches, Goalpara 1·42 inches, Purneah 3·41 inches, and Rungpore 5·53 inches.

Showers have fallen in the Central Provinces, and at the stations along the Coromandel and Ganjam Coast.

Heavy local rain occurred at Hyderabad (Deccan): 2·21 inches were recorded there to-day; ·9 inch fell at Fyzabad, and ·72 inch at Benares.

General Summary.—The meteorology of the past week is interesting as it confirms the principles derived partly from theory and partly from an examination of the rainfall of Northern India in relation to the barometric changes. From the 6th (Friday) to the 9th (Monday) the differences of pressure between Upper India and Ceylon, that is, the barometric range over India, were below the average.

When the barometric range or the baric gradient is small, there is a marked tendency to the occurrence of heavy rain at sea in the neighbourhood of the coast, and if the conditions are favourable, to the formation of a cyclonic vortex. Several examples of this occurred near the head of the Bay of Bengal during the early part of the present monsoon, when the current from that arm of the Indian Ocean was unusually weak. The early part of the present week witnessed the formation of one off the coast of Bombay and Guzerat. The first indications of its existence were given by the observations at the coast stations on the 7th. There was a very strong indraught to it on the 7th and 8th along the West Coast, the Bombay and Cochin observers reporting a gale of wind. It appears to have advanced northward, and broke up apparently before the centre reaching the coast. *

From the 9th to the 12th the barometer has fallen steadily over the whole of India, except in the extreme south. The decrease of pressure has been most rapid in Upper India. Consequently the barometric range over India (or the differences of pressure between Ceylon and Upper India, which is taken as the nearest approximation to the differences of pressure between Northern India and the adjacent seas, and therefore indicates roughly the motive power producing indraught), became extremely large. It increased from ·27" on the 9th to ·52" (on the 12th).

During the early part of the week when the barometric range varied slightly from its average amount, there was moderate rain over the greater part of the Northern India (excluding the Punjab); on the 6th this rainfall concentrated and gave excessive amounts to the western districts of the North-Western Provinces, more especially the Allyghur district. The rainfall of the 7th and 8th (registered on the mornings of the 8th and 9th) was small in amount. There was a break in the rains over the whole of India, except the North-West Coast, where fair rain accompanied the existence of the barometer depression off the coast. On the 9th and 10th south-west winds set in from the Bay of Bengal towards Assam, which received fair rainfall on these days. On the 11th, with the continued fall of the barometer in Northern India, the current from the Bay of Bengal increased in strength, and gave heavy rainfall to Burma, Arracan, Bengal, and Assam. The reports received to-day (September 13th) indicate general rainfall during the past 24 hours over the same area, and the extension of rain westwards.

The following gives the rainfall in Northern India during the past week at the meteorological telegraphic reporting stations:—

		Rainfall of week in inches.				Rainfall of week in inches.
Rangoon	3·22	Fyzabad	...	2·40
Akyah	3·96	Lucknow	...	3·23
Chittagong	1·01	Cawnpore	...	·80
Dacca	3·26	Agra	...	3·27
Silchar	9·13	Jhansi	...	2·60
Sibsagar	4·59	Shajehanpore	...	5·00
Goalpara	6·81	Bareilly	...	1·57
Rungpore	8·55	Roorkee	...	1·57
Purneah	7·47	Meerut	...	1·10
Calcutta	0·79	Ahgarh	...	9·90

Mozufferpore	1·01	Peshawar	...	0
Patna	0·81	Mooltan	...	0
Benares	0·88	Dera Ismail Khan	...	·03
Allahabad	0·30

It indicates that heavy rain has fallen in Assam, Eastern and Northern Bengal Oudh, and the Aligarh, Agra and Rohilkund Divisions in the North-Western Provinces; fair rain in Burma and Arracan, and moderate rain in South-West Bengal, Orissa, Behar, and the Eastern Divisions of the North-Western Provinces. The rainfall of the Punjab was very light.

The following gives the rainfall at all stations in Bombay, Central India, and the Central Provinces :—

	Inches.		Inches.
Kurrachee	·65	Belgaum	·76
Deesa	1·63	Jubbulpore	1·27
Rajkot	1·84	Khandwa	1·61
Surat	4·65	Nagpore	3·40
Bombay	4·16	Neemuch	2·68
Akola	·30	Indore	1·80

The rainfall at the coast stations accompanied the barometric depression already noted. The Bombay coast current consequently continues weak.

The following gives the rainfall for the week at the reporting stations in Madras :—

	Inches.		Inches.
Chatterport	·95	Hyderabad	4·24

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 10TH SEPTEMBER 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras the general prospects are good, as before, especially in Trichinopoly, Tinnevely and Chingleput. Rain has been fairly abundant in most districts; in Malabar it was excessive with reference to the requirements of the crops. There were 98,040 persons on relief works and 58,998 gratuitously fed; the decrease, as compared with the previous week, being 3,966 and 3,404, respectively. Heavy rains continue in Mysore, where crops and prospects are excellent. The statistics of relief for the week ending 31st August are,—on civil relief works 2,828, on departmental works 26,020; gratuitously relieved,—in hospitals 2,287, in villages 11,529. There has thus been a decrease of the numbers on works, but a slight increase amongst the recipients of free relief. In the Bombay Presidency, the floods are diminishing in Sind; there has been light rain in Guzerat, the Deccan, and the Southern Mahratta Country; and in these localities, as well as in the Coast districts, crops are good. Cholera continues in a few places. In the Central Provinces the break in the rains, previously noted, has done much good; there has been a fall now of from 1 to 3·50 inches in almost all districts, and prospects are everywhere favourable except in parts of Sanibalpur and Bilaspur, where more rain is required. The break in Berar continued to the end of the week. In Central India, the improvement in Gwalior still lasts, and prospects are now much better in Bundelkhand, where more rain was wanted. There is no alteration in Rajputana, light rains occurring before. Good general rain has fallen in Bengal, except in parts of Pooree; the early crops now being harvested are yielding well. Incessant rain is reported from Sylhet, where floods are on the rise. In several districts of Burma more rain is much needed. Seasonable rain is falling in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and general prospects continue satisfactory. The reports of harvest prospects are also good throughout the Punjab.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR
GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING
LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Thursday, the 5th September, 1878.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, G.M.S.I., presiding.
His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, C.S.I.
His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, G.C.B.
The Hon'ble Sir A. J. Arbuthnot, K.C.S.I.

The Hon'ble A. R. Thompson, C.S.I.
Lieutenant-General the Hon'ble R. Strachey, B.E., C.S.I., F.R.S.
Lieutenant-General the Hon'ble Sir S. J. Browne, K.C.S.I., C.B., V.C.
The Hon'ble B. W. Colvin.
The Hon'ble T. H. Thornton, D.C.L., C.S.I.
The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.
The Hon'ble G. H. M. Batten.

ACT IX OF 1878 AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER ARBUTHNOT moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages), and which was commonly known as the "Vernacular Press Act." The Bill which he desired to introduce, had been framed in consequence of instructions received from the Secretary of State in a despatch in which he conveyed the assent of Her Majesty's Government to the Act which was passed in March last, but requested the Government of India to refrain from putting into operation that portion of the Act which enabled the publishers of vernacular newspapers to withdraw themselves from its restrictive provisions by submitting their proofs to a Government officer; and desired that, if necessary, the Government of India should, by fresh legislation, either suspend or abandon that portions of the Act. With His Excellency's permission he would read to the Council the paragraph of the Secretary of State's despatch which contained the instructions in question. It was as follows:—

"9. I entertain very grave doubts of the expediency of putting into action the portion of the Act which enables, and indeed encourages, the publishers of vernacular newspapers to withdraw themselves from its restrictive provisions by submitting their proofs to a Government officer. In India the difficulty of executing it would be unusually great. The vernacular newspapers are printed in a great variety of languages; no one officer could probably superintend them with effect. Every person charged with the duty of supervision must be acquainted with the niceties of Native dialect, and most of these persons would probably have to be natives of the country. Such a system might give rise to great abuses. It is defended, I observe, in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, on the ground of the hardship which the requirement of a bond and of the deposit of security might inflict on some of the owners of vernacular journals; but it seems to me that these provisions of the Act might be accommodated to the circumstances of each newspaper. The difficulties of establishing Government newspapers in the vernacular tongues were much dwelt upon in the debate in your Council, and I fully appreciate them; but I cannot but see that any censor of proofs will in fact write the newspaper which he revises. Her Majesty's Government request that you will refrain from putting this part of the Act into operation, taking power, by fresh legislation, to suspend or abandon it if you deem this necessary."

The Government of India had given very careful consideration to the instructions contained in the paragraph which he had just read, and had come to the conclusion that if that portion of the Act to which the Secretary of State had taken exception was not to be brought into operation, it was on every account expedient, and in fact necessary, that it should be repealed; otherwise very serious embarrassments might occur in the event of circumstances arising under which a proprietor of a newspaper might elect to avail himself of the provisions in question.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER ARBUTHNOT then introduced the Bill, and moved that it be taken into consideration on the 26th September, 1878. He said that on that occasion he should take the liberty to offer to the Council some remarks on the working of the Act and on the discussions which had taken place both in this country and in England with reference to it.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

HUSAINÁBÁD ENDOWMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to make better provision for the management of the Husainábád Endowment at Lucknow, and moved that it be taken into consideration. He said that as this Bill was about a year old, it might be convenient to recall to the recollection of the Council some of the leading facts connected with it. Its object was to provide for the due administration of what was called the Husainábád Endowment, the property of which, speaking roughly, now amounted to two and a half crores of rupees. The endowment was created about forty years ago by the third King of Oudh, Muhammad Ali Shah. Its trusts were three—firstly, to provide for the payment of certain pensions; secondly, to defray the expenses of a mosque called Husainábád Mubárak; and thirdly, to repair a certain road. It was to be managed by two Superintendents and an Agent and their descendants for the time being. In 1857 the mutiny broke out; the then Agent joined the mutineers and was killed at Lucknow, and the property disappeared, some of it having been improperly disposed of by the Superintendents. The property, or most of it, was, however, after some time recovered, and new Superintendents and a new Agent were appointed by the pensioners.

Since then one of these new Superintendents had died, and on looking at the trust-deed (which was not, he need hardly say, framed by a professional conveyancer) it appeared that the appointment of these new trustees after the mutiny was altogether unauthorized, and that there was now no power to appoint a new trustee in place of the one who had died. Hence the necessity for the present Bill.

The Committee, which consisted, besides Mr. Basset Colvin and himself, of their hon'ble colleague Nawáb Sir Faiz Ali Khán, had fixed the number of the trustees at three, as it had been urged by the pensioners that it would be more convenient and more in accordance with the views of the founder to keep it as small as possible. It was right to say that the Local Government would have had only two trustees, with the Commissioner of Lucknow as referee in case of disagreement. But it had long been held inexpedient to connect the Executive with the management of Native religious institutions, and this opinion had received a legislative expression in Act XX of 1863.

Where a vacancy occurred in the office of trustee after the first appointment, the Committee had declared that such vacancy should be filled, not, as provided in the original Bill, by a person to be appointed by the Government at its pleasure, but by a person to be selected by the Government from a number nominated by the pensioners and the descendants of Muhammad Ali Shah. They had further provided that the number of persons to be nominated, whether under section 1 or section 2, should not be less than double the number of vacancies, and that in the event of the pensioners and descendants of Muhammad Ali Shah neglecting for one month to nominate (an event which he need hardly say was very unlikely to occur), the Government might appoint any person it pleased.

They had omitted the provisions made in sections 5 to 7 of the original Bill for regulating the proceedings of the trustees (with the exception of that making the majority of votes decisive), as the Local Government had represented to them that "such precise rules are unsuited to Native gentlemen who have not business habits."

Sections 12 and 13 of the original Bill were intended chiefly to provide for the institution of proceedings for the settlement of a scheme for the endowment and for the recovery of trust funds. It now appeared that there was no necessity at present to attempt any remodelling of the scheme as settled by the founder; and as it was urged that the idea of making any provision on this point was distasteful to those concerned, those sections had been struck out altogether. The other matter, as to the recovery of property belonging to the endowment, would be sufficiently met by the general law of the country.

The Council would see that the effect of the principal changes the Committee had made would be to simplify the management of the endowment, and to put it on a footing more in accordance with the views of the founder and with the wishes of those interested than it would have been under the Bill as originally introduced.

In conclusion, he thought it right to mention the objections taken to the Bill by two Native gentlemen, 'Ashiq Husain and Pandit Sri Krishna.

'Ashiq Husain said:—

"I and the Shias residing at Bareilly read the whole Bill relating to the Imámbara Husainábád, Lucknow. It interferes in some points with our religious doctrines. For there is nothing left, not even a single point, by the leaders of any faith with respect to the doctrines of wills and endowments, for which provision is made to a large extent in the Muhammadan law."

MR. STOKES had read the last sentence at least six times without getting even a glimmer of the meaning, and the old saying had occurred to him,—Si non vis intelligi debes negligi. Perhaps 'Ashiq Husain would reply with the dilemma made by Thomas Anglus when accused of obscurity: "Either the Council understand me, or they do not. If they understand me and find me in error, it is easy for them to refute me; if they do not understand me, it is unreasonable for them to exclaim against my dogmas." As to the allegation that the Bill interfered in some points (none of which were, or could be, specified) with religious doctrine, he would not waste the time of the Council by disproving it: he need only point out to the Muhammadan public generally that the report of the Committee had been signed by an orthodox Muhammadan nobleman,—Nawáb Sir Faiz Ali Khán—who had taken an intelligent and active part in settling the Bill.

Pandit Sri Krishna was a lawyer and, naturally, took quite a different objection. He said:—

“ If then, the founder of the endowment did not require the interference of the Sovereign of Oudh in any way whatever in clear and unambiguous words, it is respectfully submitted that the British Government, as the present Sovereign of Oudh succeeding the last deposed Sovereign, is legally prevented from interfering with this endowment and legislating for it contrary to the will of the founder.”

MR. STOKES wished to speak with all respect of Pandit Sri Krishna, to whom the Council were indebted for a careful and learned opinion on the Transfer of Property Bill; but he thought that the Pandit, when he made that objection, had overlooked the twenty-second section of the Indian Councils Act, which gave express power to the Governor General in Council to make laws and regulations “ for all persons, whether British or Native,..... and for all places and things whatever ” within British India. No doubt, the intention of the author of a charitable or religious trust should, so far as was proper and practicable, be strictly observed. But he could not decide irrevocably as to what would be best for the trust at all future periods; and where the literal performance of his intention would be inexpedient or impossible, in every civilized country the legislature, and in many places the Courts, had the right to modify his specific design.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES then moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

STAMP BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. COCKERELL in presenting the preliminary Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps and Court-fees desired, with the permission of the President, to make a few remarks in regard to the presentation of the Report, and also to some of the chief points of distinction between the provisions of the amended Bill and that previously introduced. He said that the object of presenting this Report at the present time and place was to secure an early publication of the amended Bill, and thus afford sufficient time and opportunity for the proposed amendments of the existing law to become generally known, and for the submission of opinions in regard to any of these proposals which might be thought, on examination by experts, to be not likely to work satisfactorily, or which might on other grounds be objected to by persons who considered their interests or the interests of the public prejudicially affected by them; for, as the amendment of the Stamp law had now been under discussion or consideration for nearly three years, he (MR. COCKERELL) thought it very desirable that the Council should be in a position to deal finally with the recommendations of the Committee soon after the Council met in Calcutta, so that the new law might come into force on the date mentioned in the amended Bill—the 1st January, 1879.

In regard to the amended Bill, the first point to which he would draw attention was the elimination of all provisions relating to the subject of Court-fees, and the restriction of the present measure to stamp-duties only.

There was much doubtless to be said on both sides of the question, as to whether the convenience of the public was better secured by the consolidation of the law relating to Court-fees and general stamp-duties, or by the maintenance of the present system under which these subjects were regulated by separate enactments; and, although a majority of the Select Committee had advocated the course now proposed on the score of general convenience, it might well be doubted whether, on the question being raised as a distinct issue, the weight of opinion on the part of those who, from their practical experience, were most competent to form a correct judgment in this matter, would be on the side of dealing with these subjects by separate legislation.

One Hon'ble Member of the Committee, now absent (Mr. Hope), had been strongly opposed to the omission of the provisions relating to Court-fees, on the ground that the convenience of the public and those engaged in the administration of the law would be gravely prejudiced by any departure from the original scheme of consolidation.

But there was an additional consideration, and this in his (MR. COCKERELL'S) opinion presented the most cogent argument in support of the continued separation of the legislation relating to general stamp-duties and that regulating Court-fees. In the former Bill provision had been made for three material changes, besides others of minor importance, in the law relating to Court-fees.

1st. The assimilation of the institution-fee leviable in respect of suits instituted in the Small Cause Courts of the Presidency-towns and the mufassal by the reduction of the former and increase of the latter from 12½ and 7½ per centum, respectively, to a uniform rate of 10 per centum.

2nd. The substitution of a uniform fixed fee for the service of each kind of Court process for the fluctuating rates prescribed by the rules in force under the existing law.

3rd. The addition of one-half per centum to the fees heretofore chargeable on probates and letters and certificates of administration.

The communications received from the Local Governments and authorities consulted negatived the expediency of the first, assented in general terms to the second, and represented that the time had not yet come for the adoption, with any material advantage to the revenue, of the last of the above proposals. The qualified approval of the projected uniform fixed rate of fee chargeable on the service of processes would almost certainly have been withdrawn, now that most of the Local Governments had to meet their expenditure from provincial revenue in respect of stamp-duties and Court-fees. Under the central system of finance a universal rate for each description of process-fee was practicable, as any deficiency in the receipts as compared with the charges in one province was likely to be balanced by a corresponding surplus in another; but a rate which would have been sufficient to guard against an excess of expenditure over income in respect of the service of Court-processes in every province of the Empire would have been too high for general adoption. The former Bill, though dealing in a general way with Court-fees, made no alteration in the ad valorem fees levied on the institution of suits in the ordinary Civil Courts. No revision of these fees had been specifically recommended by the authorities; but it was well known that in some quarters the existing rates of institution-fees were regarded as unnecessarily high. Comparisons between the receipts from Court-fees in, and the charges incurred in the maintenance of, the subordinate Civil Courts throughout the country had been freely made with the object of showing that, as a net result of the present system, the administration of justice had practically become a source of revenue. In this state of feeling on the subject, it would have been impolitic to affirm the propriety of the continued maintenance of these rates by their re-enactment in a law which might be expected to remain in force for a considerable period.

For all these reasons he thought the conclusion inevitable, that the law relating to Court-fees could not yet advantageously be dealt with in a comprehensive manner, and he was chiefly on this account satisfied that the Committee had done wisely in recommending that the present legislation should be confined to the subject of stamp-duties.

Turning now to the details of the amended Bill and taking them in the order in which they appeared there, he would draw attention to the circumstance that the apparent considerable reduction in the number of the interpretation-clauses was in great measure due to the transfer to the schedule of the definition of all instruments mentioned or referred to in the schedule only: by this arrangement not only had much repetition been avoided, but persons who had to consult the law as to the proper duty payable in respect of any instrument would have to look to one place instead of two for the required information.

The term "Bond" had been made to include instruments having the conditions of the Native "khátá" or "tamassuk" as now framed. Those instruments differed from the ordinary promissory note in this respect, that they were invariably, according to the existing practice, attested by witnesses. Such attestation obviously gave them an increased value as evidence. No increase of taxation was involved in this extension of the application of the term; for as a matter of fact, the "khátá" or "tamassuk" had always been considered to require a bond stamp.

The word "receipt" had been so defined as to make all receipts for the payment of money in excess of twenty rupees primarily liable to stamp-duty, but an exemption had been provided in favour of all such payments when made gratuitously. The existing law and the Bill as introduced made receipts for money when paid in satisfaction of a debt or demand alone liable; but there could be no reasonable ground for excluding from the stamp liability receipts for money payments when made for due consideration.

The term "settlement" had in the former Bill been described as including "assurances for religious and charitable purposes," but in its technical sense it applied only to dispositions of property made in contemplation of marriage. Such dispositions did not operate as absolute transfers, but were designed to take effect on some more or less remote contingency, and in this respect they might be said to resemble simple mortgages, and were reasonably charged with stamp-duty at the same rate as the latter instruments. Assurances for religious purposes on the other hand operated as conveyances, taking immediate effect, and they were properly classed with deeds of gift. It was a mistake to have included these instruments in the category of settlements when a special and different rate of duty had been imposed on instruments of gift.

He would not have thought this change of sufficient importance to call for special comment had not one of their hon'ble colleagues, a member of the Select Committee, recorded his dissent to the manner in which this item had been treated. His hon'ble friend had not based his objection to the provisions of the Bill in regard to this subject as creating an innovation on the existing law and practice, and this was a point deserving notice; for he (MR. COCKERELL) believed—although a place in the settlement-class of documents was now claimed for these assurances—that at the present time when "deeds of settlement" were subject to duty and "instruments of gift" were not so liable, instruments creating an endowment for religious or charitable purposes were invariably held to be, and treated as, "deeds of gift!"

In the former Bill no provision had been made for enforcing the conditions and directions contained in sections twelve, thirteen, fourteen and fifteen of the amended Bill in regard to the mode of stamping instruments. This omission was supplied by the definition of the condition "duly stamped," the non-fulfilment of such condition bringing an instrument within the penal provisions of chapter IV. Inasmuch, however, as a non-compliance with those directions was perfectly compatible with an honest intention, and even absence of carelessness or indifference to the requirements of the law, on the part of the holder of any instrument, a power had been given to the Collector to remit at his discretion the whole of the penalty incurred where the improper stamping consisted solely of neglect or failure to comply with the conditions of those sections.

The principal amendments contained in the fourth chapter of the Bill were designed to check evasions of the payment of stamp-duties without frequent resort to criminal prosecutions.

The main defect of the deterrent provisions contained in the corresponding part of the former Bill was the too great dependence on a resort to criminal prosecutions which they entailed. There were, it might well be conceived, a very large number of cases in which the neglect to use the proper stamp involved no great criminality, and in regard to which Collectors would be found unwilling to send the offenders before a Magistrate. The revised Bill contained provisions in sections thirty-five and thirty-eight by which Civil Courts were required to realize a much larger fine than that fixed by the former ere unstamped or improperly stamped documents could be admitted in evidence, and Collectors were empowered to levy within certain fixed maximum and minimum limits a similar penalty in respect of instruments sent to or otherwise coming before them, and not being "duly stamped."

The power of instituting criminal prosecutions had been retained, but was absolutely restricted to the two classes of cases specified in section forty-one—(1), where the person responsible for the duty and penalty leviable under section thirty-five refused or neglected to pay the same; and (2), where it appeared to the Collector that the omission to use a proper stamp was due to an intention to evade the payment of the duty chargeable, and thus to defraud the Government.

There was another new provision in this chapter of considerable importance. It was proposed to enact as a third proviso to section thirty-five that the validity of any instrument which had been once admitted in evidence should not be called into question simply on the ground that it was not properly stamped. The question as to whether the improper reception in evidence of an unstamped or insufficiently stamped document constituted a legal ground of appeal against the decision in the case in connection with which such document had been admitted had frequently been raised; and although he believed that the rulings of the superior Courts had generally been against the validity of such ground of appeal, the point was not free from doubt, and it was desirable to have the question conclusively determined in the new law relating to stamp-duties. It would be clearly inexpedient to allow decisions in suits to be disturbed solely on a question affecting the interests of the stamp-revenue; those interests would, he thought, be sufficiently guarded by the provisions of section fifty-one, which empowered an Appellate Court to take cognizance of and impound any instrument not duly stamped coming before it, although the instrument had been admitted in evidence by the lower Court. The superior Court was also empowered to record a declaration as to the extent of the deficiency of stamp-duty, and the penalty which the previous holder of the impounded instrument was liable to pay, and then the Collector would have the same powers for recovering the amount due as he would have had if the instrument had been produced before him originally. It must not be supposed that this provision had been introduced for the purpose of giving a right of appeal, as it were, to the Government in cases where the lower Court, on a full consideration of the question of the proper stamp to be used in respect of any instrument, had made a wrong decision, whilst no such power of appeal was given, in the converse case, to the holder of any instrument. It was not intended to meet such cases, which were comparatively rare, but applied rather to the cases of the frequent occurrence of which he (MR. COCKERELL) had cited a good deal of evidence from the reports of judicial officers when he introduced the former Bill,—cases in which the admissions of instruments not duly stamped were allowed by the Judges of the Courts of first instance entirely through negligence or inadvertence.

The schedules of ad valorem and fixed rates of stamp-duty had been amalgamated, and the alphabetical order of arrangement of instruments had been substituted for the classification according to rates; the latter arrangement obviously did not meet the need of a person about to execute an instrument who had no knowledge even as to the kind of duty to which his instrument was liable.

Of course the value of an alphabetical arrangement was lost in any translation of the Act into another language; but as a very large and increasing proportion of the people who were likely to be concerned in the execution of instruments studied the law in the language in which it was enacted, the arrangement of the schedule as now proposed would, he felt confident, be found more useful and intelligible than that which it superseded.

The proposed changes in the amount of stamp-duty to be imposed on instruments would be found to be almost entirely on the side of reduction, and consequently in favour of the tax-payer. Perhaps the most important of these reductions was that made in the case of bonds and instruments similarly chargeable. The effect of it was to restore, or rather maintain, the two annas rate prescribed by the existing law in respect of bonds for an amount not exceeding ten rupees. The originally proposed four annas rate would be applied to bonds for an amount exceeding ten rupees. It had been thought that the class of persons who chiefly execute these bonds of very small amount possess very limited means, and that to them the extra two annas tax on every such instrument would be a real hardship. The reasons for the proposed reduction in the case of Policies of Insurance had been stated in the Report.

The proposed new rate in the case of instruments guaranteeing the repayment of loans for short periods, obtained on the hypothecation of movable property, gave also a substantial measure of relief, inasmuch as it would cover documents relating to cash advances for a season made on the hypothecation of growing crops, such instruments being at present liable to the duty chargeable on deeds of mortgage.

The Government had thought fit, in consequence of the introduction of the license-tax, which fell exclusively on the trading interest, to give up the proposed extension of the receipt-duty to all money payments exceeding ten rupees; and the abandonment of the proposed increase of duty on Bills of Exchange might be said to have been indirectly due to the same cause.

When he (MR. COCKERELL) introduced the Stamp Bill nearly a year ago, he gave an estimate of the additional revenue to be expected if the Bill became law in the shape in which it then stood; that estimate would, in consequence of the reductions above referred to, have to be largely cut down. The abandonment, for the present, of fresh legislation in regard to Court-fees and the surrender of the proposed increase on Bills of Exchange and extension of the receipt-duty would cause a loss of about ten lakhs, whilst a further deduction from the former estimate of about five lakhs must be made in respect of the alterations in the duties chargeable on bonds and other instruments, so that the net result of the proposed amendments in the duties fixed by the former Bill would be to give an additional revenue of about twelve or thirteen lakhs only, instead of the twenty-seven or twenty-eight lakhs originally anticipated.

ALLUVION BILL.

The Hon'ble MR STOKES moved for leave to introduce a Bill to define and amend the law relating to alluvion, islands and abandoned river-beds. He said that this measure, like the Transfer of Property Bill and the Negotiable Instruments Bill, was intended to form a chapter of the Indian Civil Code, and its object was to state, in a concise, accurate and accessible form, the law relating to the ownership of alluvial lands, of the islands (commonly called chars) formed in rivers or in the sea, and of abandoned river-beds. In Madras, Bombay and Burma there was no statutory law on the subject: in Sindh there were only some executive rules framed in 1852 by Sir Bartle Frere which were held to have the force of law: in the rest of British India the law was contained partly in legal text-books, partly in the Bengal Regulation XI of 1825 and the Bengal Act IV of 1868, sections 2 and 4, but chiefly in the numerous decisions of the High Courts and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council with which the former enactment was encrusted.

Bengal Regulation XI of 1825 provided rules for land gained from a river or the sea by gradual accession; for avulsion; for islands formed in navigable rivers and the sea; for islands formed in "small and shallow rivers, the beds of which with the julkur [or] right of fishery might have been heretofore (i.e., before 26th May, 1825) recognised as the property of individuals." But it did not provide for the case when an alluvial deposit took place on a site of which, though it had been submerged, the ownership was ascertained. It declared that an island formed in a navigable river belonged to the adjoining proprietor or to the Crown, according as the channel between it and the adjacent land was fordable or unfordable. But it did not define "fordable," nor state the time with reference to which the question of fordability or non-fordability was to be decided, nor show when an island could be said to be formed. It declared that an island formed in a navigable river should, where the channel was fordable, be an accession to the land " of the person or persons whose estate or estates might be most contiguous to it." But this did not, apparently, provide for cases where the island was partly on one side and partly on the other of the thread of the stream, nor for cases where there were several riparian owners, and the island could not be said to be nearer to the property of one than to that of another.

The Regulation was also deficient in not embodying the doctrine of what Roman lawyers called agri limitati, according to which, when land belonging to the State was granted in plots with a fixed area, and the plots were enlarged by alluvion, the increase did not become the property of the grantees. Such a provision was especially required in the Presidency of Bombay.

The Bill attempted to supply these defects.

As regards the rights of riparian owners to islands, the Bill applied the same rules to an island formed in the sea or a navigable river when the channel between it and the adjacent land was fordable, and to an island formed in a river which was not navigable.

Lastly, the Bill declared that when any river formed a new course, abandoning its ancient bed, the owners of the ancient banks were entitled to the ancient bed in proportion to their respective frontages. It was believed that this was in accordance with the existing law as declared by the High Court at Fort William, and it seemed less likely to encourage litigation than to provide (as was done by some systems) that the owners of the land newly occupied should take the ancient bed, each in proportion to the land of which he had been deprived.

The Bill advisedly left untouched the law relating to the assessment of alluvial lands and lands diminished by diluvion; to the rent payable in respect of such lands, and to the rights of tenants and mortgagees to alluvial lands. Such matters were obviously more fully provided for in special enactments dealing with revenue, rent mortgages and leases.

In conclusion, he had only to state that a rough draft of the Bill had been in circulation to the Local Governments and Administrations for the last six months, and a valuable body of commentary had been the result. To the Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal and the Panjáb and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, Mr. STOKES, as draftsman of the Bill, felt personally indebted for the careful criticisms with which they had favoured him; and if he obtained leave to introduce the Bill, they would see that he had given due attention to those criticisms.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Thursday, the 26th September, 1878.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, will appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series. The Parts of each Series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set:

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

PART IV.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

(Third publication.)

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 5th September 1878, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. XV OF 1878.

An Act to make better provision for the management of the Husainábád endowment at Lucknow.

Whereas in the year 1838 the third King of Oudh, Muhammad Ali Shah, built at Lucknow a Mosque called Husainábád Mubárak for the purpose of the celebration therein of certain religious ceremonies and for the ultimate interment of himself and his mother;

And whereas, on or about the twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah deposited the sum of twelve lakhs of Lucknow sicca rupees in the treasury of the late East India Company at the Residency at Lucknow:

And whereas by a deed of gift dated the 15th of the month of Ramzáan in the year 1255 of the Hijra, corresponding with the said twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah declared that the annual interest on the said sum of twelve lakhs of rupees at the rate of four per centum per annum, together with the rent of certain shops therein referred to and the income of certain religious offerings, should be applied to the payment of the pensions of certain persons therein mentioned and their descendants (hereinafter called "the pensioners") and to defray-

ing the expenses of the said Mosque and the repairs of a road therein mentioned; and by the same deed the said Muhammad Ali Shah appointed two of his servants named Rafik-ud-Daulah Sayyid Inám Ali Khán Bahádur and Azimulláh Khán Bahádur, and after them their descendants, generation after generation, to be Superintendents (mutawallis) of the said Mosque, and Sharf-ud-Daulah Muzaffar-ul-Mulk Muhammad Ibrahim Khán Bahádur Mustakim Jang, and his descendants after him, to be Agent of the pensioners only, and the expenses of the said Mosque were to be paid in perpetuity from the said treasury to the said two Superintendents and their descendants after them, and the said pensions were to be paid through the said Agent; and the said deed further provided that, in the event of failure of heirs of the said Superintendents or Agent, the British Resident for the time being at Lucknow should, with the concurrence of three-fourths of the pensioners, appoint one of their number to the vacant post. And the deed now in recital also contained the following provisions:—

"As the pensioners enumerated in this deed are objects of our peculiar consideration and favour, it is necessary that the Resident for the time being, owing to the union and friendship subsisting between the two Governments, treat them with kindness, and, considering them deserving of the support of the British Government, always afford them his aid and assistance.

"The undermentioned items of income are hereby remitted and shall be devoted to the expenses of the Husainábád Mubárak and its dependencies, and all the property in it is given by us as a gift. It shall not be optional with the sovereigns of Oudh, at any time, on any account whatsoever, to interfere in any way with it, and let the Resident for the time being, at the request of the mut'walis or Superintendents in this particular matter, give his countenance and support that this good work may continue in existence for ever;"

And whereas the items of income so referred to were the rents of certain shops attached to the said Mosque and the income from religious offerings thereto;

And whereas, on the fifth day of December 1839, Colonel Caulfield, the British Resident at Lucknow, addressed a letter to the said Muhammad Ali Shah in which he acknowledged the receipt of the said deed of gift, and stated that His Majesty might rest satisfied that every attention would be paid by the Resident to the wishes therein expressed, that his relatives would ever meet with the utmost attention, and that their interests would always be attended to by the Resident so far as his official duty permitted;

And whereas, some time after the said twenty-third day of November 1839, the said Muhammad Ali Shah added to the endowment so created Government promissory notes amounting to the sum of two millions four hundred and seventeen thousand five hundred sicca rupees, but he did not expressly declare any trusts of such further endowment;

And whereas the said notes are believed to have been in September 1841 converted into Government promissory notes for Company's rupees and to have been then endorsed in favour of the said Superintendents and the Agent;

And whereas, at some time between the same date and the month of February 1856, certain surplus funds of the said endowment were invested in Government promissory notes, some in the names of the said Superintendents and Agent, and some in the names of the said Superintendents only;

And whereas, after the mutiny of 1857 and the re-occupation of Lucknow, the said Mosque was found to have been stripped of all its valuable property; and the promissory notes of which the said endowment then consisted were missing, and it appeared on enquiry that the said Agent had joined the mutineers and been killed during an attack on the said city, and that the said Superintendents had sold certain of the same promissory notes;

And whereas the Government of India thereupon removed the existing Superintendents from their office, and called upon the existing pensioners to appoint under the hereinbefore-recited provisions of the fourth article of the said deed of gift two other Superintendents and an Agent;

And whereas the Nawábs Muhsin-ud-Daulah and Mumtáz-ud-Daulah were accordingly appointed Superintendents, and Shahámatulláh Khán was appointed Agent, and such appointments were confirmed by the then Chief Commissioner of Oudh in the year 1860;

And whereas in the meanwhile most of the promissory notes so missing as aforesaid were recovered, and of some of the others duplicates were granted by Government;

And whereas the Superintendents and Agent appointed as last aforesaid subsequently obtained from the Civil Court at Lucknow a declaration of their title to the arrears of interest which had accrued due on the promissory notes then constituting the said endowment;

And whereas, in the month of June 1864, the said promissory notes and arrears were assigned to the said Superintendents and Agent free from all restrictions;

And whereas the said Nawáb Muhsin-ud-Daulah has recently died, but the said deed of gift confers no power to appoint any other person to be a Superintendent in his stead;

And whereas it is doubtful whether the aforesaid appointment of Superintendents and Agent was a regular and valid appointment, and whether there exists any person who can exercise the power of appointment conferred on the Resident by the said deed of gift;

And whereas, owing to the changes which have happened since the death of the said Muhammad Ali Shah, it is expedient to provide for the management of the said endowment in manner hereinafter appearing;

And whereas it is also expedient to indemnify all persons for anything done before the passing of this Act which might lawfully have been done if the said appointments of the said Nawábs and Shahámatulláh Khán had been valid;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The Local Government may call upon the pensioners and such of the descendants of the said Muhammad Ali Shah as may for the time being reside at Lucknow to nominate so many persons, not less than six in number, as they or a majority of them think fit to be trustees of the said endowment; and may appoint three of the persons so nominated to be such trustees:

Provided that the said Nawáb Mumtáz-ud-Daulah shall be one of the persons nominated and appointed as aforesaid.

2. If any of the said trustees dies, or is desirous of being discharged, or refuses or becomes incapable to act, or is declared an insolvent, or is guilty of any misconduct which in the opinion of the Local Government disqualifies him to be a trustee, then and so often the Local Government may call upon the pensioners and such descendants to nominate so many persons, not less than two in number, as they or a majority of them think fit to be trustees of the said endowment, and may appoint one of the persons so nominated to be a trustee in the stead of the trustee so dying or desiring to be discharged, or refusing or becoming incapable to act, or declared an insolvent, or deemed disqualified.

3. If the pensioners and such descendants, on being called upon under section one or section two to nominate, fail to do so within one month from the date on which they are so called upon, the Local Government may (except as provided in respect of the said Nawáb Mumtáz-ud-Daulah in section one) appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be trustees of the said endowment: Provided that the number of the trustees shall not in the whole exceed three.

4. The appointment of trustees under this Act shall be effected by a notification in the local official Gazette, and the appointee shall become a trustee on the date fixed in the notification, or if no date is fixed, from the day after its appearance in such Gazette.

5. The validity of any such appointment so notified shall not be questioned in any Court of justice.

6. After the first appointment of trustees under this Act, the whole property of the endowment shall, for the purposes of the endowment, always be vested in the whole body of trustees for the time being.

7. The trustees for the time being under this Act shall, for the purposes of the endowment, have the entire management of the property and affairs of the endowment, and shall be responsible for the due conduct of such affairs.

In the event of any difference of opinion among the trustees, the decision of the majority of them shall prevail; and such majority may, on behalf of themselves and their co-trustee, execute all such assurances as may be requisite for carrying into effect any lease or other disposition of any property of the endowment.

8. With the previous sanction of the Local Government, the said trustees may from time to time appoint some person, not being one of their own body, to act as their Secretary, to keep their accounts, conduct their correspondence and perform other ministerial duties, and may suspend or dismiss any person so appointed.

* Every person so appointed shall, so long as he continues to act as Secretary, be entitled to receive from the trustees such salary not less than one hundred rupees per mensem as the trustees, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may direct.

9. If the said trustees, on being called upon by the Local Government, when the office of Secretary is vacant, to nominate a Secretary under section eight, fail to do so within one month from the date on which they are so called upon, the Local Government may appoint such person as it thinks fit to be Secretary; and every person so appointed shall, so long as he continues to act as Secretary, be entitled to receive from the trustees such salary as the Local Government may direct.

10. The Local Government may in its discretion dismiss any Secretary appointed under section eight or section nine who is guilty of any misconduct which, in the opinion of the Local Government, disqualifies him to be Secretary.

11. The receipts of the said trustees for any monies or securities which may be paid or transferred to them in pursuance of this Act or the trusts thereof shall discharge the person paying or transferring the same therefrom and from being concerned to see to the application thereof, or being accountable for the non-application or misapplication thereof.

12. The said trustees shall be chargeable only with such monies and securities as they respectively actually receive, and shall not be answerable the one for the other of them, nor for any banker, broker or other person in whose hands any of the property of the endowment may be placed; nor for the insufficiency or deficiency of any securities, nor otherwise for any loss or misapplication of the said property, unless the same is occasioned by or through their own wilful neglect or default; and they may reimburse themselves out of the said property all expenses properly incurred in or about the execution of their trust.

13. The Local Government may from time to time require the said trustees to render such accounts and other information respecting the said endowment as it thinks fit; and any trustee failing to comply with such requisition, or furnishing false information respecting such endowment, shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 175, section 176 or section 177 (as the case may be) of the Indian Penal Code.

14. All officers and other persons are hereby indemnified for anything done before the passing of this Act which might lawfully have been done if the hereinbefore-recited appointments of the said Nawābs and Shahāmatullāh Khān had been valid; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any such officer or other person in respect of anything so done.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th September 1878 :—

1. We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps and Court-fees was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers specified in the annexed list.

2. The Bill as originally introduced was intended to combine in one enactment the law relating to general stamps and that relating to Court-fees, which have been kept separate since the year 1867.

The circumstance that there were a certain number of provisions common to both laws seemed to make this arrangement to some extent a convenient one. But on examination the provisions thus common to both laws are found to be so few, that it seems to the majority of us that, even from the draftsman's point of view, the proposed consolidation would not be an improvement. It is, moreover, the majority would observe, to be borne in mind that the members of the mercantile community and many other persons who have frequently in the course of their daily business to refer to the general stamp-law have scarcely ever any concern with the law of Court-fees, and that to such persons an Act treating of both subjects, together with constant transitions from one to the other, would be extremely confusing and awkward to use.

For these reasons we have deemed it best to adhere to the existing arrangement of the law, and confine the present Bill to the subject of general stamps, leaving the subject of Court-fees to be separately dealt with.

It may be added as a further reason in favour of this course that certain questions relating to Court-fees are not yet ripe for decision, and that it would in all probability lead to an undue delay in the amendment of the general stamp-law if we were to wait till we were in a position to make any definite recommendation regarding them.

3. The portion of the original draft embodied in the present Bill will be found to have been considerably altered both in substance and in form. Many of the amendments made have been suggested in the communications received by us from the various authorities consulted, or have been borrowed from the English Stamp Acts of 1870. The rest (which are chiefly of a formal nature) have been adopted with a view to clearness or simplification.

We proceed to notice the more important of them.

4. The definitions of the following terms, namely :—

"Affidavit,"	"Letter of Credit,"
"Banker,"	"Negotiable Instrument,"
"Bottomry-Bond,"	"Promissory Note,"
"Respondentia-Bond,"	"Property,"
"Counterpart,"	"Protests,"
"Impressed,"	"Stamp,"
"Instrument,"	"Stamp-law,"

have been omitted; of these, "Bottomry-Bond" and "Respondentia-Bond" are covered by the definition of "Mortgage," and "Letter of Credit" by that of "Bill of Exchange." The rest have been omitted as superfluous.

5. The definitions of the following instruments, namely,—"Charter-party," "Composition-deed," "Delivery-order," "Warrant for goods" (described in the former Bill and in the existing law as "Dock-warrant") and "Notarial Act," have been transferred to the first schedule, as these instruments are not mentioned elsewhere.

6. The definition of "Bill of lading" has been so drawn as to exclude receipts given for goods received by cargo boats for shipment within the limits of a port.

7. The definition of "Bond" has been enlarged so as to include expressly the ordinary "khātā" or "tamassuk," and also instruments securing the repayment of a loan in kind.

8. The definitions of "Chief Controlling Revenue Authority" and "Collector" have been extended so as to include certain persons to whom the Government may delegate the functions of these authorities under the Act.

9. The term "Conveyance" has been expressly limited to transfers of property (whether movable or immovable) on sale, as it is in the English Stamp Act.

10. "Lease" has been made to include a "pattā;" also a kabūliyat where the latter instrument is not a counterpart of a lease, but is the only instrument passing between the parties.

11. The definition of "Mortgage-deed" has been enlarged, so as to include all instruments with the exception of a particular class of documents therein specified, pledging movable property. This change goes to maintain the existing law.

12. The term "Receipt" has for the purposes of the stamp-law been declared to include all acknowledgments of the discharge of a debt, whether by the payment of money, delivery of goods or otherwise, and all acknowledgments of the receipt of money, bills of exchange, promissory notes and cheques, whether in satisfaction of a debt or otherwise; but in connection with this extension of the term, the schedule of exemptions should be referred to.

13. "Settlement" has been re-defined, so as to exclude dispositions of property for religious or charitable purposes; such dispositions will accordingly be stamped as "Instruments of Gift," which are by the Bill made chargeable as "Conveyances."

14. We have in section 8, at the instance of the Government of India in the Financial Department, made the power to reduce or remit stamp-duties retrospective as well as prospective.

15. In section 11, which corresponds with section 42 of the former Bill, the obligation to cancel an adhesive stamp by writing the name or initials of the person affixing the same across it has been omitted, it being simply provided, in accordance with the existing law, that the stamp shall be cancelled in such manner as effectually to prevent its being used again. The obligation imposed by the Bill as introduced was, it appears to us, unsuited to the very large number of cases in which the person affixing the stamp would be unable to write.

16. The effect of the definition of the term "duly stamped" when applied to sections 12, 13, 14 and 15, is to invalidate all instruments in respect of which the rules laid down by these sections have been violated; but it will be seen, on reference to sections 35 and 36, that provision is made for validating such instruments on easy terms.

17. Section 7 of the former Bill in regard to the misapplication or wrong use of any particular description of stamps has been omitted as now unnecessary, its object being effected by the definition just referred to taken in conjunction with section 9.

18. In section 18, corresponding with section 9 of the former Bill, the period within which an instrument executed out of British India may be stamped has been extended from one to two months.

19. In section 19 we have, following the English Act, introduced a proviso protecting a person who in good faith takes a foreign bill bearing a proper stamp, though it may afterwards turn out that such stamp was not affixed in accordance with the law.

20. The provision as to the rate of exchange in respect of the Mauritius dollar in section 21 of the former Bill has been omitted from section 20, as it is understood that the rupee has been substituted for the dollar currency in that place.

21. Sections 25 and 26 (corresponding to section 34 (b) and section 12 of Act XVIII of 1869) and section 29 (which is altogether new) have been framed on the lines of the sections of the English Act relating to valuations for duty.

Section 28, which is a generalization of section 34 (c) of Act XVIII of 1869, is similarly taken from the English law.

22. The provisions of chapter 3 (relating to adjudication) have been made expressly applicable to instruments or drafts of instruments brought to the adjudicating officer prior to their execution. It has been a question under the present law whether any person could, before executing an instrument, claim an adjudication as to the amount of duty to which such instrument would be liable, and we think it desirable to enable him to do so.

23. The provision in this chapter empowering the Collector to require an abstract to be furnished to him is taken from the English Act. It is obviously useful as saving the Collector's time when the document is a lengthy one.

24. The obligation to examine all instruments coming before them in the execution of their duty, and the power of impounding such as appear to be not duly stamped, have been extended, by section 34, to all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, in which category are included not only all judicial officers, but persons acting as arbitrators, special commissioners and the like, and to all executive officers having charge of any office, except police-officers. Under one or other of these heads, it is thought, all persons having any public duty to discharge, and whose position and standing are such as to justify their being invested with such powers, will be found to be included. It would for obvious reasons be inexpedient to assign such functions to police-officers. Power has been given to the local Governments to declare who for the purposes of this chapter (IV) shall be deemed to "have charge of an office."

25. The penalty leviable by a Civil Court before admitting in evidence an instrument not duly stamped has, by section 35, been increased from four to ten times the deficient amount of duty, and it is provided further that in no case shall the fine levied be less than five rupees; but the Collector is, by section 37, empowered to remit any portion of the amount so levied in excess of the minimum fine of five rupees.

26. By section 38, the Collector is authorized to levy a fine, the amount of which is in no case to be less than five rupees, and which may extend to the amount leviable in the Civil Courts under section 35. The provision of the former Bill in regard to the levy of interest on the unpaid amount of any duty chargeable has been omitted, as likely to cause trouble and inconvenience wholly disproportionate to the advantage to be gained by its retention.

27. The power given to the Collector under the former Bill of prosecuting before a Magistrate any person who might appear to have committed a criminal offence in regard to the stamping of any instrument, irrespective of the levy of deficient duty or penalty in respect of such instrument, has been retained, but subject to the condition that no such prosecution shall be instituted unless the deficient duty and penalty are not paid, or it appears to the Collector that the neglect or omission to use the proper stamp proceeded from an intention to evade payment of the duty.

28. The provision of the former Bill enabling a Collector to recover any deficient amount of stamp-duty or any penalty payable under this chapter as an arrear of revenue, has been omitted.

When the person from whose custody the instrument has come has not been concerned in the execution of it, it seems to us that it would, generally speaking, be unfair to compel him to pay, and when he has been so concerned, the proper course clearly is to prosecute him for the offence he has committed.

29. The third proviso to section 35 is intended to settle an important question, regarding which there is at present a conflict of opinion, namely, the question as to whether an objection for want of stamp can be allowed in appeal when the document has been received in evidence in the Court below. We think it should not be allowed. The advantage gained to the revenue by allowing it seems to us to be more than counterbalanced by the delay and expense which must frequently be caused to suitors when a document forming the basis of the decision in the Court below is rejected on a purely technical ground in appeal. It might, no doubt, be provided that, on the defect being brought to notice in appeal, the party relying on the document might remedy it by paying in the deficient stamp-duty and penalty in the Appellate Court; but there would frequently be cases in which, being the respondent, he would not be present, or in which, if present, he would not have the money at hand at the moment, or in which again he would find it more to his interest to substitute other evidence for that objected to; and in such cases the result would usually be a postponement or remand. For these reasons we have deemed it best to provide that a document once admitted shall not afterwards be objected to; but for the protection of the revenue, we have in section 51 given power to the Appellate Court, either of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, to take the question of the stamp-duty into consideration; and if it declares that a higher duty or penalty was payable than was actually paid and the deficiency is not then paid, or it appears that there was an intention to evade the stamp-law, the Collector may, notwithstanding the admission of the document in evidence, prosecute for any offence that may have been committed.

We consider such a power necessary, not only in cases in which a lower Court has pronounced an erroneous decision on a question of liability to stamp-duty, but still more in the much larger class of cases in which it has overlooked the point altogether.

30. The provisions of section 50, corresponding with section 47 of the former Bill, have been so modified as to confine the references to such Courts as are presided over by not less than three Judges.

31. The provisions allowing a refund in the case of spoiled adhesive stamps and of instruments void for want of registration have been omitted. It would be almost impossible to devise adequate protection against frauds on the revenue if refunds were granted in the case of spoiled adhesive stamps; and it seems inexpedient to provide for the mitigation of any of the consequences attaching to neglect of the registration law.

32. In modification of the absolute prohibition of the sale of stamps by any person other than a licensed vendor contained in the former Bill, it is now provided (by implication in section 66) that a person who has in good faith purchased a stamp for his own use may, in the event of his not requiring the same, resell it. This change renders unnecessary the retention of the provision of section 80 of the former Bill for the recovery in the way of a refund of the value of a stamp purchased by any person for his own use which he does not require.

33. We have, in the case of a spoilt stamped paper on which no instrument has been executed, made the period within which an application must be made for a refund run from the date of the purchase of such stamp from the stamp-vendor instead of from the time at which it is spoilt. By so doing we get rid of an issue of fact on which much false evidence would be likely to be adduced.

34. In section 57, the obligation of giving a receipt has been confined to cases in which the money paid, or the value of the property delivered, exceeds 20 rupees.

35. A provision equivalent to that of section 51 of the General Stamp Act, 1869, has been introduced in section 58 with the object of giving the utmost possible publicity to the requirements of the stamp-law.

36. The maximum limit of fine for the offence of under-stamping has been raised (section 57) from 200 rupees to 500 rupees; but on the other hand it has been provided when any person from whom any penalty has been recovered under chapter IV is prosecuted and convicted in a Criminal Court, the amount of the penalty so paid is to be allowed as a set-off against, and to be deducted from, the amount of any fine which he may be sentenced to pay under this chapter.

37. In lieu of the provision of the former Bill rendering the parties to an instrument in which the full consideration passing under such instrument is not truly set forth in all cases liable to a fine of five times the amount of the proper duty which would have been payable if the consideration were truly stated, together with a further fine which might amount to 500 rupees, the liability of such persons has been restricted (section 61) to cases in which there appears to have been a fraudulent intention; and a single fine without any minimum limit, but with a maximum limit of 5,000 rupees (the limit fixed in section 35 of the present Act for the similar offence when committed by a person employed professionally in the preparation of the instrument) has been provided. The minimum limit of fine fixed by section 35 of the present Act has likewise been abolished, and all parties concerned in the wilful suppression or misrepresentation as regards the amount of the consideration given for, or the value of, the property to which the instrument relates, whether they are the executors of, or the persons employed in drawing up, such instrument, are made punishable in like degree. The effect of these alterations is to simplify, and probably on the whole to mitigate, the existing law.

38. By section 69 we have made an offence committed in respect of any instrument triable in any place in which such instrument may be found, as well as in any place in which it would be triable under the Criminal Procedure Code.

39. We now proceed to notice the changes we have made in the schedules. To begin with, we have thrown the schedule of ad valorem duties and that of fixed duties into a single schedule arranged in alphabetical order, which we think will be found simpler and easier for reference. We have further made changes both of substance and of form in several of the articles. The Bill as introduced provided for an increase of about 50 per cent. in the duty on bills of exchange and promissory notes payable otherwise than on demand; but it has seemed to the majority of us that, except under circumstances of considerable financial pressure, we should not be warranted in imposing this additional tax upon the commerce of the country, especially at a season of comparative depression like the present. We have accordingly amended the Bill so as to keep the duties on these instruments at their present rates.

40. In connection with the subject of bills of exchange, we may further mention that we have deemed it unnecessary to make any change in the existing law by which the duty payable on bills drawn in sets is distributed over the several parts. We have accordingly omitted the foot-note to the first schedule of the Bill as introduced, and inserted a table like that contained in the existing Act.

41. We have in article 29 expanded article 3 of the first schedule to the Bill as introduced, first by extending it to hypothecations of movable property, and secondly by extending it (with duty equal to that on bills of exchange) to cases when the loan is repayable more than three months, but not more than one year, from the date of the instrument. This, we believe, will afford considerable relief in a very large class of mercantile transactions which would otherwise be chargeable with the mortgage-duty.

42. Policies of insurance have been divided into two classes—(1) marine policies, and (2) all other policies, including life policies. For the first, it is proposed to maintain the rates prescribed by the existing law. In the present days of quick communications marine policies have a very short currency, in most cases not exceeding three months, and the number of policies of this class issued is much greater than formerly. There is consequently, in the opinion of the Committee, no good ground for reverting, as the original Bill would have done, to the higher rates of duty which were charged previous to 1869. As regards life and other kinds of insurances, the case is different, and some increase seems permissible. The rates we propose for them are medium rates, 25 per cent. below the rates laid down in the former Bill, and 50 per cent. in excess of the rates charged on policies of insurance generally under the existing law.

43. The Bill as introduced omitted the minimum rate of two annas to which bonds and other instruments chargeable as bonds involving an amount not exceeding 25 rupees are subject under the present Stamp Act. The effect was to make every bond and other instrument similarly chargeable involving an amount, however small, liable to a duty of four annas. As a compromise between this rate, which in the case of very small transactions would in our opinion be unduly heavy, and the rates prescribed by the existing law, we propose that the two annas rate be continued in respect of bonds and other instruments chargeable at bond-rates where the amount secured by such instrument does not exceed ten rupees.

44. We have provided that the duty on amounts above Rs. 1,000,* both in the case of the "Bond" class, and the "Conveyance" class of instruments, shall ascend by steps of Rs. 2-8 and Rs. 5 in lieu of Rs. 5 and Rs. 10, respectively, as provided by the former Bill. The effect of this reduction is to maintain the existing rates of duty on amounts ranging between Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 10,000 in respect of Bonds and Conveyances, and the several instruments similarly chargeable.

45. We have in article 20 inserted words to make it clear that only copies certified by a public officer are chargeable with duty.

46. As important additions to the schedule we desire to mention—

Bought and sold notes (No. 45), and

Enrolment of a vakil under the letters patent of a High Court, (No. 25), and among omissions we would direct attention to article 52, by which the duty it was proposed to take on receipts between 10 rupees and 20 rupees has been abandoned.

47. The duty payable on articles of clerkship (No. 8) we propose to reduce from 500 rupees, the amount chargeable under the existing law and under the Bill as introduced, because a new duty of 250 rupees is imposed (by article 26) on enrolment as an Attorney.

48. The entries in the exemption schedule are for the most part transferred from existing enactments or from notifications issued by the Government under the powers conferred by the present Stamp Act; but among those now added we may mention—

(1.) Receipts for payments of money exceeding 20 rupees, when such payment is made without consideration, as e. g., in the case of a subscription to some religious, charitable or public object;

(2.) "Lease, pattá, kabúliyat or other undertaking to cultivate, occupy or pay rent for land granted to or by a cultivator without the payment or delivery of any fine or premium when a definite term is expressed and such term does not exceed one year or when the annual rent reserved does not exceed Rs. 100.

(3.) "Counterpart of any lease granted to a cultivator."

49. We think that such instruments as "Articles of Association," which deal with important interests, may reasonably bear a somewhat higher duty than that to which they have heretofore been subjected; we propose therefore that the amount be raised from fifteen to twenty-five rupees.

50. We desire to acknowledge the valuable criticisms received from the Chambers of Commerce at Madras and Bombay, from Mr. Justice Sewell White and Mr. Justice Plowden, from Mr. C. D. Field, District Judge of Burdwan, from Mr. Jacob, Registrar of the Judicial Commissioner's Court, Central Provinces, from the Committee appointed by the Panjáb Government, and from Bábu Upendra Náth Mittra, Government Pleader, Dacca.

51. The publication ordered by the Council has been made; but the Bill has been so considerably altered by us that we are of opinion that it should be republished.

* WITH all deference to the opinion of the other Members of the Select Committee, I beg to observe that I fail to see the reason why settlements made for religious and charitable purposes should not come under the same head as family settlements. Considering the laudable objects for which the former are intended, they ought not, in my opinion, to be charged with a higher rate of stamp-duty than the latter.

With regard to article 50, clause (c), Schedule I (Power of Attorney), though in its present form it meets my objection respecting joint execution, I still take exception to it for this reason: when I took objection to this clause I did not mean that different attorneys for different objects should be constituted by one instrument. What I meant to say was that provision should be made to enable a person or persons to execute a power in favour of one or more persons to "act in more than one transaction or generally," such power to act being exercised simultaneously or concurrently by the persons named in the instrument. I have already stated my reasons for this proposed modification in my former note, and I need not repeat them here.

With these remarks I subscribe the report.

The 28th August, 1878.

JOTINDRA MOHAN TAGORE.

† I AGREE with this report except as to article 46 of Schedule I, which I think must be further altered or struck out altogether.

‡ On consideration, I agree with Mr. Evans. The clause as it stands would apply to the statement of the balance in a banker's pass-book not signed by the constituent.

ACTS REPEALED.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called
 "The Stamp Act, 1879."

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India ;

And it shall come into force on the first day of
 January 1879.

Commencement.

2. On and after that day, the Acts specified in Repeal of enactments.

the third schedule shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the same schedule. But all rules framed under the General Stamp Act, 1869, and then in force shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made hereunder. And all references made to the General

Stamp Act, 1869, in enactments passed subsequently thereto shall be deemed to be made to this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1.) "Bill of exchange" includes also a hundi and a letter of credit :

(2.) "Bill of lading" means any instrument signed by the owner of a vessel or his agent, acknowledging the receipt of goods therein described, and undertaking to deliver the same at a place and to a person mentioned or indicated in such instrument ; but does not include any such instrument when the goods therein described are received at a place within the limits of any port as defined under the Indian Ports Act, 1875, and are to be delivered at another place within the limits of the same port :

(3.) "Bond" means—

(a) any instrument whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another, on condition that the obligation shall be void if a specified act is performed, or is not performed, as the case may be ;

(b) any instrument attested by a witness or witnesses and not payable to order or bearer, whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another ; and

(c) any instrument so attested whereby a person obliges himself to deliver grain or other agricultural produce to another :

(4.) "Cheque" means a bill of exchange drawn on a banker or person carrying on the business of banking, and payable on demand :

(5.) "Chief Controlling Revenue Authority" means, in the Presidency of Fort St. George and the territories respectively under the administration of the Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, the Board of Revenue ; in the Presidency of Bombay, outside the limits of the town of Bombay, a Revenue Commissioner ; in the Panjáb, the Financial Commissioner ; and elsewhere, the Local Government or such officer as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint by name or in virtue of his office in this behalf :

(6.) "Collector" means, within the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Collector of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, respectively, and, without those limits, the Collector of a District, and includes a Deputy Commissioner and any officer whom the Local Government may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette appoint by name or in virtue of his office in this behalf :

(7.) "Conveyance" means any instrument by which property (whether movable or immovable) is transferred on sale :

(8.) "Duly stamped" as applied to an instrument means stamped or written upon stamped paper in accordance with the law applicable to such instrument when it was first executed :

(9.) "Instrument of partition" means any instrument whereby persons interested in property, jointly or in common, or as co-parceners, or as members of an undivided family, divide or agree to divide such property in severalty, and includes also a final order for partition passed by any Revenue authority:

(10.) "Lease" includes also a pattá, and a kabúliyat or other undertaking in writing, not being a counter-part of a lease, to cultivate, occupy or pay rent for immovable property:

(11.) "Mortgage-deed" includes every instrument (other than an instrument mentioned in the first schedule, No. 29) whereby, for the purpose of securing money advanced, or to be advanced, by way of loan, or an existing or future debt, one person transfers, or purports to transfer, to another a right over specific property:

(12.) "Paper" includes vellum, parchment or any other material on which an instrument may be written:

(13.) "Policy of insurance" means any instrument by which one person, in consideration of a premium, engages to indemnify another against loss, damage or liability arising from an unknown or contingent event:

(14.) "Power-of-attorney" means any instrument (other than a document chargeable with a fee under the law relating to Court-fees for the time being in force) empowering a person to act in the stead of the person executing it:

(15.) "Receipt" means any note, memorandum, writing or advertisement whatsoever, whereby any goods are acknowledged to have been received in satisfaction of a debt, or whereby any money or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note is acknowledged to have been received, or whereby any debt or demand, or any part of a debt or demand, is acknowledged to have been settled, satisfied or discharged, or which signifies or imports any such acknowledgment, whether the same is or is not signed with the name of any person:

(16.) "Schedule" and "schedules" respectively mean a schedule and schedules to this Act annexed:

(17.) "Settlement" means any disposition in writing of movable or immovable property—

(a) which is made in consideration of marriage, or

(b) which, not being testamentary, is made for the purpose of dividing the property of the settlor among his family or those for whom he desires to provide.

It includes an agreement in writing to make such a disposition:

(18.) "Vessel" means anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property:

(19.) "Written" and "writing" include every mode in which words or figures can be expressed upon paper.

4. The schedules and everything therein contained are to be read and construed as part of this Act.

Schedules to be read as part of Act.

• CHAPTER II.

STAMP-DUTIES.

A.—Of the liability of Instruments to Stamp-duty.

5. Subject to the exemptions contained in the second schedule, the following instruments shall be liable to stamp-duty of the amount indicated in the first schedule as the proper duty therefor respectively, that is to say:—

(a) every instrument mentioned in the same schedule, and executed in British India on or after the first day of January 1879;

(b) every bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note drawn or made out of British India on or after that day and accepted or paid, or presented for acceptance or payment, or endorsed, transferred or otherwise negotiated, in British India; and

(c) every instrument (other than a bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note) mentioned in the same schedule, executed out of British India on or after that day, and relating to any property situate, or to any matter or thing done or to be done, in British India.

6. When in the case of any conveyance, lease, mortgage or settlement several instruments are employed for completing the transaction, the principal instrument only shall be chargeable with the ad valorem duty prescribed for such conveyance, lease, mortgage or settlement in the first schedule, and the other instruments shall be chargeable with such other duty as may be prescribed for them in that schedule; but such last-mentioned duty shall not exceed the ad valorem duty payable in respect of the principal instrument.

The parties may determine for themselves which of such instruments shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the principal instrument.

7. An instrument so framed as to come within two or more of the descriptions in the first schedule shall, when the rates chargeable thereunder are different, be charged with the highest of such rates:

Provided that any such instrument purporting to effect several distinct objects shall be chargeable with the aggregate amount of the duties to which instruments effecting separately each of such objects would be liable under this Act.

8. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by order published in the Gazette of India, reduce or remit whether prospectively or retrospectively, in the whole or any part of British India, the duties chargeable under this Act on all or any of the instruments mentioned in the first schedule, or on any particular class of such instruments, or on any of the instruments belonging to such class, or on any of the instruments mentioned in the same schedule, when executed or granted by or to any particular class of persons, or by or to any members of such class, and may in like manner cancel or vary such order to the extent of the powers hereby given.

Power to reduce or remit rates of stamp-duty.

Every such cancellation or variation shall be published in the Gazette of India.

B.—Of Stamps and the mode of using them.

9. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, all stamp-duties which may from time to time be chargeable by law in respect of any instruments shall be paid, and such payment shall be indicated on such instruments, by means of stamps—

(a) according to the provisions herein contained, or

(b) when no such provision is applicable thereto, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

10. The following instruments may be stamped with adhesive and with adhesive stamps, namely:—

(a) instruments chargeable with the duty of one anna;

(b) bills of exchange and promissory notes drawn or made out of British India; and

(c) transfers by endorsement of shares of public companies and associations.

Unless the Governor General in Council otherwise directs, all other instruments shall be stamped with impressed stamps only.

11. Whoever affixes any adhesive stamp to any instrument liable to duty shall, at the time of affixing the same, cancel such stamp in such manner as to show that it has been used, and so that the same shall be incapable of being used for any other instrument.

Any instrument bearing an adhesive stamp which has not been cancelled in manner herein required shall, so far as such stamp is concerned, be deemed to be unstamped.

12. Every instrument written upon stamped paper shall be written in such manner, and every instrument for which an adhesive stamp is used shall be so stamped, that the stamp may appear on the face of the instrument and cannot be used for or applied to any other instrument.

13. No second instrument chargeable with stamp-duty shall be written upon a piece of stamped paper upon which an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty has already been written: provided that nothing in this section shall prevent an endorsement being made upon any instrument for the purpose of transferring any right created or evidenced thereby.

14. When an impressed stamp is used to defray the amount of duty with which any instrument is chargeable, such amount shall be defrayed by a single stamp, except when such amount exceeds one thousand rupees, in which case it may be defrayed by two or more impressed stamps of which the aggregate amount is the amount so required:

Provided that, when a single impressed stamp of any amount less than one thousand rupees is not procurable on application to the Collector or stamp-vendor appointed under the rules hereinafter mentioned, it shall be lawful, on such Collector or stamp-vendor making a certificate to that effect, for the person requiring such stamp to defray the duty chargeable by two or more impressed stamps, of which the aggregate amount is not less than the amount of such duty:

Provided also that when any instrument cannot conveniently be written on a single piece of stamped paper bearing a stamp of the amount required for such instrument, it may be commenced on such piece of paper, and when such piece of paper is filled, be continued on one or more pieces of paper each bearing a stamp of eight annas, or when the amount of duty chargeable in respect of such instrument is less than eight annas, of the amount so chargeable.

15. When more stamped papers than one are used under section fourteen for an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty, each paper so used shall contain a part of the instrument.

16. Where the duty with which an instrument is chargeable, or the exemption of such instrument from duty, depends in any manner upon the duty paid upon another instrument, the payment of such last-mentioned duty shall, if application be made in writing to the Collector for that purpose, and on production of both the instruments, be denoted upon such first-mentioned instrument in such manner as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

C.—Of the Time of stamping Instruments.

17. Instruments chargeable with stamp-duty and executed in British India shall be stamped before or at the time of execution.

18. Every instrument chargeable with such duty executed out of British India, and not being a bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, may be stamped within two months after it has been first received in British India; or, where such instrument cannot, with reference to the description of stamp prescribed for such instrument, be duly stamped by a private person, it may be taken within the said period of two months to the Collector, and he shall stamp the same, in such manner as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by rule prescribe, with a stamp of such value as the person presenting such instrument may require and pay for.

19. The first holder in British India of any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note drawn or made out of British India shall, before he presents the same for acceptance or payment, or endorses, transfers or otherwise negotiates the same in British India, affix thereto the proper stamp and cancel the same, unless such stamp has been already affixed and cancelled:

Provided that if, at the time any such bill, cheque or note comes into the hands of any holder thereof in British India, the proper adhesive stamp is affixed thereto and cancelled in manner prescribed by section eleven, and such holder has no reason to believe that such stamp was affixed or cancelled otherwise than by the person and at the time required by this Act, such stamp shall, so far as relates to such holder, be deemed to have been duly affixed and cancelled. But nothing contained in this proviso shall relieve any person from any penalty incurred by him for omitting to affix or cancel a stamp.

D.—Of Valuations for Stamp-duty.

20. When an instrument is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of Conversion of amount expressed in certain currencies. an amount expressed in pounds sterling, pounds currency, francs or dollars, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the following scale :—

One pound sterling or pound currency is equivalent to ten rupees :

One hundred francs are equivalent to forty rupees :

One Mexican or China dollar is equivalent to two rupees four annas :

21. When an instrument is chargeable with ad

Conversion of amount expressed in other foreign currencies. valorem duty in respect of any money expressed in any other foreign or colonial currency, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the current rate of exchange on the day of the date of the instrument.

22. When an instrument is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of Stock and marketable securities to be valued. any stock or of any marketable security, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such stock or security according to the average price thereof on the day of the date of the instrument.

23. When an instrument contains a statement of current rate of exchange,

Effect of statement of value. or average price, as the case may require, and is stamped in accordance with such statement, it is, so far as regards the subject-matter of such statement, to be deemed duly stamped, unless or until it is shown that such statement is untrue, and that the instrument is in fact insufficiently stamped.

24. When interest is expressly made payable by the terms of an instrument, such instrument shall Instruments reserving interest. not be chargeable with duty higher than that with which it would have been chargeable had no mention of interest been made therein.

25. When any property is conveyed to any person in consideration,

How conveyance in consideration of a debt, or subject to future payment, &c., to be charged. wholly or in part, of any debt due to him, or subject either certainly or contingently to the payment or transfer of any money or stock, whether being or constituting a charge or incumbrance upon the property or not, such debt, money or stock is to be deemed the whole or part, as the case may be, of the consideration in respect whereof the conveyance is chargeable with ad valorem duty.

26. When an instrument is executed to secure the payment of an annuity,

Valuation in case of annuity, &c. or other sum payable periodically, or when the consideration for a conveyance is an annuity or other sum payable periodically, the amount secured by such instrument or the consideration for such conveyance (as the case may be) shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be—

(a) when such sum is payable for a definite period so that the total amount to be paid can be previously ascertained, such total amount ;

(b) when such sum is payable in perpetuity or for an indefinite time not terminable with any life in being at the date of the execution of such instrument or conveyance, the total amount which, according to the terms of such instrument or conveyance, will or may be payable during the period of twenty years next after the date of such instrument or conveyance ; and

(c) when such sum is payable for an indefinite time terminable with any life in being at the date of the execution of such instrument or conveyance, the total amount which will or may be payable as aforesaid during the period of twelve years next after the date of such instrument or conveyance.

27. When the amount or value of the subject-

Stamp where value of subject-matter is indeterminate. matter of any instrument chargeable under this Act with ad valorem duty cannot be ascertained, nothing shall be recoverable under such instrument more than the highest amount or value for which, if stated in an instrument of the same denomination, the stamp actually used would have been sufficient.

28. All facts and circumstances affecting the liability of any instrument to Facts affecting ad valorem duty to be set forth in instrument. ad valorem duty, or the amount of ad valorem duty with which any instrument is chargeable, shall be fully and truly set forth in such instrument.

29. (a.) When any property has been con-

Direction as to duty in the case of certain conveyances. tracted to be sold for one consideration for the whole, and is conveyed to the purchaser in separate parts or parcels by different instruments, the consideration shall be apportioned in such manner as the parties think fit, so that a distinct consideration for each separate part or parcel is set forth in the conveyance relating thereto, and such conveyance shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of such distinct consideration.

(b.) When property contracted to be purchased for one consideration for the whole by two or more persons jointly, or by any person for himself and others, or wholly, for others, is conveyed in parts or parcels by separate instruments to the persons by or for whom the same was purchased for distinct parts of the consideration, the conveyance of each separate part or parcel shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of the distinct part of the consideration therein specified.

(c.) When a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the same to any other person, and the property is in consequence conveyed immediately to the sub-purchaser, the conveyance is to be charged with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration for the sale by the original purchaser to the sub-purchaser.

(d.) When a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance, contracts to sell the whole, or any part or parts thereof, to any other person or persons, and the property is in consequence conveyed by the original seller to different persons in parts or parcels, the conveyance of each part or parcel sold to a sub-purchaser shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect only of the consideration moving from such sub-purchaser, without regard to the amount or value of the original consideration, and the conveyance of the residue (if any) of such property to the original purchaser shall be charged with ad valorem duty in respect only of the excess of the original consideration over the aggregate of the considerations moving from the sub-purchasers :

Provided that the stamp-duty on such last mentioned conveyance shall in no case be less than one rupee.

(c.) When a sub-purchaser takes an actual conveyance of the interest of the person immediately selling to him, which is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration moving from him, and is duly stamped accordingly, any conveyance to be afterwards made to him of the same property by the original seller shall be charged with a duty equal to that which would be chargeable on a conveyance for the consideration obtained by such original seller; or when such duty would exceed five rupees, with a duty of five rupees.

E.—Duty by whom payable.

30. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the expense of providing the proper stamp shall be borne—

(a) in the case of any instrument described in numbers 1, 10, 12, 13, 22, 27, 29, 30, 43, 53, 54, 56 and 59, clauses (a) and (b), of the first schedule—by the person drawing, making or executing such instrument :

(b) in the case of a policy of insurance—by the insured :

(c) in the case of a conveyance or lease—by the grantee or lessee :

(d) in the case of an instrument of partition—by the parties thereto in proportion to their respective shares in the property comprised therein :

(e) in the case of an instrument of exchange—by the parties in equal shares : and

(f) in the case of a certificate of sale—by the purchaser of the property to which such certificate relates.

CHAPTER III.

ADJUDICATION OF DOUBTS AS TO STAMPS.

31. When any instrument, whether executed or not, and whether previously stamped or not, is brought to the Collector, and the person bringing it applies to have the opinion of that officer as to the duty (if any) chargeable in respect of the same and pays a fee of such amount (not exceeding five rupees and not less than eight annas) as the Collector may in each case direct, the Collector shall determine the duty (if any) to which, in his judgment, the instrument is liable ;

and may for that purpose require to be furnished with an abstract of the instrument, and also with such evidence as he may deem necessary, in order to show to his satisfaction whether all the facts and circumstances affecting the liability of the instrument to duty, or the amount of the duty chargeable thereon, are fully and truly set forth therein, and may refuse to proceed upon any such application until such abstract and evidence have been furnished accordingly :

Provided that no evidence furnished in pursuance of this section shall be used against any person in any proceeding whatever, except in an inquiry as to the duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable ; and every person by whom any such evidence is furnished shall, on payment of the full duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable, be relieved from any penalty he may have incurred by reason of the omission to state truly in such instrument any of the facts or circumstances aforesaid.

32. When an instrument brought to the Collector under section thirty-one is chargeable with duty and—

(a) the Collector determines that it is already fully stamped, or

(b) the duty determined by the Collector under section thirty-one, or such a sum as, with the duty already paid on the instrument is equal to the duty so determined, has been paid, the Collector shall certify by endorsement on such instrument that the full duty (stating the amount) with which it is chargeable has been paid.

When such instrument is not chargeable with duty, the Collector shall certify in manner aforesaid that such instrument is not so chargeable.

Any instrument upon which an endorsement has been made under this section shall be deemed to be duly stamped, or not chargeable with duty, as the case may be; and if chargeable with duty, shall be receivable in evidence or otherwise and may be acted upon and registered as if it had been originally duly stamped :

Provided that the Collector shall not make any such endorsement—

(a) on any instrument executed in British India and brought to him after the expiration of one month from the date of its execution ;

(b) on any instrument executed out of British India and brought to him after the expiration of three months after it has been first received in British India ; or

(c) on any instrument chargeable with the stamp-duty of one anna, or any bill of exchange or promissory note when brought to him after the drawing or execution thereof on paper not duly stamped.

33. The whole or any part of any payment under this chapter shall be made in stamps, or in cash, or partly in stamps and partly in cash, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule direct.

CHAPTER IV.

INSTRUMENTS NOT DULY STAMPED.

34. Every person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, and every person in charge of a public office except an officer of Police, before whom any instrument chargeable with stamp-duty is produced, or comes in the execution of his duty, shall examine such instrument in order to ascertain whether it is duly stamped; and if it appears to any such person that such instrument is not duly stamped, he shall impound the same:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require any Magistrate or other Judge of a Criminal Court to examine or impound any instrument coming before him in the course of any proceeding other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Provided also that, in the case of a Judge of a High Court, the duty of examining and impounding any instrument under this section may be delegated to such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf.

The Local Government may, from time to time, determine who shall be deemed to be for the purpose of this section persons in charge of public offices.

35. No instrument chargeable with stamp-duty shall be received in evidence in any suit or proceeding, or shall be acted upon or registered unless such instrument is duly stamped:

Proviso.

Provided that—

1st, any such instrument, not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or a bill of exchange or promissory note, may be received in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same was chargeable under the law in force when it was first executed or (in the case of an instrument insufficiently stamped) of the amount required to make up such duty, together with a penalty of five rupees, or when ten times the amount of the proper stamp-duty or deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, of a sum equal to ten times such amount.

2nd, nothing herein contained shall prevent the reception of any instrument in evidence in any proceeding in a Criminal Court other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

3rd, when an instrument has been admitted in evidence, such admission shall not, except as provided in section fifty-one, be called in question on the ground that the proper stamp-duty has not been paid in respect of such instrument.

36. When the person impounding an instrument under section thirty-four has by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence and receives such instrument in evidence upon payment of a penalty as provided by section thirty-five, he shall send to the Collector an authenticated copy of such instrument, together with a certificate in writing, stating the amount of the duty and penalty levied in respect thereof.

In every other case the person so impounding an instrument shall send it in original to the Collector.

37. When a copy of an instrument is sent to a Collector under the first paragraph of section thirty-six, he may, if he thinks fit, refund any portion of the penalty in excess of five rupees which has been paid in respect of such instrument, or when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written or stamped in contravention of section twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen, he may refund the whole penalty so paid.

38. When the Collector impounds any instrument under section thirty-four, or receives any instrument sent to him under the second clause of section thirty-six, he shall adopt the following procedure:—

(a) If he is of opinion that such instrument is duly stamped, or is not an instrument chargeable with stamp-duty, he shall certify by endorsement thereon that it is duly stamped, or that it is not so chargeable (as the case may be), and shall upon application made to him in this behalf deliver such instrument to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct.

(b) If the Collector is of opinion that such instrument is chargeable with stamp-duty under the law in force at the time it was first executed and is not duly stamped, he shall require the payment of the proper duty or the amount required to make up the same, together with a penalty of five rupees; or if ten times the amount of the proper duty or of the deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, then such penalty not less than five rupees and not more than ten times the amount of such duty or portion as he thinks fit:

Provided that, when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written or stamped in contravention of section twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen, the Collector may, if he thinks fit, remit the penalty prescribed by this section.

Every certificate under clause (a) of this section shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated therein.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only, or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

39. If any instrument liable to stamp-duty under the law in force at the time it was first executed and which is unstamped or insufficiently stamped is produced by any person of his own motion before the Collector within one year from the date of its execution, and such person brings to the notice of the Collector the fact that such instrument is unstamped or insufficiently stamped, as the case may be, and offers to pay to the Collector the amount of the proper duty, or the amount required to make up the same, and the Collector is satisfied that such instrument has not been duly stamped by reason of accident, mistake or urgent necessity, he may, instead of proceeding under sections thirty-four and thirty-eight, receive such amount and proceed as next hereinafter prescribed.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

40. When the stamp-duty and penalty (if any) leviable in respect of any instrument have been paid under section thirty-five, section thirty-eight or section thirty-nine, the person admitting such instrument in evidence or the Collector (as the case may be) shall certify by endorsement thereon that the proper stamp-duty and penalty (stating the amount of each) have been levied in respect thereof, and the name and residence of the person paying them.

Every instrument so endorsed shall thereupon be admissible in evidence or otherwise, and may be registered and acted upon as if it had been duly stamped, and shall be delivered on his application in this behalf to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct :

Provided that no instrument which has been received in evidence under section thirty-five shall be so delivered until the Collector certifies in writing that its detention is no longer necessary.

41. The Collector may, notwithstanding the levy of a penalty under this chapter in respect of an instrument, prosecute any person who appears to have committed an offence against the stamp law in respect of such instrument :

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted in the case of any instrument in respect of which such a penalty has been paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper stamp-duty.

42. When any duty or penalty has been paid under section thirty-five, section thirty-eight or section thirty-nine by any person in respect of an instrument, and by agreement or under the rules prescribed by section thirty of this Act or under any other law in force at the time such instrument was executed some other person was bound to bear the expense of providing the proper stamp for such instrument, the first mentioned person shall be entitled to recover from such other person the amount of the duty or penalty so paid ; and for the purpose of such recovery any certificate granted in respect of such instrument under section forty shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein certified.

43. When any penalty is levied under section thirty-five or thirty-eight, the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority may, upon application in writing made within one year from the date on which such penalty is so levied, refund such penalty wholly or in part.

44. If any instrument sent to a Collector under the second paragraph of section thirty-six be lost, destroyed or injured during transmission, the person sending the same shall not be liable for such loss, destruction or injury.

When any instrument is about to be so sent, any person may require a copy thereof to be made at his expense and authenticated by the person impounding such instrument, and to be deposited in the Court or office of such last mentioned person until he otherwise directs.

45. When any bill of exchange or promissory note chargeable hereunder with the duty of one anna or any cheque is presented for payment unstamped, the person to whom it is so presented may affix thereto the necessary adhesive stamp, and upon so doing, may pay the sum payable upon such bill, note or cheque, and may charge the duty against the person who ought to have paid the same, or deduct such duty from the sum payable as aforesaid, and such bill, note or cheque shall, so far as respects the duty, be deemed good and valid.

But nothing herein contained shall relieve any person from any penalty he may have incurred in relation to such bill, note or cheque.

CHAPTER V.

REFERENCE AND REVISION. •

46. If any Collector acting under section thirty-eight entertains doubt as to the amount of stamp-duty with which any instrument is chargeable, he may draw up a statement of the case, and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, for the decision of the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, and such Authority shall consider the case and send a copy of its decision to the Collector, and he shall proceed to assess and charge the duty in conformity with such decision.

47. The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority may state any case coming before it under this Act, and refer such case with its own opinion thereon, if the case arise in the Presidency of Fort Saint George or the Presidency of Bombay, to the local High Court : if it arise in the North-Western Provinces or Oudh, to the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces : if it arise in the Panjáb, to the Chief Court of the Panjáb : if it arise in the Central Provinces, to the High Court of Judicature at Bombay : and if it arise in any other part of British India, to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Every such case shall be decided by not less than three Judges of the High Court or Chief Court to which it is referred, and in case of difference the opinion of the majority shall prevail.

48. If the High Court or Chief Court is not satisfied that the statements contained in the case are sufficient to enable it to determine the questions raised thereby, it may refer the case back to the Revenue Authority by which it was stated, to make such additions thereto or alterations therein as the Court may direct in that behalf.

49. The High Court or Chief Court, upon the hearing of any such case, shall decide the questions raised thereby and shall deliver its judgment thereon containing the grounds on which such decision is founded: and it shall send to the Revenue Authority by which the case was stated, a copy of such judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar, and the Revenue Authority shall, on receiving the same, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

50. If any Court other than a Court mentioned in section forty-seven entertains doubt as to the amount of stamp-duty to be paid in respect of any instrument under the first proviso to section thirty-five, the Judge may draw up a statement of the case and refer it with his own opinion thereon for the decision of the High Court to which, if he were the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, he would under section forty-seven refer the same, and such Court shall deal with the case as if it had been referred under section forty-seven and send a copy of its judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar to the Judge making the reference, who shall dispose of the case conformably to such decision.

Every reference under this section made by a Court subordinate to a district Court shall be made through the district Court.

51. When any Court in the exercise of civil jurisdiction makes any order admitting any instrument in evidence as properly stamped or as not requiring a stamp, or upon payment of duty, and a penalty under section thirty-five, the Court to which an appeal would lie from the decision of such first-mentioned Court may, of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, take such order into consideration; and if it is of opinion that such instrument should not have been received in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under section thirty-five, or without the payment of a higher duty and penalty than those paid, may record a declaration to that effect, and determine the amount of duty with which such instrument is chargeable, and may require any person in whose possession or power such instrument then is to produce the same, and may impound the same when produced.

When any declaration has been recorded under this section, the Court recording the same shall send a copy thereof to the Collector and, where the instrument to which it relates has been impounded or is otherwise in the possession of such Court, shall also send such instrument, and thereupon the Collector may, notwithstanding anything contained in the order admitting such instrument in evidence, or in any certificate granted under section forty or in section forty-one, prosecute any person for any offence against the stamp law which the Collector considers him to have committed in respect of such instrument:

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted where the amount (including duty and penalty) which according to the determination of such Court was payable in respect of the instrument under section 35 is paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper stamp-duty.

Provided also that no declaration made under this section shall, except for the purposes of a prosecution for an offence as aforesaid, affect the validity of any order admitting any instrument in evidence, or of any certificate granted under section forty.

CHAPTER VI.

REFUNDS.

52. Subject to such rules as may from time to time be made by the Governor General in Council as to the evidence which the Collector may require, allowance shall be made by the Collector for the following impressed stamps, namely:—

(a.) The stamp on any paper inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, obliterated or by any means rendered unfit for the purpose intended, before any instrument written thereon is executed by any party, and for which stamp no money or other consideration has been paid or given to the attorney, pleader or other person employed to transact the business intended to have been carried into execution thereby, or to the person by whom the same was written:

(b.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, signed by or on behalf of the drawer or intended drawer, but not delivered out of his hands to the payee or intended payee, or any person on his behalf, or deposited with any person as a security for the payment of money, or in any way negotiated, issued or put in circulation, or made use of in any other manner whatever, and which, being a bill of exchange or cheque, has not been accepted by the drawee, and provided that the paper on which any such stamp is impressed does not bear any signature intended as or for the acceptance of any bill of exchange or cheque to be afterwards written thereon:

(c.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note signed by, or on behalf of, the drawer thereof, but which from any omission or error has been spoiled or rendered useless, although the same, being a bill of exchange or cheque, may have been presented for acceptance or accepted or endorsed, or, being a promissory note, may have been delivered to the payee, provided that another completed and duly stamped bill of exchange or promissory note is produced identical in every particular, except in the correction of such error or omission as aforesaid, with the spoiled bill or note:

(d.) The stamp used for any of the following instruments, that is to say:—

(1) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found to be absolutely void in law from the beginning:

(2) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found unfit by reason of any error or mistake therein for the purpose originally intended:

(3) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but which, by reason of the death of any person by whom it is necessary that it should be executed without having executed the same, or of the refusal of any such person to execute the same, or to advance any money intended to be thereby secured, cannot be completed so as to effect the intended transaction in the form proposed:

(4) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, for want of the execution thereof by some material and necessary party, and his inability or refusal to sign the same, is in fact incomplete and insufficient for the purpose for which it was intended:

- (5) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, by reason of the refusal of any person to act under the same, or by the refusal or non-acceptance of any office thereby granted, totally fails of the intended purpose:
- (6) an instrument executed by any party thereto which becomes useless in consequence of the transaction intended to be thereby effected being effected by some other instrument duly stamped:
- (7) an instrument executed by any party thereto which is inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, and in lieu whereof another instrument made between the same parties and for the same purpose is executed and duly stamped:

Provided that in the case of an executed instrument—

- (a) such instrument is given up to be cancelled:
- (b) the application for relief is made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, except where from unavoidable circumstances any instrument for which another instrument has been substituted cannot be given up to be cancelled within the afore-said period, and in that case within six months after the date of execution of the substituted instrument, and except where the spoiled instrument has been sent abroad, and in that case within six months after it has been received back in any part of British India: and
- (c) no suit has been instituted in which the instrument could or would have been given or offered in evidence:

Provided also that, in the case of stamped paper not having any executed instrument written thereon, the application for relief is made within six months after the stamp has been purchased from the stamp-vendor.

53. When any person has inadvertently used for an instrument liable to duty a stamp of a description other than that prescribed for such instrument by the rules made under the powers hereinbefore conferred or a stamp of greater value than was necessary, or has inadvertently used any stamp for an instrument not liable to any duty, the Collector may, on application made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, and upon the instrument, if liable to any duty, being re-stamped with the proper duty, cancel and allow as spoiled the stamp so misused.

54. In any case in which allowance is made for spoiled or misused stamps, the Collector may give in lieu thereof other stamps of the same denomination and value or, if required, and he thinks proper, stamps of any other denomination to the same amount in value or, at his discretion, the same value in money, deducting one anna for each rupee.

CHAPTER VII.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

- 55. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent herewith for regulating—
- Powers to make subsidiary rules.
- (a) the description of stamps and (in the case of impressed stamps) the size of the stamped paper to be used for each kind of instrument chargeable under this Act;
- (b) the supply and sale of such stamps and stamped papers, the persons by whom such sale is to be conducted, and the duties and remuneration of such persons, and
- (c) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

56. All rules made under this Act shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Publication of rules.

57. Any person receiving any money exceeding twenty rupees in amount or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note for an amount exceeding twenty rupees, or receiving in satisfaction of a debt any movable property exceeding twenty rupees in value shall, on demand by the person paying or delivering such money, bill, cheque, note or property, give a duly stamped receipt for the same.

Procedure where receipts are required.

58. Every Local Government shall cause this Act and the schedules hereto annexed to be carefully translated into the principal vernacular languages of the territories subject to its control: A full alphabetical index shall be added to every such translation, and the translation and index shall be printed and sold to the public at a price not exceeding four annas per copy.

Act to be translated, indexed and sold cheaply.

CHAPTER VIII.

CRIMINAL OFFENCES AND PROCEDURE.

59. Any person drawing, making, issuing, endorsing or transferring, or signing otherwise than as a witness, or presenting for acceptance or payment, or accepting, paying or receiving payment of, or in any manner negotiating, any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note without the same being duly stamped, any person executing or signing otherwise than as a witness any other instrument chargeable with stamp-duty without the same being duly stamped, and any person voting or attempting to vote under any proxy not duly stamped, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees:

Provided that when any penalty has been paid in respect of any instrument under section thirty-five or section thirty-eight, the amount of such penalty shall be allowed in reduction of the fine (if any) subsequently imposed under this section in respect of the same instrument upon the person who paid such penalty.

60. Any person affixing an adhesive stamp to any instrument and failing to cancel such stamp in manner directed by section eleven, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

61. Any person who, with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, executes any instrument in which all the facts and circumstances required by section twenty-eight to be set forth in such instrument are not fully and truly set forth, and any person who, being employed or concerned in or about the preparation of any instrument, neglects, or omits with intent as aforesaid, fully and truly to set forth therein all such facts or circumstances, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

62. Any person who being required under section fifty-seven to give a receipt refuses or neglects to give the same, or who upon a payment to the amount of twenty rupees or upwards gives a receipt for a sum not amounting to twenty rupees, or separates or divides the amount paid with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

63. Every person who—

(a) receives, or takes credit for, any premium or consideration for any contract of insurance, and does not, within one month after receiving, or taking credit for, such premium or consideration, make out and execute a duly stamped policy of such insurance; or

(b) makes, executes or delivers out, or pay or making, &c., any or allows in account, or agrees to pay or allow in account, any money upon or in respect of any policy which is not duly stamped, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

64. Any person drawing or executing a bill of exchange or a policy of marine insurance purporting to be drawn or executed in a set of two or more, and not at the same time drawing or executing on paper duly stamped the whole number of bills or policies of which such bill or policy purports the set to consist, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

65. Whoever utters any instrument having thereon any adhesive stamp which has to his knowledge been used for any other executed instrument, or practises or is concerned in any fraudulent act, contrivance or device not herein specially provided for, with intent to defraud the Government of any stamp-duty, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

66. Any person appointed to sell stamps who knowingly disobeys any rule made under section fifty-five, and any person not so appointed who sells or offers for sale any stamp other than a stamp purchased by him in good faith for his own private use, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

67. No prosecution in respect of any offence punishable under this Act, or the General Stamp Act, 1869, or any Act thereby repealed, shall be instituted without the sanction of the Collector or such other officer as the Local Government generally, or the Collector specially, authorizes in that behalf.

The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, or any officer authorized by it in this behalf, may stay or compound proceedings in any such prosecution.

68. Every such offence shall be triable—
(a) within the limits of the Presidency-towns, by a Presidency Magistrate; and
(b) outside those limits, by Magistrates exercising powers not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class.

69. Every such offence committed in respect of any instrument may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which such instrument is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which such offence might be tried under the law relating to Criminal Procedure for the time being in force.

70. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act, or the rules made under it, or from being liable under such other law to any higher punishment or penalty than that provided by the rules made under this Act: Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th September, 1878:—

No. 6 of 1878.

A Bill to amend Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages).

Whereas by Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages), section

Preamble

five, it is enacted that when any publisher or printer is called upon by a Magistrate or Commissioner of Police to execute a bond under that Act in respect of any newspaper, the publisher of such newspaper may deliver to such Magistrate or Commissioner an undertaking in writing to the effect that no words, signs or visible representations shall, during the year next following the date of such undertaking, be printed or published in such newspaper which have not previously been submitted to such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, or which on being so submitted have been objected to by such officer, and that when such undertaking has been so delivered, no such bond and no such deposit as is mentioned in section four of the said Act shall be required from the publisher or printer of such newspaper during the said year;

And whereas by the last paragraph of section eight of the same Act it is provided that the publisher of any newspaper may, on the publication of a notice in respect thereof under section six of the said Act, and before anything has become liable to forfeiture under the said section eight in respect of such newspaper, deliver to the Magistrate of the District, or to the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency-town, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such newspaper is published, an undertaking as aforesaid, and, if such Magistrate or Commissioner accepts such undertaking, nothing shall become liable to forfeiture as aforesaid between the date on which such undertaking is so accepted and the end of the period for which it is given;

And whereas by the same Act, section eighteen, it is enacted that when any publisher of a newspaper has given any undertaking as aforesaid, and during the period for which such undertaking is given, any words, signs or visible representations which have not been submitted to the officer appointed as aforesaid, or which on being so submitted have been objected to by him, are printed or published in such newspaper, such publisher and the printer of such newspaper shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both;

And whereas it is expedient to repeal the enactments and proviso hereinbefore recited and the reference in section three of the said Act to the said section five; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The following portions of the said Act are repealed (that is to say): sections five and eighteen, the last paragraph of section eight, and, in section three, the words "and subject to the provisions of section five."

Repeal of Act IX of 1878, sections 5 and 18, and parts of sections 8 and 8.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In his despatch dated the 31st May 1878, the Secretary of State in Council conveyed the sanction of Her Majesty's Government to the Vernacular Press Act. But with reference to the provisions of the Act under which a publisher may undertake to submit a proof of his newspaper to the Local Government before publishing the same, he requested that the Governor General in Council would refrain from putting this part of the Act into operation, taking power by fresh legislation to suspend or abandon it if this was deemed necessary. After a careful consideration of the frame of the Act, fresh legislation has been deemed necessary to carry out the wishes of Her Majesty's Government, and accordingly the present Bill has been prepared, by which the enactments relating to the provisions noticed by the Secretary of State's despatch are repealed.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
SEPTEMBER 19TH, 1878.

Friday, 13th September.—The changes of pressure have again been considerable in amount. Pressure has increased in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, and Assam. The increase slightly exceeds one-tenth of an inch at Roorkee and Bareilly, that is, over and in the immediate neighbourhood of an area of heavy rainfall during the past 24 hours.

The barometer has fallen in the remaining districts of India: the decrease of pressure exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in Bombay, the Deccan, Madras, Burmah, and Arracan.

The winds along the west coast of India are increasing in strength. The wind directions are normal. Strong easterly winds have set in at Goalpara.

The winds at the coast stations of the head of the Bay indicate general indraught to the Bay. There is apparently an area of slightly diminishing pressure to the south-east of the mouth of the Hooghly.

The moisture-current from the Bay of Bengal has given general rain to Southern Burmah, Arracan, Bengal, Assam, Orissa, and Behar. The following are the more important rainfalls: Goalpara 1.07 inches, Cuttack 1.46 inches, Patna .74 inch, Purneah 5.26 inches, and Rungpore 2.35 inches.

Excessive rain has fallen over a portion of the Rohilkund division of the North-Western Provinces: Bareilly received 7.64 inches, and Shahjahanpore 2 inches.

Light showers occurred at several stations in Oudh and the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, and in the Madras Presidency.

Saturday, 14th September.—The barometric changes have been unusually large in Upper India during the past 24 hours. The barometer has risen at all stations, excepting False Point and Cuttack, where it has fallen slightly. The increase of pressure over the Peninsula proper nowhere exceeds $\cdot 05''$. In Northern India it varies from $\cdot 05''$ to $\cdot 213''$. It is greatest in the Punjab, the maximum increment occurring at Lahore.

These rapid changes have altered very considerably the distribution of pressure. The minimum pressure to-day was observed at False Point. The wind directions at the stations on the north and west coasts of the Bay indicate that the area of slight barometric depression noticed in yesterday's report has moved towards the coast of Orissa during the past 24 hours. The centre was at no great distance to the south-east of False Point at 10 A.M. to-day.

The winds along the West Coast of India have diminished considerably in intensity during the past 24 hours. The air motion around the north of the Bay, in Bengal, Behar, and the Central Provinces, shows a marked indraught to the area of depression near the coast of Orissa. The winds near the centre of the depression are unusually light.

On the extreme edge of the northern quadrant, very strong winds have been blowing during the day. Goalpara and Purneah both report a gale of wind. Perhaps these strong winds are due to the existence of relatively high pressure in Eastern Assam. The pressure at Sibesar was at 10 A.M. to-day nearly a tenth of an inch higher than at Goalpara.

Easterly winds now prevail over the whole of the Gangetic Valley, and the south-eastern districts of the Punjab.

There has been general rain over the same area in North-Eastern India as yesterday, that is, in Burmah, Bengal, Assam, Behar, and Orissa. The amount registered in Northern Bengal and Assam to-day was small. The more important rainfalls recorded in this area are—Rangoon 1.38 inches, Akyab 1.38 inches, Chittagong 1.88 inches, Saugor Island 1.65 inches, False Point 1.04 inches, and Hazaribagh .8 inch.

A heavy local fall of 2.25 inches occurred at Agra; light showers fell at Bareilly and other stations in the North-Western Provinces, where the sky is completely overcast.

No rain is reported from the Punjab. Moderate rain has fallen during the day at the majority of stations in Bombay, Madras, and Central India. Bombay received 1.31 inches, Jubbulpore 1.18 inches, Vizagapatam 1.10 inches, and Belgaum .65 inch.

Sunday, 15th September.—The barometer has risen at all stations except Sibesar and Jubbulpore. The increase of pressure is greatest in the Punjab, at the stations of Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan, where it is $\cdot 17''$. The increase exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in the Punjab, Western Rajputana, Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, and in the extreme south of India.

There has also been a very considerable increase of pressure in the north-eastern angle of the Bay of Bengal, due to the westward march of the barometric depression across Orissa during the past 24 hours. The increase slightly exceeds $\cdot 1''$ at Akyab, Chittagong, and Dacca. The pressure in Orissa is nearly identical with what it was yesterday. It has diminished slightly to the north-west of Orissa at Jubbulpore.

Minimum pressure was observed at Cuttack this morning. The centre of the disturbance was to the south-west of Cuttack at 10 A.M. to-day.

Pressure is also very low to-day in the Central Provinces, towards which the depression is advancing.

The wind directions over the whole of North-Eastern India indicate cyclonic motion about the area of depression. The wind velocity is generally below the average, except on the northern quadrant. Strong winds are reported from Calcutta, Hazaribagh, and Benares. The easterly winds at Goalpara have moderated very considerably during the day.

The rainfall of the past 24 hours is moderate in amount, and occurred chiefly over the area of barometric depression. The following amounts are reported: Saugor Island 1·51 inches, False Point ·77 inch, Cuttack ·55 inch, Chitterpore (Ganjam) ·7 inch, Hazaribagh ·73 inch, Benares ·39 inch, and Nagpore 1·83 inches.

Bangalore received ·61 inch during the day.

Little or no rain fell in Upper or Western India.

Monday, 16th September.—The barometer has risen slightly in Orissa, along the Coromandel Coast, and in Ceylon. The increase is greatest at Cuttack, where it amounts to ·04". The barometer has fallen in the remaining districts of India. The decrease ranges from ·05" to ·1" in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, Rajputana, Guzerat, Central India, the Central Provinces, and at Bombay and Surat.

Minimum pressure was observed at Jubbulpore and Nagpore to-day. The barometric depression noted in the reports of the past three days has consequently now advanced to the Central Provinces. Pressure is to-day very uniform over North-Western India.

The temperature is increasing over the whole of India. Temperatures exceeding 90° were observed at the majority of stations in the Punjab, Sind, and Guzerat. The maximum temperature registered was 96·3° at Jacobabad.

The winds prevailing to-day are generally light. The only important feature is the marked cyclonic circulation of the air over and around the area of depression in the centre of India. Calms are reported at the Assam stations, and at Roorkee, Lahore, and Mooltan in Upper India.

Fair rain has fallen on the west and south-west quadrant of the area of barometric depression in the Central Provinces: 2·97 inches were registered to-day at Nagpore, 1·90 inches at Khandwa, and 1·78 inches at Akola.

Jhansi received a heavy local fall of 1·8 inches, and Surat the excessive amount of 4·98 inches.

Tuesday, 17th September.—The barometer has fallen at all stations except Vizagapatam and Masulipatam. The decrease of pressure is very considerable in Western India. It slightly exceeds ·1" in Sind. The area of greatest diminution includes Bombay, the Berars, and Central India. The decrease attains its maximum amount at Khandwa, where it is ·2".

The effect of this very considerable fall of the barometer has been to transfer the area of barometric depression, during the past 24 hours, from the Central Provinces (Nagpore and Jubbulpore) westwards to the mid-valleys of the Nerbudda and Tapti. This is a very unusual line for a depression generated off the coast of Orissa to take; and is apparently due to a considerable indraught of moisture from the Arabian Sea.

The wind directions in Northern and Western India indicate indraught to the area of low pressure in Western India. The winds are generally moderate in Northern India. They have increased considerably in intensity along the west coast, and in the Deccan and Central Provinces.

Heavy rain has fallen in and near the centre of the barometric depression, and on the south-west quadrant. At Indore the excessive amount of 10·15 inches was registered this morning. Indore has been, throughout the present season, a centre of heavy rainfall.

The following amounts exceeding one inch were also registered within the area of depression:—Surat 2·65 inches, Bombay 2·23 inches, Khandwa 2·05 inches, and Ahmedabad 1·68 inches.

1·17 inches were recorded to-day at Cochin, where the observer notes that the sea is rough.

Wednesday, 18th September.—There has been a general decrease of pressure during the preceding 24 hours, which exceeds ·05" in North-Western India, Assam, Arracan, Burmah, and Ceylon, and along the Coromandel Coast.

The barometric depression, noticed in the reports of the past four days, has advanced westwards during the day. The lowest pressure observed this morning was at Surat. The depression thus occupies the lower valleys of the Nerbudda and Tapti. The smallest changes of pressure occurred in the Central Provinces, in the rear of the moving cyclonic disturbance. The Nagpore barometer showed a slight rise during the past 24 hours.

The wind velocity in Northern India is considerably below the average. Calms are reported at several stations, and the wind directions, more especially in Bengal, are variable and irregular.

Strong winds are reported from stations on or near the West Coast of India; a gale of wind has been blowing during the day at Bombay and Cochin, and the wind velocity is considerably above the September average at Colombo and Belgaum, and the majority of stations in the Deccan.

The wind directions at the great majority of stations in Northern and Central India indicate indraught to the area of depression—strongly marked on the western and southern quadrants, but moderate in amount on the northern and eastern quadrants. The wind directions at Rajkot and Kurrachee appear to be exceptions to this.

Light showers have fallen at several stations in the North-Western Provinces: Meerut received 1 inch, Cawnpore .7 inch, and Allahabad .44 inch.

Heavy rain has continued to fall in the area of barometric depression. The more important rainfalls registered to-day were: Rajkot 6.83 inches, Surat 6.35 inches, Bombay 1.5 inches, Belgaum 1.12 inches, Khandwa 1.6 inches, Neemuch 1.1 inches, Ahmedabad .76 inch.

Cochin received 1.78 inches during the day.

Thursday, 19th September.—There has been a further fall of the barometer at all stations, except Sibsaigar, Madras, and Dera Ismail Khan. The fall exceeds .05" at the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal, from Vizagapatam to Diamond Island, and is greatest at Akyab, where it amounts to .093".

The distribution of pressure is very abnormal to-day. The pressure is singularly uniform over the Gangetic Valley and the Punjab, as is shown by the pressure at the following four stations:—

Saugor Island	... 29.582"	Agra	... 29.583"
Benares	29.583	Peshawur	29.584

The area of low pressure continues in Western India. Minimum pressure in India was again observed at Surat, near which the centre of depression probably was at 10 A.M. to-day. The centre of indraught appears to be about midway between Surat and Deesa.

* The large fall at the coast stations of the head of the Bay indicates the formation of an area of low pressure in the Bay, the lowest pressure being probably at some distance to the south-south-west of Akyab.

The following table gives the variation of the pressure at the more important stations from the mean September pressure:—

Akyab27" in defect.	Lahore17" in defect.
Chittagong	.. .21 "	Dera Ismail Khan16 "
Dacca19 "	Mooltan	.. .18 "
Sibsaigar16 "	Kurrachee23 "
Goalpara	.. .18 "	Bombay26 "
Calcutta15 "	Deesa26 "
Fateh Point19 "	Khandwa29 "
Patna18 "	Ajmere14 "

Agra16 "	Nagpore16 "
Lucknow15 "	Vizagapatam20 "
Roorkee15 "	Madras15 "
Delhi14 "	Bangalore13 "
Colombo07" in defect.

It indicates very clearly the relative distribution and variation of pressure.

Strong winds continue along the West Coast of India. The Bombay observer again reports a gale of wind. The wind directions at the head of the Bay are due north. The indraught has not yet affected the wind direction at Calcutta (W.S.W.), or Dacca, where it was calm at 10 A.M. to-day.

There have been three distinct areas of rainfall during the past 24 hours.

Excessive rain has occurred in connection with the barometric depression at Rajkot and Surat: Rajkot received 6.28 inches and Surat 4.65 inches; 1.1 inches fell at Neemuch, 1.03 inches at Ahmedabad, and smaller amounts at Bombay, Belgaum, and Nagpore.

General rain fell over the North-Western Provinces. The centre of heaviest rainfall was Shahjahanpore, where 6.2 inches were registered this morning. The following amounts were also reported from the same area:—Morar 2.75 inches, 2 inches at Fatehgarh, 1.56 inches at Bareilly, .8 inch at Jhansi and Fyzabad, and .54 inch at Lucknow.

The barometric depression in the north-east angle of the Bay of Bengal has given fair rain to the coast region of Burmah: 1.32 inches were recorded at Diamond Island, and 1.73 inches at Rangoon.

Colombo received 1.52 inches yesterday.

General Summary.—The meteorology of the week has been interesting as illustrating the intimate connection between rainfall and the formation and development of cyclonic disturbances. The barometric range over India on the 12th was unusually large. This was followed by an increased current from the Bay of Bengal, which gave general rain to British Burmah, Arracan, Bengal, Behar, and the North-Western Provinces on the 13th and 14th.

The barometer began to rise on the 13th. Pressure increased rapidly in Northern India until the morning of the 15th. During this interval heavy rain appears to have fallen at the head of the Bay, and determined the origin of a feeble cyclonic disturbance. It reached the coast of Orissa on the morning of the 15th. At 10 A.M. of the 15th the centre was in the neighbourhood of Cuttack. The rainfall which accompanied it at this time was moderate in amount. It advanced almost due westwards, and the cyclonic vortex was between Jubbulpore and Nagpore on the morning of the 17th. Here it began to draw supplies of moisture from the West Coast of India. The rainfall in the Central Provinces was much more considerable than the rainfall in Orissa during the passage of the cyclone. With the continued indraught from the Arabian Sea, the cyclonic vortex advanced westward, and became further intensified. On the morning of the 17th the vortex was near Khandwa, and on the 18th in the neighbourhood of Surat. The rainfall over the more central portion of the area was excessive on the 17th, 18th and 19th. The unusual line of march of this cyclonic depression across the head of the peninsula proper (almost due west from False Point to Cuttack), and the further development of the disturbance after the supply of moisture from the Bay of Bengal (as shown by the Orissa rainfall) was failing, was evidently due to the heavy local rainfall over the middle and lower valleys of the Nerbudda and Tapti. It illustrates the dependence of the cyclonic disturbance on rainfall for its existence and line of march.

Whilst this cyclonic vortex was crossing the peninsula from Khandwa to Surat, the barometer again began to fall over the whole of India. It has fallen steadily from the 18th to the 19th, and most rapidly in Northern India. The report of the 19th shows that this has given general rain to the North-Western Provinces and that a small depression is again forming near the head of the Bay.

The continued occurrence of excessive local rainfall has been a prominent feature of the past week.

The following table gives the rainfall for the week over Northern India :—

Inches.				Inches.
Rangoon	4.24	Fyzabad	1.6
Akyab	3.19	Cawnpore	1.0
Chittagong	2.28	Fatehgarh	2.7
Dacca	1.18	Agra	2.91
Sibsagar	3.02	Aligarh4
Goalpara	1.10	Delhi12
Rungpore	2.35	Meerut	1.0
Purneah	5.30	Roorkee36
Mozufferpore26	Bareilly	9.61
Patna94	Shahjahanpore	8.2
Hazariabagh	2.14	Morar	3.96
Calcutta	1.02	Jhansi	2.9
Cuttack	2.66	Lahore	0
Benares95	Peshawur	0
Allahabad	1.33	Mooltan	0
Lucknow80	Dera Ismail Khan	0

Fair rain has fallen in Burmah, Bengal and Orissa; moderate rain in the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces; fair rain in the Agra, Fatehgarh and Jhansi districts of the North-Western Provinces, and excessive rain in the Rohilund division. No rain was registered in the Punjab, with the exception of a small amount at Delhi.

The rainfall of the reporting stations in the Bombay Presidency, Central India, Rajputana and the Central Provinces is given below :—

Inches.				Inches.
Jacobabad	0	Indore	12.2
Kurrachee	0	Neemuch	3.89
Deesa	0	Khandwa	5.75
Ajmir03	Nagpore	6.32
Ahmedabad	3.47	Jubbulpore	1.91
Rajkot	15.77	Belgaum	2.52
Surat	18.93	Poona88
Bombay	6.55	Shulapore	1.04

The unusually heavy rainfall over the stations within the more central part of the barometric depression, is shown by the excessive amounts registered at Nagpore, Khandwa, Indore, Surat, Bombay and Rajkot. The rainfall at these stations should be compared with the rainfall of Orissa and Ganjam for the week.

The following gives the rainfall of the week at the reporting stations in the Deccan, Madras Presidency and Ceylon :—

Inches.				Inches.
Chatterpore (Ganjam)	1.25	Bangalore	1.50
Vizagapatnam	1.10	Madras	0.53
Masulipatam62	Coimbatore	0
Bellary20	Madura	0
Hyderabad	2.14	Cochin	5.90
Cuddapah45	Colombo	4.13

The rainfall of the Deccan and Madras Presidency has been generally moderate in amount. Heavy rain occurred at Colombo and Cochin, and probably along the whole West Coast.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 17TH SEPTEMBER 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—General prospects in Madras continue to be fair. In Kurnool, Coimbatore and some taluks of Malabar excessive rain has caused some slight injury to the crops; in other districts the rainfall has been moderate and sufficient. The numbers on relief works and gratuitously fed amounted to 98,569 and 60,518, respectively, being an increase of 529 and 1,520 as compared with the previous week. In Mysore prospects are very favourable and prices shew a downward tendency. There has been a further decrease in the number on relief works, while the number gratuitously relieved again shows a slight increase. In the Bombay Presidency excessive rain has fallen in a few places, and has caused some damage to the crops; locusts have also done injury in Sind, elsewhere crops are good. In the Central Provinces more rain is required in the Eastern districts, while in some others excessive rain has injured millets and a break is needed; prices are high and cholera continues in several places. The rainfall in Berar has been heavy and a break is wanted. In Central India ten inches of rain fell in Malwa in 24 hours and has caused damage; prospects in Gwalior and Bundelkhand continue fair. In Rajputana the crops are generally good; locusts have been causing damage in parts. Rain has fallen in all the districts of Bengal, but more is still wanted in Pooree and Balasore and parts of Midnapore and Shahabad; damage has been caused in some places to amun crop on low lands by heavy rain and flood; general prospects however are very favourable. In Assam heavy rain continues and some damage has been caused by floods. In Burma prospects have somewhat improved, but in most districts more rain is still needed. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh prospects continue favourable, as also in the Punjab. The fever usual at this season is prevalent in the last named Province.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR
GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING
LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Thursday, the 5th September, 1878.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, G.M.S.I., presiding.
His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, C.S.I.
His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, G.C.B.

The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.
The Hon'ble G. H. M. Batten.

ACT IX OF 1878 AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER ARBUTHNOT moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Act No. IX of 1878 (for the better control of Publications in Oriental languages), and which was commonly known as the "Vernacular Press Act." The Bill which he desired to introduce, had been framed in consequence of instructions received from the Secretary of State in a despatch in which he conveyed the assent of Her Majesty's Government to the Act which was passed in March last, but requested the Government of India to refrain from putting into operation that portion of the Act which enabled the publishers of vernacular newspapers to withdraw themselves from its restrictive provisions by submitting their proofs to a Government officer; and desired that, if necessary, the Government of India should, by fresh legislation, either suspend or abandon that portion of the Act. With His Excellency's permission he would read to the Council the paragraph of the Secretary of State's despatch which contained the instructions in question. It was as follows:—

"9. I entertain very grave doubts of the expediency of putting into action the portion of the Act which enables, and indeed encourages, the publishers of vernacular newspapers to withdraw themselves from its restrictive provisions by submitting their proofs to a Government officer. In India the difficulty of executing it would be unusually great. The vernacular newspapers are printed in a great variety of languages; no one officer could probably superintend them with effect. Every person charged with the duty of supervision must be acquainted with the niceties of Native dialect, and most of these persons would probably have to be natives of the country. Such a system might give rise to great abuses. It is defended, I observe, in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, on the ground of the hardship which the requirement of a bond and of the deposit of security might inflict on some of the owners of vernacular journals; but it seems to me that these provisions of the Act might be accommodated to the circumstances of each newspaper. The difficulties of establishing Government newspapers in the vernacular tongues were much dwelt upon in the debate in your Council, and I fully appreciate them; but I cannot but see that any censor of proofs will in fact write the newspaper which he revises. Her Majesty's Government request that you will refrain from putting this part of the Act into operation, taking power, by fresh legislation, to suspend or abandon it if you deem this necessary."

The Government of India had given very careful consideration to the instructions contained in the paragraph which he had just read, and had come to the conclusion that if that portion of the Act to which the Secretary of State had taken exception was not to be brought into operation, it was on every account expedient, and in fact necessary, that it should be repealed; otherwise very serious embarrassments might occur in the event of circumstances arising under which a proprietor of a newspaper might elect to avail himself of the provisions in question.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER ARBUTHNOT then introduced the Bill, and moved that it be taken into consideration on the 26th September, 1878. He said that on that occasion he should take the liberty to offer to the Council some remarks on the working of the Act and on the discussions which had taken place both in this country and in England with reference to it.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

HUSAINÁBÁD ENDOWMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to make better provision for the management of the Husainábád Endowment at Lucknow, and moved that it be taken into consideration. He said that as this Bill was about a year old, it might be convenient to recall to the recollection of the Council some of the leading facts connected with it. Its object was to provide for the due administration of what was called the Husainábád Endowment, the property of which, speaking roughly, now amounted to two and a half crores of rupees. The endowment was created about forty years ago by the third King of Oudh, Muhammad Ali Shah. Its trusts were three—firstly, to provide for the payment of certain pensions; secondly, to defray the expenses of a mosque called Husainábád Mubérak; and thirdly, to repair a certain road. It was to be managed by two Superintendents and an Agent and their descendants for the time being. In 1857 the mutiny broke out; the then Agent joined the mutineers and was killed at Lucknow, and the property disappeared, some of it having been improperly disposed of by the Superintendents. The property, or most of it, was, however, after some time recovered, and new Superintendents and a new Agent were appointed by the pensioners.

Since then one of these new Superintendents had died, and on looking at the trust-deed (which was not, he need hardly say, framed by a professional conveyancer) it appeared that the appointment of these new trustees after the

was fordable, be an accession to the land " of the person or persons whose estate or estates might be most contiguous to it." But this did not, apparently, provide for cases where the island was partly on one side and partly on the other of the thread of the stream, nor for cases where there were several riparian owners, and the island could not be said to be nearer to the property of one than to that of another.

The Regulation was also deficient in not embodying the doctrine of what Roman lawyers called agri limitati, according to which, when land belonging to the State was granted in plots with a fixed area, and the plots were enlarged by alluvion, the increase did not become the property of the grantees. Such a provision was especially required in the Presidency of Bombay.

The Bill attempted to supply these defects.

As regards the rights of riparian owners to islands, the Bill applied the same rules to an island formed in the sea or a navigable river when the channel between it and the adjacent land was fordable, and to an island formed in a river which was not navigable.

Lastly, the Bill declared that when any river formed a new course, abandoning its ancient bed, the owners of the ancient banks were entitled to the ancient bed in proportion to their respective frontages. It was believed that this was in accordance with the existing law as declared by the High Court at Fort William, and it seemed less likely to encourage litigation than to provide (as was done by some systems) that the owners of the land newly occupied should take the ancient bed, each in proportion to the land of which he had been deprived.

The Bill advisedly left untouched the law relating to the assessment of alluvial lands and lands diminished by diluvion; to the rent payable in respect of such lands, and to the rights of tenants and mortgagees to alluvial lands. Such matters were obviously more fitly provided for in special enactments dealing with revenue, rent, mortgages and leases.

In conclusion, he had only to state that a rough draft of the Bill had been in circulation to the Local Governments and Administrations for the last six months, and a valuable body of commentary had been the result. To the Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal and the Panjáb and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, Mr. STOKES, as draftsman of the Bill, felt personally indebted for the careful criticisms with which they had favoured him; and if he obtained leave to introduce the Bill, they would see that he had given due attention to those criticisms.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Thursday, the 26th September, 1878.

Loans.

No. 3103.

Simla, the 23rd September 1878.

It having been represented to the Secretary of State and the Government of India, that many holders of the Notes of the Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan of 1859-60, were unavoidably prevented from surrendering their Notes for transfer to The Transfer Loan, 1879, by noon of Monday, the Sixteenth Day of September, the Governor General in Council is pleased to notify that Promissory Notes of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan, will continue to be received in India or London, under the Sixth and Seventh Clauses of the Notification No. 2005, dated 12th August 1878, to be exchanged for Notes of The Transfer Loan, 1879, in either the First or the Second Form, until noon of Monday, the Seventh Day of October next.

2. If the owner of any Note of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan cannot actually deliver it before noon of Monday, the Seventh October next, its surrender may be provisionally accepted upon the owner's personal written guarantee (which need not be stamped), that he will deliver the said Note, duly receipted, as soon as it comes into his possession: provided that the Bank or Treasury Officer is satisfied that the guarantor will be able to give a legal receipt for the contents of the said Note, and that the delivery of no Note thus provisionally surrendered will be accepted after the Eighteenth Day of November 1878.

3. Tenders will be received under the Ninth Clause of the said Notification for only as much of the sum of Ten Crores of Rupees as will remain after deducting the amount of the Notes of the said Five-and-a-Half Per Cent. Loan which may be surrendered under this Notification, as well as the amount of the Notes (amounting to about Seven Crores of Rupees) which have been already surrendered under the Notification No. 2005, dated 12th August last.

Despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State, No. 133, dated 11th July 1878, forwarding a Minute by Dr. Seaton of the Local Government Board, showing that quarantine is not practised in England.

R E S O L U T I O N .

THE consideration of the Government of India has recently been given to the subject of quarantine rules for Indian ports, and to the desirability of adopting a uniform system for them all. The question of quarantine has been much discussed during the last few years, and rules have been sanctioned for some places, and considered for others. The Secretary of State has declared the principles which should dominate the action of the Government of India, and the opportunity will now be taken to review the history of the case, and to lay down the principles by which the Government of India will be guided in the future.

2. By Act I of 1870, the Governor General in Council, and the Local Governments (with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council), were empowered to make rules—(1) for putting any vessel into a state of quarantine; (2) for regulating the intercourse of vessels in a state of quarantine with the shore or with other vessels; and (3) for regulating the intercourse between ports where an infectious disease prevails, and other ports. On the 9th September 1872, a set of quarantine rules, framed by the Government of Madras, was sanctioned for ports in the Madras Presidency; and in 1873, similar rules were sanctioned by the Government of India for British Burmah.

3. In May 1874, the Secretary of State called on the Government of India for information, which he had been asked to obtain for the Turkish Ambassador in London, relative to the quarantine restrictions imposed in India on vessels coming from any infected ports, and the rules regulating the visits of Health Officers and Doctors to such ships. Accordingly, the Government of Bengal, and Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, were desired to furnish copies of the quarantine rules in force in those provinces, and at the same time to give an opinion upon the effect produced by the rules, or the general utility of the system. The Government of Bengal replied that no rules under Act I of 1870 were in force in Bengal; but that one of the rules for the guidance of the Hooghly pilots provided for the detention of vessels below the port of Calcutta in cases of infectious disease on board. The Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, was unable to say that the rules in force under Act I of 1870 had had any practical effect. These answers were duly transmitted to the Secretary of State. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal had simultaneously before him the subject of the want of proper arrangements for the sanitary supervision of the port of Calcutta. He was averse to quarantine rules, as calculated to cause much inconvenience to the public, and serious interference with trade; and preferred that each case of vessels with infection on board should be dealt with according to circumstances under the practice that had hitherto obtained. On his recommendation, a Health Officer for the port of Calcutta was established, who, amongst other duties, was required to board vessels arriving in the port with infectious disease on board. This arrangement still obtains, and no quarantine rules have been passed for the port of Calcutta.

1. In July 1875, the Government of Bombay submitted, for approval, a code of quarantine rules framed under Act I of 1870; but the Government of India were unable to sanction their promulgation, and replied in the following terms:—

"2. Setting aside, for the present, any question of the cost involved in these proposals, it is evident, I am to observe, that these rules, if they become law, may be productive of much hardship and inconvenience. They may involve considerable extra expense to owners of vessels; they may seriously interfere with trade, and may practically subject passengers to a bad form of imprisonment for an indefinite period. Before any rules of this kind are sanctioned, it ought to be shown, first, that Bombay, or any of the other ports in question, has, beyond all doubt, suffered for want of such precautions; and, secondly, that any evils which have formerly arisen from unrestricted communication will, in all reasonable probability, be prevented from recurring by the means proposed.

"3. Under the first head, no evidence has been adduced; but there are certain considerations in regard to the second which lead to the conclusion that little good can be expected. The diseases against which the rules are specially directed are diseases which are well known in India. Cholera and small-pox—the two which are most frequently met with—are common all over the country.

* * * * *

It would be anomalous for a vessel to be quarantined in Bombay harbour, because of a case of cholera or small-pox; while, at the very same time, cases in the town are subject to no restriction whatever, and parties of people, among whom such cases may have occurred within a few days, may be coming in by rail and road without let or hindrance.

* * * * *

"7. Without questioning the efficacy of a theoretically perfect quarantine, the Government of India doubt whether such a quarantine is practicable at Bombay. In this view, all that can be properly done is to declare that when disease of an epidemic character is present on board a ship, measures shall be taken for affording hospital accommodation and treatment for the sick; and if a vessel has come from any port where Asiatic plague exists, as a measure of special precaution which is not likely to be often required and which can do no harm, not only should the sick be cured for, but the vessel should be fumigated.

"8. Act I of 1870 provides for the making of rules relating to quarantine; but it is very important that such rules should be made only when the necessity for them has been proved beyond all doubt; and that any rules which may be sanctioned should be framed so as to do as little mischief as possible. I am, therefore, to request that the Government of India may be informed in detail of any cases which show that it is advisable to apply quarantine rules to Bombay and the other ports proposed; and I am also to suggest that, in the mean time, the powers which the Health Officer now exercises may be limited to what is allowed by law.

"9. In conclusion, I am to remark that the rules must be regarded not only as they will affect Bombay. If a regular system of quarantine is brought into force at Bombay, it will certainly lead the Turkish authorities to insist on their rules at Suez being carried out in a much more stringent manner than they have yet been acted on, and thus seriously interrupt the highway to India. It would be a grave mistake for the Government of this country to give Turkey, or any other power ground for believing that ordinary quarantine has been found of any practical value as a preservative against cholera in India, or that there is any Indian experience in its favour, unless it can be proved, beyond all doubt, that this has really been the

5. The Governor of the Straits Settlements in April 1875 applied to the Government of India for copies of the quarantine rules in force in India, whereupon the Government of Madras were asked for a full report on the working and practical results of the rules issued under Act I of 1870 for their ports, and for their opinion whether any advantage had been derived from the introduction of the rules. The Madras Government, however, were not in a position to give an opinion on the actual advantage of the rules, as organized measures for quarantine purposes had not up to that time been in working at the different ports, and only one case calling for quarantine had occurred since the promulgation of the rules.

6. In June 1875, the Secretary of State asked the Government of India for information regarding the imposition of quarantine in Indian ports on ships arriving from the Persian Gulf. Several cases of plague had occurred in Mesopotamia; but the outbreak was localized, and indeed confined to certain marshy tracts where no sanitary precautions had been taken. Merchants connected with the Persian Gulf trade complained to the English Foreign Office of the vexatious quarantine imposed upon their vessels at Suez by the Egyptian authorities. The Government of India had received similar reports of the existence of plague in Mesopotamia, but had not deemed it necessary to enforce quarantine in any Indian port on vessels coming from the Persian Gulf. In reply to the Secretary of State, the Government of India expressed an opinion that there was little or no fear of plague being imported into India, and that, considering the representations made by merchants of the vexations caused by quarantine, it was not deemed expedient to impose it in any Indian port on the outbreak of plague in Turkish Arabia. The Secretary of State was also informed of the correspondence that had passed with the Bombay Government regarding quarantine rules; and it was added that the several Maritime Governments in India would be kept duly informed of such outbreaks of plague, so that, in case of a vessel arriving from the Persian Gulf with plague on board, the special procedure for fumigation of the vessel and treatment of the sick might be followed.

7. Again, in October 1875, the Bombay Government submitted a revised draft of quarantine rules of a less stringent character, in which no provision was made for the detention of healthy persons in quarantine, but only for the detention and isolation of the sick. The Government of India were unable to accept these rules even in their modified form, as evidence had not been adduced to prove that Bombay had actually suffered from want of such precautions; or that the evils which had in fact arisen from unrestricted communication would, in all reasonable probability, be prevented by the restrictions proposed. At the same time, the Government of Bombay were invited, if still of opinion that the proposed system of quarantine was desirable in Bombay, to re-submit the case with a full and complete statement of the facts and evidence. But they replied that, considering the objections taken, the best plan would be for the Local Government to give such directions as might appear necessary in each case. Of this determination, the Government of India approved in April 1876, adding that care should be taken that any such measures should be in accordance with the law.

8. Meanwhile, the Secretary of State had received the papers containing the earlier stages of the correspondence with the Bombay Government, and, in his despatch No. 127 of the 23rd December 1875, observed that the refusal of the Government of India to allow the quarantine rules proposed by the Government of Bombay was not in harmony with the sanction previously accorded to the rules for the Madras and British Burmah ports, or with the practice at Calcutta. He desired, therefore, that the whole subject should be re-considered, and consistent rules drawn up and promulgated for the whole of India. Lord Salisbury wrote:—

“While the regulations would not impose measures of general quarantine, the several Governments or Administrations should not be absolutely deprived of the power, under any exceptional circumstances which might occur, of enforcing quarantine within the proper bounds of reason and discretion. In this point of view, provision might be made for giving effect to any specially stringent rules designed to meet the case of unusual outbreaks of disease only after the issue of specific orders with that object by the Local Government. For ordinary conditions, a simpler procedure would suffice. From the operation of any such rules, troopships should be exempted, special arrangements in regard to them being made in the Military Department.”

Thereupon, the Government of Madras, and the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, were asked to report how far the rules had been enforced; what facts had come to notice tending to prove either that they had been of advantage, or that they had failed in their object; what annual expenditure had been incurred on this account, and whether the advantage resulting from the quarantine arrangements was considered to be such as to warrant their continuance or extension.

9. The Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, in September 1876 forwarded reports from the Health Officers of the four principal ports of the province, stating his own opinion that, as the rules had been worked with discretion and prudence, there was no objection to their maintenance. Under them, the ports had generally enjoyed complete immunity from contagious diseases imported from foreign coasts. He repeated his predecessor's opinion that "having regard to the little that is known of the nature of such diseases as cholera, and the mode in which it is spread, more harm than good is often done by placing in quarantine a crowded vessel in which one or two sporadic cases, probably arising from unaccustomed diet and mode of life, have occurred." At the same time, he considered the existence of the rules a safeguard in cases where a vessel arrives at a port with a virulent and spreading visitation of dangerous and infectious disease among her passengers or crew, and that the application of the quarantine rules in such cases would be desirable.

10. Early in 1876, plague was alleged to have appeared on the river Euphrates, whereupon the Government of India (by Circular No. 2—62 to 66, dated 21st March) desired all Local Governments with seaports to take precautionary measures in the case of all vessels coming from the localities affected; adding that probably it would not be necessary to do more than carry out the precautions in paragraph 7 of the orders of May 1875 to the Bombay Government which are set out in paragraph 4 above. The Persian Government established fifteen days' quarantine along the Turkish frontier and in the Persian Gulf. The Resident at Bushire was ordered to assist the Persian authorities in maintaining quarantine at sea.

11. Subsequently, the Egyptian Sanitary Board established at Suez quarantine of fifteen days irrespective of voyage on all arrivals from the Persian Gulf; and the Bombay Government, with a view to forestall the risk of controversy with the Egyptian authorities, and to prevent interruption of communication with Europe, proposed to establish strict quarantine of fifteen days at Bombay, Kurrachee, and Aden. The Government of India then agreed to sanction provisionally the following rules on the 22nd June 1876, and asked the Bombay Government to submit them for publication in the Gazette of India, as required by Act I of 1870:—

"(1.) Every vessel arriving at Kurrachee, Bombay or Aden from any port in the Persian Gulf or other quarter, where plague actually exists, shall be inspected on arrival. If no plague exists on board, or has occurred on the voyage, the vessel shall be detained in quarantine till 15 days have expired from the date of sailing from such port.

"If the vessel has come straight from any port at which a British Consul exists, who shall certify that there is no plague at the said port, such vessel shall be exempt from these rules, provided that no case of plague shall have occurred during the voyage; also all vessels carrying mails, unless plague has actually appeared on board, shall be exempted from these rules.

"(2.) If any case of plague shall have occurred during the voyage to any of the said ports, or shall be found on board on arrival, such case or cases shall be isolated and the vessel fumigated and detained in quarantine till 15 days have elapsed since the last case of plague occurred.

"(3.) Arrangements shall be made at Kurrachee, Bombay, and Aden for the proper reception and treatment of cases so isolated, and of vessels in quarantine.

"(4.) If any vessel coming under rule (1) shall proceed to Suez, or to any port in the Red Sea, it shall be noted in the bill of health whether any case of plague has occurred on board before or after arrival at Kurrachee, Bombay or Aden, and, if so, what precautions have been taken.

"(5.) If plague should appear among the general population of India at Kurrachee, Aden or Bombay, immediate notice will be sent to the Egyptian authorities, and further measures enforced."

12. At the same time, the Secretary of State was informed by telegram that quarantine had provisionally been established at Kurrachee, Aden and Bombay. He replied that he had no objection to quarantine of observation or medical inspection. He was subsequently apprized in further detail of the procedure adopted. Eventually, in his despatch No. 70, dated 20th July 1876, Lord Salisbury, when acknowledging the correspondence that had passed, asked for full explanation of the reasons which had rendered it necessary, in the opinion of the Government of India, to impose a quarantine, which could not but be accompanied with restrictions that would be viewed as vexatious by those engaged in commerce with the Persian Gulf.

13. In July 1876, the Secretary of State telegraphed that reports had been received in London from the Consul at Alexandria of the cessation of the plague in Mesopotamia, on which the Egyptian authorities had reduced quarantine to 5 days on arrivals from the Arabian ports, maintaining it at 15 days on those from the Persian ports, of the Persian Gulf. The Foreign Office in England were asked by the Secretary of State to obtain the withdrawal of the Egyptian threat. The Bombay Government were desired by the Government of India to introduce a similar relaxation at Indian ports and at Aden. Finally, the Egyptian Sanitary Board admitted all vessels from the Persian Gulf to free pratique from the 12th August, and quarantine was at once withdrawn at Aden, Kurrachee, and Bombay.

14. The Bombay Government, in their No. 2098, dated 11th July 1876, submitted, for approval, as a temporary measure, a Notification issued by them in regard to quarantine rules for the port of Bombay. Although the disease in Mesopotamia was believed to be fast dying out, and the danger passing away, the authorities in the Persian Gulf fully anticipated another outbreak in the ensuing year; the Bombay Government thereupon took the opportunity of expressing their opinions respecting quarantine generally, and of establishing a clear understanding as to the course to be pursued. The Government of India carefully examined the rules which the Bombay Government had proposed to issue, and returned them for further consideration on certain points. In November 1876, the Bombay Government submitted an amended copy of quarantine rules, with their opinion that the rules should not be published until further necessity for so doing might arise, though it was very desirable to have them ready in case of emergency. In April 1877 the Government of India sanctioned the rules proposed by the Government of Bombay, adding that the rules would be published in the Gazette of India when the Government of Bombay reported that necessity for their promulgation had arisen. No practical effect was, however, to be given to the provisions of these rules without previous notice to the Government of India. The rules sanctioned were as follows:—

“In exercise of the power conferred by Act No. I of 1870 (to provide rules relating to quarantine), the following rules have been made by His Excellency the Governor of Bombay in Council, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council:—

1. The commander of every vessel, including buggulows or other native craft, arriving at Bombay from the Persian Gulf, shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which she has come.

2. Such commander shall not, without having first obtained permission as hereinafter provided, allow any communication either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

3. Immediately on the signal of such arrivals being made, the Health Officer of the port shall go alongside the vessel, and ascertain by enquiry from the commander whether any person on board is then suffering, or has, during the voyage, suffered from plague; and if such officer is satisfied by such enquiry that no such case has occurred, he shall, by writing under his hand to be delivered to the commander, permit free communication between such vessel and the shore, and with other vessels and boats in the harbour.

4. If the Health Officer shall have reason to believe that any such case has occurred, he shall direct the commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified by Government, there to remain for the space of 15 days from the day of arrival in the harbour or from the date of the occurrence of the latest case of illness; and shall further direct the commander to prohibit, during the said 15 days, all communication except such as is hereinafter provided for between such vessel and the shore, or other vessels or boats in the harbour. The Health Officer may further direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from sickness, and whose services may not be required on board the ship, to such particular spots as may, from time to time, be fixed upon by the Local Government as places of quarantine, there to remain for a space of 15 days, or, in the event of the occurrence of a case of sickness for a space of 15 days, from the date of the occurrence of the last case.

‘5. Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as may be deemed necessary by the Health Officer to prevent the spread of the disease.’

‘6. It will be the duty of the Superintendent of Marine to facilitate the conveyance to the vessel in quarantine of all supplies of provisions, stores and other articles required by those on board. These supplies should be placed on the boats of the vessel to be subsequently removed by members of her crew.’”

15. While this correspondence with the Bombay Government was in progress, a despatch (No. 3, dated 9th February 1877) explained to the Secretary of State (see paragraph 12 above) the reasons which had led the Government of India to impose quarantine on vessels arriving from the Persian Gulf at Kurra- chee, Aden, and Bombay. The British India Steam Navigation Company had complained of the constant obstructions thrown in their way by quarantine regulations enforced at Egyptian ports in the Red Sea. The Government of India wrote to the Secretary of State:—

“We regard the restrictions of which the Company complain as most unnecessary and vexatious, and trust that every effort may be made to induce the Egyptian authorities to abstain from all such interference in future.

“The general principle we have adopted in respect to quarantine is that this measure, while certain to produce much hardship and to offer very serious obstacles to trade, can hardly be of any practical benefit. All we would recommend is the medical inspection of arrivals from affected ports, the separation and proper care of the sick, and the thorough cleansing and fumigation of the ship.

“In June last, at the urgent request of the Bombay Government,—who represented that, if vessels from the Red Sea were not subjected to quarantine in Indian ports, all departures from these ports to the Red Sea would be exposed to detention and other annoyances at Suez,—we reluctantly consented to quarantine rules being applied to vessels from the Persian Gulf arriving at Kurra- chee, Bombay, and Aden; but fortunately, before they were passed, the plague had almost entirely ceased, and, so far as we are aware, it was not found necessary to apply them in any instance.

“On this point, and on other matters concerning the disease which prevailed in Mesopotamia, and which has been reported under the name of “plague,” we have called for specific information which will enable us to decide more fully what measures should be taken in Indian ports; but it is very important, for the proper settlement of this question, that the action which the Egyptian authorities intend to take in the matter should be known. To any danger there may be of the transmission of the disease by ships, India is much more exposed than Egypt, inasmuch as the Egyptian ports are much further removed from the seat of danger, and also because vessels going from the Persian Gulf to the Red Sea, all, as a rule, touch at Indian ports. Any regulations which we consider necessary for the protection of this country ought, therefore, to satisfy the Egyptian authorities. So long as India remains free from plague—and no case has yet been reported even in vessels arriving from the Persian Gulf—there seems no good reason for Egypt to dread the introduction of the disease by vessels coming from Indian ports.”

16. Again, in despatch No. 12, dated 4th June 1877, the Government of India communicated to the Secretary of State the quarantine rules sanctioned (paragraph 14 above) for the port of Bombay, in the event of a quarantine being unavoidable, and assured him that they would avoid putting the rules in force as long as possible. In July 1877, Lord Salisbury replied:—

“Your Excellency is already well acquainted with my general views on the subject of quarantine; and, considering the importance of a consistent example being set by this country to other powers in regard to this matter, I am glad to receive your assurance that you will avoid putting the rules in force as long as possible.”

17. The Government of India had been anxious, since October 1876, to obtain information on certain points, to enable them to determine what measures should be ready for adoption whenever an outbreak of plague might occur. In due course, during 1877, reports were received on the subject of the plague in Bagdad and other places in Turkish Arabia; but they were chiefly occupied with discussions regarding the nature of the disease, and the value of the measures adopted to prevent its spreading, so that they could hardly form the basis of any precautionary measures. On the 4th January 1878, the information was transmitted to the Secretary of State, with the following opinion from the Government of India :—

"The question whether the disease is true plague, or whether, if not, it is infectious or contagious, appears to be surrounded by doubt. Our Sanitary Commissioner is disposed to consider it true plague, or a disease very much allied thereto, and as capable of being spread by human intercourse, though the extent to which a population exposed to the infection may suffer from the disease depends on the degree to which the people are under the influence of foul insanitary surroundings. The cases referred to by Dr. Bartoletti are not known to us; but it does not seem at all certain either that the disease in the cases named was true plague, and, if it was not, whether it was a disease so infectious or contagious as to be affected by quarantine.

* Idc enclosures of Secretary of State's despatch No. 86 (Statistics and Commerce), dated 14th June 1877.

if it was not, whether it was a disease so infectious or contagious as to be affected by quarantine.

"3. The system of blockading infected houses, which Dr. Colvill (Medical Officer at Baghdad) has brought to notice, appears to be cruel, and at the same time useless; and the same may be said of the internal quarantine arrangements, but these are matters with which we cannot interfere. We can only repeat the opinion expressed in the 6th paragraph of our despatch No. 3 (Foreign Department—General), dated the 9th February last, that improvement in the sanitary condition of the localities in which plague is apt to arise affords the best means of preventing its recurrence. What we have to consider is how far the prevalence of the disease in Turkish Arabia places this country in danger, and whether we should adopt any measures to obviate the possibility of its being imported into India. From the latest accounts, the disease appears to have disappeared from Baghdad, and to be present only in Resht on the shore of the Caspian; but Dr. Colvill is of opinion that it will re-appear next spring, and suggests that a quarantine should be established at a distance from the shores of India, and that all vessels, whether bound for India or elsewhere, should be detained at the mouth of the Gulf. Such a measure would greatly impede commerce, and inflict very considerable loss and hardship on the mercantile community. We also doubt its being necessary, or that it would prove efficacious; and for the present, at all events, we are unable to perceive that any sufficient reason exists for the adoption of such a course.

"4. In the event of the disease again appearing at Baghdad or other places, in communication with the Persian Gulf, and if it becomes necessary to take any action in the matter, we think that a system of inspection of ships arriving from the Gulf might be established at Bombay and other Indian ports, and the importation of rags prohibited. For further preventive measures, we must rely on keeping our port towns free from those insanitary conditions which render populations susceptible to infection, and without which it is believed that diseases of the nature of plague will not spread."

And at the same time, the Bombay Government were desired to submit statistics regarding the number of persons detained in quarantine at Kurrachee, Aden, and Bombay during 1876, and the number of cases of plague detected among them, with a view to the consideration of the precautionary measures which should be adopted another year, in the event of a fresh occurrence of the plague.

18. At the beginning of 1878, the Secretary of State transmitted to the Government of India further correspondence which had passed with the Foreign Office in England. It appeared that the Egyptian Board of Health had, on the 28th November 1877, published revised quarantine regulations as actually in force for vessels arriving at Suez from ports affected with plague. The modifications introduced thereby were all favourable to the freedom of navigation. Lord Derby had proposed to instruct the Vice-Consul at Alexandria to endeavour to induce the Board of Health to limit the regulations to ships arriving from ports actually infected, and Her Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople to express the hope that the Turkish Board of Health would make corresponding modifications in their sanitary regulations. Lord Salisbury had concurred, and suggested the expediency of its being made quite clear that the mails would in no circumstances be detained, by reason of quarantine, when passing through the canal. On the general subject of quarantine in the East, Lord Salisbury addressed the Foreign Office in Sir L. Mallet's letter of 12th December 1877, which was as follows :—

"In his letter to the Earl of Derby, dated the 4th July last, Count Beust expresses a hope that the British Government will modify its views on this subject†, and will co-operate with our powers in establishing a more thorough and stringent system of quarantine in Persia and Turkish Arabia. The point which most directly concerns this office is the intimation of His Excellency's desire that a system of quarantine should be instituted at Bombay, Kurrachee, and Aden, on vessels arriving from the Persian Gulf, unless England is prepared to consent that all vessels without distinction should be subject to quarantine in the Red Sea.

" 3. The papers further show that Dr. Colvill's recently expressed views on the causes of plague, and the inutility of quarantine, have met with strong opposition at the Constantinople Board of Health.

" 4. In reply, I am to inform you that Lord Salisbury concurs with Lord Derby in the belief that the propositions drawn up by the Austro-Hungarian Government contain views which are opposed to the most trustworthy opinions on this subject held in this country by competent medical authorities.

" 5. In so far as Count Beust's letters seek to induce Her Majesty's Government to stimulate by its advice Turkey and Persia to more energetic action in preventing the spread of epidemic disease across the eastern frontier of the latter, it is not necessary that Lord Salisbury should express any opinion.

" 6. But Count Beust proceeds to urge that a quarantine should be imposed on all vessels coming from the Persian Gulf to Aden, Kurrachee or Bombay, or else, as an alternative course, that England should submit to have all her ships held to quarantine at Suez. On this matter, which deeply affects Indian interests, Lord Salisbury proposes to make some remarks.

" 7. It is obvious that in this recommendation only plague, and not cholera, is in question; for, as cholera is endemic in India, it would be absurd to treat Indian ports as contaminated in that respect by unrestricted intercourse with the Persian Gulf. But it is evident that if, as Count Beust proposes, 15 days shall be deemed a sufficient interval to establish freedom from disease, the voyage from the Persian Gulf via Kurrachee or Bombay, which occupies more than 15 days, cannot bring disease to Suez. The only object, therefore, of the proposed arrangement must be to protect Bombay and Kurrachee from plague, lest they should in their turn communicate it to Suez.

" 8. Lord Salisbury does not propose to enter on this occasion at any length upon the abstract merits of the system of quarantine. Its commercial inconvenience, and the serious hardship it often inflicts on individuals, are well known. Its value as a protection against epidemics has been and is the subject of much animated controversy. The tendency of modern opinion undoubtedly is not favourable to any high estimate of its advantages. The reports made to the Indian Government do not confirm the impression formed by the Austro-Hungarian Government that science has generally recognized the utility of the system. It would be more true, in their experience, to affirm that, among the agencies by which communicable diseases are spread, much less relative importance than formerly is attached to personal contact; and it is increasingly felt that even against the dangers of propagation by personal contact, where they exist, quarantine offers an indifferent protection.

" 9. But whatever value may be attached to this system, it is a protection which can only reasonably be insisted on when there is a real danger to avert. Bombay, Kurrachee, and Aden have not, as a matter of fact, been at any time subject to visitations of the plague. To whatever cause their immunity is owing, it cannot, as a fact, be ignored. It will be early enough to consider regulations for the protection of these places against contamination when their exposure to it has been ascertained by experience. The whole subject is too obscure to justify the subjection of Indian commerce to vexatious restrictions in order to avert a danger which is at present purely speculative.

" 10. Lord Salisbury, two years ago, took an opportunity of observing to the Government of India that, while they should abstain from inserting any quarantine requirements in their general regulations, the several Administrations should not be absolutely deprived of the power, under any exceptional circumstances which might occur, of enforcing quarantine within the proper bounds of reason and discretion. Lord Salisbury does not think that any reason has been shown for interfering with their discretion by imposing any stringent rules. The general opinion of Medical authorities in India is that the true protection against epidemics is to be found in a more careful observance of sanitary laws; and there is too much reason to believe that the energy and thought expended upon the enforcement of vexatious regulations of quarantine operate to divert attention from the only real precautions by which the spread of this class of diseases can be effectively resisted."

As the Government of India had so lately as the 4th January put the Secretary of State in possession of their views on the question of quarantine, no further action was needed, but a copy of the papers was furnished to the Bombay Government.

19. The Government of Madras in December 1877, and February 1878, in reply to the request made to them (see paragraph 8 above), submitted papers which showed that a Committee had been appointed to revise the rules, as, owing to defects, they had not been properly worked. These papers were considered by the Government of India, and a copy of the correspondence, which had taken place with the Bombay Government, was sent in April 1878 to the Government of Madras. It was pointed out that the object of the rules was to prevent the importation of plague into India from ports in the Persian Gulf; that they were only to be introduced in the event of quarantine being unavoidable; and that it had been distinctly stipulated that no practical effect should be given to the quarantine system without previous notice to the Government of India. The Madras Government were asked to consider whether similar rules might be framed for their ports, the practical enforcement of the rules being deferred until the occurrence of actual necessity, and no effect being given to them without previous notice to the Supreme Government.

20. In reply to the orders of 4th January (paragraph 17 above), the Bombay Government reported in April that there had been no cases of plague at Bombay and Aden, and consequently no detentions on this account. It appeared that quarantine arrangements were enforced at Kurrachee on intimation being received of the outbreak of plague, cholera or small-pox at other ports, but that no cases of plague had reached the port of Kurrachee.

21. The Secretary of State in his No. 55 of 21st March 1878 expressed his entire concurrence in the general principles advocated by the Government of India in their despatch of the 4th January. Lord Salisbury added:—

"Your Excellency, with the advice and assistance of the Government of Bombay, will be in a far better position than I can be to judge of the occasions on which they should be applied, and the measures most suitable for carrying them into execution. I will fully support you in taking any steps which may seem to you to be necessary for that purpose."

22. Lord Cranbrook has recently (9th May) addressed the Madras Government, who had asked certain questions regarding the quarantine rules in force in Europe, in the following terms:—

"I have received your Marine letter, dated the 27th February last, No. 12, relative to the proposed revision of the quarantine rules for the ports of your Presidency. * * *

"I forward a copy of a letter from the Government of India (No. 12 of 1877, Sanitary), and of the reply thereto, which will show Your Excellency what has recently been done in the Presidency of Bombay in the same matter.

"I desire at once to make the following comments respecting the subject of your letter:—

"The extension of strict quarantine regulations to all Native craft must either entail upon Government great expense for establishments, or else inflict upon the vessels themselves such a burden in the shape of fees and other charges as would prove most detrimental, if not destructive, to the coasting trade, which is already seriously affected by the competition of the steamer traffic. Either of these alternatives could be justified only by the most pressing necessity.

"I entirely concur in the opinion expressed by the Master Attendant at Masulipatam that communication with the shore would generally involve less risk of infection to the inhabitants than to the crews of the vessels; as also in the remark of the Surgeon-General of the Indian Medical Department that 'a quarantine which commands the sea-route alone, whilst it leaves unguarded the routes by rail and road, cannot possibly be effectual in securing Indian ports from outbreaks of epidemic disease.'

"Whatever rules may be finally adopted, it would be well that the example of the Bombay Government should be followed in the non-application of quarantine for diseases already established in the country, such as measles, small-pox, cholera, &c., and in its limitation to plague and yellow-fever; or if at any time it should be deemed expedient, out of deference to other nations, to impose quarantine in respect of cholera vessels proceeding to Europe or the Red Sea, then some effectual measures should be taken for guarding against excessive detention or needless annoyance.

"In all cases, as has been arranged with respect to the Bombay Presidency, no practical effect should be given to the provisions of the quarantine rules without previous notice to the Government of India."

23. While the present Resolution was passing through the press, a despatch (No. 133, dated 11th July 1878) was received from the Secretary of State, enclosing a Minute by Dr. Seaton of the Local Government Board, in which the practice of the sanitary authorities in Great Britain in regard to quarantine is described. Dr. Seaton shows that quarantine has been wholly and absolutely abandoned at all English ports, save in rare and occasional cases of epidemics of yellow-fever. He shows that the master of a vessel, arriving at an English port, has to declare whether he has infectious disease on board. If such should be the case, his vessel is detained only for so long as may be required for a medical inspection of the crew and passengers, for the removal of the sick, and for carrying out the processes of disinfection. Healthy persons on board an infected vessel are detained only, until their state of health can be determined by a medical inspection. The sick on board the vessel are dealt with, not in any special manner, but merely in accordance with the ordinary sanitary rules of the United Kingdom in regard to infectious disease.

24. From the preceding paragraphs, it will appear that the time has arrived when the Government of India are in a position to carry out the instructions of the late Secretary of State, who desired, as stated in his despatch No. 127, dated 23rd December 1875, that rules, consistent for the whole of India, should be drawn up and promulgated under Act I of 1870. In the first place, it will be necessary to suspend at once the operation of the rules sanctioned for the ports of British Burmah and Madras; to stop the practice which has obtained at Kurrachee, and the procedure adopted at Calcutta under the pilot rules; and to revise the quarantine rules which have been framed for use at Bombay with the previous sanction of the Government of India on the occurrence of any special emergency. With regard to the principles which should guide the action of Government, His Excellency the Governor General in Council is aware that the Government of India are not competent to ameliorate the practice of quarantine advocated by foreign powers; but for Indian ports, and for Indian trade, His Excellency in Council is convinced that no adequate advantage can be obtained by the imposition of quarantine restrictions on vessels arriving from sea at ports in respect of such diseases as are endemic in India, that is, for instance, where there are cases of small-pox or cholera on board. On the contrary, such regulations, while they derange trade and often cause inconvenience and pecuniary loss to ship-owners, passengers and traders, are apt to expose to additional danger the healthy passengers on board. There is no evidence in Indian experience that quarantine regulations in fact produce any beneficial results, though many people still advocate their use. It appears to His Excellency in Council that in preference to quarantine rules, it is desirable that a system of medical inspection should be adopted for all vessels arriving at a port. It should be provided by executive orders that Native passengers or crews disembarking from a vessel shall, if suffering from an epidemic disease, be at once taken for treatment to the nearest hospital, unless they, or their friends, can afford to obtain adequate care for them elsewhere. Under this system of medical inspection, persons, who are not actually suffering from epidemic disease, will be subject to no interference. It will be specially necessary for the Medical Officer of the port to board vessels containing homeward-bound pilgrims or emigrants, and to provide for the treatment of persons suffering from epidemic disease. In cases where epidemic disease is found on board, the vessel should be thoroughly purified by fumigation or other adequate means.

25. In respect to plague and yellow-fever which, though they have been known to occur within limited areas in India, have happily never been commonly rife, it may possibly be necessary, if the emergency arises, to establish quarantine restrictions. With this view, the Government of India, in April 1877, sanctioned provisional rules for Bombay in respect of vessels arriving from the Persian Gulf with plague on board, to be put in force in event of necessity. The opportunity should now be taken to examine these rules by the light of the foregoing remarks, and to revise them for Bombay if required, including in them, at the same time, provisions in case of yellow-fever, and for the prohibition of the importation of rags from ports, where plague or yellow-fever is known to exist. It will be for other Local Governments to report how far the rules provisionally sanctioned for Bombay are applicable to their ports in cases of plague and yellow-fever.

26. His Excellency the Governor General in Council, therefore, with the view of issuing similar rules for the whole of India, desires that the Local Governments concerned will, without delay, take the matter into consideration, and submit, in as simple and brief a form as possible, draft rules to provide for the objects specified in paragraph 24. These rules, if such a course appears necessary, will, when approved, be sanctioned under Act I of 1870, and will remain continuously in force. At the same time, draft quarantine rules, framed as much as possible on the lines of the Bombay provisional rules under the guidance of the paragraph immediately preceding, should be prepared and submitted, so that hereafter they may, with the previous sanction of the Government of India, be enforced, if unhappily occasion should so require.

27. While issuing these instructions, His Excellency the Governor General in Council would again desire to impress on all Local Governments that no protection of the character above described can be of use where sanitary precautions on shore are ignored or neglected; and that in the case of sea-ports especially, it is essential that the preservation of the towns in a good sanitary condition in respect to drainage, conservancy and water-supply, as well as the protection of the port waters from contamination, should receive the earnest and vigilant attention of the local authorities.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution, together with copy of Dr. Seaton's Minute on the English practice in regard to the inspection of infected vessels, be forwarded to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal; to the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah; and to the Superintendent of Port Blair, for information, and with a request that the action indicated in paragraphs 23 and 25 be taken at their early convenience; that a copy be forwarded to the Military Department, and Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce Department for information; also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

Minute of the Medical Officer to the Local Government Board.

Of action in England for the purpose of preventing the importation of infectious diseases the system of quarantine (in the commonly received sense of that term) forms an extremely small part, if, indeed, it may not be said to be abandoned, an altogether different system, called the system of medical inspection, having for some time past been employed. It is true that, to a limited extent, and as regards a single disease (yellow-fever) quarantine, as regulated by the Quarantine Act (6 Geo. IV., cap. 78), is still practised; but its practice as regards this disease is not really with any sanitary object, but solely with the view of relieving our maritime commerce from disabilities which would else be imposed upon it by other countries, in which quarantine is regarded as an essential part of their public health administration. The regulation, moreover, of quarantine in England, is not a function of that department of the Government which is concerned with sanitary administration (the Local Government Board), but is a function of the Privy Council Office, which, aided by the Board of Trade, deals with it as an international commercial question. Certain duties which, under the Quarantine Acts and some subsequent Acts referring to it, are assigned to the Local Government Board, are not really for purposes of quarantine, properly so called, but of the system which is in this country substituted for it; and the only duty which the Local Government Board actually performs in respect to quarantine proper arises when, in the administration of the Quarantine Act, the Privy Council Office has occasion to refer to it on medical questions.

2. So far as regards quarantine itself, I would further observe that, although the Quarantine Act provides for land quarantine and the quarantine of inland waters as well as for maritime quarantine (internal and external quarantine, so to speak), it does not appear that internal quarantine has ever been enforced in this country since the Act was passed. Maritime quarantine alone has been practised, and this has been applied to three diseases only—all of them infectious diseases of foreign origin, viz., plague, cholera, and yellow-fever. Of plague there has been no question in English ports for the last thirty years, or thereabouts. Against cholera, quarantine has not been enforced since 1858, its futility as a precautionary measure in this country having been then abundantly manifested. Yellow-fever is the sole disease at present subjected to it in our ports, and this, as already stated, not from the medical necessity, but from the commercial exigency of the case. The only quarantine establishment now remaining in England, that at the Motherbank, is maintained in respect of this disease. Infectious diseases habitually current in this country, such as small-pox, scarlet fever, &c., notwithstanding that the phraseology of the Quarantine Act covers any "infectious diseases or distemper," have always been in practice, exempt from quarantine, and dealt with under the general sanitary law of the kingdom. It appears to have been recognized that measures primarily designed to prevent the introduction into the country of diseases only coming to us from abroad, and which involved international considerations, would be misapplied if used for the purpose of preventing the importation of diseases ordinarily existing here; the limitation of which, and not the exclusion, could alone be in question.

3. The measures which have been substituted for quarantine against cholera, the only foreign epidemic which at present much concerns the health of this country, consist in the "system of medical inspection," the details of which are set forth in the accompanying Order of the Local Government Board (17th July 1873), [Appendix 1].

This plan, it will be seen, differs from "quarantine" in the following essential respects:—

- (a) It affects only such ships as have been ascertained to be, or as there is reasonable ground to suspect of being, infected with cholera or choleraic diarrhoea (no vessel, according to the Order, being deemed infected unless there has been actual occurrence of cholera or of choleraic diarrhoea on board in the course of the voyage).
- (b) It provides for the detention of the vessel only so long as is necessary for the requirements of a medical inspection, for dealing with the sick (if any) in the manner it prescribes, and for carrying out processes of disinfection.
- (c) It subjects the healthy on board to detention only for such length of time as admits of their state of health being determined by medical examination.

The measures for dealing with the sick under this Order are but an adaptation to a particular exigency of the principles of sanitary administration with regard to infectious diseases which are in force under the general sanitary law of the kingdom.

4. But though quarantine has no practical existence in this country except as regards yellow-fever, and all other infectious diseases are dealt with either under the general sanitary law of the country, or such modification of it as has been just described with regard to cholera, the machinery which is maintained under the Quarantine Acts for obtaining information as to the existence of infectious diseases on board foreign coming ships is made available for dealing with all diseases of that kind, whether they are quarantineable or not. The quarantine questions, as they are termed, which it is the duty of the customs to put to the masters of all such vessels, embrace all infectious diseases, and in the event of any such disease not of a quarantineable kind being found to exist on board, or to have existed in the course of the voyage, the quarantine officer is required to detain the vessel, and to forward the information with the least practicable delay to the sanitary authority of the port. In regard to cholera, moreover, both the customs and the sanitary authority have certain powers of detaining the vessel specified in the Order of the Local Government Board above referred to.

5. The provisions under Articles 12, 13, and 14 of the Order of the Local Government Board, as to the mode of dealing with persons who may arrive from abroad infected with cholera, will be better understood if a succinct statement be made of the ordinary provisions of the law with regard to infectious diseases in England. The authorities which have to administer that law as now existing under the Public Health Act, 1875, are the Urban, Rural, and Port sanitary authorities, into which the whole kingdom is divided, and these authorities are empowered:—

- (a) To provide hospitals or temporary places for the reception of the sick (Section 131).
- (b) Where a hospital or place for such purpose is provided, to remove thither by order of any justice, on a certificate signed by a legally qualified medical practitioner, any person who is suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder, and is without proper lodging or accommodation, or lodged in a room occupied by more than one family, or on board any ship or vessel (Section 121).

- (c) To make regulations (to be approved by the Local Government Board) for removing to any hospital to which the local authority is entitled to remove patients, and for keeping in such hospital, so long as may be necessary, any persons brought within their district by any ship or boat who are infected with a dangerous infectious disorder (Section 125).
- (d) To provide and maintain a carriage or carriages suitable for the conveyance of persons suffering under any infectious disorder (Section 123).
- (e) To cleanse and disinfect infected premises and articles therein, to destroy any bedding, clothing, or other articles which have been exposed to infection from dangerous infectious disorder, giving compensation for the same, and to provide all necessary means for the disinfection of infected things (Sections 120, 121, 122).
- (f) To take proceedings against (1) any person who, while suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder, wilfully exposes himself, without proper precautions against spreading the said disorder, in any street, public place, shop, inn, or public conveyance, or enters into any public conveyance without previously notifying to the owner, conductor, or driver thereof that he is so suffering; or, (2) any person who, being in charge of any person so suffering, so exposes such sufferer; or (3) any person who gives, lends, sells, transmits, or exposes, without previous disinfection, any bedding, clothing, rags, or other things which have been exposed to infection from any such disorder; or (4) any owner or driver of a public conveyance who shall not have immediately provided for the disinfection of such conveyance after it has to his knowledge conveyed any person suffering from a dangerous infectious disorder; or (5) the owner of any house in which any person has been suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder who shall, knowingly, let it or part of it for hire without having previously disinfected it, and all articles therein liable to retain infection, to the satisfaction of a legally qualified medical man; or (6) any person who showing, for the purpose of letting for hire, any house or part of a house, shall make false statements as to the existence of infectious disease therein, or within six weeks previously (the several acts here enumerated constituting offences liable to penalty under the Public Health Act, Sections 126, 128, 129).
- (g) To provide mortuaries, and to obtain the removal thither, by order of a Justice, of the body of one who has died of any infectious disease which may be retained in a room where persons live or sleep, or of any dead body in such a state as to endanger the health of the inmates of the house or room in which it is retained (Sections 141, 142).
- (h) To make inspection of their district, with a view to ascertain what nuisances exist calling for abatement under the powers of the Act, and to enforce the provisions of this Act in order to abate the same (Section 92), a provision which extends to shipping, any ship or vessel lying in any river, harbour, or other water, within the district of a sanitary authority, being subject to the jurisdiction of that authority, in the same manner as if it were a house within such district.
- (i). Finally, to appoint a Medical Officer of Health, Inspector of Nuisances, or several of those officers, according to the needs of a district, and other requisite officers to aid them in the proper and efficient execution of the Act (Sections 189, 190). The duties of the Medical Officer of Health and of the Inspector of Nuisances, when (as is the case in the greater number of instances) the assent of the Local Government Board has to be given to their appointment, are set forth in Orders of the Board, dated the 11th November 1872, of which copies are attached (Appendices 2 and 3).

The general powers above enumerated, if exercised duly and with reasonable diligence, will be found, it is conceived, sufficient to provide for the exigencies which may arise in our ports from the introduction of infectious diseases by ships, whether the disease be current in this country or be of foreign origin not naturalized here; but in the case of a non-naturalized disease, such as cholera, certain additional securities are taken by the "order." The general powers, moreover, which are available against the importation of infectious diseases by shipping are available also, and have on occasions been used against their exportation in like way to other places.

6. As with respect to the importations of infectious diseases from abroad, it may be convenient * * * to state in some detail the course pursued by the Customs acting under the Quarantine Act, and by direction of the Privy Council, in assisting the local sanitary authorities. * * * On the 20th April 1861, the Commissioners of Customs addressed a circular letter (No. 35-186) to the Collectors of the several ports, directing them to "instruct the proper officers at their ports, in the event of the arrival of a vessel in which there was any case of cholera, small-pox, typhus, or typhoid fever or in which any disease whatever was extensively prevalent, forthwith to report the same to the local authorities, in order that they may take such measures as they see fit for the protection of the public health within their jurisdiction." This direction has been acted upon since that date, and in 1873, under a Minute (No. 114-1873), dated 2nd October, the Commissioners give instructions that the practice of interrogating vessels from foreign followed in the port of London should be observed at all ports in the United Kingdom, so far as local circumstances would admit. The practice referred to is thus described in this Minute:—

*"Statement of the practice pursued at the port of London for the interrogation of masters of vessels arriving from foreign as to the health of the crew and passengers:—Every vessel arriving at the port of London from foreign is bound to hoist her colour by day, and to exhibit a light by night on reaching the quarantine ground for the information of the boarding officer. On seeing such signal, the officer visits the vessel and interrogates the master as to the health of the crew and passengers (if any), and whether any deaths or sickness has occurred on board during the voyage; whether he has any bill of health, and, if from the Mediterranean, British Consul's bill of health, failing which the vessel is detained and the case reported to the Board. If all questions are answered in a satisfactory manner, the vessel is allowed free pratique, and the 'quarantine certificate' is issued, without which no vessel is allowed to report.

"If there has been any sickness of an infectious or contagious character, or even of a doubtful nature, or the character of which is unknown to the master, the vessel is detained and inspected by the proper Medical Officer. Should a vessel arrive from any port infected with cholera or 'suspected,' the printed cholera questions are put, and if the answers are satisfactory, the vessel is cleared, but, if otherwise, she is detained, and the Medical Officer of Health† is immediately apprized, and on the receipt of a certificate from such Medical Officer that there is no infectious illness on board, the vessel is allowed to proceed.

* When no special quarantine ground has been appointed, this must be read as the boarding station of the port.

† The sanitary authority, the local authority, or the nuisance authority (now the local authority or the sanitary authority) as the case may be. [The sanitary authority of every district exercises sanitary jurisdiction over all ports and shipping in its district, except where from topographical circumstances, it has been found necessary to create a special port sanitary authority. The Public Health Act, 1875 (Sections 287-293), empowers the Local Government Board to create such an authority, and to assign to it such powers, rights, duties, &c., provided for in the Act, and exercised by sanitary authorities in general, as may be necessary.]

"Every vessel from foreign, without any exception, is questioned verbally as to the health of all persons on board; but as regards the continental passenger steam vessels, to prevent unnecessary detention, the questions are put into as brief and condensed a form as possible."

7. In the statement in paragraph 5 on the provisions existing for dealing with infectious diseases, I have not thought it necessary to advert (as being foreign to the purpose of this Memorandum) to the powers which the Local Government Board has under Section 130, and Sections 134-40, for issuing regulations in the event of formidable epidemics for certain purposes, as for speedy interment of dead, house-to-house visitation, providing medical treatment, &c., &c. Nor have I thought it necessary to advert to the powers vested under the Quarantine Act, partly in the Privy Council, and partly in the Local Government Board, but which are not in exercise, to issue orders on any unforeseen emergency. The purpose of the memorandum has been to explain the practice of this country in relation to quarantine or other system dealing with importation of infectious disease.

8. The relative advantages of the system of medical inspection and of quarantine, as against cholera in the ports of Europe, underwent the most thorough discussion at the International Sanitary Conference which was held in Vienna in 1874. A large majority of the delegates, including those from every State of the first rank, except France, declared in favour of the former system. The minority, while adhering to quarantine, agreed to a system which would considerably diminish its stringency as heretofore practised. The proceedings of this Conference and its results are of considerable importance in respect to the subject of this memorandum.

9. A theoretically perfect quarantine, a quarantine which it should be impossible to break on any point, and which must, of course, include the full period of incubation of the particular disease quarantined against, would doubtless, if practicable, afford a certain higher degree of security against the introduction of disease than can be attained by mere inspection on arrival as to the actual existence of disease; but where are the conditions for a perfect quarantine to be found? and at what cost is the experiment carried on? On these points I cannot do better than quote the observations of my distinguished predecessor. "A quarantine which is ineffective," says Mr. Simon, "is a mere irrational derangement of commerce, and a quarantine of the kind which ensures success is more easily imagined than realized. Only in proportion as a community lives apart from the great highways and emporia of commerce, or is ready and able to treat its commerce as a subordinate political interest, only in such proportion can quarantine be made effectual for protecting it. In proportion as these circumstances are reversed, it becomes impossible to reduce to practice the paper plausibilities of quarantine. The conditions which have to be fulfilled are conditions of national seclusion."

APPENDIX I.

To all Urban, Rural, and Port Sanitary Authorities;—

To all Officers of Customs;—

To all Masters of Ships;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

WHEREAS the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, by an Order bearing date the 29th day of July 1871, after reciting certain provisions of an Act passed in the Sixth year of the Reign of His Majesty King George the Fourth, chapter seventy-eight, and of the Sanitary Act, 1868, and further that Cholera was then prevailing in certain parts of Continental Europe with which this Country had communication, and that it was requisite to take precaution, as far as practicable, against the introduction of that disease into this Country, did make certain rules, orders, and regulations in respect thereof, and by certain other Orders, bearing date respectively the 3rd and 5th days of August 1871, did make further regulations;

And whereas under and by virtue of "The Local Government Board Act, 1871," all powers and duties vested in and imposed on Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council by (among others) the said Sanitary Act, 1866, were, as regards England and Wales, transferred to and imposed on the Local Government Board;

And whereas Cholera is now prevalent in certain parts of Continental Europe with which this Country has communication, and it is expedient that the said rules, orders, and regulations should be rescinded, and other rules, orders, and regulations substituted in their place:

NOW THEREFORE, We, the Local Government Board, do hereby rescind all such rules, orders, and regulations in the above-recited Orders contained, except in so far as they apply to Scotland, or may apply to any proceedings now pending, and We do hereby Order as follows:—

Definitions.

Art. 1.—In this Order:—

The term "Ship" includes vessel or boat;

The term "Officer of Customs" includes any person having authority from the Commissioners of Customs;

The term "Master" includes the officer or person for the time being in charge or command of a ship;

The term "Cholera" includes Choleraic Diarrhœa;

The term "Sanitary Authority" has the same meaning as in "The Public Health Act, 1872;"

The term "Clothing and Bedding" includes all clothing and bedding in actual use and worn or used by the person attacked, at the time of or during the attack of Cholera.

For the purposes of this Order, every ship shall be deemed infected with Cholera, in which there is or has been during the voyage or during the stay of such ship in a foreign port in the course of such voyage, any case of Cholera.

I.—Regulations as to Customs Inspection.

Art. 2.—If any Officer of Customs, on the arrival within the limits of any port in England of any ship, ascertains from the master of such ship or otherwise, or has reason to suspect, that the ship is infected with Cholera, he may detain such ship, and order the master forthwith to moor or anchor the same; and thereupon the master shall forthwith moor or anchor the ship in such position as such Officer of Customs shall direct.

Art. 3.—Whilst such ship shall be so detained, no person shall leave the same.

Art. 4.—The Officer of Customs detaining any ship, as aforesaid, shall forthwith give notice thereof, and of the cause of such detention, to the Port Sanitary Authority, if there be one, or otherwise, to the Sanitary Authority of the District within which the ship shall be detained.

Art. 5.—Such detention by the Officer of Customs shall cease as soon as the said ship shall have been duly visited and examined by the proper Officer of the Sanitary Authority; or, if the ship shall, upon such examination, be found to be infected with Cholera, as soon as the same shall be anchored or moored in pursuance of Art. 9 of this Order.

Provided, that if the examination be not commenced within twelve hours after notice given as aforesaid, the ship shall, on the expiration of the said twelve hours, be released from detention.

II.—Regulations as to Sanitary Authorities.

Art. 6.—The Port or other Sanitary Authority at every port shall, as speedily as practicable, with the approval of the Chief Officer of Customs of such port, fix some place or places within the said port where any ship may be detained, moored, or anchored for the purpose of these regulations.

Art. 7.—Any officer appointed by such Sanitary Authority to see to the carrying out of this Order, if he have reason to believe that any ship arriving within the district of such Authority, whether examined by the Officer of Customs or not, is infected with Cholera, or shall have come from a place infected with Cholera, may visit and examine such ship for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is so infected; and the master of such ship shall suffer the same to be so visited and examined.

Art. 8.—The Sanitary Authority, on notice being given to them by an Officer of Customs, under this Order, shall forthwith cause the ship in regard to which such notice shall have been given, to be visited and examined by their Medical Officer of Health, or some other legally qualified Medical Practitioner, for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is infected with Cholera.

Art. 9.—The master of every ship which is infected with Cholera shall, after any such examination as aforesaid, as long as the ship is within the District of a Sanitary Authority, moor or anchor her in such position as from time to time the said Authority shall direct.

Art. 10.—No person shall leave any such ship until the examination hereinafter mentioned shall have been made.

Art. 11.—The Sanitary Authority shall, as soon as possible after the arrival of any such ship, cause all persons on board of the same to be examined by their Medical Officer of Health, or some other legally qualified Medical Practitioner, and shall permit all persons who shall not be certified by him, as hereafter mentioned, to land immediately.

Art. 12.—Every person certified by the Medical Officer of Health or Medical Practitioner making such examination, to be suffering from Cholera, shall be dealt with under any rules that may have been made by the Sanitary Authority under the 29th section of the Sanitary Act, 1866, or, where no such rules shall have been made, shall be removed, if the condition of the patient admit of it, to some hospital or place previously appointed for such purpose by the said Authority; and no person so removed shall leave such hospital or place until the Medical Officer of Health of the Authority, or some other legally qualified Medical Practitioner appointed by them, shall have certified that such person is free from the said disease.

If any person suffering from Cholera cannot be removed, the ship shall remain subject, for the purposes of this Order, to the control of the Medical Officer of Health, or some other legally qualified Medical Practitioner appointed by the said Authority; and the infected person shall not be removed from or leave the ship, except with the consent in writing of the Medical Officer of Health or other Medical Practitioner.

Art. 13.—Such Medical Officer of Health or Medical Practitioner shall give directions, and take such steps as may appear to him to be necessary, for preventing the spread of the infection, and the Master of the said Ship shall forthwith carry into execution such directions as shall be given to him by such Officer or Practitioner.

Art. 14.—Any person certified by such Medical Officer of Health or Medical Practitioner as aforesaid to be suffering from any diarrhoeal or other illness which he may suspect to be Cholera, may either be detained on board the ship or taken to some hospital, or other previously appointed place, and detained there, for any period not exceeding two days, until it be ascertained whether the illness is or is not Cholera.

Any such person who, while so detained, shall be certified by the Medical Officer of Health or Medical Practitioner to be suffering from Cholera, shall be dealt with as in the above Article relating to patients suffering from that disease.

Art. 15.—In the event of any death from Cholera taking place on board of such vessel while so detained, the Master shall cause the dead body to be taken out to sea, and committed to the deep, properly loaded to prevent its rising.

Art. 16.—The Master shall cause the clothing and bedding of every person who may have suffered from Cholera on board such vessel, or who, having at any time been on board such vessel, shall have suffered from Cholera during the stay of such vessel in a Foreign Port, to be disinfected or (if necessary) destroyed; and if the Master shall have neglected to do so before the ship arrives in port, he shall forthwith, or upon the direction of the said Authority, cause the same to be disinfected or destroyed, as the case may require; and if the said Master neglect to comply with such direction within a reasonable time, the Authority shall cause the same to be carried into execution.

Art. 17.—The Master shall cause every part of the ship, and every article therein, other than those last described, which may probably be infected with Cholera, to be disinfected or destroyed, when required to do so by the said Authority, or by their Medical Officer of Health.

Given under our Seal of Office, this seventeenth day of July, in the year One thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

JAMES STANSFELD,
President.

JOHN LAMBERT,
Secretary.

NOTICE.—The Statute 35 & 36 Vic., c. 79, provides in Section 52 that “any person wilfully neglecting, or refusing to obey or carry out, or obstructing the execution of any rule, order, or regulation made by the Local Government Board under Section 52 of the Sanitary Act, 1866, shall be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction before two Justices, and be liable to a penalty not exceeding Fifty Pounds.”

RAILWAY CONFERENCE.

Resolution by the Government of India, Public Works Department, Nos. 3966-3990R., dated Simla, the 26th September 1878.

READ again—

Public Works Department Resolution Nos. 2232-15R., dated the 1st September 1876.
“ “ “ “ “ “ 1589-1612R., dated the 1st May 1878.

RESOLUTION.—In continuation of the Resolutions just read, it is now proposed that the Railway Conference (which has been unavoidably postponed) on account of the extreme pressure on the railways of India during 1877, shall assemble in Calcutta during the coming cold season. The exact date will be notified hereafter.

By a Notification of this day's date, Captain W. A. J. Wallace, R.E., has been appointed Secretary to the Railway Conference; and all persons wishing to bring forward matters connected with the Conference, or having reference to railway affairs, are invited to address their papers to the Secretary to the Railway Conference, care of the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department.

The subjects to be discussed at the Conference relate to the economic and efficient working of railways, and a list of the more prominent of these subjects is appended. With a view to the thorough discussion and settlement of these subjects, it is proposed to invite representatives from all the Guaranteed and State Railways in India and Burmah, and from the several Consulting Engineers' Departments of the three Presidencies. Delegates from the Chambers of Commerce of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, and representatives of the leading merchants, European and Native, of the chief towns of India, are also invited to attend the proposed Conference, and to submit papers for consideration.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be communicated for information to the Governments of Madras and Bombay, to the Consulting Engineers for Guaranteed Railways, and to the Directors of State Railways for information and communication to the Agents and Managers of Railways under their respective control.

Bengal.	Assam.
N.-W. P. and Oudh.	Hyderabad.
Punjab.	Rajputana
Central Provinces.	Central India
British Burmah.	Director of State Railway
Mysore.	Stores.

Also to the Governments, Administrations, and Officer marginally noted, for information.

Also to the several Departments of the Government of India for information.

Ordered, also, that this Resolution be published for general information in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

List of subjects for consideration at the Railway Conference.

1. Means to promote the comfort and convenience of railway travellers.
2. Simplification and reduction of goods tariff.
3. Scale of mileage rates for interchange of stock.
4. Course of goods traffic in cases of alternative routes.
5. Uniformity of statistics of traffic.
6. System of recording "up" and "down" traffic on main lines and branches.
7. Assimilation of systems of working, and revision of general rules and regulations.
8. Establishment of a clearing house.
9. Alteration in the law as regards bribery.
10. System of recording time occupied in shunting.
11. Establishment of provident funds or schemes for retiring allowances.
12. Railway schools.
13. Uniformity of system in recording accidents.
14. Employment of Natives in charge of engines and trains.
15. Working hours.
16. House accommodation for Native staff.
17. Questions affecting wages of railway employes.
18. The new Indian Railway Bill.
19. Adaptation of rolling-stock to military purposes.
20. Carriage of explosives by rail.
21. Duties of railway servants in times of war.
22. Continuous brake power in trains.
23. Communication in trains between passengers, driver and guard.
24. Standard dimensions.
25. Palamow-coal fields.

Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORT OF WEATHER IN INDIA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY,
SEPTEMBER 26TH, 1878.

Friday, 20th September.—Pressure has increased at all stations excepting Jubbulpore and Sibsagar. The increase is greatest in Western India, and exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in the Punjab, Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, Central India, and Rajputana. It is a maximum at Surat and Ajmer, where it is $\cdot 1''$.

There is a narrow area of low pressure stretching across from Surat to Allahabad and Patna. The lowest pressure in this area, and in the whole of India, is at Khandwa. With the exception of this area of slight barometric depression, the pressure is very uniform over the whole of Northern India. The slight barometric depression off the coast of Aracan, is still giving rise to moderate indraught. The centre of indraught at 10 A.M. to-day was off the coast between Akyab and Chittagong.

The winds along the West Coast of India are moderating. The wind directions at the stations in North-Western India indicate the continuance of indraught towards the same centre as yesterday.

The air motion over the greater part of Northern India is very light. The winds in Bengal are unusually feeble. They continue to indicate slight indraught to the area of depression at the head of the Bay. The Diamond Island observer reports a gale of wind during the past 24 hours.

Rain, considerably less in amount, has fallen over the same three areas as on the 19th. In the Western India area of depression, $3\cdot 1$ inches fell at Surat, $\cdot 65$ inch at Bombay, and light showers in the Central Provinces.

In the North-Western Provinces the following amounts were registered: $4\cdot 5$ inches at Fyzabad, $1\cdot 35$ inches at Lucknow, $\cdot 75$ inch at Allahabad, $\cdot 7$ inch at Shahjahanpore, and 1 inch at Jhansi.

The rainfall on the south-eastern quadrant of the Bay of Bengal depression was very moderate in amount.

$\cdot 61$ inch fell at Rangoon, and $\cdot 48$ inch at Akyab. Showers occurred at Calcutta and Hazaribagh.

Saturday, 21st September.—The barometer has risen at all stations, except Saugor Island and Peshawar. The rise ranges from $\cdot 05''$ to $\cdot 1''$ in Sind, Guzerat, Bombay, the Berars, along the Malabar Coast, and in Ceylon. The increase of pressure over this area is greatest at Surat, Rajkot, and Deesa.

There has also been a rapid rise of the barometer in British Burmah and Arracan. The increase is greatest at Diamond Island, where it amounts to $\cdot 142''$. The large increase in this area, and the diminution of pressure at Saugor Island, is due to the northward march of the slight barometric depression or cyclonic vortex, the existence of which was indicated 48 hours ago by the wind directions at the coast stations. The centre of indraught appears to be to the south-east of Saugor Island.

Minimum pressure was observed at Saugor Island this morning.

The westerly winds at the coast stations of the Arabian Sea have moderated very considerably during the past 24 hours, and are now below their normal strength.

There is feeble but well-marked cyclonic motion about the area of depression at the head of the Bay. The winds on the northerly and westerly quadrants are light; on the southern quadrant they have increased considerably at Diamond Island and Akyab.

Easterly winds prevail up the Gangetic Valley as far as Patna. Calms are reported at Benares, Allahabad, and Lucknow. Higher up the valley there is a decided tendency to the setting-in of westerly winds.

Rain in moderate amounts has fallen over the same areas as on the 20th.

The following rainfalls are reported from Western and Central India: Jubbulpore $1\cdot 55$ inches, Nagpore $1\cdot 27$ inches, Khandwa $\cdot 59$ inch, Akola $1\cdot 07$ inches, and Bombay $1\cdot 23$ inches.

The eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces received moderate rain from passing showers: $\cdot 51$ inch fell at Benares, $\cdot 47$ inch at Allahabad, $\cdot 46$ inch at Lucknow, $\cdot 6$ inch at Fyzabad, and $\cdot 4$ inch at Jhansi.

Rain has fallen during the past 24 hours at all the stations on and near the coast of the Bay of Bengal from Ganjam to Rangoon: $1\cdot 15$ inches were registered at Rangoon, $1\cdot 26$ inches at Akyab, $\cdot 6$ inch at Saugor Island, and $\cdot 33$ inch at Chittagong.

Sunday, 22nd September.—The changes of pressure are considerable in Northern India. The barometer has fallen very rapidly in Southern Bengal, with the continued northward advance of the barometric depression at the head of the Bay of Bengal. The diminution of pressure is greatest at Calcutta, where it amounts to $\cdot 161''$. The centre of the depression was a short distance north of Calcutta at 10 A.M. to-day.

Pressure has again increased in Burmah and Arracan.

Pressure has also diminished in Behar, the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces, Rajputana, the Punjab, and Sind. The decrease is very considerable in the Punjab, ranging from $\cdot 121''$ at Dera Ismail Khan to $\cdot 158''$ at Peshawar.

The pressure has slightly increased in the Bombay and Madras Presidencies, and the Deccan.

The cyclonic vortex advancing across Bengal is now accompanied by strong winds in Southern Bengal and in Assam. The indraught is very considerable.

The wind distribution in Upper India is the same as it was on the 21st.

Bengal and Behar are now receiving general rain. The chief rainfalls reported are:—Akvala $1\cdot 04$ inches, Chittagong $1\cdot 24$ inches, Saugor Island $2\cdot 67$ inches, Purneah $\cdot 74$ inch, and Patna $\cdot 56$ inch. The Calcutta rainfall was wrongly telegraphed.

Bombay received $1\cdot 7$ inches, Jubbulpore $1\cdot 26$ inches, and Cochin $2\cdot 01$ inches.

Monday, 23rd September.—The changes of pressure have been considerable during the past 24 hours. A rapid rise of the barometer has taken place in Southern Bengal, greatest in amount at Calcutta. This, and a comparatively small decrease of pressure at Purneah and Goalpara, are due to the northward advance of the area of depression. So far as can be judged from the wind returns, the centre of depression and indraught was probably midway between Calcutta and Purneah.

Pressure has increased in the remaining districts of India, except Sind and Guzerat, and at Bareilly. The increase exceeds $\cdot 05''$ in the Central Provinces and the Punjab.

The winds at the coast stations of the Arabian Sea have increased in strength during the 24 hours, due to the low pressure in Northern India yesterday morning.

The cyclonic vortex in Bengal has given rise to very strong winds at the stations in Southern and Eastern Bengal, and Western Assam, during the past 24 hours. The observers at Calcutta, Saugor Island, Purneah, and Goalpara, all report a gale of wind. The average wind motion at Goalpara during the day was 26 miles per hour.

The low barometer in Upper India yesterday appears to have given rise to stormy weather. Dust-storms occurred at Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan, and a gale of wind at Mussoorie and at Simla.

General rain has fallen in Bengal and Assam, with the northward advance of the cyclonic vortex over Central Bengal. The following are the heaviest rainfalls reported to-day:—Calcutta $6\cdot 28$ inches, False Point $1\cdot 27$ inches, Rungpore 3 inches, Goalpara $2\cdot 96$ inches, and Chittagong $3\cdot 49$ inches.

The Sholapore and Poona districts appear to have received general rain during the past 48 hours: $2\cdot 61$ inches were registered at the former station, and $1\cdot 01$ inches at the latter.

$1\cdot 16$ inches fell at Neemuch, and $1\cdot 11$ inches at Cochin.

Tuesday, 24th September.—The pressure has increased during the past 24 hours at all stations, excepting Colombo, Cochin, and Calcutta. The increase is greatest in Northern Bengal, at Purneah, where it amounts to $\cdot 15''$. The barometric depression which has formed the chief feature of the meteorology of the past four days is rapidly disappearing. The increase of pressure exceeds $\cdot 1''$ at Kurrachee, Ajmere, and Allahabad.

The winds have moderated in Southern Bengal. Strong winds continued throughout the day at Goalpara and Purneah. Westerly winds are prevalent over the whole of Northern India from Benares to Peshawar.

Northern and Eastern Bengal and Western Assam have received general rain during the past 24 hours. The excessive amount of $8\cdot 54$ inches fell at Goalpara on the north-easterly quadrant of the cyclonic vortex; $1\cdot 85$ inches were registered at Rungpore and $3\cdot 87$ inches at Chittagong. The rainfall at Purneah on the western quadrant has been very moderate.

Little or no rain is reported from the remaining districts of India. The weather is generally fine and sky clear in Upper India.

Wednesday, 25th September.—There has been a considerable increase of pressure over the whole of India. The rise exceeds $\cdot 1''$ at Bareilly, Kurrachee, Patna, Hazaribagh, and Calcutta.

The barometric range over India, in consequence of the rapid increase of pressure in Northern India, is now only $\cdot 2''$.

The barometric depression in Northern Bengal has completely disappeared.

The wind velocity has decreased over the whole of India. The decrease is most marked in Bengal. Calms are reported to-day at Goalpara, Chittagong, and False Point.

West and north-westerly winds appear now to have fully set in over the whole of Upper India.

Light showers have occurred in Burmah, Assam, and Bengal; and isolated showers at several stations in Central and Southern India.

The following are the rainfalls exceeding one inch reported to-day:—Darjeeling 2·89 inches, Diamond Island 1·27 inches, Akola 1·8 inches, and Nagpore 1·48 inches.

Thursday, 26th September.—The barometric changes during the past 24 hours are generally small in amount. The barometer has fallen slightly at Patna and Hazaribagh, and also at Akyab, where the pressure is relatively low this morning. The pressure has increased at the remaining stations. The increase exceeds ·05" in Sind, and at Mooltan, Roorkee, Bareilly, and Lucknow.

The distribution of pressure is now gradually approximating to that of the October transition period: small barometric differences and light winds prevail during that period which marks the change from the south-west to the north-east monsoon.

The following table gives the variation of the pressure at the more important stations from the mean pressure for September:—

Akyab	...	·06" in defect.	Mooltan	...	·05" in excess.
Chittagong	...	·02 in excess.	Kurrachee	...	·09 "
Sibsagar	...	·04 "	Deesa	...	·11 "
Calcutta	...	·06 "	Bombay	...	·03 "
Cuttack	...	·03 "	Ajmere	...	·13 "
Patna	...	·03 "	Jubbulpore	...	·09 "
Allahabad	...	·04 "	Nagpore	...	·08 "
Agra	...	·07 "	Vizagapatam	...	·09 "
Delhi	...	·06 "	Bellary	...	·04 "
Lahore	...	·04 "	Bangalore	...	0 "
		Madras	...	·02" in defect.

The pressure is consequently in excess, except at the two stations of Akyab and Madras on the opposite shores of the Bay. The excess is greatest in Sind, Rajputana, Guzerat, and the Central Provinces.

The winds are light, irregular, and variable over the whole of Northern India. West or north-west winds continue at the majority of stations in Upper India. The wind directions at the coast of the head of the Bay are especially irregular. This is probably due to the slight local differences of pressure, and to the existence of relatively low pressure, at Akyab and Madras, and possibly over a part of the Bay.

The rainfall of the past 24 hours is insignificant in amount, and has occurred chiefly as local showers. The following rainfalls exceeding one inch were reported:—1·72 inches at Sibsaugar, 1·41 inches at Diamond Island, 3·01 inches during a thunderstorm at Akola, and 1·09 inches at Mozufferpore.

No rain is reported from the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, except a slight shower of ·2 inch at Fyzabad.

General Summary.—It was noted in last week's report that the barometer fell (more especially in Upper India) from the 16th to the 19th, and that this was followed on the 19th by general rain in the North-Western Provinces, and the formation of a small depression at the head of the Bay near the coast of Aracan. The motion of this depression and cyclonic vortex has formed the chief feature of the meteorology of the present week.

On the morning of the 19th its existence was shown by low barometer at Akyab, and by moderate indraught from Bengal to the Bay. The centre was off the coast between Chittagong and Akyab on the morning of the 20th. The winds were very light round the coast, and the rainfall on the coast of Burmah and Aracan moderate, and at this time the vortex appeared to be filling up. The rainfall appears to have increased in amount during the day, and on the morning of the 21st the vortex was a short distance to the south-east of Saugor Island. The winds at the coast stations, more especially of Burmah and Aracan, were now rapidly increasing in strength. During the day the cyclonic disturbances increased in intensity with the occurrence of heavy rainfall and crossed the Sunderbunds in the direction of Calcutta. The cyclonic vortex was in the immediate neighbourhood of that station on Sunday morning (the 22nd) and to the north of it. Very heavy rain occurred on the morning of that day at Calcutta and the adjacent districts. It continued to drift slowly to the north-north-west, and the centre at 10 A.M. of the 23rd was about midway between Calcutta and Purneah. Strong winds had set in with the passage of the cyclonic vortex across the Sunderbunds, and a gale of wind prevailed on the 22nd and 23rd over the whole of Southern and Eastern Bengal, and in Western Assam. On the morning of the 24th the cyclonic vortex was in the immediate neighbourhood of Purneah. Strong winds continued over the same area as on the previous day. The vortex however rapidly filled up during the day, and completely disappeared on the morning of the 25th, on which day calms and light winds were reported from all the Bengal and Assam stations.

A brief summary of the knowledge gained from the experience of the past two years respecting the generation of cyclonic disturbances in the Bay of Bengal may be useful.

Heavy local rainfall always accompanies their formation and progress, and the indraught due to the rainfall appears to be the only necessary condition for their continuance so long as they advance over a sea or plain area. During the south-west monsoon the rainfall usually occurs in the neighbourhood of the coasts when the current is weak. In the Bay of Bengal this gives rise from its peculiar shape to two classes of cyclonic disturbances, one formed off the coast of Aracan, and the other off the coast of Orissa. The former generally advance in some direction between north and north-west into Bengal, and are usually broken up in Central or Northern Bengal.

The latter usually drift up the Gangetic valley, and as in one or two examples this year, are occasionally not broken up until they reach the borders of the Punjab. In other cases, of which the cyclonic disturbances of last week was an example, the interference of the Arabian Sea monsoon current may give rise to a more westerly motion across the peninsula. The line or path of advance appears in the great majority of cases to be determined by the general drift or set of the lower atmospheric current over the area at the time visited by the disturbance.

The intense cyclones of the Bay of Bengal which occur only during the transition periods preceding and following the prevalence of the south-west monsoon are formed under totally different circumstances.

They are slowly generated by rainfall in the centre of the Bay after the continuance for a considerable period of light and variable winds and of calm and sultry weather. Their formation is immediately determined by the commencement of excessive local rainfall in the Bay. This gives rise to a strong indraught, which manifests itself at the coast stations of the south and west of Ceylon by strong winds and heavy rainfall. An examination of recent cyclones also appears to show that their line of advance is along the line of least atmospheric motion immediately previous to the formation of the cyclone.

Hence the barometer and wind movement at the coast stations of the Bay, and the changes of the weather at Colombo and Galle, will give almost certain information of the formation of a cyclone in the Bay, and of its general line of advance.

The following gives the rainfall of the week in Burmah, Assam, Bengal, Behar and Orissa :—

	Inches.		Inches.
Rangoon	3.49	Goalpara	13.62
Diamond Island	3.05	Purneah	.97
Akyab	4.57	Rungpore	5.00
Chittagong	8.93	Moxufferpore	1.23
Dacca	2.75	Patna	1.18
Silchar	1.95	Hazaribagh	1.20
Sibsagar	2.43	Cuttack	.98
Saugor Island	3.70	False Point	3.62
Calcutta	6.84

Heavy rain occurred over the area included within the cyclonic disturbance. The rain was excessive in the central area and over the southern and eastern quadrants. This is shown by the heavy rainfall at Chittagong, Rungpore, Calcutta, Goalpara, as compared with Purneah, Hazaribagh, False Point and Cuttack.

The rainfall in Upper India which occurred at the beginning of the week during the indraught that followed the high barometric range of the 19th is indicated by the following :

	Inches.		Inches.
Benares	1.04	Shahjahanpore	1.6
Allahabad	1.24	Fatehgarh	.2
Fyzabad	5.30	Bareilly	.38
Jyehknow	2.18	Boorkee	.32
Cawnpore	.1	Meerut	0
Agra	0	Jhansi	1.70

No rain fell in the Punjab. The rainfall in the North-Western Provinces was generally moderate in amount and occurred mainly in these districts (including the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, Bundelcund, Gwalior and the adjacent districts of the Central Provinces), where the rainfall has been considerably below the average.

The following table shows that the rainfall of the Madras Presidency and the Deccan was moderate in amount :—

	Inches.		Inches.
Vizagapatam	.20	Madras	.06
Masulipatam	.12	Coimbatore	0
Bellary	.20	Madura	0
Hyderabad	.76	Cochin	4.62
Cuddapah	.68	Colombo	.53
Badgalore	.67

The rainfall in the Bombay Presidency, the Central Provinces and Central India for the week is indicated by the following returns :—

	Inches.		Inches.
Kurrachee	0	Neemuch	1.23
Deesa	0	Khandwa	1.19
Ajmir	0	Nagpore	2.83
Rajkot	0	Jubbulpore	2.83
Surat	3.25	Akola	6.55
Bombay	4.09	Belgaum	.93
Indore	.10	Poona	1.41

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 24TH SEPTEMBER 1878.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras general prospects remain favourable; unseasonable rain has fallen in South Kanara, and in Malabar it has continued to be excessive. In Godavery and Tanjore some damage has been caused by floods. The number—98,738—on relief works shows the slight increase of 169; but the number—58,574—gratuitously relieved exhibits a decrease of 1,944. In Mysore the crops are progressing well and prices are still falling. The numbers on relief works again show a decrease, and there is also now a diminution in the number receiving gratuitous relief. In the Bombay Presidency the Sind floods are subsiding, the crops have been somewhat damaged by excessive rain in parts of Guzerat, the Deccan, Kanara and Konkan, but prospects are on the whole good. With the exception of jowar in the Southern districts and Nimár, the prospects of the kharif crops in the Central Provinces are generally good; the harvesting of the lesser millets has commenced; high prices still prevail and cholera is increasing in Wardha, but is said to be decreasing elsewhere, though it is still present in many districts. Excessive rainfall continues in Berar and is injuring crops in the low-lands. In Central India, notwithstanding the continuance of heavy rain in Malwa, prospects are fair; elsewhere they continue favourable. Cholera has been sharp in Gwalior, but is now abating. Prospects in Rajputana are generally satisfactory, but more rain is needed at Ulwar and Bickaneer. Nearly all the districts of Bengal have received rain during the week, but more is wanted in a few places; in parts of Bengal proper the winter rice on low-lands has suffered from heavy rain and flood, and in west Manikhoon insects have greatly injured the autumn crops; general prospects, however, remain favourable. Prospects in Assam are promising. In Burma prospects have improved everywhere with the exception of a part of the Henzada and Prome districts, and Thayetmyo. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and also in the Punjab prospects continue good.
